SERMON TO MEMBERS OF JR[illegible] U. A. M.

[illegible]t the Park Avenue Baptist Church I[illegible] Evening by Rev. J. [illegible] Richardson.

WAS ON [illegible]ERICANISM

[illegible]SPITE THE [illegible], SEVENTY-FIVE JUNIOR[illegible]INED OUT.

[illegible]lked on th[illegible]der and Its High Aims and Principles—Believed That the Naturalization Laws Should be More Strict.'

Despite the stormy night there were nearly seventy-five members of Franklin, Somerset and Benevolent Councils, Jr. O. U. A. M., together with members of the Daughters of Liberty, who attended divine services at the Park Avenue Baptist church, last evening. The other Councils accepted the invitation of Somerset Council to attend the service.

Rev. J. W. Richardson, pastor, preached a stirring sermon setting forth the high principles of Americanism. During the service there was special music by the choir. Mr. Richardson's subject was: "Raised to David Home, School and Country."

The speaker read the fourth chapter of Esther and based his remarks upon the Divine providence, which brought the Jewish maiden to the throne in time to save her people from Naman's plot.

The speaker said in part: "God often uses peculiar means to accomplish great results. God saw the supreme need of this country, which He had set apart for a specific purpose. He may have whispered the suggestion to your sires, and which has resulted in the birth and growth of the J. O. U. A. M. The future welfare of the race is wrapped up within the folds of the destiny of America; if popular government fails here, the world will take more than a dozen steps backward. The future of America influences the future of Europe, Asia and Africa; just as American force and brain are felt everywhere today. Who saved China from partition? American diplomacy and firmness! But there are in our midst those who seek to introduce customs and ideas totally destructive to the principles, which have made our country sublime. The order represents Washington's, Jefferson's, Hancock's Americanism. It is as providential, as when Esther came to the throne, that a noble body of men has risen, with the sole purpose of perpetuating Americanism.

"Your voice, that in America American ideas shall rule, cannot be silenced. We are confronted by a pest of our civilizaion, the conscienceless white and black men, who are on a level with the brutes, and who sell their votes to the criminal who bids for them. There is the ecclesiastical combine which seeks to enter the very foundation stones of our republic. There are the American dictates, who have imported cheap alien labor; ignoring the rights of the public, and making all suffer inconveniences and pecuniarily at their beast will. The remedy for all our political and social ills lies in a clear brain ballot, and educated citizenship. Aim to make majorities which shall exalt and magnify American ideas and principles.

"In these days of mad commercial delirium caused by unparalleled prosperity, we need a gigantic expression of American principles, 'lest we forget.' Open your mouths in public and set up the public schools, till the people shall see a new beauty in them. Put down the present immigration laws till people shall see their loopholes and perils. O ridicule that stupendous farce called the 'Naturalization Law;' ridicule that superb monstrosity, which compels an American boy; born of American parents; educated in American schools; and patriotic to the core; to wait until he is twenty-one before permitting him to vote, but puts the ballot in an ignorant un-Americanized adult foreigner's hand in five years. Because of the compactness of your order; the irresistable force of your principles; you ought to inaugerate a revision of that law, which shall make a residence for eight years necessary for first papers, and ten years before giving citizenship to any emigrant. And the first politician who violates it, shoot him for treason. The order seeks to present to the community American men, who shall be sober, virtuous, industrious and who can be trusted to maintain Bound Brook, Dec. 1—A serious hunting accident happened on Saturday to two young men from Buttler, Morris county, while in the mountains near Chimney Rock, which nearly cost one of the young men his life. The two young men, were Harold Mansfield and James Hardy.

EXTENDING THE FIRE MAINS

EXTENSION HAS BEEN MADE OUT WEST FRONT STREET.

For Benefit of Pederick & Ayre Co., and Other Manufacturing Interests.

Owing to the rapid growth of the city towards Dunellen it has become necessary to provide for better protection against fire in the extreme west end of the town and when the Pederick-Ayer Company erected its plant its owners protested about the insufficient protection in case of a conflagration.

With the completion of this large plant the water company has been laying large mains to the plant and yesterday a new fire hydrant was placed in position at the corner of West Front street and Rock avenue and another one about 700 feet east of that.

This will enable the West End Company to combat a fire single handed where heretofore it would have been necessary to send in a call for more hose. There is a fire alarm box at the corner of Rock avenue and West Front street but there has never been a water main farther out than DeKalb avenue.

It is probable that the fire mains will be carried out as far as the Industrial Home and also out Park avenue to the rear and front of the new Muhlenberg Hospital and when the mains are laid there new fire hydrants will be installed at once which will give better fire protection to those parts of the town where the growth is going on rapidly.

AN OPEN LETTER.

Consumers' League of New York Appeals to Christmas Shoppers.

To Christmas shoppers:

The season of Christmas shopping is approaching. "Cruelties in the form of overwork among children and women travisty the festival of rejoicing over the coming of the Holy Child."

In some cases horses are treated better than the employes. Last year a driver was compelled to work so many hours delivering good that it was 3 o'clock in the morning before he reached home; the horse had been changed once en route. A boy of sixteen after delivering packages until late at night, was so exhausted that he lay down in the wagon, pulled his his blanket over him and slept in the stable. He was found frozen to death New Year's morning.

The Consumers' League appeals to all to do their shopping soon and early in the day and not to insist that goods be delivered on the same day purchased. An amelioration of the hardships of the holiday season may thus be secured.

Mrs. D. H. Rowland,
Plainfield representative, Consumers' League of New Jersey.

Are Making Progress.

Although to outside appearances the workmen employed in rebuilding the Babcock building are apparently making little progress, such is not the case. At present the work is all in the interior and back of the structure and much has been accomplished. The contractors are well satisfied with the progress, which is made possible by the favorable weather.

Does Little Good.

The Plainfield Electric Light Company has placed a new pole on West Front street, nearly opposite Leal's School, but unfortunately the lamp thereon is in such a position that it does very little good. It should be turned more toward the street.

Young Men Invited.

A meeting of importance to the congregation is to be held in the Epworth House of the Monroe Avenue church, this evening. All members of the Young Men's class are especially invited to be present.

In Evangelistic Work.

Robert Love, of Duer street, is now engaged in evangelistic work. Last week he conducted special meetings in various parts of this State. This week he will be in Philadelphia.

Next Preacher.

During the next two months, Rev. Dr. Freeman, of New York, will occupy the pulpit at the Crescent Avenue church.

Miss Alice Demarest, of the borough, who underwent an operation at the hospital last week for spinal menengitis, is critically ill and hopes for recovery are very slight. Mrs. Wm. Demarest, the mother, is detained at her home with a severe attack of pneumonia. The next eldest daughter was also quite ill, but is now convalescing.

ALIS MEETS Y. M. C. A. FIVE THIS EVENING

Third Game in Plainfield Amateur Basket Ball League at Y. M. C. A. Gymnasium.

GOOD GAME EXPECTED

IMPOSSIBLE TO COMPARE TEAMS FROM GAMES WITH HOPE.

Y. M. C. A. Five is Best Prepared, But the Veteran Players of the Alis A. A. Team Will Put Up a Strong Fight—Tonight's Game.

When the Plainfield Amateur Basket Ball League was organized, it was generally supposed that the championship lay between the Y. M. C. A. and the Alis A. A. and that the team from the Hope Y. M. A. hadn't the slightest chance of doing anything except bring up the rear of the procession. Friday evening's game has completely upset all calculations and, as a result, interest in the league has increased tenfold. This evening will see the third game in the league series and will bring together the two teams, between which it was first supposed the championship laid.

Without any doubt, the boys of the Y. M. C. A. are best prepared to enter the league of any of the clubs in the trio. They had been working in the gymnasium for several weeks in advance and have had the advantage of several years' experience. The five, which lined up against the Hope Y. M. A. in the first half of that game, was a strong one. Its chief fauls in that game was its inability to throw goals when given the opportunity. This may be somewhat accounted for by the fact that the boys had been practicing with a comparatively soft ball while the game was played with one properly inflated. The substitutes, who were given a chance in the second half, showed their principal weakness to be their neglect to guard their opponents. While Neal, in particular, played a hard fast game, he left the Hope forward unguarded and the result was a string of field goals which would have been reduced had he kept his place.

The showing made by the Alis boys in their game with Hope was rather of a disappointment to those who had seen several of these same players during previous seasons. The fact of it was, however, that they were decidedly in need of practice while the Hope boys were playing so much better game than had been expected that the Alis contingent hardly knew what to do. From the two games, it would appear that the Y. M. C. A. had the stronger team. When that famous trio, Smith, Long and Moraller, get into their game, however, it is going to require some clever playing to beat them.

It is impossible to compare the two teams at the present date as they have played under very different conditions. In the more open gymnasium of the Y. M. C. A., the Alis team play will be vastly more effective than in the smaller gymnasium at Hope chapel. Then Hope put up a much more aggressive game against Alis than with the Y. M. C. A. and also showed far more accuracy in the Alis game. This evening's game, which will be played in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium, can be counted on as being one of the most exciting in the league and those who witness it are going to see a game fought hard from start to finish.

The game is called for 8:15 o'clock. The officials, as fixed by the executive committee of the league, will be as follows: Referee, George E. Fuller; umpires, S. B. Joseph and Charlse B. Morse.

The First Fall of Snow.

The first fall of snow in this city came last evening at about 10 o'clock but did not last long. Later in the night there was a heavier fall but it was blown about in gusts and did not accumulate. Ice formed on many of the ponds but the warm sun melted it early. The roofs of trains as they passed through the city were thickly covered with snow.

NEW CHURCH IS DEDICATED

Dedication Exercises Held at Swedish Evangelical Pilgrim Church Yesterday.

AT NEW AND SIXTH STS.

English Services Held in Afternoon—Evening Services in Swhdish—Dedication Sermon by Rev. C. L. Goodrich—Pastor Reported on Financial Condition.

"In the name of the Father, and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost" the recently erected Swedish Evangelical Pilgrim church, at the corner of East Sixth and New streets, was yesterday afternoon dedicated by the pastor, Rev. O. G. Norseen, in the presence of a large audience, and the church was formally given the name of a house of worship. There were two services, one in English in the afternoon and one in the evening when the service was conducted in Swedish.

The church is very cozily arranged and with the decorations of palms and carnations and American and Swedish flags above the desk it presented a very attractive appearance. A choir from the Pilgrim church of Brooklyn was present at both services.

At 3:30, the services opened with a few words of welcome by the pastor after which Rev. John MacMurray, of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, read the passage of scripture from the 84th and 122th Psalms, which was followed by a prayer which was offered by Rev. J. W. Richardson, pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church. The choir rendered a hymn in the Swedish tongue which preceded a short sermon by Rev. C. L. Goodrich, pastor of the Congregational church, where the members of the newly-erected church have been holding services while their new edifice was in the course of construction.

The text of his address was taken from the 84th Psalm, which he divided into three parts, the blessings which comes to those who have their homes in the house of God, meaning that those who are interested in the church and shape their lives according to the teachings of the church are blessed; that those who are still outside the church, but who are about to come into the church as members, receive the blessings and joys of the church; and that God Himself showers His blessings upon those who are working for the uplifting of the unsaved. In closing his sermon the speaker said that he hoped that the new congregation would be blessed in their work and in their efforts to save.

A report of the financial standing of the church was read by the pastor, in which he gave a short history of the church which began holding meetings in the fall of 1898 under the auspices of ministers from neighboring towns. These services were held in the Congregational church and at different places in this town, some of the time in the W. C. T. U. rooms and at other times in the Y. M. C. A. parlors. In August of the next year the little handful of people wanted a pastor and a call was extended to Rev. R. O. Tegler, who presided over the struggling congregation for two years. Rev. A. Muneon was the successor of Rev. Tegler and later a call was extended to the present pastor, but Mr. Blocer, a seminary student, filled the position for some time until the present pastor was able to take the position. Last October Rev. O. G. Norseen conducted his first sermon when there were thirty members which soon increased to forty-two. Five of these were dismissed by letter.

The church owned property at the corner of West Fifth street and Plainfield avenue but secured the present site through donations. The property is valued at $900. There was $275 in the treasury but by subscriptions this has been raised to $1,600. Five hundred dollars has been received in donations from American people in this city making the total amount at hand $1,700. The cost of the church was $3,600, furnished, and part of this amount, $1,000 has been advanced for ten years, without interest by the Church Building Society, of New York. There is still an indebtedness on the church of $500.

After the reading of the report the dedication prayer was offered by the pastor followed by the closing prayer by Rev. Edwin L. Earp, of the Grace

ALIS DEFEATS SOLDIER BOYS

Rolled Up a Score of 24 to 0 Before Game Was Called on Account of Darkness.

BEARD'S GREATEST RUN

Alis Can Now Claim the Local Championship Without Question —Beard, With Waring's Assistance, Made Most Spectacular Play of the Day.

As far as the local football championship is concerned, the Alis A. A. demonstrated in its game with the eleven of Co. K, on Hope Common Saturday afternoon, its unquestioned right to that title. The soldier boys played a plucky game but they were outclassed and went down to defeat by a score of 24 to 0. It looked for the first half as if Alis was going to be content with a small score but the second half saw the victors scoring almost at will. While Alis had the centre of its line intact, there were substitutes on ends and two behind the line.

Alis had the kick-off and Pond sent the ball down the field. The soldier boys were unable to make any decided gains and Whitney punted. The kick just cleared the heads of the linemen and bounded down the field. Cathcart fell on it on Company K's fifty yard line. Then the Alis backs plunged through tackle and around the end for steady gains. Before their goal, the soldier boys made a stand but in vain, missing an opportunity of getting the ball on downs by a few inches. Then Pike, who had been making substantial gains through the other side of the line, was called on and dove through right tackle for two yards and a touchdown. Phillips kicked the goal. Score, 6-0.

Company K's kick-off was run back fifteen yards by Cathcart. Alis started up the field again when. Clifford Smith, who has been playing full back for the Orange Field Club and was tried at end in this game, fumbled the ball and a Company K boy fell on it on Alis' thirty-five yard line. It was Company K's chance to score. The Alis line wouldn't give and end runs failed to make heavy gains. After carrying the ball a little way, Alis held for downs and recovered possession of the ball. Then began a series of plays, chiefly directed against the tackles, which carried the ball down the field. With only a few seconds to play, Pond punted to Company K's ten yard line and time was called with the ball in the hands of the soldier boys.

Decidedly sensational was the opening of the second half. Company K's kick-off went to Cathcart who ran it back to Alis' twenty-five yard line. In the very next play, Beard was sent around right end. Round he went with half the team as interference. Waring seized him by the shoulder and warded off the opposing backs one by one. Down the field they went with both teams in full pursuit. It was not until the goal line was crossed that the Company K men were able to down Beard. It was a run of eighty yards, the longest that has been made this season in any of the Alis' games. Several flying tackles nearly tripped Beard but Waring set him on his feet and the two continued their journey together almost the entire length of the gridiron in one of the most spectacular plays ever seen on a local gridiron. Phillips kicked the goal. Score, 12-0.

Waring distinguished himself on the next kick-off, catching the ball and carrying it to the centre before he was thrown. Using the tackles and the backs, it wasn't long before Alis was within a yard of the soldier's goal line. Then Pond dived into the line for a touchdown, Phillips kicking the goal. Score, 16—0.

Lots of time had been lost during the game so that this kick-off was into the twilight. Even in the darkness, Alis pursued its usual tactics and carried the ball right down the field without losing it until Cathcart had the opportunity to score the final touchdown. Phillips kicked the goal. Score, 24-0. By mutual consent, the game was called at this point after twelve minutes of actual play had passed in the second half. It had been intended to play twenty minute halves.

Alis was easily superior on offensive and defensive work but the soldier boys fought hard and stubbornly contested every foot. Much of the play was in the line but an occasional end run kept the large crowd interested.

Two Company K men retired during the second half. Cuming would have done so but Alis had not a spare man and so he lined up without taking much active part in the play.

The lineup follows:

COMPANY K.		ALIS A. A
Giddes	right end	C. Smith
Walker	right tackle	Waring
McLoughlin	right guard	Egan
Jennings	centre	Gwynn
Gardner	quarterback	Phillips, (capt.)
Kennett	right halfback	Beard
Whitney, (capt)	fullback	Pond

Score—Alis A. A., 24; Co. K, 0. Touchdowns—Pike, Beard, Pond, Cathcart. Goals after touchdowns—Phillips, (4). Referee—A. Willis West. Umpire—Charles B. Morse. Field linesman—Harold Davis. Linesmen—Elmer D. Cutting and Robert W. Meeker. Time of halves—20 and 12 minutes.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

Did you ever notice what a difference there is in milk? If you have not try the kind supplied by Wm. Lindsay & Son, of Mountain avenue, and you will very quickly see what good milk is.

There is nothing better for the children, as well as older persons, than pure wholesome confection. Campbell, of West Front street, manufactures all his own candy and he knows that it is pure.

Henry J. Wierenga, the popular express and truckman, has arranged with Joseph Sattels, of 108 North avenue, to receive orders for any kind of express or trucking business. Any orders left will receive prompt attention.

Don't move about in misery with aches and pains when there is a remedy at hand. Nagle, the West Front street druggist, has a remedy for every ill, the kind that cures. He makes a specialty of prescription work.

The famous Maurice River Cove oyster makes his home in Plainfield at Foss & Jeters' Park avenue seafood market. There the luscious bivalve can be had in any quantity. This firm receives great quantities of fresh fish every day.

The assortment of wall papers at the store of the New York Painting and Decorating Company is probably the equal of any in the State. This firm has a reputation for doing honest work in papering and painting. Give them a trial.

With a full line of the choicest smoked pork loins and hams and a complete line of bulk olives, Heinz's apple and peach butter, and honey, both in the comb and in bottles, R. W. Barnes, the Park avenue grocer, is prepared for the holiday trade.

One half of the loviness of women is her dress, one half of the attractiveness of a dress is its fit and more than half the skill in making a suit is required in cutting it to fit. Therefore when a new gown is to be made let S. Hirsch, of 432 Watchung avenue, who is an adept in the art of dress making, make it.

Did you notice how well pleased everyone was who purchased a turkey of J. W. VanSickle, for the Thanksgiving dinner? It was because they got full weight, a fair price and the best bird for the money. The same applies to VanSickle's dealings all the year around, whether it be any kind of meat or fowl that he is selling.

A Cold Wave.

The forecast of sudden changes in the weather serves notice that a hoarse voice and a heavy cough may invade the sanctity of health in your own home. Cautious people have a bottle of One Minute Cough Cure always at hand. E. H. Wise, Madison, Ga., writes: "I am indebted to One Minute Cough Cure for my present good health, and probably my life." It cures Coughs, Colds, La Grippe, Bronchitis, Pneumonia and all Throat and Lung troubles. One Minute Cough Cure cuts the phlegm, draws out the inflammation, heals and soothes the mucous membranes and strengthens the lungs. L. W. Randolph.

NEWKIRK WINS HILLSIDE CUP

Season's Competitions for the Golf Committee Cup Came to a Close Saturday Afternoon.

BOYS' CUP FOR GLENNEY

E. T. Newkirk Beat H. deP. Wright Out by Fraction of a Point—Divided Second Honors Saturday —W. T. Glenney Couldn't be Beaten for the Boys' Cup.

The active season at the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club was closed on Saturday with the final play for the Golf Committee and Boys' cup. There was no contest for the latter cup. W. L. Glenney had a total of thirty-five and one half points and his nearest competitor, Arthur Peterson, had twenty-six and one half. There was no chance of anybody else winning and for this reason no one played Saturday for that trophy.

The greatest interest centered in the final play for the Golf Committee cup. E. T. Newkirk held the lead over Howard Wright by a fraction of a point and the outcome of Saturday's play was watched with unusual interest. E. T. Newkirk won out, but only by two thirds of a point to the good. He finished with a total of twenty-three and one-third points, while Howard Wright made his total number of points twenty-three. Rather singularly these two players tied for second honors with a net of 82, and as Newkirk held the lead, he had the advantage. This gives him the cup.

C. C. Burke, Jr., who has failed throughout the season to score a point, won first honors, thereby scoring in first three points for the cup. He made a net score of 81.

Although this closes the active season the greens committee has decided to keep the course open until Christmas Day, after which it will be closed until next spring. Without a doubt the present season has been the most successful in the history of the club and the prospects are that next year will see even a more successful season under the able management of the club's officers.

The scores for the Golf Committee cup are as follows:

C. C. Burke, Jr., 96, 15—81; E. T. Newkirk, 92, 10—82; Howard deP. Wright, 82, 0—82.

The KIDNAPPED MILLIONAIRES.

A COLOSSAL SCHEME

Company Organized to Improve Cape May.

ELEVEN MILLIONS TO BE EXPENDED

Plans Include Building of a New City and the Creation of One of the Finest Seaside Resorts In the World.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 1. — Announcement is made that documents have been filed at Trenton incorporating the East Cape May company, having for its object the improvement and development of Cape May, the oldest seashore resort in the country, to an immense degree. A gentleman interested in the project says Pittsburg capitalists have bought over 4,000 acres of land in and around the city and propose making changes that will revolutionize that resort. Their plans include the building of a new city which they say they intend to make one of the finest all round resorts in the world. In this, they declare, they will be aided by the United States government and the Pennsylvania and Reading Railroad companies. Estimates of the cost of the project point to an ultimate outlay of $11,000,000.

The operation was started several months ago by Anthony M. Zane of Philadelphia, who was aided by Captain Frank G. Edwards of Bristol, Pa., owner of the steamer Republic. These gentlemen were instrumental in interesting the Beechwood Improvement company, limited, of Pittsburg, of which ex-State Senator William Flynn is president. The Pittsburgers have thus far expended $800,000 in purchasing land. The company has also purchased the Cape May electric light plant for $100,000. In order to attract owners of yachts deep waterways will be formed, and the company intends constructing a lake for yachts with a water surface covering 600 acres. Conferences with government officials at Washington have resulted in promises to deepen Cold Spring inlet so that the largest ocean going yachts will be able to enter the lake.

It is planned to build two and perhaps three of the most modern seaside hotels. This winter 100 cottages will be built, which will cost $10,000 each. The first hotel, for which plans have been completed, will cost $1,000,000. The projectors say 3,000 men will be employed all winter on the improvement.

Odell Favors Lake Canal Route.

ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 1.—Governor Odell proposes to have a 1,000 ton barge canal and yet save the state $20,000,000. He will take energetic means to follow out the lines of the Republican platform as regards canal improvement and will commit himself to a barge canal as requested by canal advocates in the state; but it may be said on excellent authority that he is of the opinion that every advantage claimed for an $80,000,000 barge canal can be fully obtained at an expenditure not to exceed $55,000,000 or $60,00,000. In other words, the governor is in favor, it is said, of what is known as the lake route, which State Engineer and Surveyor Bond after an exhaustive examination decided could be built for $42,198,756, making a total when the other two canals are improved of about $60,000,000.

Heirs to Austrian Estate Wanted.

VIENNA, Dec. 1.—The heirs, some of whom are living in the United States, are wanted to an estate valued at about $100,000 left by Heinrich Oesterreicher, a miser who recently died here. The Vienna authorities found among his papers a schedule of securities worth about $100,000, but only found certificates to the value of $73,000. Upon being questioned Oesterreicher's landlady produced a batch of securities worth $17,000 and said that the deceased had presented them to her the day before he died. The woman has handed over the papers to the authorities, but without renouncing her claim on them. Oesterreicher left a brother and two married sisters living somewhere in the United States, while among the heirs are three children of a deceased sister named Rothschild.

Fatal Open Switch Accident.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Dec. 1.—A Chicago and Baltimore express train on the Baltimore and Ohio railway, eastbound, ran into an open switch at Carlton, Pa., seven miles east of here, and collided head on with a freight train. One man was killed and three others injured, one seriously. Both engines were wrecked and the express car telescoped. The passengers were considerably shaken up, but none was injured. The collision, it is alleged, was due to the failure of the freight brakeman to throw the switch on the main track after taking the siding.

Noted Criminal Lawyer Dead.

CANANDAIGUA, N. Y., Dec. 1.—Hiram Hicks, United States referee in bankruptcy for Ontario county, is dead at his home in this village. Mr. Hicks was district attorney of Ontario county from 1865 to 1872 and state senator from the Ontario-Seneca-Yates district in 1877 and 1878. He was one of the pioneers of the Republican party organization and gained a wide reputation as a criminal lawyer. Mr. Hicks was born in the town of Bristol, Ontario county, in 1830.

Wintry In Maryland.

CUMBERLAND, Md., Dec. 1.—More than an inch of snow covers this section, and almost midwinter conditions prevail. All incoming trains are covered with snow, indicating that the storm is more than local.

It is impossible to convey in type the faintest outline of the beauties and fascinating features of that portion of our establishment located on the Halsey street side of the second floor. We shall, however, endeavor to portray a few of the important points. Of course, Dolls come first; and such Dolls!—thousands upon thousands. It would seem that we owned every doll that had been manufactured for the season's selling. The entire Amusement Hall is devoted to their display. There are dolls in miniature (good sized at that) in costumes of the various countries of the world, ranging from ten cents to fifty cents. Boy and girl dolls are priced from ten cents to one-ninety-eight. A very pretty doll, costumed in silk and satin, ranges from twenty-five cents to sixty-five dollars. What delight the little misses take in making and dressing their own dollies! We have a mammoth line of kid body dolls, ranging in price from nineteen cents to four-forty-nine. Then there's a lot of sweet-faced undressed dolls with shoes and stockings and moving eyes, at twenty-four cents to ninety-eight cents. See the beautiful Kestner and Santa jointed dolls as low as fifty-nine cents to seven fifty. The doll for baby, representing the Indian, Philippino and colored races and washable at that, the color won't come off, though, at ten cents to one-ninety-eight.

Such a line of dolls' dresses as you'll find here! Why, the display is bewildering; you'll hardly know what to select. We make it easy by pricing the cheapest at forty-nine cents, the better grades at four dollars. As a whole, you'll not find a worthier stock anywhere else outside our store. The doll is queen of this carnival and we have everything befitting her rank. Come to the festival—participate in the grandeur of the show—make your dollar do its duty; we have done ours.

Thousands of Little Hearts

Will throb with joy on Xmas morn when their eyes behold the beautiful toys old Kris Kringle has left on tree or in stocking—an assortment comprising millions of pieces is not an exaggeration when applied to this great store of ours; we can only give you a brief outline. Bring in the children; let them revel in the glories of our mammoth collection. It'll amuse and entertain them—and take you back to those memorable days when you, with a like spirit, looked forward to the coming of Christmas morn.

LONDON,

the keynote of the Boer ge
Wet's book, entitled "Three War," published by Archibald ble & Co. in London and dedic the Boer general "to my fello jects of the British empire."

It is perhaps the most rem book by the most remarkable that any recent war has produced.
concise, simply told tale of the extra dinary campaign is marked through with the stamp of truth. The baldness of the narrative only serves to bring into striking relief the fiery passages where a strong man literally blurts out his soul in pathetic regret or bitter denunciation.

In thus taking the public into his confidence De Wet loses nothing of the glamour with which his exploits in the field surrounded him. In criticising he spares no one. Boer and Briton come equally under the lash. De Wet declares that whatever the English people may have to say in discredit of General Buller he had to operate against stronger positions than any other British general. Throughout the work the Boer general has but slight praise for Lord Roberts and little more for Lord Kitchener. General Knox almost the only British genera seems to have struck De Wet as mander with real military genius

Of "Tommy Atkins" he has kindly words to say and declare British were far from being bad The comparative immunity o Boers from harm De Wet constantly and most fervently attributes to the interposition of God. "If any reader," he says, "is eager to know how it was I kept out of the enemy's hands, I can only answer, although I may not be understood, that I ascribe it to nothing else than that it was not God's will that I should fall into their hands. Let those who rejoice at my miraculous escapes give all the praise to God."

Nevertheless the book teems with accounts of military and other strategies by which De Wet outwitted his pursuers. Frequently he recounts cases of desertion and panic among his own men when his entreaties and sjambokking were all of no avail. De Wet pays a tribute to General Cronje for his bravery, but declares he lost at Paardeberg only on account of his fatal obstinacy to leave the laager, as he was advised to do by General Botha and by the writer himself.

Regarding his own forces De Wet writes: "It was far easier to fight against the great English army than against treachery among my own people, and an iron will was required to fight against both. Once if only our orders had been carried out a little more strictly and if only the most elementary rules of strategy had been observed in our efforts to break the British lines of communication Lord Roberts and his thousands of troops would have found themselves shut up in Pretoria, where they would have perished of hunger. It was not the skill of their commander in chief that saved them."

Of the blockhouses De Wet is frankly contemptuous. "The blockhouse policy," he says, "might equally well have been called the policy of the blockhead." The writer emphatically defends the right to blow up railroad lines and trains as the usage of war, and he declares he never missed an opportunity to do so. The so called war against women and the misuse of the white flag by the British is sternly denounced by the Boer general, who says: "That such direct and indirect murder should have been committed against defenseless women and children is a thing I should have staked my head could never have happened in a war waged by the civilized English nation, and yet it happened."

His last word is an injunction to his fellow countrymen to be loyal to the new government. "Loyalty," he says, "pays best in the end, and loyalty alone is worthy of a nation which has shed its blood for freedom."

The book contains a magnificent portrait of the author by the American painter John S. Sargent.

Discouraging Emigration to Africa.

LONDON, Dec. 1.—The government has thrown further difficulties in the way of intending emigrants to South Africa. The colonial office announces that after Dec. 1 no permits to proceed to the Transvaal or to the Orange River Colony will be issued in England or anywhere except at South African ports. Intending passengers are advised to ascertain beforehand by writing whether they are likely to obtain permits.

...OSPERITY FOR FARMERS.

When reports are heard from many quarters that farm lands are depreciating in value and that the life of the farmer brings but little return, it must be satisfying to every citizen of New Jersey to know that the farmers of this State, as a class, are not to be included in that category. The annual report of Franklin Dye, secretary of the State Board of Agriculture, has just been issued and shows a uniform state of prosperity among the farmers from one end of Jersey to the other. An enormous sum is invested in farming properties and, according to the report, is bringing in profits ranging from 5 to 25 per cent. annually. With the farmers so prosperous, there is no wonder that the rest of the State enjoys such uniform prosperity.

For years, the humorous writers and caricaturists have pictured the farmer as a typical "no nothing." The rural visitor has been libelled in most unscrupulous manner. While, as a matter of fact, he may not wear clothes of the most fashionable cut and pander to the latest fad, the farmer is usually a man of good judgment and keen insight. The Jersey farmer, as a rule, is even better off than many of his brothers. Farming in this State is no longer conducted on a hap-hazard basis. Its problems have been solved along scientific lines and the practicability of the results have been tested and found not wanting. Thanks to advice and assistance from both National and State agricultural departments and the natural ability of the farmers, Jersey farming is now conducted on modern lines which, as Secretary Dye's report shows, are proving decidedly profitable.

But the successful conduct of the farm is not the only thing which is responsible for making a profit on these investments. The farm products must be gotten to market, quickly and at as little cost as possible. In this, there can be no doubt that the good roads of the State have played an important part. They have opened up sections in wonderful fashion and carried with them hundreds of modern improvements. It must be admitted that the good roads of New Jersey must share in the credit for the present prosperity of the farmers. It is a lesson which no State can neglect to learn.

The Consumers' League of New Jersey has made another appeal to the Christmas shoppers to do their buying early in the holiday season and during the day so as to prevent as much ... possible the overworking of the clerks and other employes at the final rush just before Christmas. It seems strange that there are so many who will delay their Christmas shopping until the last moment with the full knowledge that an early visit will ... much more time for careful pur...ing and at the same time permit ...oppers to select from a greater ... Already the local stores are ... for the holiday trade and ... have their complete stocks ...ance of the holidays so ... will have plenty of time ...mas shopping without ...til the night before.

...icult these days to ... of the "anti" ... in the "bor... subject of sewers and sewage disposal was discussed, there went up a little howl that, as the borough had managed to exist without sewers heretofore, it ought to be able to continue without them. Such remarkable reasoning was really too ridiculous to be taken seriously. Now we are informed by that weekly organ of the "anti" administration party that they haven't any objection to sewers if a sewer is run to tidewater. There should be a wait of a few weeks at least before announcing such a sudden change of policy for too flighty changes of base do not permit the public to follow.

It is doubtful if the Board of Trade could have made three more happy selections for the speakers at its banquet than the men chosen. Alex. Gilbert is particularly well qualified to speak of "Plainfield in the Past" as he has been very closely identified with its material and municipal growth. James E. Martine knows "Plainfield of the Present" and can be expected to paint its attractions in roseate colors. As father of the Greater Plainfield movement, William L. Saunders is specially fitted to tell of the greater city that is to come some day when city and borough are one.

Nobody objects to a sewer to tide water as a means of disposal for the borough, provided it can be done at a cost within the reach of that municipality. There's just the trouble. Plainfield looked into the subject and found it beyond the means of that city. If Plainfield cannot afford it, does it seem likely that North Plainfield can? It is an excellent plan to look into the subject but it does not seem likely that the borough authorities will find a way to solve a problem that the best citizens of Plainfield could not overcome.

Arrangements were made to publish the President's message in this issue of The Daily Press and space was left for it. At the hour of going to press word was received that the message would not be read until tomorrow. This sudden change will account for the unusual arrangement of the news in today's issue.

HENPECKED HUSBANDS.

Celestial Literature Is Full of Humorous Anecdotes and Descriptions on the Subject.

"Chinese humorous literature abounds with reference to henpecked husbands," said Prof. Herbert Allen Giles, of the University of Cambridge, in the closing lecture of his recent course at Columbia university. Then he went on to tell a sample story culled from this branch of Chinese literature, says the New York Tribune.

"Ten henpecked husbands resolved to form a society to resist the impositions of their wives," he said. "The ten wives heard of the plan, and while the meeting for organization was in progress entered in a body. Nine of the rebellious husbands incontinently bolted, but the tenth one retained his place, quite unmoved by the frightful apparition. The ten ladies, merely smiling contemptuously on the one man left behind, returned to their homes, satisfied with the success of their raid. The nine husbands thereupon returned and resolved to make the heroic tenth the president of the society. When they went, however, to inform him of the honor, it was found that he had died of fright.

"Women have a few privileges that men have not," continued Prof. Giles. "They are exempt from the bamboo punishment; no woman can be bambooed. And a woman is a source of anxiety and misgiving to magistrate and counsel in any case in which she may be a party, for no Chinaman will enter into an agreement with a woman—not from any feeling of chivalry at all, but from a rooted conviction that he will get the worst of it."

Prof. Giles continued to reveal masculine secrets by describing some things which he said recently took place at a dinner at which a number of high-class natives and important foreigners were present. The host, addressing himself to the latter, inquired:

"Do you fear the inner ones?"

Upon inquiry he explained that he meant their wives, and added, with unconscious pathos, that many Chinamen stood in constant fear of their wives.

"Now, for example, he does," said the host, naively, pointing to a solemn and rotund magistrate, who had impressed everyone as filled with a sense of his importance.

At this all the Europeans present burst into uncontrollable laughter, which rather surprised the Chinaman, who had been seeking to acquire information on what they thought were serious matters.

ORGANIZED 1888.

At a special meeting of The Home Building and Loan Association held November 17th, 1902, a resolution was passed to amend its by-laws pertaining to interest on loans, which was heretofore six per cent. per annum—permitting the Board of management to loan money at a reduced rate of interest on future loans. Prospective home buyers will do well to apply to the Secretary for particulars.

The Home Building and Loan Association during fifteen years of business has redeemed seven semi-annual series. It has at this time an investment of over $150,000.00 divided among about eighty members; and has paid 5½ to 6 per cent. compound interest to its investors. Total number of members 350.

The Association meets the third Monday of each month from 7 to 9 p. m., at 120 East Front Street, Plainfield. Shares $1.00 per month. Entrance fee 25 cents per share.

DUNELLEN.

A large number of friends and relatives attended the funeral of Miss Katherine Kratzel, yesterday afternoon from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Weidenbaupt, of North avenue. Rev. S. K. Doolittle, of the Methodist church, was in charge of the services and delivered a short address. Interment was made in the cemetery at Bound Brook. There were a number of beautiful floral offerings.

Fred Wilcox, formerly of this place, but now of Westfield, has resigned his position in New York and will shortly go south to take a position on a southern railroad.

Michael Moynihan and John Dineen returned home Saturday from a hunting trip in Pennsylvania. They brought little game but report a good time.

Only about $90 now remains to be paid off on the debt of the Methodist church and it is probable that amount will be received shortly.

The Willing Workers held their regular meeting Saturday afternoon in the guild room, of Holy Innocents church.

Regular services were held in all the local churches, yesterday, but the attendance was small owing to the storm.

NEW MARKET.

Rev. T. D. Davis, of Bound Brook, preached yesterday in place of Rev. Frank Fletcher, in the First Baptist church. There was only a small congregation, however, because of the unpleasant weather.

LeRoy Clawson, who broke his leg sometime ago, is having a good deal of trouble in getting the bone to knit, because of previous injuries in the same place.

A big crowd attended the dime sociable held at the home of Frank VanNuis, last Friday evening and a goodly harvest of dimes was reaped in.

School commenced again this morning after the week's holiday. The local school was given a thorough cleaning during the week.

C. P. Kearney has left for a week's business trip through New York State.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Rev. Dr. J. H. Vincent, a former bishop of the Methodist church and one of the founders of the Chataqua work, was the guest Sunday of his brother, Chas. H. Vincent, of the borough. Dr. Vincent occupied the pulpit at the Baptist church at the morning service, preaching an eloquent sermon to an appreciative audience. It is to be regretted that the doctor's visit was not announced in time to advertise it as there are many in town who would have liked very much to have heard him. Dr. Vincent is at present living at Zuric, Switzerland.

A delegation from Twilight Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., attended divine service last night at the Park Avenue Baptist church, Plainfield, when Rev. J. W. Richardson preached a sermon to the local council.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The home of William Kelly, of Oak Tree, was broken into Saturday night by burglars. Nothing was taken, silverware and other valuables were untouched. The thieves were evidently in search of money only.

An impudent tramp made his appearance at the door of G. C. Laing's home last night about 8:30 o'clock and demanded something to eat. A prompt refusal from Mr. Laing sent the man on his way, not rejoicing.

The funeral service of Firman A. VanNest, of Plainfield, was conducted yesterday afternoon at the Baptist church by Rev. J. A. Cubberley, who spoke from the scripture passage: "A Time to Die."

DINNER TO FRIENDS.

Former Sheriff Houston Will be the Host.

Former Sheriff Houston has issued invitations to the constables and to the officers of the court in Elizabeth for a dinner which he will give to them Wednesday evening. Under Sheriff James Clark will also be present at the dinner. The dinner will mark the end of the last term of court for this year. Some time ago the officers of the court and the constables of the court presented the Sheriff with a token of their respect and esteem and as that official will shortly step down from office he will return the compliment with a dinner.

Speaker Couldn't Attend.

The Men's Club, recently formed at the rectory of St. Stephen's church, Netherwood, met Saturday evening. It was expected that Rev. Mr. Ferguson, of the Soldiers' Home at Kearney, would be present and give a talk on the work at the Home. He was unable to attend, however, and after the transaction of the business of the evening a social time was enjoyed. Next Saturday evening there will be a social.

THE STATEHOOD PROBLEM.

The Senate Will Wrestle With It Now—Short Session of Congress.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—The admission of the territories of Oklahoma, New Mexico and Arizona as states of the Union probably will be the subject of general importance to receive the attention of the senate in the session which began at noon today.

After the omnibus territorial bill passed the house last session its friends in the senate were so insistent on action by the senate and so strong in point of numbers that in the interest of other pending legislation a unanimous agreement was reached that in consideration of abatement by the friends of the measure during the last session the committee on territories would report on the bill on next Wednesday, Dec. 3, and that a week later the bill should become the unfinished business of the senate, which means that unless the measure shall be displaced by vote or by unanimous consent it will occupy the first place on the senate calendar until disposed of. It is current expectation that this programme will be carried out whether the committee's report is favorable or unfavorable, as the agreement contemplated consideration, regardless of the character of the report.

There is no definite information as to what the committee's decision will be, but at the last session all the Republican members of the committee except Senator Quay voted to defer consideration, while Senator Quay and all the Democratic members voted for immediate action, the result being a majority of one for postponement. It is known that some of the Republican members favor an amendment of the bill so as to provide for the admission of Oklahoma, and it is the prevailing opinion that the committee will divide on this proposition, all Republican members except Senator Quay being considered favorable to it. However, the transposition of one Republican vote would insure the report of a bill to admit all three territories to statehood, as Senator Quay and all the Democrats are firm in favor of a tri-state measure.

Brief Session of the House.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—The house convened today at noon for the final session of the Fifty-seventh congress. The session was very brief. The roll was called, and the announcement of the deaths that had occurred during the recess followed. The house then adjourned until tomorrow, when the president's message will be read. There is no programme for the remainder of the week beyond the bill to defray the expenses of the coal strike commission. If the regular order is demanded, the London dock charge bill is the unfinished business.

A MAINE TRAGEDY.

Mother Suspected of Having Poisoned Children Hangs Herself.

DEXTER, Me., Dec. 1.—Mrs. Hattie L. Whitten, who was arrested on suspicion of having poisoned her nine-year-old daughter, from whose funeral she had just returned, committed suicide by hanging from a bedpost while in the custody of Deputy Sheriff Leslie Curtis. Her death ends a case which promised, from the suspicions held against Mrs. Whitten, to be as sensational as any inquired into in Maine for a long time.

Mrs. Whitten was suspected of having caused the death of an elder daughter, aged eleven, on Sept. 19 last, and this body had been exhumed. Both children died suddenly, when previously they had appeared to be in the best of health, and now it is pointed out that Mrs. Whitten's husband died suddenly two years ago. The children were insured for $56 and $85 respectively. As a cause of death the physician's certificates mentioned meningitis and heart failure.

Suspicion was aroused by the death of the younger girl Thursday, and physicians decided to hold an autopsy. This was done after the funeral and while the body was at the cemetery awaiting interment. Traces of arsenic and strychnine were found. Mrs. Whitten's arrest followed without delay.

Castro Releases Prisoners.

CARACAS, Venezuela, Dec. 1.—President Castro has opened all the prisons in this city and at Puerto Cabello and Maracaibo and liberated the political offenders confined therein. Among the released prisoners are Olavarria, the brother-in-law of General Matos; Acedo, the latter's confidential agent, and the leading traders in Caracas, named Travieso, Volcan and Nunez, who were arrested for complicity in the revolution. This act has produced a good impression, and it is reported that General J. M. Hernandez, called "El Mocha," and three others of the revolutionary leaders will also be liberated shortly.

Girls Who Make Their Opportunities

ONCE upon a time there were two girls. Both were forced to earn their living. The first girl had a good education, she was naturally brilliant, and things came easily to her. She obtained a position which gave her a certain amount of spare time, much more than falls to the lot of the average worker. Did she profit by this to increase her talents, to make herself more valuable in her present position, to guard herself against the time when that position might be no longer hers? Not a bit of it. She lived to the full extent of her income and even a trifle over, she spent her money on dress, on little dinners—she wasted it in a thousand foolish ways. Ultimately what might have been expected happened. Through a succession of changes she was suddenly put out of her position. There were no others of that kind open to her. Her several other talents were in that crude condition where they were of no use to anybody. She had no money to perfect herself in any of them; result, a life ruined.

Girl No. 2 started out with a severe handicap. She could barely read, write and spell, but she was brave and ambitious, which means nearly everything in this world. The only position she was able to find was one in a shop, a very inferior position, too, where the hours were long and there was next to no opportunity to rise. Did she become discouraged? Not a bit of it. Instead of wasting her time evenings she attended a night school where she learned advertising, besides improving her much neglected education. Today she is advertising manager for a large dry goods house at a good, big salary. And yet she began with practically nothing.

Yet another case: Two girls came to New York; neither knew a soul. At the end of two years one girl had a nice little circle of good acquaintances; the other is still complaining of the coldness of the big city toward strangers and the temptations with which it besieges a lonely girl. The reason is not hard to find. The first girl went to a good church, became introduced to the pastor and through him was given an opportunity of joining one or two of the church societies, where she met nice women who helped her in every way they possibly could. She made friends by her goodness, her simplicity and her earnestness to succeed and to do right.

The other girl stayed in her stuffy hall bedroom and waited for fate to help her. When she did go out, it was not to go to church or to cultivate the society of serious minded women who might be of some good to her. Instead she frequented cafes and such places with any man she could coax to take her, and she found a few worthless fellows attracted by her pretty face and amused by her foolish ways. The few women acquaintances she made she treated with indifference. They were no good, hadn't enough money, couldn't give dinners or introduce her to men. She lost sight of the principle that it takes time and patience to make the right circle of friends, and also that the right sort of man, the man who is safe to marry, is not found floating about town, but is met at the houses of women friends. Result, she is obliged now to confine herself entirely to Bohemian circles, not a very satisfying element for a girl brought up as she has been.

It all comes to this—there is hardly a girl who has succeeded who has not owed it to herself; on the other hand, hardly a girl has failed but it is largely through her own fault.

There is no reason why any right minded girl should be lonely even in a large city. With care and patience she can form a circle of friends if she seeks them in the proper way and treats them properly.

There is no excuse for any girl not succeeding in this world, provided she has ambition, health and an ordinary amount of intelligence.

Don't tell me you haven't the opportunities." Make them for yourself.

MARIE STE...

THE OLD MILL.

The Grown Up Boy was going to take Her to see the old mill. It was the first time he had been within 20 miles of the mill in 20 years, but all that time it had filled a green and pleasant spot in his memory. Often he let his mind drift about in a flat-bottomed scow on the smooth waters of the mill pond above the dam. That was an enormous mill pond. As he remembered it one could hardly see from the fringing willows on one bank to the green pasture lands which loped quickly down to the other.

And the dam! Possibly somewhere has been built a more tremendous engineering work, but certainly the Grown Up Boy had never seen it. He knew just how the great head of water gathered behind the dam came sweeping down on to the apron in a sheet of green and white water that was almost overpowering in its magnificence. Below the dam, where the big bowlders lay in the path of the stream, lay bass and pickerel—better and bigger fish than the wild lakes of Wisconsin or the rivers of Canada had ever yielded to a more sophisticated spoon hook.

He remembered that the road to the old mill was hilly—almost mountainous, a sort of an Illinois Switzerland. It took hours to climb one of those hills; particularly when you had a "stun-bruise" on your right big toe and you were lugging a sack full of fish and other trophies.

Considering the length of the road and the terrifying size of those hills as they loomed up against the horizon of his memory, the Grown Up Boy considered that it would be wise to make an all day trip of it. Possibly if they started early in the morning and drove a couple of good horses they might get back to dinner, but it was no light undertaking.

The Grown Up Boy had told Her what to expect. Of course he could not hope to do justice to the grandeur of the scenery, but he had done his best. For instance, when they had stood looking at Niagara Falls he had said, only half in joke: "But wait till you see old man Atkinson's mill dam."

And now they were on their way. The two white horses went over the springy dirt roads at a swinging trot. They crossed the river and that stream, which poured a wide and tunultuous flood through the level plains of memory, looked strangely shrunken and quiet.

"Water seems low," said the Grown Up Boy—and then he was reminded that, on the contrary, it had been an extremely wet season.

But where were the hills? Pleasant, generous rolls and swells of land there were in abundance, but those towering, mountainous crags, and peaks of memory ban vanished. The horses scarcely stopped to breathe on the steepest of the slopes. An old German farmer, riding with his hausfrau, two daughters, and a small son in a green firm wagon, came along the road, driving a pair of big gray Normans. In the pleasant country fashion greetings were passed as the Grown Up Boy pulled up beside him.

"Must have been cutting down the hills hereabouts," said the perplexed visitor.

"Nein," said the old farmer, with a slow grin. "Dey bin yust te same dey always was."

The white mares swung around a corner out of the main road down into a narrow lane, bordered with hazel and sumac bushes and a tangle of young underbrush.

"Keep your eyes open now," said the Grown Up Boy, "and in a minute you'll get your firs glimpse of the old mill."

"There," he said, pointing ahead as the flash of something big and red caught his eye. "What n the world is that?"

"That" was soon seen to be a big billboard. Below a huge lion with a bright crimson mouth and a bushy tail advised everybody to "wait for the big show," while above was a design calling peoples attention to the importance of saving "your chewing tobacco tags." The mill had entirely vanished.

The Grown Up Boy was almost ready to weep or curse. He stopped his horses in front of a little store building and went in to ask what had become of that great stone mill which he had left 20 years before towering up above all the surrounding landscape.

"Right down there behind the billboard," said the young storekeeper. "They built a new addition on to her last year and she's twice as big as she used to be."

The miller was there in his old place, finishing up the same job of tying the mouths of paper bags that he had just begun when the Grown Up Boy had left him 20 years before. At any rate, if he was not the same miller no effort was made to correct the error. A man may be allowed to keep one illusion surely. And inside the old mill was unchanged. There was the old, pleasant gurgle of water as it turned the wheel, and the same sweet, clean smell of newly-made flour.

A single glance out of the mill window was enough to settle the mill dam, and the tremendous mill pond which had been so thoroughly believed in for a score of years. The mill dam looked like a toy and the mill pond would hardly make a good mud puddle. Down below the dam a little stream ran bickering over the bowlders which had shrunk to the dimensions of good-sized pebbles. The Grown Up Boy determined to have a try at those immemorial pickerel and bass.

He fitted a reel on a light steel pole and commenced to cast with the smallest spoon in his tackle box. Presently a freckle faced, small boy, with an open mouth and wide blue eyes, came down from the store and sat down on the end of a log to supervise operations. He said nothing, but watched the fruitless casts with grim and amused silence.

"Catchin' much nowadays?" asked the Grown Up Boy in an effort to establish fraternal relations with a brother fisherman.

"Not with a hook big enough to catch a shark on, we ain't," said the boy.

"That's the smallest hook I've got," said the Grown Up Fisherman.

"You kin git plenty over to the store if you've got the price," said the boy.

He was given a quarter with a request to go over and buy a supply of the proper hooks. He came back presently with some minnow hooks and a can of worms.

"Put on one of these here," he said, "and try it down there just below the spurn."

A moment later the Grown Up Boy felt a bite. He commenced to reel feverishly, while the small boy snorted in contempt.

"Yank her out," he commanded. The Grown Up Boy yanked and landed a shiner about five inches long.

"That's a purty good sized one," said the boy. "Pa says the fishin's better here a-year than it's been in 25 years."

Still, it may have been the same one, or would a memory stretch to cover the last of those days.—Chicago Tribune.

MINDANAO CROSSED.

Captain Pershing, With Sixty Men, Makes the Journey.

MOROS THOUGHT US MONSTERS.

Column on Its March Met With No Opposition—Cruelty of Ladrones. Efforts Made to Restore Agriculture Hindered.

MANILA, Dec. 1.—Captain Pershing, with sixty men, has completed a march across the island of Mindanao from Camp Vicars to Yligan. This is possibly the first time that white men have ever made the journey. Captain Pershing visited the villages of Madayn and Marahui. On his way to Madayn he found the Moros were surprised to learn that Americans were not monsters ten feet tall, with horns and tails. At Marahui he addressed 500 Moros, telling them of the friendly purposes of the Americans. Representatives of the Nato and Bocayutan tribes, which are now at war, asked Captain Pershing to arbitrate the differences between them. The captain agreed to visit them and give his arbitration on his return journey to Camp Vicars. No hostility was shown toward the column on the march.

The constabulary in the Zambales province reports a repulsive incident of cruelty perpetrated by ladrones. Several columns of constabulary had been chasing the ladrones with the assistance of friendly natives. Five of the friendlies straggled from the column and were captured by ladrones, who amputated the tongue and gouged out the eyes of one friendly and then sent him back to the constabulary. The fate of the other four is unknown.

The efforts to restore agriculture in the Philippine Islands have been blocked by a dearth of field animals. Ninety per cent of the carabaos died in the original epidemic of rinderpest, and of the small number imported since many have died. The government had planned an extensive importation of these animals to meet the crying need and had arranged to have them immunized. It was forced to abandon this plan on account of the lack of money to meet the purchases. The general cultivation of the plantations is impossible without them, and the absence of any immediate prospect of getting the field animals leaves the agricultural situation in a serious condition.

Chicago's Live Stock Exhibition.

CHICAGO, Dec. 1.—If the number of people who have already visited the International Live Stock exposition may be taken as a criterion, the attendance at this year's exposition will exceed that of last year by fully 100,000 persons. Fully 20,000 people of Chicago and vicinity passed through the gates during the opening day and evening. Among those who viewed the exhibits were the students from the various agricultural colleges which will participate in the competitive events commencing tomorrow. The dedication of the new pure bred live stock record building will take place this evening instead of Wednesday evening, as at first proposed. Secretary of Agriculture Wilson will deliver the dedicatory and principal address.

Third Trial a Mistrial.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Dec. 1.—After being out twenty-four hours the United States district court jury was unable to agree on a verdict in the case of William E. The jury stood eight for conviction and four for acquittal. This is Breese's third trial. The first time he was convicted and on appeal was granted a new trial. At the second trial the jury stood eleven for conviction and one for acquittal.

LAMP STARTED BARN BLAZE

EXPLODED IN HAY LOFT WITH QUITE SERIOUS RESULTS.

Burned Top of Barn, But Fire Department Prevented Spread of the Flames.

An exploding lamp in the loft of a barn in the rear of 514 Watchung avenue, set fire to the structure, shortly before 6:30, Saturday evening. Prompt response by the firemen to an alarm from box No. 25 saved it from total destruction and also the barn of John B. Dumont, less than two feet away. The damage is conservatively estimated at $150, covered by insurance.

The property is owned by Mrs. F. A. Miller, of Scotch Plains, and is occupied by William French. His son was in the upper part of the barn throwing down hay for the one horse stabled there, when his lantern suddenly exploded, starting a fire in several directions. He made an attempt to stamp out the flames but failing hurried to the street and gave the alarm. But little of anything of value was in the structure, and nothing was destroyed beyond a small amount of hay and the upper part of the barn.

THE ORINOCO BLOCKADE.

Practically Ineffective—United States Alone Has Not Disregarded It.

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad, Dec. 1.—The United States is confronted with the question of declaring its attitude regarding the blockade of the Orinoco river, which has been declared by the Venezuelan government. The British authorities say they have asked United States Consul Smith what the intentions of the Washington government are regarding the steamer Manzanares, belonging to the Orinoco Steamship company, which is now here.

Some days ago the British authorities announced their willingness to convoy the Manzanares up the Orinoco, but withdrew their offer on the arrival of the United States gunboat Nashville on the ground that the United States, now having a warship in port, should convoy its own merchantmen. Consul Smith is conferring with Admiral Crowninshield and Admiral Sumner, it is believed, with regard to the Manzanares. The Nashville is suited to the purpose of convoying the Manzanares, but no action is possible until instructions have been received from Washington. The United States is the only nation which has not taken a decisive stand regarding the blockade, and it is claimed that this situation is embarrassing American commerce, especially the Manzanares, which has been here since last June, her cargo spoiling and the delay involving a great loss to the company.

Since the proclamation of the blockade 1,375 ships of all nations except the United States and principally Venezuelan vessels have entered and left the Orinoco, and it is insisted that this fact constitutes the best evidence possible that the blockade is ineffective. The Venezuelan gunboats have left the Orinoco unguarded for periods of two weeks at a time, and the guns of the fort at Los Castillos, which were the only means of maintaining the blockade of Ciudad Bolivar after the withdrawal of the gunboats, have been removed.

THE SWIFT EXPLOSION.

Low Water In Boilers Thought to Have Caused the Disaster.

CHICAGO, Dec. 1.—A vigorous examination with a view to determining the causes that led to the explosion of Swift & Co.'s boiler plant Saturday, when thirteen persons were killed, has been begun by mechanical experts representing the city and private interests. Although those conducting the investigation were reticent in discussing the progress of the work, the intimation given was in accord with the original theories of the accident—that Water Tender Owens, who paid the penalty of death for his supposed carelessness, was responsible for the catastrophe. The great force produced by the explosion and other deductions led to the conclusion that the water had been allowed to get low in the boilers and that when an effort was made to supply the deficiency the explosion, resulting in the demolition of the plant, followed.

Acting on the policy that he did not care to commit himself until sure of his ground, City Boiler Inspector J. C. Blaney refused to give a specific cause for the explosion. After certain tests as to strength which the metal of the wrecked plant is to be subjected to shall be completed Mr. Blaney says he will make his official report.

The coroner has begun an investigation of the disaster. The inquest proper will not be held until Dec. 10.

Gave Life to Save Treasure.

VALPARAISO, Ind., Dec. 1.—In the little town of Westville, six miles east of this city, Wesley Reynolds, watchman of the Westville State bank, was shot and killed by burglars while defending the bank safe from their attack. After killing Reynolds the desperadoes, who were attacked by citizens who had been alarmed by the battle, fought their way to liberty and are still at large, though a posse of infuriated men are after them, and final escape seems impossible. The watchman saved the bank at the cost of his own life, for the burglars did not have time to blow open the big safe after killing him. It is thought he wounded one of the gang.

Heavy Cotton Crop.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—The final report of the statistician of the department of agriculture shows the actual growth of cotton in the United States in the year 1901-02 to have been 9,966,478 commercial bales, of which 115,550 bales were marketed before Sept. 1, 1901, and 9,696,336 bales between Sept. 1, 1901, and Aug. 31, 1902, 154,592 bales being carried forward to the year 1902-03. The commercial crop of the year amounted to 10,663,224 bales, thus exceeding the amount actually grown by 696,746 bales.

DAMAGES APPRAISED.

Russia's Penalty For Bering Sea Seizures Fixed by Professor Asser.

THE HAGUE, Dec. 1.—Professor Asser, the Dutch jurist who has been arbitrating the claims of American sealers for the seizure of their vessels by the Russian government about ten years ago, has delivered his award in favor of the United States. He appraises the damages in the case of the American schooner C. H. White at $32,444, in the case of the James Hamilton Lewis at $28,588, the Kate and Anna at $1,488 and the Cape Horn Pigeon at $38,750.

Professor Asser delivered his judgment in the arbitration court in the presence of the representatives of the United States and of Russia and others, including the foreign minister of the Netherlands, Dr. Van Lyndena.

In giving his reasons for the award Professor Asser held that the schooner C. H. White was seized outside Russian territorial waters and that the Russian contention that a warship of one nation was entitled to pursue beyond the boundaries of its territorial seas a ship of another nation guilty of illegal action within those waters was untenable.

The arbitrator declared that the jurisdiction of the state could not extend beyond its territorial waters except by special treaty. The seizure and confiscation of the C. H. White and the imprisonment of her crew were therefore illegal, and Russia was condemned to pay the C. H. White $32,444, with interest at 6 per cent.

SEEKING BOER GOLD.

England Would Attach Treasure Secretly Shipped to Kruger.

BERLIN, Dec. 1.—The British government is telegraphing to all the German ports making inquiries concerning a number of Boer gold bars worth $650,000 which, it is supposed, have been brought to this country from South Africa within the past fortnight. The bars are destined for former President Kruger and Dr. Leyds and, it is presumed, had been concealed in the northern Transvaal. Great Britain will endeavor to legally attach the gold if it can be located on the ground that she is entitled to all the assets of the Transvaal because she has assumed responsibility for the debts of that country, including the bonds issued prior to the war.

General Botha's reply to Colonial Secretary Chamberlain that the late Boer government had no assets was strictly true as far as he knew, but since receiving Mr. Chamberlain's letter General Botha learned, according to seemingly trustworthy information here, that Mr. Kruger and Dr. Leyds have in their possession $2,500,000. General Botha requested them to turn over this gold for the benefit of the Boer people, but Dr. Leyds refused, averring that the money was to be used in upholding the Boer nationality in the future. General Botha has notified Dr. Leyds that unless the gold is given up legal proceedings will be brought against him.

POISONED THEIR CHILDREN?

Investigation of Death of Little Girls Leads to Arrest of Parents.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 1.—After carrying on for a period of several weeks an investigation into the cause of the death of Annie Williams, aged nine years, and her three-year-old sister Josephine on Oct. 21 and 22, respectively, the police authorities have deemed it proper to detain at a police station the parents of the dead children. The father, John W. Williams, was first taken into custody, and later the wife was removed to a police station along with her other three small children.

Annie and Josephine died of what the attending physician thinks was poison and so notified the coroner. A chemical analysis made by direction of the coroner tended to prove the doctor's theory, and the arrest of the parents followed.

It is said the dead children were insured, the elder one for $115 and the younger child for $30. Williams and his wife deny that they were the cause of the death of the two children.

Victims of Drowning Accident Found.

SCITUATE, R. I., Dec. 1.—The bodies of all three of the young people who were drowned in Moswansicut lake here a week ago by having their canoe overturned during a windstorm have been recovered. That of Albert Brewer of Burlington, Vt., was found Friday, and those of Miss Elizabeth L. Moon of Saratoga, N. Y., and Ernest W. Perry of Burlington, Vt., have just been taken from the water. The victims were members of the Pentecostal Collegiate institute here—Miss Moon, aged twenty-one years, a student; Perry, aged twenty-one, assistant principal, and Brewer, aged twenty-six, an instructor.

Object of Seligman's Visit.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—Mr. Isaac N. Seligman, the New York banker who saw the president Saturday, was again at the White House last night. He came alone and remained with the president for some time. Mr. Seligman's visit, as understood here, is to ascertain whether the United States will lend its moral support toward the meeting by Venezuela of obligations to Germany and England. He refused to say anything about the proposition or what took place between the president and himself.

MINOR BUSINESS BEFORE COUNCIL

Lots of Routine Business Came Before the Common Council Last Evening.

TO EXAMINE CITY BOOKS

Name of LaGrande Avenue Has Been Changed to East Seventh Street—J. A. Blatz's License Transferred—Council Invited to Laying of Corner Stone of Hospital.

Considerable progress was made in closing up the city's business for the year at a regular meeting of the Common Council last evening, although most of the business was of a routine nature. All of the members except Mr. Randolph were present. Councilmen-elect W. A. Garrigues and W. S. Tyler occupied seats near the president's desk and during the course of the evening they were introduced to the old members and given an opportunity to get acquainted in a measure with the details of a regular session. They were given a cordial reception.

The Council transferred the liquor license held by J. A. Blatz to the new purchaser of Mr. Blatz's business, Christian Gloekler, which is located at 104-106 West Front street. This was by request of the parties interested. A petition was received from Dr. W. C. Boone and others for an electric light on Hobart avenue, between Seventh and Eighth streets, and Clarence L. Murphy asked for the return of $59.27 paid on a lot on Clinton avenue, under the Martin Act, there being an error in the matter. The matter was referred.

The Plainfield Electric Light Company informed the Council that three lights, as ordered, had been erected. The bonds of Constables D. S. Pope and Peter V. Weaver were received, ordered referred to the corporation counsel and it found correct, filed. Building Inspector T. O. Doane reported that twenty-seven permits were granted during November.

Mr. Mellick offered a resolution providing for the acceptance of assessments, without interest, for macadamizing, the extension of time to be from November 7 to January 1, 1903. This was adopted. Another resolution by Mr. Mellick provided for the borrowing of $1,200 for the improvements to the sewer system. Still another resolution authorized the collector to forward $58,467.25 as Plainfield's share of the State and county tax for 1902.

In accordance with a resolution offered by Mr. Mellick, the adding machine, which has been in use in Collector Smith's office, was purchased at an expense not to exceed $375. This machine is of great benefit to the collector as he has many large sums to compute and it is necessary that the work be done expeditiously.

Mr. Tolles offered a resolution providing for the laying of flagging in the east end of the city on LaGrande and Woodland avenues. The property-owners have agreed to put down walks, but it so happens that not one of them want to be the first to start the work, hence the notice to the owners.

Mr. vanHerwerden reported on the petition for an electric light on Sherman avenue, which was referred with power, and he stated that the light had been placed in position. He also recommended, on the petition of J. D. Loizeaux, that two electric lights, one on Clinton avenue and another on Astor place, near Lyman place, be placed at those points. The petition was granted.

Mr. Tolles called up the ordinance accepting Evergreen avenue as a public thoroughfare and the ordinance was adopted on its third reading, as was also the ordinance introduced by Mr. Mellick which provides for the changing of the name of LaGrande avenue to East Seventh street.

Mr. Mellick offered a resolution authorizing the committee on finance to secure the services of accountants to examine the books of the city treasurer and collector from December 1, 1899 to January 1, 1903, at an expense not to exceed $1,500.

Mr. Coriell at first offered objection to the cost for this work, but when Mr. Mellick explained that the lowest price for this service for one year is $500 and that $1,500 for the time specified in his resolution is very reasonable, Mr. Coriell changed his ideas and voted for the resolution. Mr.

Variety of Attractions at the Booths—Dancing Was Chief Attraction Many Were Present at the Fair Last Evening.

In the gaily decorated rooms of the club at North and Park avenue, the I. C. T. fair began a week's existence, last evening. The initial attendance was excellent and success is already assured for the latest venture of this active organization.

Conspicuous among the booths was the "large" booth, located to the left of the entrance. This was divided into several compartments as follows: Fancy part, in charge of Miss May Squier and Miss Ida Furman; candy department, presided over by Miss Margaret Nash and Miss Edith Kratzfeldt; crockery department, in charge of George L. Apgar. Ice cream is served by Edward Texier and soda water is dispensed by Joseph Robinson. The "I. C. T." section is replete with fancy articles, made and donated to the club by its young women friends. They are sold by Miss Beaulah Waters and Miss Augusta Carman.

A feature of the fair is the total absence of books and catch devices. But two articles are to be chanced off and these are an Indian's head ornament and a pillow. Tickets for these are sold by V. W. Nash, Jr.

The main attraction each evening in the way of divertisement is dancing, music for which is furnished by Suhr's full orchestra.

The officials of the fair are as follows: Chairman, Fred Huff; secretary, Hiram Humes; treasurer, George L. Apgar; assistants, George Morton, Ray King, Joseph Robinson, William Waters, Charles Overbaugh, V. W. Nash, Jr., and George B. Cose. SOCIETY AT A COTILLION

First of a Series of Dances by Cotillion Club Held at the Casino Last Evening.

WAS A DECIDED SUCCESS

The Regular Dancing Preceeded the Supper Which Was Served in a Rather Novel Fashion—Then Came the Cotillion Led by Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Timpson.

The first of a series of three dances to be given this winter by the Cotillion Club was held last evening at the Casino and was marked as one of the most brilliant events of the social season given so far this year. Seldom has the large hall presented the attractive appearance it did last evening when, tucked in each corner and crevice were pretty green boughs through which the soft glow of colored electric lamps cast a warm light over the floor.

On the stage was the orchestra hidden behind a bank of pretty tropical palms and ferns. On each side of the hall were arranged behind the lights clusters of green through which the red lights cast their ruddy glow.

Dancing lasted until a little after 11 o'clock when a sumptuous supper was served in a most novel manner. Little tables were brought into the main dancing hall and arranged about the sides where the guest were served with the repast. On each table were candles on which were pretty red shades and as the first course was served the large lights over the center of the room were extinguished leaving only the colored red lights along the sides of the room burning giving to the hall the appearance, with the red lights on the tables, of a drawing room tea instead of a dance. It was an innovation which at once won the approval of all.

After the refreshments had been served the tables were removed and the cotillion was the next event on the dance order. It was led by Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Timpson. The patronesses who gave out the favors at the favor table were Mrs. J. W. Reinhart, Mrs. G. W. VanBoskerck and Mrs. Charles E. Brooks. The favors comprised toy automobiles, pug dogs, fans, etc.

The committee who arranged the dance were: L. G. Timpson, F. W. Yates, E. T. Barrows and L. E. Waring. The dance last evening was the first of three which the club will give during the winter, the next one being held on February 11 and the second on February 23.

Among those present at last evening's event which proved to be such a great success were Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Timpson, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. VanBuren, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Ring, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Guilford, Mr. and Mrs. Craig A. Marsh, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Day, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Waring, Mr. and Mrs. Evarts Tracy, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Lucius Ryce, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Yates, Mr. and Mrs. John B. Drayton, Mr. and Mrs. Gilmore Drayton, Mr. and Mrs Firnage, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Mack, Mr. and Mrs. William Tyler, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Blake and Mr. and Mrs. C. W. McGee, Mrs. W. L. Saunders, the Misses Lucy Otterson, Fanny C. Cox, Genevieve Lee, Helen Talmage, May Evans, Florence Waring, Margaret and May Holly, May Waring, Charlotte Low, Mary Anderson Reinhart, Edna Strong, Catoline Randolph Anna Davis, Maud VanBoskerck, and Miss Webber, Miss Bishop, of Bridgeport, Conn., and Miss Fiske, of Trenton.

Frank L. Schoonmaker, Harry L. McGee, George T. VanBoskerck, Thomas R. VanBoskerk, O. G. Waring, Dr. B. VanD. Hedges, Dr. F. C. Ard, William Rushmore, A. Willis West, Charles Dupee, Laurens H. VanBuren, Howard Huntington, E. H. Hall, Mr. Walker, M. S. Ackerman, Harry Munger and others.

Too Much "Red Eye."

Completely overpowered by an overdose of "red eye," John Nichols, of Long Branch, sank down at the corner of Watchung avenue and East Fourth street, last evening. Patrolman Overbaugh saved him from freezing by taking him to police headquarters. This morning he was released with a suspended sentence.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE READ

Sent to Congress When Senate and House Assembled This Noon.

TEXT OF THE MESSAGE

President Roosevelt Has Something to Say About Trusts and the Tariff—Isthmian Canal Referred To—Needs of Army and Navy Other Subjects Discussed.

To the Senate and House of Representatives:

We still continue in a period of unbounded prosperity. This prosperity is not the creature of law, but undoubtedly the laws under which we work have been instrumental in creating the conditions which made it possible, and by unwise legislation it would be easy enough to destroy it. There will undoubtedly be periods of depression. The wave will recede, but the tide will advance. This nation is seated on a continent flanked by two great oceans. It is composed of men the descendants of pioneers or, in a sense, pioneers themselves—of men winnowed out from among the nations of the old world by the energy, boldness and love of adventure found in their own eager hearts. Such a nation so placed will surely wrest success from fortune.

As a people we have played a large part in the world, and we are bent upon making our future even larger than the past. In particular the events of the last four years have definitely decided that for woe or for weal our place must be great among the nations. We may either fail greatly or succeed greatly, but we cannot avoid the endeavor from which either great failure or great success must come. Even if we would we cannot play a small part. If we should try, all that would follow would be that we should play a large part ignobly and shamefully.

But our people, the sons of the men of the civil war, the sons of the men who had iron in their blood, rejoice in the present and face the future high of heart and resolute of will. Ours is not the creed of the weakling and the coward; ours is the gospel of hope and of triumphant endeavor. We do not shrink from the struggle before us. There are many problems for us to face at the outset of the twentieth century—grave problems abroad and still graver at home—but we know that we can solve them, and solve them well, provided only that we bring to the solution the qualities of head and heart which were shown by the men who in the days of Washington founded this government and in the days of Lincoln preserved it.

No country has ever occupied a higher plane of material well being than ours at the present moment. This well being is due to no sudden or accidental causes, but to the play of the economic forces in this country for over a century; to our laws, our sustained and continuous policies; above all, to the high individual average of our citizenship. Great fortunes have been won by those who have taken the lead in this phenomenal industrial development, and most of these fortunes have been won not by doing evil, but as an incident to action which has benefited the community as a whole. Never before has material well being been so widely diffused among our people. Great fortunes have been accumulated, and yet in the aggregate these fortunes are small indeed when compared to the wealth of the people as a whole. The plain people are better off than they have ever been before. The insurance companies, which are practically mutual benefit societies—especially helpful to men of moderate means—represent accumulations of capital which are among the largest in this country. There are more depositors in the savings banks, more owners of farms, more well paid wageworkers in this country now than ever before in our history. Of course when the conditions have favored the growth of so much that was good they have also favored somewhat the growth of what was evil. It is eminently necessary that we should endeavor to cut out this evil, but let us keep a due sense of proportion; let us not in fixing our gaze upon the lesser evil forget the greater good. The evils are real, and some of them are menacing, but they are the outgrowth not of misery or decadence, but of prosperity, of the progress of our gigantic industrial development. This industrial development must not be checked, but side by side with it should go such progressive regulation as will diminish the evils. We should fail in our duty if we did not try to remedy the evils, but we shall succeed only if we proceed patiently, with practical common sense as well as resolution, separating the good from the bad and holding on to the former while endeavoring to get rid of the latter.

In my message to the present congress at its first session I discussed at length the question of the regulation of those big corporations commonly doing an interstate business, often with some tendency to monopoly, which are popularly known as trusts. The experience of the past year has emphasized, in my opinion, the desirability of the steps I then proposed. A fundamental requisite of social efficiency is a high standard of individual energy and excellence, but this is in no wise inconsistent with power to act in combination for aims which cannot so well be achieved by the individual acting alone. A fundamental base of civilization is the inviolability of property; but this is in nowise inconsistent with the right of society to regulate the exercise of the artificial powers which it confers upon the owners of property under the name of corporate franchises in such a way as to prevent the misuse of these powers. Corporations, and especially combinations of corporations, should be managed under public regulation. Experience has shown that under our system of government the necessary supervision cannot be obtained by state action. It must therefore be achieved by national action. Our aim is not to do away with corporations. On the contrary, these big aggregations are an inevitable development of modern industrialism, and the effort to destroy them would be futile unless accomplished in ways that would work the utmost mischief to the entire body politic. We can do nothing of good in the way of regulating and supervising these corporations until we fix clearly in our minds that we are not attacking the corporations, but endeavoring to do away with any evil in them. We are not hostile to them. We are merely determined that they shall be so handled as to subserve the public good. We draw the line against misconduct, not against wealth. The capitalist who, alone or in conjunction with his fellows, performs some great industrial feat by which he wins money is a welldoer, not a wrongdoer, provided only he works in proper and legitimate lines. We wish to favor such a man when he does well. We wish to supervise and control his actions only to prevent him from doing ill. Publicity can do no harm to the honest corporation, [illegible] need not be overtender about

MUST KEEP OUT OF GREENBROOK

The Borough Board of Health Deems That Stream Unsafe for Cattle to Visit.

FEAR IT IS POLLUTED

Milkmen, Selling Milk in Borough, Must Not Hereafter Water Cattle in Green Brook—Pollution Discovered From Watchung Avenue Sewer—Other Business.

A resolution was draughted last evening at the meeting of the Borough Board of Health, prohibiting dairymen from allowing their cattle to drink of the water of the Green brook, which they say, jeopardizes the health of the community, who use the milk sold by these dealers. In the resolution it provides that the dairymen fence in their property where the stream passes through it. The board believes that the city sewer beds are polluting the stream.

For some time past there has been thick coatings of vile smelling oil on the surface of the brook and after investigating the Board of Health has located the source of the pollution. It comes from the old Watchung avenue sewer under the bridge on that street but from whose property it flows into the sewer they have not been able to ascertain so far. The City Board of Health will be asked to take suitable measures to abate this nuisance.

The new ordinance requiring all milk dealers to have a permit to sell milk was read for the second time at the meeting. It has been decided by the Supreme Court that towns and cities have the right to grant and require all milk dealers to have a special Board of Health permit in order to sell milk.

BRIGHT GIRL PASSED AWAY

BRIEF ILLNESS PROVED FATAL TO ALICE DEMAREST.

Spinal Meningitis Developed and the Operation Failed to Save Her Life.

Sad, indeed, is the death of Miss Alice Demarest, oldest daughter of Letter-carrier and Mrs. William Demarest, of Stone street, which occurred at Muhlenberg Hospital, yesterday afternoon, following a comparatively short illness.

She was taken ill about two weeks ago with a heavy cold in the head, which developed an exceedingly painful earache. The pain grew so intense that medical aid was summoned at once. Four physicians were called in consultation, when it was determined that Miss Demarest was suffering from an acute attack of spinal meningitis. It was then decided that an operation was necessary at once.

She was removed to the hospital at 2 o'clock in the afternoon and operated upon at 6 o'clock. During intermissions Miss Demarest appeared brighter, and while her condition was critical, there was a ray of hope. Sunday she became worse and from that time she failed rapidly.

Miss Demarest was a very bright girl and a favorite with all who knew her. She could speak the French language fluently. Her mother, partially through her great anxiety for the sick daughter, became ill a few days ago and is now detained at home with pneumonia.

The funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon from the home of the parents on Stone street and will be private. Rev. J. O. McKelvey will officiate and interment will be in the North Plainfield cemetery.

Pleaded Hard Luck.

James Shanley, who claimed Newark as his home, was arraigned before City Judge Runyon, this morning, charged with vagrancy by Roundsman Flynn. He pleaded hard luck and received a suspension of sentence.

—There is no denying the superiority of White Label canned goods. Neuman Brothers have sold them for years and have yet to hear of their giving dissatisfaction.

The condition of J. A. Smith, of Central avenue, is not so favorable today. His temperature reached a height of 104 this morning and there is some anxiety about him.

LIVING EDITION OF A POPULAR MAGAZINE

Covers, Stories, Ads and All Were Cleverly Pictured in a Series of Tableaux.

NOVEL ENTERTAINMENT

AT SOCIAL OF LADIES' AID SOCIETY AND EPWORTH LEAGUE OF FIRST M. E.

Edition de Luxe of the Epworth League Gazette Was a Decided Success From Cover to Cover—Some Excellent Representations.

Something in the way of a novelty was seen in Vincent chapel, last evening at the social given by the Ladies' Aid Society, assisted by the Epworth League of the First M. E. church. The principal feature was an impromptu edition of a magazine which was called the Epworth League Gazette.

In tableaux, each illustration of either story or advertisement was portrayed. It was an edition de luxe, indeed, as there was but one copy printed, but that copy was so well produced that it is possible that there will be one more edition published to satisfy the demands of the public.

The illustration of the cover was represented by Miss Lillian Snodgrass, as "Pine Boughs." The first advertisement was that of the Bordentown Military Academy, represented by Ralph Laing and Harold Fenno in uniform. Next came the serial story of the magazine "Mrs. Wiggs' Cabbage Patch." Miss Elsie Horne represented Mrs. Wiggs. "Engagement" was the title of the frontispiece which was portrayed by Miss Lillian Snodgrass. Miss Gertrude Snodgrass represented "Jones' Little Girl," a short story.

During a short intermission Kenneth Shupp rendered a pleasing solo on the trombone.

When the programme was resumed a Thanksgiving poem was recited by Miss Frances Rittenhouse. A short sketch entitled "In Nonsense Land" was represented by Miss Persis Snodgrass.

It was the advertisements which, as usual, proved to be a pleasant feature of the magazine. "Bakers Chocolates" were represented by Miss Wilson, attired in the pretty white waitress cap of the Colonial maiden with the tray of steaming chocolate in her hand. "Packer's Tar Soap" was represented by George and Frances Rittenhouse. A "Ping Pong" advertisement was portrayed by Albert Steiner and Miss Wilson which was very cleverly represented. "The Kodak Girl" was represented by Mrs. Stephen Tugwell and looked the picture exactly.

The little boy with the yellow sou'wester and rubber boots and round rosy cheeks represented the well known advertisement of "Zu Zu." With a green background and with the well known "Innerseal" package under his arm, Fred Fenno represented looked exactly like the colored advertisement so well known in the magazines.

Corless, Coon & Co., collars and cuffs, were represented by George Horne, Ralph Laing, Louis Wilson and Dr. F. W. French, and was followed by the advertisement of "Cream of Wheat." Those who represented this advertisement were Wililam Symons and George and Miss Frances Rittenhouse.

Miss Helen Shupp represented the advertisement of a well known soap and Mr. and Mrs. McGee represented the well known ad of the Wabash Railroad. Pearline was represented by Mrs. F. W. French.

"Omega Oil" was perhaps the most cleverly represented, if any comparison can be made in the reproduction of the ads. Arthur Hummell was the small boy and Dr. F. W. French a thrillingly realistic goose.

The familiar figure of "Sunny Jim" was not left out of the programme. The familiar character which represented "Force" was there in the person of Kenneth Shupp, with a wig and a queue and a false nose with the characteristic peak to it. After the last ad had been portrayed a musical selection was rendered by Mrs. Burnett and a trombone solo by Kenneth Schupp.

After the programme had been rendered photographs were taken of the different figures by James R. Joy. Refreshments were served by the following committee who arranged the entertainment: Mrs. Henry A. McGee, Mrs. James R. Joy, Mrs. Burnett, Mrs. Charles H. Lyman, Mrs. F. W. French, Mrs. Harry Gee and Mrs. O. L. Jenkins, who were congratulated upon the great success of the entertainment.

ALIS DEFEATED Y. M. C. A. FIVE

First Meeting of Those Two Teams Showed the Warmest Kind of Rivalry.

THE PLAY WAS ROUGH

Superior Accuracy in Goal Throwing by Alis Boys Was the Determining Factor in the Contest—Neither Team Played Up to the Game It Was Capable Of.

After being defeated by a team of inexperienced players from the Hope Y. M. A., the basket ball five of the Alis A. A. was victorious over the veterans of the Y. M. C. A. last evening, in the third game in the Plainfield Basket Ball League. The contest was played before a large audience at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium and the excitement ran very high. Team work was not conspicuous on either side while rough play was. The determining factor was undoubtedly the accurate goal throwing of the Alis boys, in which they were way ahead of their opponents.

Even the famous High School—Leal's match of last year did not develope the intensity of feeling that this game did. Each team had its crowd of rooters and organized cheering and singing made things lively throughout the game. The crowd was generous in its applause although there were not so many occasions that really merited it.

From the time the ball was first put into play, it was evident that both teams were playing under a heavy strain. There was some team play, of course, but neither five did what it was capable of. Both Smith and Long, of the Alis, showed that they had not lost all the skill for which they have been famed. Neither side managed to do much scoring although there was plenty of opportunity. The Y. M. C. A. players not only threw wild but they fumbled the ball too often. Whether it was lack of practice or the excitement of the occasion that was responsible, it is hard to say.

Long scored the first goal and the Alis rooters went wild. Fouls were frequent but neither side seemed able to toss the ball into the goal. It wasn't long before Robison had a goal, then Smith made one and Long a second. Toward the end of the half Denton made the only score for the Y. M. C. A.

While the play in the first half was fast and inclined to roughness, it was worse in the second. Moraller and Cahoone were the chief offenders although there was a good deal of rough play from all the players. In this half, Alis was trying for the goal which is partially blocked by apparatus and did not have the opportunities of the first half. Each team scored once but the lead Alis had obtained in the first half carried that team to victory by a score of 11 to 4.

As a result of last night's game each of the three teams has won one game and lost one.

The teams lined up as follows:

Alis A. A.	Y. M. C. A.
Robison	right forward — Denton
Long	left forward — Cranston, Peterson
Kieb	centre — Cahoone
Smith	right guard — Giles

Score—Alis A. A., 11; Y. M. C. A., 4 Goals from the field—Rooison, Long (2), Kieb, Smith, Denton, Cahoone. Goals on fouls — Long. Fouls—Alis A. A., 7; Y. M. C. A., 11. Referee—George E. Fuller. Umpires—S. B. Joseph and Charles B. Morse. Timekeepers — Robert A. Meeker and Harry Cuming. Scorer—John H. Doane.

New Brunswick Withdraw.

Charles Victor, of the New Brunswick Laurel Club, was in Plainfield, yesterday for the purpose of withdrawing the club's checker team from the league. Owing to the limited number of members in the club it is impossible to maintain a team. The regular schedule will be continued with three teams.

Little Child Passed Away.

After suffering for the past few weeks with spinal meningitis the thirteen-months' old child of Adam Seader, of West Front street, passed away last evening at the home of its parents, at about 6 o'clock. The funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.

Free Day at Borough Schools.

Today in the borough school was observed as free day instead of Friday as the borough schools will be closed all the rest of the week on account of the Teachers' Institute which will open tomorrow at Bound Brook.

SCHOOL BOARD WANTS SINGLE PIECE POLE

Protested Bill Because Spliced Flag Pole Has Been Placed in High School Yard.

THE ROUTINE BUSINESS

AT REGULAR MONTHLY MEETING OF CITY BOARD OF EDUCATION.

No Developments in the New High School Matter—Waiting for the Common Council to Act—Schedule for the Year Was Fixed.

Practically nothing beyond routine matters occupied the attention of the Board of Education at its regular meeting, last evening. The new High School matter was but lightly touched upon, the committee awaiting action on the part of the Common Council. E. A. Cave, the recently elected member, made his initial appearance.

In reading the usual number of bills, one from John Abbott for the erection of a flag pole in the High School yard was protested. He agreed with the board to put up a one piece staff in place of the old pole and then sub-let the contract ton W. H. Noyes, of Newark. The latter erected a spliced pole, but it was not noticed until the job was completed. The matter was referred to the building committee and it remains with the members whether the spliced pole is replaced by another or is accepted at a lower rate.

The usual reports were rendered as follows: Tax collector, received for the month, $40,738.33, including interest; custodian of school moneys, receipts, $50,113.75; disbursements, $6,289.63; balance, $44,284.12; medical examiners, 243 pupils examined

At Superintendent Maxson's request the board adopted the following schedule of terms for the ensuing school year: Winter term, January 5 to April 10; spring term, April 20 to June 19; fall term, September 8 to December 23. By this plan, the Christmas vacation is lengthened to two weeks, heretofore having been but ten days.

A communication was received from the Board of Health, recommending that the educational board adopt a rule relating to the isolation of pupils exposed to contagious disease, that is, children living in the same house where there is a case. It asked that in such cases the exposed person be kept from school for certain periods, according to the nature of the disease, numbering from ten to seventeen days, after the patient had recovered. Dr. Probasco objected to the keeping of pupils out of school that length of time when they had not been attacked by the disease and the remainder of the board coincided. The communication was laid on the table.

Speaking for the building committee, Mr. Abbott stated that nothing new had developed in the proposed High School matter and it was a case of wait for the City Fathers to take action. His report completed the business and the board adjourned.

FIRE IN CORN.

Borough Department Called Out to Extinguish Blazing Corn Shock.

An alarm of fire rang out yesterday afternoon in the borough from Box 132 for a blaze in a shock of corn husks in the lot adjoining the house of James Carson, of Belmont avenue. The blaze was discovered by one of the employes who was working nearby and, after trrying to put ont the flames, sent in an alarm. The hose wagons of Warren Engine Company and the West End Company responded and soon had the flames under control. The hose wagon of the Warren Company was drawn to the scene of the blaze by the horses of Mrs. Lena Hoerster, of Somerset street.

To accommodate those who are partial to the use of atomizers in applying liquids into the nasal passages for catarrhal troubles, the proprietors prepare Ely's Liquid Cream Balm. Price including the spraying tube is 75 cents. Druggists or by mail. The liquid embodies the medicinal properties of the solid preparation. Cream Balm is quickly absorbed by the membrane and does not dry up the secretions but changes them to a natural and healthy character. Ely Brothers, 56 Warren St., N. Y.

LOCAL NEWS ON EVERY PAGE.

THEY ALL SAY SO.

Not Only in Plainfield, But in Every City and Town in the Union.

If the reader took the time and trouble to ask his fellow residents of Plainfield, the simple question given below, he would obtain the one answer. If he would read the statements now being published in Plainfield which refer to this answer, it would surprise him to note that they number so many. As many more could be, and may be published, but in the meantime ask the first person you meet what cures backache? The answer will be, Doan's Kidney Pills. Here is a citizen who endorses our claims:

Mrs. Wm. H. Ludlow, of 88 Jackson avenue, says: "I had backache and a sort of dull pain across my loins for several years. If I sat for any length of time and tried to rise I had a sharp pain in my kidneys Walking any distance or standing aggravated the difficulty. I could not rest well at night from the fact that I had to be constantly changing about from one position to another trying to free myself from pain. I used quite a number of remedies but got no permanent relief. I was prevailed upon to get Doan's Kidney Pills from L. W. Randolph's drug store. I must say they did me a great deal of good. It is seldom that I feel any pain in my back and when I do a few doses of this remedy never fails to relieve me. I know others who have used Doan's Kidney Pills with good results."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no substitute.

The Home Building and Loan Ass'n.

ORGANIZED 1888.

At a special meeting of The Home Building and Loan Association held November 17th, 1902, a resolution was passed to amend its by-laws pertaining to interest on loans, which was heretofore six per cent. per annum—permitting the Board of management to loan money at a reduced rate of interest on future loans. Prospective home buyers will do well to apply to the Secretary for particulars.

The Home Building and Loan Association during fifteen years of business has redeemed seven semi-annual series. It has at this time an investment of over $150,000.00 divided among about eighty members; and has paid 5½ to 6 per cent. compound interest to its investors. Total number of members 350.

The Association meets the third Monday of each month from 7 to 9 p. m., at 120 East Front Street, Plainfield. Shares $1.00 per month. Entrance fee 25 cents per share.

CONGRESS IN SESSION

Senate Adjourns After Twelve Minutes' Sitting.

HOUSE TRANSACTS NO BUSINESS.

An Unusual Display of Flowers and the Usual Crowds in Galleries and Corridors Mark the Opening Day.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—The senate was in session twelve minutes the first day of the session, an adjournment until today being taken out of respect to the memory of the late Senator James McMillan, who died during the recess. Rarely has the historic chamber presented such an appearance. The custom of placing flowers on the desks of senators on the opening day of a session is one which long has been followed, but the display yesterday was admittedly the most magnificent of any that heretofore have been seen. Many of the senators were early on the floor and were kept busy exchanging greetings with old acquaintances.

The galleries were packed to suffocation, and hundreds stood outside the corridors, anxious to gain admission. Among the interested spectators were several members of the diplomatic corps. Senor Quesada, the Cuban minister, occupied a conspicuous place and exhibited much interest in the proceedings.

The absence of Rev. Dr. Milburn, the blind chaplain, was particularly noticed. His place was taken by Rev. J. F. Prettyman of Washington. No business was transacted beyond passing the customary resolutions that the senate was ready to proceed to business and fixing the hour of convening the sessions at 12 o'clock.

The opening of the Fifty-seventh congress in the house was, as usual, a spectacular event. The galleries of the freshly decorated hall were packed to the doors with people prominent in society and politics, and the flower show on the floor, although not as elaborate as usual, filled the chamber with perfume and added grace and beauty to the scene. The members were good natured and jovial, and there was no outcropping of partisan feeling. Speaker Henderson received a cordial reception as he assumed the gavel, but beyond this there was no demonstration.

The proceedings were purely perfunctory. A prayer, the calling of the roll, the swearing in of members elected to fill vacancies created by death or resignation during the recess, the adoption of the customary resolutions to appoint a committee to wait upon the president, to inform the senate that the house was ready to transact business and to fix the daily hour of meeting summarize what was done. Then the death of the late Representative Charles A. Russell of Connecticut, which occurred in the early fall, was announced by his successor, Mr. Brandegee, the usual resolution of regret was adopted, and the house as a further mark of respect adjourned until today, when the president's message will be received. The session lasted less than an hour.

Blind Chaplain Resigns.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—Rev. W. H. Milburn, the blind chaplain of the senate, who is now in California, has forwarded his resignation to President Pro Tem. Frye. It will be placed before the senate and his successor elected. Mr. Milburn in his letter to Senator Frye says ill health compels him to retire from the position, and he adds, "It is with deep sorrow that I have come to this decision, as it was my cherished wish that under the favor of the senate I should conduct its religious services during the remainder of my days."

Havana Getting Filthy.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—Unsatisfactory reports have come to the state department in regard to the sanitary condition in Havana. General Wood's reports for 1899 and 1900 show that the Cuban city was exceedingly healthy as a result of the American methods of sanitation enforced. The state department is advised that a relaxation of this system is taking place gradually, but surely. The sanitary inspectors are said to be more lenient, and there are numerous violations of sanitary laws.

A Boatload of Sick Marines.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Dec. 2.—The United States auxiliary cruiser Panther, with 320 marines on board, nearly all sick, has sailed for Norfolk. She came from Colon. The Colombian government asserted that it could protect the isthmus, so the opportunity was seized to take the fever stricken soldiers back. The Panther only took on board here water and fuel.

November Balance Sheet.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—The monthly comparative statement of the government receipts and expenditures shows that for November, 1902, the total receipts were $43,599,001 and the disbursements $43,040,257, leaving a surplus for the month of $558,744. Last year the surplus for November was $5,517,860.

Requisition For Kelly Honored.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Dec. 2.—Governor Stone has honored the requisition of the governor of Missouri for the return to St. Louis of Charles F. Kelly, former president of the house of delegates of St. Louis. Detective McGrath left at once for Philadelphia to take Kelly to St. Louis.

Postoffice Robbed.

CHARLESTON, S. C., Dec. 2.—The postoffice at Hartsville, Darlington county, has been robbed of about $200, most of it government funds. The safe was broken open. No clew to the robbers has been found.

SHIP AND CREW LOST

Fourteen Went Down In a Storm on Lake Michigan.

VESSEL'S OWNERS GIVE UP HOPE.

The Schooners Which the Missing Steamer Had In Tow Bring the News of the Disaster to Port.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., Dec. 2.—The steamer Charles Hebard has been wrecked at Point Mainse. She broke up and disappeared completely, and it is believed that her crew of fourteen men were all lost.

The schooner Aloha, which the Hebard had in tow, is still missing on Lake Superior. The Warmington and Francomb, which formed the other boats of the steamer's tow, are anchored at Point Mainse.

The news of the disaster was brought by the steamer Ossifrage, which reached here from Michipicoten. On approaching Point Mainse the Hebard was sighted ashore there. Not long afterward, in plain sight of the Ossifrage, the wrecked steamer broke up and disappeared from view.

The four boats had loaded lumber at West Superior and were bound for Lake Erie ports. When in the middle of Lake Superior Saturday night, they were struck by the gale, and soon after the Aloha, the rear vessel of the tow, parted her tow line and went adrift. When last seen, she was rolling in the trough, with none of her canvas set. The remaining two consorts either broke away or were set adrift soon afterward. Before daylight Sunday morning the Francomb reached Copper Mine point, at the east end of the lake. When day dawned, the wreck of the Hebard was discovered on the shore a short distance, with only the smokestack and pilot house sticking out of the water, but by 8:30 o'clock everything had disappeared, and the ship and cargo were being strewn along the beach by the breakers.

As the shore at that point is very rugged and rocky it is feared that even if the crew had attempted to leave the steamer when she struck their boat must have been dashed to pieces.

The steamer Hebard was owned by Holland & Graves of Buffalo. She was built in 1888 and registered 763 tons. The Aloha was owned by the same firm. She was built in 1888 and registered 521 tons.

Schooner and Crew Missing.

DETOUR, Mich., Dec. 2.—The schooner Celtic, in tow of the steamer Runnells, broke away from the steamer in the gale Saturday night when in the north end of Lake Huron and, it is feared, has been lost, with all on board. After searching all along the east shore of the lake from the Duck Islands northward to this point without finding a trace of the schooner the Runnells came here. The Celtic carried a crew of eight, but a list of their names cannot be obtained. The two boats were bound from Buffalo to Sault Ste. Marie with coal cargoes at the time of the accident. The Celtic was owned by Spence Bros. of Cleveland, who have given the schooner up for lost. She was not insured.

Transport Sherman Sails.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 2.—The transport Sherman has sailed for Manila. She will stop at Guam on the way to deliver a quantity of military stores there. She went away with her hold filled with supplies for the army in the islands and her cabins filled with passengers. Among them was Mrs. J. M. Lee, wife of Brigadier General Lee, who is on the way to the Philippines to join her husband. Colonel A. C. Girard, who is going to the islands as assistant surgeon general, is also a passenger. He is accompanied by Mrs. Girard.

PORTLAND, Me., Dec. 2.—There was no choice for mayor in the municipal election. Mayor F. E. Boothby (Rep.) lacking 171 votes of the majority necessary for re-election, although having a plurality of 246 over Hon. D. H. Ingraham, the Democratic candidate and the last Democratic mayor of the city ten years ago. There was no choice for ward officers in two wards. JERSEY IN CONGRESS.

When Congress was called to order, yesterday noon, the most prominent figure of the New Jersey delegation was Charles N. Fowler, representative from the district of which Plainfield is a part. Without doubt, Mr. Fowler will continue to take a prominent part in the affairs of the nation at the National Capitol. As chairman of the committee on banking and insurance and a member of the committees on foreign affairs and reform of the civil service, he will be particularly in a position to wield much influence among the legislators.

Mr. Fowler is not a stranger to Plainfield as he has spoken here on several occasions and also made a personal campaign though the city when a candidate for re-election. He cannot but realize that it is to Plainfield that he largely owes his re-election to Congress. So far, Plainfield has had but little to ask of him. While a few minor appointments have been doled out to local Republicans, Plainfield's requests of the Congressman have been comparatively few and far between. When the day does come, however, that there is a public clamor for governmental assistance in some public work, Plainfield ought to have the hearty support and aid of Congressman Fowler.

One of the chief arguments made in behalf of Mr. Fowler in his recent campaign against DeWitt C. Flanagan was that it was far better to return to Congress a man who had had years of experience there and who would thus be able to obtain far better results in the best interests of his district than one who would have to learn the ropes before he was able to really accomplish anything. Undoubtedly this argument gave Mr. Fowler the support of many. Now Mr. Fowler will have the opportunity of proving the truth of this contention.

Barring the dishonest corporation.

In curbing and regulating the combinations of capital which are or may become injurious to the public we must be careful not to stop the great enterprises which have legitimately reduced the cost of production, not to abandon the place which our country has won in the leadership of the international industrial world, not to strike down wealth with the result of closing factories and mines, of turning the wageworker idle in the streets and leaving the farmer without a market for what he grows. Insistence upon the impossible means delay in achieving the possible exactly as, on the other hand, the stubborn defense alike of what is good and what is bad in the existing system, the resolute effort to obstruct any attempt at betterment, betrays blindness to the historic truth that wise evolution is the sure safeguard against revolution.

No more important subject can come before the congress than this of the regulation of interstate business. This country cannot afford to sit supine on the plea that under our peculiar system of government we are helpless in the presence of the new conditions and unable to grapple with them or to cut out whatever of evil has arisen in connection with them. The power of the congress to regulate interstate commerce is an absolute and unqualified grant and without limitations other than those prescribed by the constitution. The congress has constitutional authority to make all laws necessary and proper for executing this power, and I am satisfied that this power has not been exhausted by any legislation now on the statute books. It is evident, therefore, that evils restrictive of commercial freedom and entailing restraint upon national commerce fall within the regulative power of the congress and that a wise and reasonable law would be a necessary and proper exercise of congressional authority to the end that such evils should be eradicated.

I believe that monopolies, unjust discriminations, which prevent or cripple competition, fraudulent overcapitalization and other evils in trust organizations and practices which injuriously affect interstate trade can be prevented under the power of the congress to "regulate commerce with foreign nations and among the several states" through regulations and requirements operating directly upon such commerce, the instrumentalities thereof and those engaged therein.

I earnestly recommend this subject to the consideration of the congress with a view to the passage of a law reasonable in its provisions and effective in its operations, upon which the questions can be finally adjudicated that now raise doubts as to the necessity of constitutional amendment. If it prove impossible to accomplish the purposes above set forth by such a law, then assuredly we should not shrink from amending the constitution so as to secure beyond peradventure the power sought.

The congress has not heretofore made any appropriation for the better enforcement of the antitrust law as it now stands. Very much has been done by the department of justice in securing the enforcement of this law, but much more could be done if congress would make a special appropriation for this purpose, to be expended under the direction of the attorney general.

One proposition advocated has been the reduction of the tariff as a means of reaching the evils of the trusts which fall within the category I have described. Not merely would this be wholly ineffective, but the diversion of our efforts in such a direction would mean the abandonment of all intelligent attempt to do away with these evils. Many of the largest corporations, many of those which should certainly be included in any proper scheme of regulation, would not be affected in the slightest degree by a change in the tariff, save as such change interfered with the general prosperity of the country. The only relation of the tariff to big corporations as a whole is that the tariff makes manufactures profitable, and the tariff remedy proposed would be in effect simply to make manufactures unprofitable. To remove the tariff as a punitive measure directed against trusts would inevitably result in ruin to the weaker competitors who are struggling against them. Our aim should be not by unwise tariff changes to give foreign products the advantage over domestic products, but by proper regulation to give domestic competition a fair chance, and this end cannot be reached by any tariff changes which would affect unfavorably all domestic competitors, good and bad alike. The question of regulation of the trusts stands apart from the question of tariff revision.

Stability of economic policy must always be the prime economic need of this country. This stability should not be fossilization. The country has acquiesced in the wisdom of the protective tariff principle. It is exceedingly undesirable that this system should be destroyed or that there should be violent and radical changes therein. Our past experience shows that great prosperity in this country has always come under a protective tariff and that the country cannot prosper under fitful tariff changes at short intervals. Moreover, if the tariff laws as a whole work well and if business has prospered under them and is prospering, it is better to endure for a time slight inconveniences and inequalities in some schedules than to upset business by too quick and too radical changes. It is most earnestly to be wished that we could treat the tariff from the standpoint solely of our business needs. It is, perhaps, too much to hope that partisanship may be entirely excluded from consideration of the subject, but at least it can be made secondary to the business interests of the country—that is, to the interests of our people as a whole. Unquestionably these business interests will best be served if together with fixity of principle as regards the tariff we combine a system which will permit us from time to time to make the necessary reapplication of the principle to the shifting national needs. We must take scrupulous care that the reapplication shall be made in such a way that it will not amount to a dislocation of our system, the mere threat of which, not to speak of the performance, would produce paralysis in the business energies of the community. The first consideration in making these changes would, of course, be to preserve the principle which underlies our whole tariff system—that is, the principle of putting American business interests at least on a full equality with interests abroad and of always allowing a sufficient rate of duty to more than cover the difference between the labor cost here and abroad. The well being of the wageworker, like the well being of the tiller of the soil, should be treated as an essential in shaping our whole economic policy. There must never be any change which will jeopardize the standard of comfort, the standard of wages, of the American wageworker.

One way in which the readjustment sought can be reached is by reciprocity treaties. It is greatly to be desired that such treaties may be adopted. They can be used to widen our markets and to give a greater field for the activities of our producers on the one hand, and on the other hand to secure in practical shape the lowering of duties when they are no longer needed for protection among our own people or when the minimum of damage done may be disregarded for the sake of the maximum of good accomplished. If it prove impossible to ratify the pending treaties and if there seem to be no warrant for the endeavor to execute others or to amend the pending treaties so that they can be ratified, then the same end—to secure reciprocity—should be met by direct legislation.

Wherever the tariff conditions are such that a needed change cannot with advantage be made by the application of the reciprocity idea, then it can be made outright by a lowering of duties on a given product. If possible, such change should be made only after the fullest consideration by practical experts, who should approach the subject from a business standpoint, having in view both the particular interests affected and the commercial well being of the people as a whole. The machinery for providing such careful investigation can readily be supplied. The executive department has already at its disposal methods of collecting facts and

BATTLED WITH TURKEY IN TOP OF A TREE

Herman Klinsman Made a Valiant Fight Before It Was Dragged Off to Captivity

OWNER WAS SCRATCHED

HE HAD MOURNED THE TURKEY AS STOLEN WHEN HE HEARD OF IT.

Bird Had Been Seen in Tree—Klinsman Climbed Tree to Frighten Turkey Out of It—Instead the Bird Attacked Klinsman.

Yesterday Herman Klinsman of Harrison street, was mourning the loss of a fine sixteen-pound turkey which he thought had been stolen from his yard on Saturday night but today he is nursing some very deep and painful cuts and bruises on his face and hands inflicted by the turkey which had mysteriously disappeared a few nights before.

Late yesterday afternoon a small boy who lives near Mr. Klinsman's home came into the yard and said that he saw a large turkey in a tree about a half mile away near the property of a man named Gunning, and so Mr. Klinsman started off to recover the lost turkey. He soon came to the tree where the bird was roosting and tried all manner of schemes to get the bird from its position in the branches but all to no avail.

Although an aged man he decided that the only way to get the bird was to climb the tree which he proceeded to do, thinking that it would fly down from its position and then he would be able to catch it as it ran about in the field.

Instead of the bird flying it turned on the man and with its wings and claws cut a number of deep gashes in Mr. Klinsman's face and hands beside inflicting painful bruises. The man finally got a hold on the leg of the bird and succeeded in getting the turkey to the ground where he bound its legs and carried it off to his home where he put the bird in a coop. Mr. Klinsman is nursing his wounds today but at the same time he is glad his bird is safe for Christmas.

Vice Chancellor Stevens Decided There Was Ground for Argument in Right of Way Case.

The right of way litigation between Mrs. Lucy C. McVey and Mrs. Julia Peck and Plainfield Cab Company, which involves the right of Mrs. McVey to use the passageway through the cab company's entrance to the stables, had another inning before Vice Chancellor Stevens at Newark, today.

W. S. Angleman, on behalf of Mrs. McVey, moved to strike out the demurers filed by Mrs. Peck and the cab company as frivolous and intended for the purpose of delay. The motion was opposed by Isaac P. Runyon on behalf of Mrs. Peck, who, also, in the absence of Reed & Coddington, and at their request, appeared for the Plainfield Cab Company.

After argument the Vice Chancellor filed the motion with costs and held that there was fair ground for argument on the demurrers as filed. The demurrers will therefore be argued at the February term of the Chancery Court at Trenton.

The Endeavor meeting at Trinity Reformed church last evening, was one of special interest. It was in charge of the missionary committee. The church's missionaries in Arabia were considered in a unique manner.

Members represented these missionaries telling about the work being done by each. Among those who impersonated these missionaries were Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Miss Mabel Wilson, Edgar F. Sheppard, H. W. Crawford and Miss Ella Benedict.

At the business meeting of the society, it was voted to devote the first Monday evening of each month for the study of the Bible, when well-known Bible students will give half hour's talks. The flower and missionary committee were empowered during the winter months to purchase flowers for the sick. The usual number of dolls, eighteen, were ordered purchased by the missionary committee. After being dressed by the members of the society, they will be presented to Miss Curry for her Little Day Mission in New York.

BELL'S LIBELER CONVICTED.

The Director of the Libertas Found Guilty In Manila.

MANILA, Dec. 2.—The trial of the editors of the paper Libertas, a friars' organ and strongly anti-American in its policy, for libeling General Bell, who was accused by the paper of stealing the profits from the sale of rice and foodstuffs in Batangas and Mindoro during the reconcentration period, has concluded and resulted in the conviction of the director of the paper, Manuel Ravago, and the acquittal of Friar Tamayo, the paper's religious censor. The prosecution experienced some difficulty in showing the identity of the publishers of the Libertas, although Ravago finally testified that he alone was responsible.

At the opening of the hearing the defense admitted that the libelous article was false, thus excluding the testimony of General Bell and General Davis, the civil commissioner who had arranged the transfer of the poor fund in question to the Philippine government. The trial failed to disclose the actual author of the article, and it is possible that another Dominican priest may be arrested.

Judge Ambler in passing judgment suggested the enactment of a statute requiring the newspapers to publish or register the names of their proprietors and responsible editors in order to prevent anonymous journalism.

Sentence on Ravago was deferred.

Trial of Grave Robbers Begun.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Dec. 2.—The first of the trials of alleged grave robbers and their patrons has begun before Judge Bailey. Dr. Joseph C. Alexander, demonstrator of anatomy at the Central College of Physicians and Surgeons, is the defendant. There were three indictments against him charging him with robbing a grave and buying and concealing the body of Rose Neidlinger, taken from a local cemetery. The prosecution filed an affidavit against Dr. Alexander, sworn to by Detective Manning, who, with Detective Asch, searched the medical college for stolen bodies. The body of Rose Neidlinger was found in the Central College of Physicians and Surgeons. George W. Mason, a well digger, arrested for complicity in the recent grave robberies, confessed that he had robbed graves, his associates being Moffitt and Cantrell, who are already under indictment.

Street Car Strike In Houston.

HOUSTON, Tex., Dec. 2.—The street car conductors and motormen of Houston walked out yesterday morning, and not a car was moved all day. Efforts made at a settlement during the day were without avail. The question of rules submitted by the men is the keynote of the trouble. The men claim they have been working twelve and thirteen hours a day for less than $2, and they demand $2 for nine hours' work. They also demand recognition of the union and the adoption of certain rules. The company has offered a slight increase, but it is in the shape of a bonus and not a straight offer.

Death of Professor Mitchell.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—Professor Henry Mitchell of Boston is dead from heart disease in this city. He was born in Nantucket Sept. 16, 1830. At the age of twenty-one years he entered the government service as civil engineer. He led an expedition under Count de Lesseps on the Panama canal project, was a member of the Mississippi river commission for many years, had been a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers since 1880 and was a member of the National Academy of Arts and Sciences as well as many other scientific societies and clubs.

Ocean Liner's Stormy Voyage.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—Two days overdue, the American line steamer St. Louis arrived in port after one of the roughest voyages she has ever experienced. From the hour that she left Southampton until she was sighted off Nantucket lightship she had head winds and such terrific storms that only a half dozen of the fifty cabin passengers were able to appear regularly at the meals. The storms that the St. Louis ran into were so severe that one life was lost, and every bit of baggage below decks was still soaking wet when taken out on the pier.

Valuable Mail Stolen.

DANVILLE, Ky., Dec. 2.—The loss of a sack of mail containing $14,000 in drafts and checks from the internal revenue office here and $9,000 in bank checks and drafts, besides registered letters, from various parties has been reported. The sack was stolen or lost between the Danville postoffice and the depot or on the Cincinnati mail train ten days ago.

Will Not Leave Shanghai.

SHANGHAI, Dec. 2.—Another hitch has occurred in the evacuation of this city by the foreign garrisons. The commanders of the German and French troops declare they will not leave before February.

Greek Cabinet Resigns.

ATHENS, Dec. 2.—Owing to the adverse result of the general elections, at which several of the ministers failed to be re-elected, the whole cabinet has resigned.

Weather Probabilities.

Cloudy, with rain; fresh south to west winds, becoming variable.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

The Korean cabinet has resigned.

Snow four feet deep was reported in the mountains of Pennsylvania.

Admiral Dewey and staff sailed in the Mayflower for Culebra island.

One woman was killed and another fatally wounded by an unknown man in Pittsburg.

Buckle, Mr. Tolles and Mr. Pray spoke in support of the resolution, but just before the resolution was adopted on its second reading, Mr. Lee said that he would vote "no" for the present on the ground that he thought that all the books of the city should be included in the examination, such as those of the city judge and city clerk. Later he withdrew his objections and there was a unanimous vote for the resolution.

Mr. Mellick extended to the Council, on behalf of Charles E. Brooks, of the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital, an invitation to attend the laying of the cornerstone of the new hospital Saturday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. The invitation was accepted with thanks and no doubt the members will attend.

Before the Council adjourned, Mr. Mellick moved that an adjournment to December 26 be taken. This was agreed to after which the meeting adjourned.

Exhibit and Lecture.

There will be an exhibit of Philippine curios and a lecture on them by R. Morris Adkins at the Monroe Avenue M. E. church this evening at 8 o'clock under the anspices of the Woman's Home Missionary Society. Admission will be free but a silver offering will be taken.

In Justice Huff's Court.

Leonard Valardo, represented by Hetfield & Hetfield, in the case before Justice Huff, last Saturday, against Michael Zarro, for work performed, was awarded a judgment of $24. The defendant was represented by Lawyer Apgar, of Newark.

President of Colgate Here.

Rev. Dr. Merrill, president of Colgate University, preached Sunday at both the morning and evening services at the First Baptist church. In the morning he took his text from the passage of Scripture found in Luke, 17-5.

In Justice Moffett's Court.

The suit on contract between Matthias Blum, et al., partners, etc., against A. Edward Gammidge, on contract, for $50 and costs, will be returnable in Justice Moffett's court December 8.

Capped With Snow.

The various coal trains passing Plainfield, yesterday, on their way to New York were watched with considerable interest. Each car of coal was capped with a blanket of snow.

Holy Cross Fair.

December 3, 4 and 5, a fair will be held in the parish house of the Church of the Holy Cross. A turkey supper will be served Wednesday and Thursday evenings from 6 to 8 o'clock.

A GIRL OF GRIT.

She Went After Pecans In a Balloon In Texas.

"It's de tallest pole dat knocks de persimmons," said the old Kentucky colored brother long ago, and Miss Bernice Bardine, a Texas girl of nineteen, has proved the old saw also true in case of one of the most noted of the Lone Star State's products, the pecan. The finest pecans in the world grow in Texas, where many orchards and groves have been planted. Since the invention of the machine to separate nut meat from its troublesome shell the value of the pecan crop has increased.

The pecan tree is a species of hickory and grows very tall, sometimes 150 feet high. Its branches sprangle out slim and bushy, so far from the tree trunk that the outer portions will not bear the weight of even a boy who tries to crawl upon them, and according to that exasperating plan with which nature often tantalizes humanity the finest, largest and fattest pecan nuts grow upon those very limbs which are inaccessible to any creature but a bird or a cat. Bernice Bardine studied for months the problem of how she could get them.

Bernice and her brother last year earned considerable money gathering and selling pecans. The brother is the younger of the two, and Bernice is the brains of the partnership. She was evidently born with the commercial talent. After gathering the nuts last year she laid her plans for a campaign this year which should net her much larger gains. During the winter she matured them.

The first part of her scheme was to learn all that was to be found out in regard to pecan groves and their product on the one hand and the marketing of the crop on the other. She made journeys to see both the owners of the groves and the merchants who bought the crop. She thus learned where the largest product in Texas might be looked for, also where to expect the best prices. That was the first part of the programme.

The next was to buy in advance the crops of the best groves, precisely as the enterprising merchant buys tobacco in the field. She kept her plans to herself likewise, and here she showed the acumen of a great American financier. Her investigations had shown her that pecans were going to sell at a good price this season, and she secured them in advance. In due time buyers from wholesale nut houses in the cities appeared among the pecan grove owners in the Colorado river valley offering 7½ cents a pound for the nuts. They found that the girl Bernice Bardine, scarcely as yet out of short dresses, had bought the product of every pecan orchard in that region. She had actually leased for $100 a grove in which some of the trees bore twenty bushels apiece, and the sum total of the yield amounted to nearly $5,000 from this one grove. She had certainly proved herself the tallest pole here.

But one matter vexed her not a little. The finest pecans of all were apparently inaccessible. They were in the tops of trees where the picker dared not climb. The custom has been to brush the nuts off with a thrashing pole as high up as the tree climber could reach. Those beyond him had to be left, and they were the choicest nuts of all, bushels and bushels of them. "I will have those nuts if I have to go after them in a balloon," said Bernice. "They are worth several thousand dollars."

Some of the tallest pecan trees in Texas grow at Granite Shoals, and as a matter of course their tops, which nobody can reach, are every summer full of the choicest nuts. They hung and swayed there before the eyes of Miss Bardine till she could bear the tempting sight no longer. Then this irrepressible Texas girl ordered a hot air balloon to be brought to Granite Shoals. A furnace was built in the grove and the silk bag was inflated with hot air. The girl, armed with a pecan thrashing pole, got into the car and up she went with her to the [illegible] where the big nuts grew. The ground below was [illegible] ropes while Bernice [illegible]

BURTON'S SHAVE.

BY H. S. CASWELL.

When Jimmie Tolliver first made his appearance on Wall street as a messenger in the office of Burton, Brooks & Burton he felt that to a very large extent he had become a part and parcel (and no unimportant portion) of that vast financial institution commonly known as "the street."

He looked upon the subtreasury, guarded night and day by the statue of Washington, with an air of proprietorship, and uptown he lorded it over all the boys in his block. His pride was not without foundation, for a youngster who obtains a position in Wall street must be well recommended, and such situations are more difficult to obtain than work in other lines.

Jimmie ran errands just like Fred Henderson, but he had to run faster and get back more promptly, for a delay of ten seconds might mean the loss of as many thousands, and surely this is enough responsibility for a 16-year-old.

It was his duty to run to the other offices with stocks and memoranda, and at times he handled large sums in negotiable securities.

He was a bright, self-reliant youngster, and his quickness and good nature not only made him many friends, but won him early promotion, as before long he was put in charge of the other messengers. Then the duty fell on him of escorting the junior partner to the safety deposit vaults.

Only in the largest offices do the brokers keep their stocks over night. Instead, at the close of each day's business all the papers and securities are deposited in a strong box and taken to the safety deposit vaults by the cashier or some member of the firm, to be brought back the next morning.

There is small danger of robbery, for the police are plentiful; but the responsible messenger is always escorted by some one in case of accident, and Jimmie, who was a strapping lad for his age, went along to "see that Mr. Burton didn't drop dead," as he explained it.

He and Henry Burton, a son of the senior partner, and only recently admitted to the firm, were great friends. Burton was a genial young fellow and the possessor of most of Jimmie's secrets, including his longing for an automobile and his ambition to become telephone clerk for the firm.

Burton had promised to use his influence toward the furtherance of this latter ambition, but the telephone clerk, who works on the floor of the exchange and carries the orders to the floor operator, is usually an older man, and Burton had to counsel patience.

They were discussing the age question as they made their way back from the vaults of the safety deposit company along the narrow, crowded street.

"I'll be as young looking as you to-morrow," Burton said, laughingly. "I'm going to have my mustache cut off in the morning, and when I get down to the office I guess I'll look as big a kid as you, Jimmie."

"Huh!" retorted Jimmie, as he eyed the junior partner's well-covered upper lip enviously, "I only wisht I had it. I'd get that job at the telephone. Anyhow, I hope you don't look any more like that man Gorham than you do now. They say that when they see your back they can't tell you apart. I can, though."

Gorham was Jimmie's pet aversion. He was a questionable speculator, who, because he handled big accounts for friends, was made welcome at the office. Jimmie had never participated in this welcome since the day Gorham had cursed him for not getting out of his way.

Burton laughed. "I guess you won't be bothered by Gorham much longer, Jimmie," he said. "He's pretty close to the wall, I hear, and unless he makes good certain losses within two days he will not be permitted to trade."

"He can't get out any too quick for me," Jimmie muttered, as he went up the steps into the office, and then he forgot the subject in an effort to arbitrate between two of the messengers, who had taken advantage of his absence to settle a difference in the hallway.

But it came back to him the next morning as he sat at his desk reading in the Commercial Journal a hint that a certain broker might be discredited because of his failure to pay up his losses. He threw down the paper as the senior Burton came in, and sprang to the gate to admit him behind the railing.

"Hasn't Mr. Burton come in?" he demanded, as he cast a quick glance at his son's empty seat.

Jimmie shook his head.

"Well, if he isn't here in ten minutes get the cashier to go over to the safe deposit vault with you. I want that G. & K. scrip at once. My boy should have been here early. He knew that there was more negotiable paper in that box than usual, and that I wanted some of it early. So! Here you are!" he broke off. "I want that box, and I want it right away."

"Come on, Jimmie," said the younger man, but Jimmie made no move.

"Come!" said the senior sharply, as he saw that the boy made no move. "Get your hat and hurry up."

Jimmie went to the messenger call and pulled the hook all the way over. Then he came back to the gate. "I ain't going with him," he said ungrammatically, but determinedly.

"What's the matter with you?" demanded the elder Burton impatiently. "Have you taken leave of your senses?"

"You ain't seen Mr. Harry before this morning, have you?" asked Jimmie irrelevantly.

"What difference does that make?" thundered the head of the firm. "You get your hat and go with Mr. Henry or go home! But get out of here!"

"It makes this difference," retorted Jimmie, defiantly. "Mr. Henry told me last night he was going to shave off his mustache. Mr. Gorham needs money and he might have got it only he didn't know that Mr. Henry was going to shave clean this morning," and with a bound he sprang at the younger man and tore off a wig and false mustache just as the police summoned by the messenger call rushed in.

By noon Jimmie was the hero of the street. Even the brokers had heard and gave him a cheer when he went on the floor to deliver a message to the real Mr. Henry, by this time released from the uptown hotel, where he had been made a prisoner by Gorham's confederates.

The evening papers told in full how the sharp-eyed boy had outwitted a man who made desperate by his losses, had sought to trade on a slight resemblance to Burton and steal the strong box.

Jimmie is better than a telephone boy now, and he owes his promotion to Burton's shave.—St. Louis Republic.

KODOL
Digests What You Eat.

Weak Hearts

Are due to indigestion. Ninety-nine of every one hundred people who have heart trouble can remember when it was simple indigestion. It is a scientific fact that all cases of heart disease, not organic, are not only traceable to, but are the direct result of indigestion. All food taken into the stomach which fails of perfect digestion ferments and swells the stomach, puffing it up against the heart. This interferes with the action of the heart, and in the course of time that delicate but vital organ becomes diseased.

Kodol

Digests What You Eat

Mrs. Loring Nichols of Penn Yan, N. Y., writes: After eating, my food would distress me by making my heart palpitate and I would become very weak. Finally I got a bottle of Kodol and it gave me immediate relief. After using a few bottles I am cured.

Kodol cures indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach disorders, and gives the heart a full, free and untrammeled action.

Bottles only. $1.00 Size holding 2½ times the trial size, which sells for 50c.

SMITH ON POLYGAMY

Mormon Church Does Not Sanction Plural Marriages.

NO SUCH UNIONS NOW CONTRACTED

President of the Latter Day Saints at Salt Lake City Defines the Position of Smoot, Candidate For Senator.

SALT LAKE CITY, Dec. 2.—In an interview President Joseph Smith of the Mormon church defined the present position of the church with respect to polygamy.

"It is evident," he said, "that, with no additions to the total, but a rapid and continual decrease, the number of polygamist families will soon be reduced to zero.

"The church does not desire to enter the controversy over this question," said President Smith, "but it is anxious that its own people as well as the people of the country should understand its position."

"Does the Mormon church solemnize or permit plural marriages?" President Smith was asked.

"Certainly not," he replied. "The church does not perform or sanction or authorize marriage in any form that is contrary to the laws of the land. The assertion that prominent Mormons practice polygamy is evidently made to mislead the public. Polygamy under the law is the marrying of a husband or wife while the legal husband or wife is living and undivorced. There is no such offense committed by sanction of the Mormon church. But when the prohibition of polygamy was proclaimed by the president of the Mormon church there were many persons who had contracted plural marriages, and that relation has been continued in many instances because the men in that position determined not to abandon their families, but to care for and provide for them and educate and cherish their children.

"This is erroneously constructed as practicing polygamy and creates the impression that polygamous marriages are still permitted in and by the church.

"It was ascertained by a careful census in 1890, when President Woodruff issued his manifesto against further polygamous marriages, there were 2,451 such families belonging to the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints in the United States. In May, 1892, a complete and thorough inquiry showed that the original number in 1890 had been reduced 63 per cent. leaving then only 897, the great majority of whom were of advanced age, and many of them have since departed from this life."

President Smith was asked to define the position of Mr. Smoot in the church, his position as an apostle having been compared to that of a cardinal or archbishop in other churches.

"The two positions are not parallel," President Smith said. "An apostle of seventy or elder or bishop in the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints is usually engaged in some secular vocation or laboring in some capacity for his daily bread. He is ordained to the office he holds in the priesthood so that he may act in that calling when required. He gives his services gratuitously to the church. There are instances, of course, when a man's whole time is taken up with some church duty that he receives remuneration therefor, but as a rule men holding positions in the priesthood are engaged in secular callings and are men of affairs.

"Reed Smoot is a banker, the manager of the largest manufacturing institution in the state and is interested greatly in mining operations and other temporal pursuits. He is recognized as a capable and enterprising citizen, and his position in the church need not interfere in any way with his services to the state or the nation in any political office to which he may be elected. It is not true that he has been put forward by the church as a candidate for public office, but he has the same right that any other American citizen enjoys to accept any office to which his fellow citizens may elect him to occupy. Mormon church officials have served in congress for years and no objection has been offered on that account. Every Mormon official has been one holding the priesthood, and that has never interfered with his official duties. The objection in the present case is without substantial reason or foundation."

Stolen Stamps Identified.

CHICAGO, Dec. 2.—Three sets of figures written carelessly in pencil on the pasteboard back of one of the packages of stamps taken from Erwin and Edward Fuller, who were arrested in Chicago on Nov. 22, have led to the identification of he stamps as those stolen from the postoffice at Ponce City, Okla. The postoffice in that city was entered on the morning of Nov. 15, the safe blown open and its contents and nearly $1,500 worth of stamps were taken.

Castro Will Settle.

BERLIN, Dec. 2.—President Castro of Venezuela handed probably on Thursday last to the German minister at Caracas a written acceptance of part of Germany's claims, sufficiently comprehensive to delay the presentation of a joint ultimatum by Germany and Great Britain, if not rendering it altogether unnecessary. It is also understood that Great Britain's demands will be satisfied.

DOUBLE TRACKS FOR BRUNSWICK SYSTEM

Improvements Under Way and in Contemplation by Brunswick Company.

RIVERSIDE PARK PLANS

TROLLEY COMPANY IS IMPROVING ITS PARK ON BANKS OF RARITAN.

Preparing to Set Out Grove of Full Grown Trees at Riverside Park—Bettering the Facilities to That Popular Resort.

Riverside Park, the new trolley pleasure park on the line of the Somerset and Middlesex Traction Company, between Bound Brook and New Brunswick, is being rapidly made one of the beauty spots in this part of the State. The park, it will be remembered, was opened in the spring of last year and its popularity was at once attested by the large numbers of people carried to and from the place on the cars of the company, not only from New Brunswick and Bound Brook but from this city and Somerville.

Work of beautifying the grounds continued all summer and even now, after the park has been closed for the winter, improvements are still going on. A double track is being laid between New Brunwick and the park and later in the winter, when the grants of rights of way have been secured, it is the intention of the company to lay a double track between Bound Brook and the park which will make a double track between Bound Brook and New Brunswick. It is hinted that sometime in the near future the double track will be extended to Somerville and Dunellen.

Friday afternoon men were at work digging holes for a number of large shade trees which they will bring to this State on freight cars from some where in the west and will send them from New Brunswick and Bound Brook on flat cars propelled by electricity. Once on the spot they will be set in the places dug for them.

Holes have already been dug for over sixty trees all of which will be nearly full grown and under these will be a picnic park and flower beds. The grove will be along the trolley tracks on the side of the road. Some New York florist has been given the contract. Superintendent James Butler, when seen in the offices of the company in New Brunswick, Saturday night said, that he expected to have all the trees in a healthy condition and growing nicely by next spring. Over $2,000 is being spent in bringing the trees to the place and planting them and in making the grounds attractive.

FOR NURSES' HOME.

Plan to Raise Money to Erect One at New Hospital Site.

The members of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital, who some time ago planned to raise money for the new Nurses' Home in connection with the new hospital, have thus far raised $900 among themselves, each giving $10. In some cases the individual subscription was more than $10. It is the earnest desire of the women that the new Nurses' Home be ready for occupancy before another Thanksgiving comes around. Any person desiring to assist in this worthy enterprise can communicate with any of the members of the Woman's Board.

To Describe Pelee.

An illustrated lecture be will given at the Crescent Avenue church, Tuesday evening, December 16, by Dr. E. O. Hovey, under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society. There will be pictures illustrating Mt. Pelee, its eruption and destruction. Dr. Hovey is assistant curator of the Museum of Natural History in New York, and was one of a party who visited the island soon after its upheaval.

Work Progressing.

As previously reported, work has been started on the operating pavilion at the new hospital, also on the women's ward, and is now progressing favorably. The Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital denies that the work has been retarded by lack of funds. Next Saturday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock the corner stone will be laid with appropriate exercises.

Iona's Birthday.

The members of Iona Council, Degree of Pocohontas, will celebrate its tenth anniversary Wednesday evening, December 17, at which time a reception will be given to Mrs. Lavinia Holstein, great pocohontas.

Election in Relief Corps.

SPORTING NEWS

ON THE GRIDIRON.

A very interesting game of football will be played on Hope Common, Saturday afternoon, when the I. C. T. and Company K football elevens will meet in one of the most spirited games played this season. Although the military boys outweigh the I. C. T. team by a number of pounds, the I. C. T. are not discouraged at this as they are accustomed to playing with heavier teams. A large attendance is looked for as there has been a great deal of interest manifested in the game. Both teams have met before this season, but neither side could score, therefore a very close game is looked for. The game will be called at 3:30. Both teams will be under heavy practice this week. The I. C. T. will meet again Friday evening at the usual place. Both the elevens will use substitutes in the game as some of the players have been crippled.

figures, and if the congress desires additional consideration to that which will be given the subject by its own committees, then a commission of business experts can be appointed whose duty it should be to recommend action by the congress after a deliberate and scientific examination of the various schedules as they are affected by the changed and changing conditions. The unhurried and unbiased report of this commission would show what changes should be made in the various schedules and how far these changes could go without also changing the great prosperity which this country is now enjoying or upsetting its fixed economic policy.

The cases in which the tariff can produce a monopoly are so few as to constitute an inconsiderable factor in the question; but, of course, if in any case it be found that a given rate of duty does promote a monopoly which works ill, no protectionist would object to such reduction of the duty as would equalize competition.

In my judgment, the tariff on anthracite coal should be removed and anthracite put actually, where it now is nominally, on the free list. This would have no effect at all save in crises; but in crises it might be of service to the people.

Interest rates are a potent factor in business activity, and in order that these rates may be equalized to meet the varying needs of the seasons and of widely separated communities, and to prevent the recurrence of financial stringencies which injuriously affect legitimate business, it is necessary that there should be an element of elasticity in our monetary system. Banks are the natural servants of commerce, and upon them should be placed, as far as practicable, the burden of furnishing and maintaining a circulation adequate to supply the needs of our diversified industries and of our domestic and foreign commerce, and the issue of this should be so regulated that a sufficient supply should be always available for the business interests of the country.

It would be both unwise and unnecessary at this time to attempt to reconstruct our financial system, which has been the growth of a century, but some additional legislation is, I think, desirable. The mere outline of any plan sufficiently comprehensive to meet these requirements would transgress the appropriate limits of this communication. It is suggested, however, that all future legislation on the subject should be with the view of encouraging the use of such instrumentalities as will automatically supply every legitimate demand of productive industries and of commerce, not only in the amount, but in the character of circulation, and of making all kinds of money interchangeable and, at the will of the holder, convertible into the established gold standard.

I again call your attention to the need of passing a proper immigration law, covering the points outlined in my message to you at the first session of the present congress. Substantially such a bill has already passed the house.

Maillard's Candies—Fresh!

How to secure fair treatment alike for labor and for capital, how to hold in check the unscrupulous man, whether employer or employee, without weakening individual initiative, without hampering and cramping the industrial development of the country, is a problem fraught with great difficulties and one which it is of the highest importance to solve on lines of sanity and farsighted common sense as well as of devotion to the right. This is an era of federation and combination. Exactly as business men find they must often work through corporations, and as it is a constant tendency of these corporations to grow larger, so it is often necessary for laboring men to work in federations, and these have become important factors of modern industrial life. Both kinds of federation, capitalistic and labor, can do much good, and as a necessary corollary they can both do evil. Opposition to each kind of organization should take the form of opposition to whatever is bad in the conduct of any given corporation or union, not of attacks upon corporations as such nor upon unions as such, for some of the most far-reaching beneficent work for our people has been accomplished through both corporations and unions. Each must refrain from arbitrary or tyrannous interference with the rights of others. Organized capital and organized labor alike should remember that in the long run the interest of each must be brought into harmony with the interest of the general public, and the conduct of each must conform to the fundamental rules of obedience to the law, of individual freedom and of justice and fair dealing toward all. Each should remember that in addition to power it must strive after the realization of healthy, lofty and generous ideals. Every employer, every wageworker, must be guaranteed his liberty and his right to do as he likes with his property or his labor so long as he does not infringe upon the rights of others. It is of the highest importance that employer and employee alike should endeavor to appreciate each the viewpoint of the other and the sure disaster that will come upon both in the long run if either grows to take as habitual an attitude of sour hostility and distrust toward the other. Few people deserve better of the country than those representatives both of capital and labor—and there are many such—who work continually to bring about a good understanding of this kind, based upon wisdom and upon broad and kindly sympathy between employers and employed. Above all, we need to remember that any kind of class animosity in the political world is, if possible, even more wicked, even more destructive to national welfare, than sectional, race or religious animosity. We can get good government only upon condition that we keep true to the principles upon which this nation was founded and judge each man not as a part of a class, but upon his individual merits. All that we have a right to ask of any man, rich or poor, whatever his creed, his occupation, his birthplace or his residence, is that he shall act well and honorably by his neighbor and by his country. We are neither for the rich man as such nor for the poor man as such; we are for the upright man, rich or poor. So far as the constitutional powers of the national government touch these matters of general and vital moment to the nation, they should be exercised in conformity with the principles above set forth.

It is earnestly hoped that a secretary of commerce may be created, with a seat in the cabinet. The rapid multiplication of questions affecting labor and capital, the growth and complexity of the organizations through which both labor and capital now find expression, the steady tendency toward the employment of capital in huge corporations and the wonderful strides of this country toward leadership in the international business world justify an urgent demand for the creation of such a position. Substantially all the leading commercial bodies in this country have united in requesting its creation. It is desirable that some such measure as that which has already passed the senate be enacted into law. The creation of such a department would in itself be an advance toward dealing with and exercising supervision over the whole subject of the great business combinations doing interstate business, and with this end in view the congress should endow the department with large powers, which could be increased as experience might show the need.

I hope soon to submit to the senate a reciprocity treaty with Cuba. On May 20 last the United States kept its promise to the island by formally vacating Cuban soil and turning Cuba over to those whom her own people had chosen as the first officials of the new republic.

Cuba lies at our doors, and whatever affects her for good or for ill affects us also. So much have our people felt this that in the Platt amendment we definitely took the ground that Cuba must hereafter have closer political relations with us than with any other power. Thus in a sense Cuba has become a part of our international political system. It is to our interest that in return she should be given some of the benefits of becoming part of our economic system. It is, from our own standpoint, a shortsighted and mischievous policy to fail to recognize this need. Moreover, it is unworthy of a mighty and generous nation, itself the greatest and most successful republic in history, to refuse to stretch out a helping hand to a young and weak sister republic just entering upon its career of independence. We should always fearlessly insist upon our rights in the face of the strong, and we should with ungrudging hand show a generous duty to the weak. I urge the adoption of reciprocity with Cuba not only because it is eminently for our own interests to control the Cuban market and by every means to foster our supremacy in the tropical lands and waters south of us, but also because we of the giant republic the north should make all our sister nations of the American continent feel that whenever they will permit it we desire to show ourselves disinterestedly and effectively their friend.

A convention with Great Britain has been concluded, which will be at once laid before the senate for ratification, providing for reciprocal trade arrangements between the United States and Newfoundland on substantially the lines of the convention formerly negotiated by the secretary of state, Mr. Blaine. I believe reciprocal trade relations will be greatly to the advantage of both countries.

As civilization grows warfare becomes less and less the normal condition of foreign relations. The last century has seen a marked diminution of wars between civilized powers. Wars with uncivilized powers are largely mere matters of international police duty, essential for the welfare of the world. Wherever possible arbitration or some similar method should be employed in lieu of war to settle difficulties between civilized nations, although as yet the world has not progressed sufficiently to render it possible or necessarily desirable to invoke arbitration in every case. The formation of the international tribunal which sits at The Hague is an event of good omen from which great consequences for the welfare of all mankind may flow. It is far better where possible to invoke such a permanent tribunal than to create special arbitrators for a given purpose.

It is a matter of sincere congratulation to our country that the United States and Mexico should have been the first to use the good offices of The Hague court. This was done last summer with most satisfactory results in the case of a claim at issue between us and our sister republic. It is earnestly to be hoped that this first case will serve as a precedent for others, in which not only the United States but foreign nations may take advantage of the machinery already in existence at The Hague.

I commend to the favorable consideration of the congress the Hawaiian fire claims, which were the subject of careful investigation during the last session.

The congress has wisely provided that we shall build at once an isthmian canal, if possible at Panama. The attorney general reports that we can undoubtedly acquire good title from the French Panama canal company. Negotiations are now pending with Colombia to secure her assent to our building the canal. This canal will be one of the greatest engineering feats of the twentieth century, a greater engineering feat than has yet been accomplished during the whole history of mankind. The work should be carried out as a continuing policy without regard to change of administration, and it should be begun under circumstances which will make it a matter of pride for all administrations to continue the policy.

The canal will be of great benefit to America and of importance to all the world. It will be of advantage to us industrially and also in improving our military position. It will be of advantage to the countries of tropical America. It is earnestly to be hoped that all of these countries will do as some of them have already done with signal success and invite to their shores commerce and improve their material conditions by recognizing that stability and order are prerequisites of successful development. No independent nation in America need have the slightest fear of aggression from the United States. It behooves each one to maintain order within its own borders and to discharge its just obligations to foreigners. When this is done, they can rest assured that, be they strong or weak, they have nothing to dread from outside interference. More and more the increasing interdependence and complexity of international political and economic relations render incumbent on all civilized and orderly powers to insist on the proper policing of the world.

During the fall of 1901 a communication was addressed to the secretary of state asking whether permission would be granted by the president to a corporation to lay a cable from a point on the California coast to the Philippine islands by way of Hawaii. A statement of conditions or terms upon which such corporation would undertake to lay and operate a cable was volunteered.

Inasmuch as the congress was shortly to convene and Pacific cable legislation had been the subject of consideration by the congress for several years, it seemed to me wise to defer action upon the application until the congress had first an opportunity to act. The congress adjourned without taking any action, leaving the matter in exactly the same condition in which it stood when the congress convened.

Meanwhile it appears that the Commercial Pacific Cable company had promptly proceeded with preparations for laying its cable. It also made application to the president for access to and use of soundings taken by the United States steamship Nero for the purpose of discovering a practicable route for a transpacific cable, the company urging that with access to these soundings it could complete its cable much sooner than if it were required to take soundings upon its own account. Pending consideration of this subject it appeared important and desirable to attach certain conditions to the permission to examine and use the soundings if it should be granted.

In consequence of this solicitation of the cable company certain conditions were formulated, upon which the president was willing to allow access to these soundings and to consent to the landing and laying of the cable, subject to any alterations or additions thereto imposed by the congress. This was deemed proper, especially as it was clear that a cable connection of some kind with China, a foreign country, was a part of the company's plan. This course was, moreover, in accordance with a line of precedents, including President Grant's action in the case of the first French cable, explained to the congress in his annual message of December, 1875, and the instance occurring in 1879 of the second French cable from Brest to St. Pierre, with a branch to Cape Cod.

These conditions prescribed, among other things, a maximum rate for commercial messages and that the company should construct a line from the Philippine Islands to China, there being at present, as is well known, a British line from Manila to Hongkong.

The representatives of the cable company kept these conditions long under consideration, continuing in the meantime to prepare for laying the cable. They have, however, at length acceded to them, and an all American line between our Pacific coast and the Chinese empire by way of Honolulu and the Philippine Islands is thus provided for and is expected within a few months to be ready for business.

Among the conditions is one reserving the power of the congress to modify or repeal any or all of them. A copy of the conditions is herewith transmitted.

Of Porto Rico it is only necessary to say that the prosperity of the island and the wisdom with which it has been governed have been such as to make it serve as an example of all that is best in insular administration.

On July 4 last, on the one hundred and twenty-sixth anniversary of the declaration of our independence, peace and amnesty were promulgated in the Philippine Islands. Some trouble has since from time to time threatened with the Mohammedan Moros, but with the late insurrectionary Filipinos the war has entirely ceased. Civil government has now been introduced. Not only does each Filipino enjoy such rights to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness as he has never before known during the recorded history of the islands, but the people, taken as a whole, now enjoy a measure of self government greater than that granted to any other orientals by any foreign power and greater than that enjoyed by any other orientals under their own governments save the Japanese alone. We have not gone too far in granting these rights of liberty and self government, but we have certainly gone to the limit that in the interests of the Philippine people themselves it was wise or just to go. To hurry matters, to go faster than we are now going, would entail calamity on the people of the islands. No policy ever entered into by the American people has vindicated itself in more signal manner than the policy of holding the Philippines. The triumph of our arms, above all the triumph of our laws and principles has come sooner than we had any right to expect. Too much praise cannot be given to the army for what it has done in the Philippines, both in warfare and from an administrative standpoint, in preparing the way for civil government, and similar credit belongs to the civil authorities for the way in which they have planted the seeds of self government in the ground thus made ready for them. The courage, the unflinching endurance, the high soldierly efficiency and the general kind heartedness and humanity of our troops have been strikingly manifested. There now remain only some 15,000 troops in the islands. All told, over 100,000 have been sent there. Of course there have been individual instances of wrongdoing among them. They warred under fearful difficulties of climate and surroundings, and under the strain of the terrible provocations which they continually received from their foes occasional instances of cruel retaliation occurred. Every effort has been made to prevent such cruelties, and finally these efforts have been completely successful. Every effort has also been made to detect and punish the wrongdoers. After making all allowance for these misdeeds it remains true that few indeed have been the instances in which war has been waged by a civilized power against semi-civilized or barbarous forces where there has been so little wrongdoing by the victors as in the Philippine islands. On the other hand, the task of difficult, important and beneficent work which has been done is well nigh incalculable.

Taking the work of the army and the civil authorities together, it may be questioned whether anywhere else in modern times the world has seen a better example of real constructive statesmanship than our people have given in the Philippine Islands. High praise should also be given those Filipinos—in the aggregate very numerous—who have accepted the new conditions and joined with our representatives to work with hearty good will for the welfare of the islands.

The army has been reduced to the minimum allowed by law. It is very small for the size of the nation and most certainly should be kept at the highest point of efficiency. The senior officers are given scant chance under ordinary conditions to exercise commands commensurate with their rank under circumstances which would fit them to do their duty in time of actual war. A system of maneuvering our army in bodies of some little size has been begun and should be steadily continued. Without such maneuvers it is folly to expect that in the event of hostilities with any serious foe even a small army corps would be handled to advantage. Both our officers and enlisted men are such that we can take hearty pride in them. No better material can be found. But the must be thoroughly trained, both as individuals and in the mass. The marksmanship of the men must receive special attention. In the circumstances of modern warfare the man must act far more on his own individual responsibility than ever before, and the high individual efficiency of the unit is of the utmost importance. Formerly this unit was the regiment. It is now not the regiment, not even the troop or company; it is the individual soldier. Every effort must be made to develop every workmanlike and soldierly quality in both the officer and the enlisted man.

I urgently call your attention to the need of passing a bill providing for a general staff and for the reorganization of the supply departments on the lines of the bill proposed by the secretary of war last year. When the young officers enter the army from West Point, they probably stand above their compeers in any other military service. Every effort should be made by training, by reward of merit, by scrutiny into their careers and capacity, to keep them of the same high relative excellence throughout their careers.

The measure providing for the reorganization of the militia system and for securing the highest efficiency in the national guard, which has already passed the house, should receive prompt attention and action. It is of great importance that the relation of the national guard to the militia and volunteer forces of the United States should be defined and that in place of our present obsolete laws a practical and efficient system should be adopted.

Provision should be made to enable the secretary of war to keep cavalry and artillery horses worn out in long performance of duty. Such horses fetch but a trifle when sold, and rather than turn them out to the misery awaiting them when thus disposed of it would be better to employ them at light work around the posts, and when necessary to put them painlessly to death.

For the first time in our history naval maneuvers on a large scale are being held under the immediate command of the admiral of the navy. Constantly increasing attention is being paid to the gunnery of the navy, but it is yet far from what it should be. I earnestly urge that the increase asked for by the secretary of the navy in the appropriation for improving the marksmanship be granted. In battle the only shots that count are the shots that hit. It is necessary to provide ample funds for practice with the great guns in time of peace. These funds must provide not only for the purchase of projectiles, but for allowances for prizes to encourage the gun crews, and especially the gun pointers, and for perfecting an intelligent system under which alone it is possible to get good practice.

There should be no halt in the work of building up the navy, providing every year additional fighting craft. We are a very rich country, vast in extent of territory and great in population, a country, moreover, which has an army diminutive indeed when compared with that of any other first class power. We have deliberately made our own certain foreign policies which demand the possession of a first class navy. The isthmian canal will greatly increase the efficiency of our navy if the navy is of sufficient size, but if we have an inadequate navy then the building of the canal would be merely giving a hostage to any power of superior strength. The Monroe doctrine should be treated as the cardinal feature of American foreign policy, but it would be worse than idle to assert it unless we intended to back it up, and it can be backed up only by a thoroughly good navy. A good navy is not a provocative of war. It is the surest guaranty of peace.

Each individual unit of our navy should be the most efficient of its kind as regards both material and personnel that is to be found in the world. I call your special attention to the need of providing for the manning of the ships. Serious trouble threatens us if we cannot do better than we are now doing as regards securing the services of a sufficient number of the highest type of sailormen, of sea mechanics. The veteran seamen of our warships are of as high a type as can be found in any navy which rides the waters of the world. They are unsurpassed in daring, in resolution, in readiness, in thorough knowledge of their profession. They deserve every consideration that can be shown them. But there are not enough of them. It is no more possible to improvise a crew than it is possible to improvise a warship. To build the finest ship, with the deadliest battery, and to send it afloat with a raw crew, no matter how brave they were individually, would be to insure disaster if a fleet of average capacity were encountered. Neither ships nor men can be improvised when war has begun.

We need a thousand additional officers in order to properly man the ships now provided for and under construction. The classes at the naval school at Annapolis should be greatly enlarged. At the same time that we thus add the officers where we need them, we should facilitate the retirement of those at the head of the list whose usefulness has become impaired. Promotion must be fostered if the service is to be kept efficient.

The lamentable scarcity of officers and the large number of recruits and of unskilled men necessarily put aboard the new vessels as they have been commissioned has thrown upon our officers, and especially on the lieutenants and junior grades, unusual labor and fatigue and has gravely strained their powers of endurance. Nor is there sign of any immediate letup in this strain. It must continue for some time longer until more officers are graduated from Annapolis and until the recruits become trained and skillful in their duties. In these difficulties incident upon the development of our war fleet the conduct of all our officers has been creditable to the service, and the lieutenants and junior grades in particular have displayed an ability and a steadfast cheerfulness which entitle them to the ungrudging thanks of all who realize the disheartening trials and fatigues to which, they are of necessity subjected.

There is not a cloud on the horizon at present. There seems not the slightest chance of trouble with a foreign power. We most earnestly hope that this state of things may continue, and the way to insure its continuance is to provide for a thoroughly efficient navy. The refusal to maintain such a navy would invite trouble, and if trouble came would insure disaster. Fatuous self complacency or vanity or shortsightedness in refusing to prepare for danger is both foolish and wicked in such a nation as ours, and past experience has shown that such fatuity in refusing to recognize or prepare for danger in advance usually succeeded by a mad panic of, hysterical fear once the crisis has actually arrived.

The striking increase in the revenues of the postoffice department shows clearly the prosperity of our people and the increasing activity of the business of the country.

The receipts of the postoffice department for the fiscal year ending June 30 last amounted to $121,848,047.26, an increase of $10,216,853.87 over the preceding year, the largest increase known in the history of the postal service. The magnitude of this increase will best appear from the fact that the entire postal receipts for the year 1860 amounted to but $8,518,174.

Rural free delivery service is no longer in the experimental stage. It has become a fixed policy. The results following its introduction have fully justified the congress in the large appropriations made for its establishment and extension. The average yearly increase in postoffice receipts in the rural districts of the country is about 2 per cent. We are now able, by actual results, to show that where rural free delivery service has been established to such an extent as to enable us to make comparisons the yearly increase has been upward of 10 per cent.

On Nov. 1, 1902, 11,650 rural free delivery routes had been established and were in operation, covering about one-third of the territory of the United States available for rural free delivery service. There are now awaiting the action of the department petitions and applications for the establishment of 10,748 additional routes. This shows conclusively the want which the establishment of the service has met and the need of further extending it as rapidly as possible. It is justified both by the financial results and by the practical benefits to our rural population; it brings the men who live on the soil into close relations with the active business world; it keeps the farmer in daily touch with the markets; it is a potential educational force; it enhances the value of farm property, makes farm life far pleasanter and less isolated, and will do much to check the undesirable current from country to city.

It is to be hoped that the congress will make liberal appropriations for the continuance of the service already established and for its further extension.

Few subjects of more importance have been taken up by the congress in recent years than the inauguration of the system of nationally aided irrigation for the arid regions of the far west. A good beginning therein has been made. Now that this policy of national irrigation has been adopted the need of thorough and scientific forest protection will grow more rapidly than ever throughout the public land states.

Legislation should be provided for the protection of the game and the wild creatures generally on the forest reserves. The senseless slaughter of game, which can by judicious protection be permanently preserved on our national reserves for the people as a whole, should be stopped at once. It is, for instance, a serious count against our national good sense to permit the present practice of butchering off such a stately and beautiful creature, as the elk for its antlers or tusks.

So far as they are available for agriculture and to whatever extent they may be reclaimed under the national irrigation law, the remaining public lands should be held rigidly for the homebuilder, the settler who lives on his land, and for no one else. In their actual use the desert land law, the timber and stone law and the commutation clause of the homestead law have been so perverted from the intention with which they were enacted as to permit the acquisition of large areas of the public domain for other than actual settlers and the consequent prevention of settlement. Moreover, the approaching exhaustion of the public ranges has of late led to much discussion as to the best manner of using these public lands in the west which are suitable chiefly or only for grazing. The sound and steady development of the west depends upon the building up of homes therein. Much of our present success as a nation has been due to the operation of the homestead law. On the other hand, we should recognize the fact that in the grazing region the man who corresponds to the homesteader may be unable to settle permanently if only allowed to use the same amount of pasture land that his brother, the homesteader, is allowed to use of arable land. One hundred and sixty acres of fairly rich and well watered soil or a much smaller amount of irrigated land may keep a family in plenty, whereas no one could get a living from 160 acres of dry pasture land capable of supporting at the outside only one head of cattle to every ten acres. In the past great tracts of the public domain have been fenced in by persons having no title thereto, in direct defiance of the law forbidding the maintenance or construction of any such unlawful inclosure of public land. For various reasons there has been little interference with such inclosures in the past, but ample notice has now been given the trespassers, and all the resources at the command of the government will hereafter be used to put a stop to such trespassing.

In view of the capital importance of these matters I commend them to the earnest consideration of the congress, and if the congress finds difficulty in dealing with them from lack of thorough knowledge of the subject I recommend that provision be made for a commission of experts specially to investigate and report upon the complicated questions involved.

I especially urge upon the congress the need of wise legislation for Alaska. It is not to our credit as a nation that Alaska, which has been ours for thirty-five years, should still have as poor a system of laws as is the case. No country has a more valuable possession in mineral wealth, in fisheries, furs, forests and also in land available for certain kinds of farming and stock growing. It is a territory of great size and varied resources, well fitted to support a large permanent population. Alaska needs a good land law and such provisions for homesteads and pre-emptions as will encourage permanent settlement. We should shape legislation with a view not to the exploiting and abandoning of the territory, but to the building up of homes therein. The land laws should be liberal in type, so as to hold out inducements to the actual settler whom we most desire to see take possession of the country. The forests of Alaska should be protected, and, as a secondary but still important matter, the game also, and at the same time it is imperative that the settlers should be allowed to cut timber, under proper regulations, for their own use. Laws should be enacted to protect the Alaskan salmon fisheries against the greed which would destroy them. They should be preserved as a permanent industry and food supply. Their management and control should be turned over to the commission of fish and fisheries. Alaska should have a delegate in the congress. It would be well if a congressional committee could visit Alaska and investigate its needs on the ground.

In dealing with the Indians our aim should be their ultimate absorption into the body of our people, but in many cases this absorption must and should be very slow. In portions of the Indian Territory the mixture of blood has gone on at the same time with progress in wealth and education, so that there are plenty of men with varying degrees of purity of Indian blood who are absolutely indistinguishable in point of social, political and economic ability from their white associates. There are other tribes which have as yet made no perceptible advance toward such equality. To try to force such tribes too fast is to prevent their going forward at all. Moreover, the tribes live under widely different conditions. Where a tribe has made considerable advance and lives on fertile farming soil it is possible to allot the members lands in severalty much as is the case with white settlers. There are other tribes where such a course is not desirable. On the arid prairie lands the effort should be to induce the Indians to lead pastoral rather than agricultural lives and to permit them to settle in villages rather than to force them into isolation.

The large Indian schools situated remote from any Indian reservation do a special and peculiar work of great importance; but, excellent though these are, an immense amount of additional work must be done on the reservations themselves among the old, and, above all, among the young Indians.

The first and most important step toward the absorption of the Indian is to teach him to earn his living, yet it is not necessarily to be assumed that in each community all Indians must become either tillers of the soil or stock raisers. Their industries may properly be diversified, and those who show special desire or adaptability for industrial or even commercial pursuits should be encouraged so far as practicable to follow out each his own bent.

Every effort should be made to develop the Indian along the lines of natural aptitude and to encourage the existing native industries peculiar to certain tribes, such as the various kinds of basket weaving, canoe building, smith work and blanket work. Above all, the Indian boys and girls should be given confident command of colloquial English and should ordinarily be prepared for a vigorous struggle with the conditions under which their people live rather than for immediate absorption into some more highly developed community.

The officials who represent the government in dealing with the Indians work under hard conditions and also under conditions which render it easy to do wrong and very difficult to detect wrong. Consequently they should be amply paid on the one hand, and on the other hand a particularly high standard of conduct should be demanded from them, and where misconduct can be proved the punishment should be exemplary.

In no department of governmental work in recent years has there been greater success than in that of giving scientific aid to the farming population, thereby showing them how most efficiently to help themselves. There is no need of insisting upon its importance, for the welfare of the farmer is fundamentally necessary to the welfare of the republic as a whole. In addition to such work as quarantine against animal and vegetable plagues, and warring against them when here introduced, much efficient help has been rendered to the farmer by the introduction of new plants specially fitted for cultivation under the peculiar conditions existing in different portions of the country. New cereals have been established in the semiarid west. For instance, the practicability of producing the best types of macaroni wheats in regions of an annual rainfall of only ten inches or thereabout has been conclusively demonstrated. Through the introduction of new rices in Louisiana and Texas the production of rice in this country has been made to about equal the home demand. In the southwest the possibility of regrassing overstocked range lands has been demonstrated; in the north many new forage crops have been introduced, while in the east it has been shown that some of our choicest fruits can be stored and shipped in such a way as to find a profitable market abroad.

I again recommend to the favorable consideration of the congress the plans of the Smithsonian institution for making its museum, under its charge worthy of the nation and of, preserving at the national capital not only records of the vanishing races of men, but of the animals of this continent which, like the buffalo, will soon become extinct unless specimens from which their representatives may be renewed are sought in their native regions and maintained there in safety.

The District of Columbia is the only part of our territory in which the national government exercises local or municipal functions and where in consequence the government has a free hand in reference to certain types of social and economic legislation which must be essentially local or municipal in their character. The government should see to it, for instance, that the hygienic and sanitary legislation affecting Washington is of a high character. The evils of slum dwellings, whether in the shape of crowded and congested tenement house districts or of the back alley type, should never be permitted to grow up in Washington. The city should be a model in every respect for all the cities of the country. The charitable and correctional systems of the District should receive consideration at the hands of the congress to the end that they may embody the results of the most advanced thought in these fields. Moreover, while Washington is not a great industrial city, there is some industrial legislation, and our labor legislation, while it would not be important in itself, might be made a model for the rest of the nation. We should pass, for instance, a wise employer's liability act for the District of Columbia, and we need such an act in our navy yards. Railroad companies in the District ought to be required by law to block their frogs.

The safety appliance law, for the better protection of the lives and limbs of railway employees, which was passed in 1893, went into full effect on Aug. 1, 1901. It has resulted in averting thousands of casualties. Experience shows, however, the necessity of additional legislation to perfect this law. A bill to provide for this passed the senate at the last session. It is to be hoped that some such measure may now be enacted into law.

There is a growing tendency to provide for the publication of masses of documents for which there is no public demand and for the printing of which there is no real necessity. Large numbers of volumes are turned out by the government printing presses for which there is no justification. Nothing should be printed by any of the departments unless it contains something of permanent value, and the congress could with advantage cut down very materially on all the printing which it has now become customary to provide. The excessive cost of government printing is a strong argument against the position of those who are inclined on abstract grounds to advocate the government's doing any work which can with propriety be left in private hands.

Gratifying progress has been made during the year in the extension of the merit system of making appointments in the government service. It should be extended by law to the District of Columbia. It is much to be desired that our consular system be established by law on a basis providing for appointment and promotion only in consequence of proved fitness.

Through a wise provision of the congress at its last session the White House, which had become disfigured by incongruous additions and changes, has now been restored to what it was planned to be by Washington. In making the restorations the utmost care has been exercised to come as near as possible to the early plans and to supplement these plans by careful study of such buildings as that of the University of Virginia, which was built by Jefferson. The White House is the property of the nation, and so far as is compatible with living therein it should be kept as it originally was, for the same reasons that we keep Mount Vernon as it originally was. The stately simplicity of its architecture is an expression of the character of the period in which it was built and is in accord with the purposes it was designed to serve. It is a good thing to preserve such buildings as historic monuments which keep alive our sense of continuity with the nation's past.

The reports of the several executive departments are submitted to the congress with the

TROUBLE OVER THE OFFICIALS

Hope Y. M. A. and Alis A. A. Take Decided Stand on Request of the Y. M. C. A.

WILL NOT GRANT IT

Physicial Director Heywood Notified Them That Y. M. C. A. Would Not be Allowed to Play Unless He Was An Official—The Request Will Not be Granted.

Although the next game in the Plainfield Amateur Basket Ball League is scheduled to take place at the Hope gymnasium Friday night, there is a possibility that the game may not be played. According to the schedule, the fives of the Hope Y. M. A. and the Y. M. C. A. meet that evening. The hitch will be over the question of officials.

At a meeting of the executive committe of the league, Monday night, the officials for that game were fixed as follows: Referee, Robert A. Meeker; umpires, S. B. Joseph and Charles B. Morse. Yesterday Physical Director C. E. A. Heywood, of the Y. M. C. A., notified the managers of the other teams that hereafter the Y. M. C. A. team would be allowed to play in no game in which he was not an official. As far as Friday's game is concerned, it is not likely that any change will be permitted as the request of Geo. P. Smith, representative of the Alis A. A. on the executive committee, that the officials for last Monday's game be changed around was refused.

Mr. Heywood's name was suggested as an official several weeks ago but both of the other clubs objected on the ground that it would not be proper to have the physical director and manager of any interested organization officiate. Members of the Alis A. A. have expressed regret at the stand taken by Mr. Heywood but say that it will be impossible to allow him to officiate.

The matter was brought before the Hope Y. M. A., at its meeting last evening, and the members unanimously voted to allow no official connected with an organization supporting a team, to take part in the games as referee or umpire. Their stand was not aimed particularly at Mr. Heywood but simply to abide by the league rules which do not permit officials acting in that capacity. While it was the expressed opinion that the association was desirous of preserving harmony in the league, the members were open in declaring they would act as already stated.

If the Y. M. C. A. refuses to play unless Mr. Heywood officiates in Friday's game, the game will probably be defaulted to the Hope Y. M. A. Then either out-of-town officials will be secured or the Y. M. C. A. will withdraw, and the other two clubs will continue as a dual league.

The prize-winners were Mr. Campbell and Mr. Hodges for the men, and Mrs. Campbell and Miss Kelly for the women. After the games, dancing was enjoyed until a late hour. Mrs. Campbell, of Westfield, will entertain the club next Wednesday evening.

Atterbury, at the Casino, last evening and departed well pleased with the vocalists and their selections. The programme included quartettes and solos by Miss Anita Rio, soprano; Mrs. Marian VanDuyn, contralto; Ernest T. Martin, tenor; Harry F. Burleigh, bass. D. Asaph Evans acted as accompanist.

In excellent time and with voices well blended, the quartette's work was very pleasing. All of its five selections were distinctly successes, Schubert's "Serenade" meeting with the most favor. Miss Rio, who has been heard here several times before, increased her popularity, if such a thing were possible. She had a sweet, well-trained voice and sang with much feeling. Specially impressive was her "Sands of Dee." There was a warm welcome awaiting Mrs. VanDuyn and her numbers were well calculated to display the beauty of a full, rich voice. She appeared equally at home in Italian and English.

Ernest T. Martin was a stranger to most of the audience but his clear, well modulated tenor won him a cordial reception. His concluding number "Rory O'More" was a bit of the evening. Harry F. Bualeigh, while he did not possess a voice of the power of some of the bass soloists that have been heard in Mr. Atterbury's concerts, had a faculty of pleasing. His notes were clear and sustained and his enunciation excellent. He showed his abilty by the variety of his selections. Most unusual of all was "Sag' mir Scikos," which was given with a feeling and vigor that won for him an enthusiastic ovation. Mr. Evans' accompaniments were all that could be desired.

The committee in charge of this enterprise consists of M. Leichtentritt, Kalmen Rottberg, H. Goldstein, Samuel Dreier, S. Frucht, Jacob A. Fass and J. Sigel. Morris Abrams, of 229 West Front street, is the treasurer, to whom contributions should be paid.

WANT TO BAR FOREIGN LABOR

Representatives of the Local Trades Unions Talk of Organizing For That Purpose.

LISTENED TO SPEECHES

The American League of Workingmen Proposed to Work Against Unnaturalized Foreign Labor—All Local Trades Were Represented—Another Meeting.

The question of foreign labor entering into competition with American labor was the important topic discussed with considerable force and emphasis at a meeting of members of all the trades unions in the city, last evening, in Trades Council Hall on West Second street. Every one of the eighteen unions in the city was represented at the meeting, there being fully two hundred men present. A. C. Rogers, a member of the Carpenters' Union, was chairman of the meeting and was the one who first conceived the proposed plan for the laboring men of Plainfield.

The object of the meeting was to enlist the sympathy and support of all union men in an effort to bar out unnaturalized foreign labor. He quoted many figures to show that the percentage of this kind of labor is increasing and that now is the time for the American workingman to act and thus protect himself as well as his trade. He told how this foreign laboring man would come to this country, earn a few hundred dollars and then take it back to his old home, thus taking American money out of the country. He cited $1,000 as an amount considered a competency for this class of labor.

Mr. Rogers stated that the plan proposed was to thoroughly organize in this city all union men for the purpose of shutting out the unnaturalized foreign laborer, and then to form county, State and National organizations. This plan met with hearty approval, judging by the amount of enthusiasm shown on the part of those present.

James E. Martine was then introduced and he made a stirring address on the subject of labor unions. He said he agreed and endorsed heartily such organized labor and believed that it is up to them to educate and protect the American workingman. He said that he was not opposed to immigration, but he was bitterly opposed to the importation to this country of the scum of foreign countries. He favored an inquisitorial bureau, where all immigrants should be obliged to declare their intentions as soon as they land in this country. Mr. Martine likened this class of immigrants to sponges and leeches and in ringing tones urged all American workingmen to band together and stand together for their rights and in protecting their trades.

Mr. Martine compared the immigrant of years ago with those of today and said that he believed that those now coming to American shores are a far better class. He urged the compulsory ballot, whereby every American citizen should be compelled to vote unless he could produce unquestionable reasons excusing him from this bounden duty. The speaker deplored the fact that many rich Americans are leaving this country and taking their millions to some foreign country. He believed this practice should be discouraged. Regarding the poorest class of foreigners coming to America he said that drastic measures should be taken to stop this flow of filth to the shores of a free country.

Frequently throughout Mr. Martine's address, there were outbursts of applause and his suggestion that the new organization be known as "The American League of Workingmen," was received with the greatest approval. It is likely that this name will be chosen.

Following Mr. Martine, a few words of encouragement were spoken by Rev. John MacMurray, pastor of the Monroe Avenue church. He said that he favored labor unions, provided they are conducted on right principles. He distinctly stated that he did not favor them in their acts of abuse, but in the line of what had already been said, he stated that he thought the time had arrived for action in protecting the American workingman. He said that immigrants must make

CHURCH FAIR OPENS IN AUSPICIOUS WAY

The Parish House of Church of Holy Cross is the Scene of Much Activity.

THOSE ON COMMITTEES

THREE DAYS' FAIR GIVEN BY LADIES' AID SOCIETY OF CHURCH.

Booths Were Prettily Aaranged—One of Features was the "Old-Fashioned Country Store"—Then There's a Postoffice.

Despite the rain, the opening night of the grand fair in the parish house of the Church of the Holy Cross was a decided success. The affair, which is given by the Ladies' Guild of the church, is very cleverly gotten up and is under the direct supervision of Mrs. Alexander E. Faber, chairman of the entertainment committee.

There is a handsomely decorated fancy booth in charge of Mrs. W. Montgomery Downey, Mrs. G. P. Dupee and Mrs. W. E. MacClymont. Miss Florence Burr presides at the candy table and is assisted by Miss Iola Moore.

A feature of the bazaar is the "Old Fashion Country Store" in charge of Miss Ida Davis. The exterior of this booth is made to represent the front of a typical old country store, with its show window, its heaps of "garden truck" and small coop of live fowls. Within, Malcolm Davis, the young grocery clerk, sells vegetables and groceries, soap, flavoring extracts and preserves. The remainder of the stock consists of an assorted variety of dress goods, housefurnishings and kitchen utensils.

In one corner is the postoffice window, where each and every comer is generally sure of finding a letter or two awaiting him, bearing his name and address, but sent "Postage Due, 5c." Miss Davis is assisted by the Misses Atkinson, Nettie Davis, Ruth Burt and Mrs. Frank S. Brown.

Other interesting booths worthy of a visit are these of Miss Laura Rogers, where fortunes are told, and of Miss Florence Stevens, the silhouette maker. Grab bags and a ping-pong table are in charge of Miss Mai Faber. Miss Sophie Barlow and Miss Frank Burr.

The fair will be continued tomorrow and Thursday, afternoon and evening, and a turkey supper will be served on both of these evenings from 6 to 8 o'clock. The proceeds of the affair will go toward the re-decoration of the interior of the church.

WESTFIELD WON THREE STRAIGHT

Defeated Park Club in Opening Series in The Daily Press Bowling League Last Night.

ROLLED AT WESTFIELD

Plainfield Bowlers Were in Poor Form—Badly Beaten in First and Third Games, But Lost the Second by Margin of Twenty-Three Pins—The Scores.

The opening series in The Daily Press Bowling League resulted in the defeat of the Park Club bowlers last night at the Westfield Clubhouse where they played against the Westfields. The local team went down like pins before the fearful rolling of the Westfields who lead almost all through the three games by large majorities.

The playing was very interesting and was witnessed by a large number of people, many of whom were women. The alleys were in excellent condition.

Townsend, of the Park Club, rolled high in the first game but did not make such good scores in the second. In that game Peck rolled 45 higher than any man on his team but in the Westfield score, Forster did the high playing in both games. In playing the last game the Park Club scores were exceedingly low. The local players fell behind at the opening of the game and were unable to rally. Townsend was left behind and Dumont did the star playing for the Parks but while the Park's highest individual score in the last game was 145 for Dumont, Hegeman, who played against him in the Westfield team, made 154 and his was next to the lowest score made by Westfield in that game. The highest individual score for Westfield was 179 which was made by both Smith and Condit.

In the first game the total of the Parks was 162 pins below that of the Westfields. In the second game the local players were defeated by twenty-three pins but in the last game the Westfields outplayed the local players by 196 pins.

The individual scores made at last night's games were as follows.

LAYING ASIDE FUNDS FOR CAMPING TRIP

Hope Y. M. A. Establishes a "Camp" Fund to Receive Contributions This Winter.

GOING TO BUILD LODGE

GEORGE M'COMB WAS APPOINTED A PHYSICAL INSTRUCTOR AT GYM.

New Apparatus Installed and Four Classes in Physical Work to be Organized—Other Business Done.

Although not in keeping with the present season, the members of the Hope Y. M. A. at their meeting, last evening, promulgated a scheme tending to give them added enjoyment in the coming summer. It was the establishment of a "camp" fund, which has for its object the laying aside of small sums by the young men during the winter until they accumulate enough to bear the expenses of a trip such as was had last season. J. Fred Wharton was elected treasurer of the fund.

Last summer's camping excursion at Lake Hopatcong proved so successful that the association has in contemplation the acquirement of enough land on is banks upon which to build a lodge. This will be kept open all the summer. A committee will be appointed at a future meeting which will visit the lake region and secure options on suitable property.

A lot of new apparatus was installed in the gymnasium last night and George McComb appointed physical instructor. He will meet the young men, [Thursday evening, and form classes in physical work which will continue in force until spring.

The troubles in the basket ball league were discussed and the association took a decided stand in the matter. The action taken will be found in another column.

Other business transacted during the evening was the election of four new members and the receiving of several propositious. The next meeting is to be held next Tuesday evening.

The motion was made and carried that the fund to the credit of the Babcock Library, now with the New York Life Insurance and Trust Company be transferred to the Plainfield Trust Company after January 1, on condition that an equal rate of interest be allowed by the latter.

A communication from Maxwell E. Perkins acknowledging the receipt of the copy of the resolution adopted at the last meeting, was read and ordered on file.

BOY ENDED HIS LIFE WITH ACID

Harry Levine, Aged Seventeen, Drank Carbolic Acid and Died Soon After.

THE CAUSE IS DOUBTFUL

Supposed to Have Quarrelled With His Stepmother—Lived at 527 West Third Street—Staggered Into Home Late Last Night—Cause Not Known at First.

For some reason yet to be ascertained, Harry Levine, a seventeen-year-old boy living at 527 West Third street, swallowed a quantity of carbolic acid, late last night, which resulted in his death. He staggered into his apartment after an absence of several days, presumably in Brooklyn, and the family with which he lived summoned Drs. VanHorn and Currie under the impression he was afflicted with a fit. The physicians worked over the lad for some time without learning the real cause of his agony, as the lips were not burned to any extent. He died shortly before 2 o'clock this morning.

Patrolman Charles Flynn was summoned and making a search of the apartments found two bottles, one of which was filled with carbolic acid and the other containing a small amount. The full bottle contained the label of a local druggist and it was said today that he was seen in the pharmacy at 10 o'clock, last night. The partially empty bottle, from which he evidently drank the fatal dose, bore no indentification marks.

Levine, who was an intelligent boy, has lived in this city for a year or more and has been learning the trade of tailor with Julius Sigel, with whom he lived. Sigel said today that he could assign no cause for the suicide beyond the fact that he had quarrelled with his stepmother, who came to this city from Brooklyn, last Sunday. He went away with her that night taking $50 of his savings and nothing more was seen of him until he staggered in his bedroom, last night.

He evidently drank the acid outside the house or on the stairway. The $50 was missing from his clothing and also a trip ticket which he rented from Kalmon Rottberg. Sigel vouchsafed the opinion that his stepmother took the money and ticket from him and that it caused him to become moody.

The remains were viewed by the county physician today and a burial permit was issued. In response to a telegram, the boy's father came here this morning and will complete arrangements for the funeral service. The remains will probably be interred in a local cemetery.

Removed From Hospital.

The condition of James D. Macnab, commercial instructor in the City High School, was so far improved as to warrant his discharge from Muhlenberg Hospital last Saturday. Mr. Macnab has been operated on for appendicitis and underwent the operation so successfully as to warrant his discharge in a little over two weeks. He will probably resume his duties at the High School after the Christmas vacation.

Date is Fixed.

The Home Building and Loan Ass'n.

ORGANIZED 1888.

At a special meeting of The Home Building and Loan Association held November 17th, 1902, a resolution was passed to amend its by-laws pertaining to interest on loans, which was heretofore six per cent. per annum—permitting the Board of management to loan money at a reduced rate of interest on future loans. Prospective home buyers will do well to apply to the Secretary for particulars.

The Home Building and Loan Association during fifteen years of business has redeemed seven semi-annual series. It has at this time an investment of over $150,000.00 divided among about eighty members; and has paid 5½ to 6 per cent. compound interest to its investors. Total number of members 350.

The Association meets the third Monday of each month from 7 to 9 p. m., at 120 East Front Street, Plainfield. Shares $1.00 per month. Entrance fee 25 cents per share.

HEBARD'S CREW SAVED.

Men Supposed to Have Gone Down With Sunken Steamer Rescued.

DETROIT, Mich., Dec. 3.—A special from Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., says that the crew of the lost steamer Hebard was rescued Sunday morning and pulled ashore in a "bos'n's chair" between the hours of 3 and 10 o'clock while the steamer was pounding to pieces on the rocks 200 yards off shore.

The vessel went on the rocks bow on in a blinding snowstorm shortly after midnight off Mamainsen point, about sixty miles north of the Soo. The crew could just distinguish the outlines of the rocky shore, and it looked as though no small boat could possibly live in the raging sea, which was washing over the ship's decks. But the boat was already settling, and it was evident that the rocks would punch great holes in her.

Volunteers to make the attempt to carry a line ashore were found in First Mate Burrell and Second Mate Jackson. The ship's yawl had been stove in by the sea, and nothing remained for the perilous trip ashore but a little skiff. In this the two men set out. Twice their boat was hurled back by the waves when they had all but reached the goal, and the third time the boat spilled them out just inside the line of safety. Clambering up the rocks, clinging tightly to the line upon which hung the lives of their comrades, the two men, bruised and bleeding from head to foot, fell exhausted on the shore.

EX-SPEAKER REED ILL.

Suffers a Sudden Attack of Gastritis In Washington.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—Ex-Speaker Thomas B. Reed had a sudden and quite severe attack of gastritis last evening. He was prostrated for a time, but Dr. Gardner, who was called in, succeeded in relieving his patient.

The sudden illness of the ex-speaker caused considerable alarm to his friends, but at a late hour Mr. Reed was getting on better than had been feared earlier in the evening. At 10:45 o'clock Dr. Gardner made the following statement:

"Mr. Reed had an attack of acute gastritis this evening about 6 o'clock and is resting very quietly now."

Irish League Meets.

DUBLIN, Dec. 3.—At a meeting of the directorate of the Irish league John Redmond reported that the organization of the league was complete in seventy-five parliamentary constituencies, with a total of 1,326 branches. During the present year ninety-six men had been imprisoned for political offenses. A resolution was adopted approving the parliamentary tactics of the Irish party and resenting the accusations of a betrayal of Catholic interests. It was decided to summon a national convention as soon as Irish Secretary Wyndham's land bill was introduced in the house of commons.

Well Known Publisher Dead.

MALDEN, Mass., Dec. 3.—Hon. William Allan Wilde, founder of the textbook publishing house of W. A. Wilde company of Boston, is dead at his home of paralysis. He was at his office Monday in good health. He was born in Acton, Mass., seventy-five years ago last July, was a schoolteacher in early life and in 1888 formed the W. A. Wilde publishing house. He went to the legislature as a representative in 1887-88 and was chairman of the state prison commission from 1889 to 1894. He was a great traveler.

Anti-Imperialists Get Together.

BOSTON, Dec. 3.—On the occasion of the annual meeting of the New England Anti-Imperialist league at the Twentieth Century club a luncheon was given in which some 200 ladies and gentlemen participated. Former Governor Boutwell presided, and in opening he spoke of the growth of the anti-imperialist movement and said that the only way to overthrow the imperialistic tendency of the administration was by the overthrow of the Republican party.

Dowager Empress Has a Birthday.

VICTORIA, B. C., Dec. 3.—Advices received here from Peking say the sixty-eighth birthday of the empress dowager was celebrated with great eclat at Peking on Nov. 9. A newspaper says that as every tenth birthday of the empress has been an unhappy event her seventieth birthday will probably be celebrated next year, a year in advance, in order to prevent overt happenings.

Robbed College Students.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Dec. 3.—John Cunningham and Roger E. Thomas, colored boys about seventeen years old, have been arrested by the police, charged with burglary. It is alleged that the boys have been robbing Yale student rooms with Charles P. G[illegible], who was arrested last Saturday evening on a similar charge.

Oil Warehouse Burned.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 3.—The warehouse and office building of the Lucent Oil company, of which William F. Young is president, at Second and Arch streets, have been badly damaged by fire. The loss is estimated at $75,000, partly covered by insurance.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

The French deputies have voted $30,000 for the educational and fine arts exhibits at the St. Louis fair.

Walter Morehead has asked for an inventory of the estate of the late Collis P. Huntington in proceedings to recover $123,000,000.

THE MESSAGE

Congress Receives the President's Annual Address.

ALGER TAKES THE OATH IN SENATE

Senator Cullom Introduces an Anti-trust Bill and Representative Hull a Measure Creating General Staff Corps For Army.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—Interest in the session of the senate yesterday was heightened by the fact that the president's message to congress would be read and also that General Russell A. Alger of Michigan, former secretary of war under President McKinley, would be sworn in to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Senator McMillan. His desk and chair were hidden beneath a mass of flowers, and as he took his seat he was surrounded by a number of his colleagues, who extended hearty congratulations. In the gallery were a number of General Alger's personal friends and members of his family.

One hour and fifteen minutes were consumed in reading the president's message. Almost the entire Republican representation were in their seats, but not more than half the seats on the Democratic side were occupied. The closest attention was paid to the message as it was being read.

A number of bills and resolutions were introduced, following a brief executive session. The resignation of the Rev. W. H. Milburn, the blind chaplain of the senate, was received with genuine regret. He had become a familiar figure in the body and was personally acquainted with every senator. No action was taken on the resignation.

At 1:50 p. m. the senate adjourned out of respect to the memory of the late Charles A. Russell, representative from Connecticut.

The house was in session an hour and forty minutes. One hour of that time was consumed in reading the president's message. The reading was listened to with attention by members without regard to party, but without demonstration, except at the conclusion of the reading, when the Republicans applauded generously. Mr. Cannon, chairman of the committee on appropriations, gave notice that the bill to defray the expenses of the coal strike commission would be called up today. The deaths of the late Representatives De Graffenreid and Sheppard (Tex.), which occurred during the recess, were announced, and after adopting the customary resolutions of regret the house adjourned as a further mark of respect to their memories.

There appears to be no doubt that the president is determined to force the consideration of antitrust measures at this session of congress. The introduction of a bill aimed at trusts by Senator Cullom and the reference of antitrust legislation in the house to a subcommittee of the committee on judiciary, of which Representative Littlefield (Me.) is chairman, shows that the influence of the president is paramount at the start.

The Cullom antitrust bill authorizes the attorney general or any district attorney to make application to the federal judges for the summoning of persons before them to answer questions as to material violations of the antitrust law in advance of the trial of a case and requires the judges to issue orders for the appearance of such persons upon this application. In such cases witnesses are to be protected against prosecution on account of their revelation, but they are to be deprived of the right to refuse to answer because of self crimination. Annual reports are required to be made by all persons, firms or corporations engaging in interstate commerce. They are to be filed with the interstate commerce commission, and they are to be subject to the scrutiny of the attorney general, but not for the general public.

Representative Hull, chairman of the house committee on military affairs, introduced a bill creating a general staff corps of the United States army. It provides that the staff be composed of officers detailed from the army at large under such rules as the president may prescribe. The proposed duties of the staff are to prepare plans for the national defense and for the mobilization of the military forces in time of war, to investigate and report on all questions affecting the efficiency of the army and its state of preparedness for military operations, to render professional aid to the secretary of war and to the general officers and other superior commanders and to act as their agents in informing and co-ordinating action of all the different officers in carrying out their orders.

Favor Oklahoma's Admission.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—The senate committee on territories will at once take up the bill for the admission of the territories of Oklahoma, New Mexico and Arizona as states preparatory to the report to be made on the bill to the senate in accordance with the unanimous agreement arrived at last session. The Republican members of the committee with the exception of Senator Quay have been in conference analyzing and classifying the testimony taken by the subcommittee which visited the territories during the month of November. While no authoritative statement has been made, Republican senators generally understand that with the exception of Senator Quay the Republican committeemen favor the amendment of the bill so as to provide for the elimination of New Mexico and Arizona and for the admission of Oklahoma alone.

TO FIGHT THE PLAGUE

State and National Authorities Organize at Boston.

SITUATION REGARDED AS GRAVE.

Foot and Mouth Disease Likely to Cause Shortage in New England Milk Supply—Seven Hundred Cases Are Reported.

BOSTON, Dec. 3.—Matters are rapidly shaping themselves for vigorous handling of the foot and mouth disease in this state. The situation has been canvassed and brought from Dr. Austin Peters, the chief of the state cattle bureau, a statement that there are 700 cases of the disease divided among twenty-five towns.

The arrival of Dr. D. E. Salmon, chief of the United States bureau of animal industry, brought arrangements for establishing close quarantine to a head, as he sanctioned what had been done and gave various orders which will quickly bring all New England under observation of staff officers of the bureau of agriculture. His first conference was with his own men, Dr. Samuel E. Bennett, who has charge of the New England division; Dr. John R. Mohler, chief of the pathological bureau; Dr. Leonard Pearson of the University of Pennsylvania, who has been investigating in Rhode Island, and Dr. Laws of Cornell, who has been in Vermont.

Later a statement was issued in the form of interrogatories and answers. By this it was seen that Dr. Salmon believes the situation is very disquieting, that it is impossible to tell when the disease will be eradicated, that no cases are known outside of New England, that cattle exposed to infection will not be immediately slaughtered and that reasonable compensation will be given to cattle owners whose animals are slughtered under direction of the federal government.

Anxiety here has now turned to the milk supply in the knowledge that much of the infection is in herds of cows which have been contributing to the supply sent to Boston.

THE CATTLE PLAGUE.

Experts Say Milk From Cows Affected Would Be Injurious.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Dec. 3.—Yale scientists are battling against the spread into Connecticut of the foot and mouth disease. Both Professor William H. Brewer, formerly a member of the state board of agriculture and head of the Yale department of agriculture, and Dr. Edward H. Jenkins, director of the Connecticut experiment station, said that the effect of the disease on milk undoubtedly renders it unfit for human use.

Professor Brewer said that illness would be the result of using the milk from cows suffering from the foot and mouth disease and that its effects were most serious in the cases of young children. He said that he was not certain as to the form of disease which the milk produced in human beings, but he did not think that it was the foot and mouth disease itself.

"The disease, as far as I know," said Professor Brewer, "has not gained a foothold in this state, and in fact I have not yet heard of a single case here. Its appearance can only be considered as a public calamity. In England they spent $7,000,000 to stamp out the disease, and in France they spent $7,000,000 to do the same thing."

Live Stock Shipments Stopped.

PORTLAND, Me., Dec. 3.—The steamship officials have stopped loading cattle at this port until word is received from England that the stock shipped from Canada via Maine will be allowed to land on the other side. The Sarmatian was being fitted up with cattle pens, but the construction of these was stopped, and the Sarmatian, Norseman and Devona, now loading, will sail without live stock.

Horner to Be Speaker.

TRENTON, N. J., Dec. 3.—The eleven Republican assemblymen from Essex county held a caucus in the speaker's room at the statehouse at which Assemblyman Boyd of that county withdrew as a candidate for speaker. The delegation decided to support Assemblyman John C. Horner of Burlington. This insures Mr. Horner's election beyond question, and Mr. Boyd will be made the Republican leader on the floor of the house.

Congressman Connell Claims Fraud.

SCRANTON, Pa., Dec. 3.—The Scranton Tribune will announce today that Congressman Connell will institute a contest to show that his elected Democratic opponent, George Howell, was elected by illegal methods. The returns from a number of Republican wards which gave majorities for Howell will be attacked with a view of throwing them out and turning Howell's majority of 461 into a minority.

Divorce Sharks Identified.

EL PASO, Tex., Dec. 3.—Sheriff Ford of Rochester, N. Y., is in El Paso and has identified Mason and Richardson, against each of whom there are two indictments for alleged manufacturing of evidence in divorce cases at Rochester and Buffalo. Richardson is said to have admitted that he was Jesse E. Hulbert, formerly an attorney at Rochester, N. Y.

Heavy Snowfall In Germany.

BERLIN, Dec. 3.—Heavy snowstorms have prevailed in Saxony and Thuringia, seriously interfering with railroad traffic. All the trains have been stopped in the Harz mountain districts, and the snow is over three feet deep in the mountains between Saxony and Bohemia.

A DAYLIGHT ROBBERY.

Bank In Billings, Mont., Entered by Masked Men and $2,000 Taken.

BILLINGS, Mont., Dec. 3.—The bank at Bridger, in Carbon county, was entered by three masked men during the day, and Cashier Trumbo was relieved of $2,000. Immediately after the robbery the men left on horseback for the Crow reservation. A pursuing party has been organized. The scene of the robbery is in the vicinity of the famous Hole In the Wall country, for years the hiding place of thieves and desperadoes.

The robbery occurred at noon. Cashier Trumbo was at work inside the rail when he was aware of two men entering the bank. He looked up to see two revolvers pointing directly at his head. A third man, also armed, stood at the door.

"Hold up your hands!" said one of the two robbers. Mr. Trumbo complied. At this instant Mail Carrier Frank Williams appeared at a side door and was immediately covered by two pistols.

Williams and Trumbo were ordered to face the wall. While one man covered them with his pistols the other man ran behind the counter and took all the money in sight.

The three men stepped out of the door, mounted their horses and fled. Every horse in sight was pressed into service and pursuit was begun.

A mile and a half out of town the posse began shooting from the saddle. The robbers wheeled in their seats, returned the fire and held their pursuers off until they reached the timber. They have not been seen since. It is believed the men will make for the Hole In the Wall country.

NOTED JURIST DEAD.

Judge Robert Earl Passes Away at His Herkimer Home.

UTICA, N. Y., Dec. 3.—Robert Earl, former judge of the court of appeals, is dead at his home in Herkimer. He was stricken with paralysis on the evening of Nov. 22 and has not since rallied.

Judge Earl was born in Herkimer Sept. 10, 1824. He graduated from Union college in 1845 and from that college and also Columbia received the degree of LL. D. He was admitted to the bar in 1848, was elected county judge in 1855 and served two terms. In 1869 he was elected to the court of appeals bench, where he remained until compelled to retire because of the age limit in 1894. Though a Democrat, he received the nomination from both parties at the time of his last election.

Several years ago Judge Earl founded the Herkimer Free library by giving his magnificent home in that village to be used for that purpose. Mrs. Earl died four years ago, and there are no children. He was for a long time presiding justice of the court of appeals, and attorneys all over the state considered him one of the greatest jurists of the last half century.

The Bear Had a Rough Voyage.

PORT TOWNSEND, Wash., Dec. 3.—The United States revenue cutter Bear has arrived from Dutch Harbor, Alaska, after one of the most tempestuous voyages ever experienced during the thirteen years the vessel has been detailed for arctic service. Captain Tuttle thinks little hope can be entertained of ever hearing of either the schooner General Siglin or the steamer Dawson City, both overdue from the north, if they were out in the storm of Nov. 24, for the severity of the gale tested the seagoing qualities of the Bear, built for arctic storms and icebergs. The Bear reports the reindeer herds prospering, there being now 9,000 animals distributed among the relief stations of the north.

Severe Storms on British Coast.

LONDON, Dec. 3.—Storms are continuing with great violence along the coasts of the United Kingdom. Many wrecks are reported, and bodies of men lost in these disasters are already being washed ashore. Navigation around the northeast coast is almost paralyzed. The Norwegian bark Georges Ville has been wrecked at South Ronaldshay, in the Orkneys. Three of her crew were drowned, and her captain and three others of the ship's company were picked up on the Orkney coast after having been seven hours in the water. The British schooner Eliza Bain was wrecked at Sunderland while trying to make the harbor, and it is believed that all hands were lost.

Boston Firemen Injured.

BOSTON, Dec. 3.—Fire in the wooden buildings 412 to 418 Albany street caused a loss of about $75,000 and resulted in injuries to three firemen. The injured are Acting District Chief Captain Handy, right arm broken; Lieutenant Dunn, engine 26, foot crushed, and Lieutenant Conroy, engine 13, leg and foot cut by falling ax.

Fire Destroys Much Sweetness.

BROOKVILLE, Ind., Dec. 3.—The plant of the Brookville Manufacturing company has been destroyed by fire; loss, $100,000, with insurance of $52,000. Three carloads of candy, two carloads of canned goods and $40,000 worth of glucose and sugar were destroyed.

The Erie Must Settle.

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—A jury in the United States circuit court has awarded Mrs. Isabella M. Latelle of Allentown, N. J., a verdict of $2,000 against the Erie railway for alleged false imprisonment and having ejected her by force from one of its trains.

Snowstorm In Wyoming.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Dec. 3.—A severe snowstorm is raging here and is moving south before a high wind. The temperature has fallen to zero.

Major Must Answer to Cruelty Charges Second Time.

SO ORDERED FROM WASHINGTON.

Action In the Samar Campaign to Be Investigated—He Is Said to Have Ordered Execution of Misleading Native Guides.

MANILA, Dec. 3.—Orders have been received from Washington directing that Major Edward F. Glenn of the Fifth infantry shall be put on trial a second time for alleged cruelty committed during the Samar campaign. Major Glenn is charged with having ordered the execution of several native guides for misleading the American column sent against the enemy's stronghold.

Major Glenn himself reported the incident, which has been the subject of an extensive inquiry for several months past. Major General Chaffee ordered two investigations to be made by Inspectors General Colmore and Major Watts, who made inquiries. General Chaffee forwarded their reports to Secretary Root before he relinquished his command and without making any recommendation. Secretary Root now orders General Davis to formulate the charges against Major Glenn and convene a court martial.

Major Glenn is now commanding a post at Bayambang, district of Pangasinan, Luzon, and he has been ordered to hold himself in readiness to appear here for trial. It is expected that the trial will reopen the entire question of the Samar campaign and consume some time. It is said that Major Glenn will inform the court that he desires Major General Chaffee and Brigadier General Jacob Smith to be called as witnesses, but it is possible that their depositions will be taken instead.

The price of rice has been broken, and the native operators have insured the supply of this foodstuff at reasonable rates. The Philippine commission, when a rice famine was threatened at the beginning of November, appropriated $2,000,000 Mexican and quietly purchased upward of 20,000 tons of rice in India and on the Asiatic coast to be sold to the sufferers at a cash price which it was thought would cover just the cost. The plans of the commission were concealed in order to prevent possible combinations on the part of operators with the view of raising prices. Its action broke the prices. The government may lose money on its purchase, but it is satisfied in having provided for the sale of rice to the people at a low figure.

Two States Windswept.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 3.—A destructive windstorm has swept over north Mississippi and western Tennessee, causing considerable loss of property. No fatalities are reported. The velocity of the wind reached a maximum of fifty-two miles an hour. Reports from the surrounding country say a heavy damage to telegraph and telephone wires has been experienced. Communication with southern points is in a demoralized condition. At Memphis several small boats in the harbor suffered damage, the smokestacks of two steamers having been destroyed by the force of the gale.

Wages Raised by Reading Road.

TAMAQUA, Pa., Dec. 3.—Employees of the Shamokin division of the Philadelphia and Reading Railway company have been notified of an increase in wages. The advance is as follows: Machinists, from $2.25 per day to $2.50; fire cleaners, from $1.92 to $2.11; inspectors, from $1.80 to $2; engineers, from $1.50 to $1.68; engine wipers, from $1.10 to $1.21; foremen, from $2.30 to $2.80. The car inspectors, who received $45 and $50 per month, are advanced 10 per cent. Semaphore men also are to be increased $5 per month.

No Hope For Missing Steamer.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., Dec. 3.—There is no longer hope for the safety of the steamer Bannockburn and her crew of twenty men. The deathknell to the hopes of the owners and relatives of the crew was sounded when a dispatch was received from the captain of the tug Boynton stating that he had traversed the entire shore where the missing steamer was believed to have stranded. No trace of the boat was discovered.

A Vaccination Fight.

GAS CITY, Ind., Dec. 3.—The climax in the vaccination agitation was reached when more than 300 children were excluded from the schools of Gas City for not presenting certificates of vaccination. Of this number nearly one-half had been vaccinated, but had neglected to obtain the necessary proof. The antivaccinationists declare that legal proceedings will at once be brought to test the law.

Johnstone Planned the Murder.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 3.—Developments in the murder of Kate Hassett of Keith's Bijou theater stock company, who was shot and killed by Barry Johnstone, an actor, formerly with Richard Mansfield's company, indicate that the crime was premeditated. Johnstone, who, after he had shot the woman, attempted suicide, is in a critical condition.

New Hampshire's Constitution.

CONCORD, N. H., Dec. 3.—A convention to revise the constitution of the state of New Hampshire has opened in the hall of representatives at the statehouse, with Colonel Henry O. Kent of Lancaster as temporary presiding officer. James E. Dodge of Manchester was elected temporary secretary.

AUDITING CITY ACCOUNTS.

No action of the Common Council for some time has aroused so much unfavorable comment as its appropriation at the meeting Monday evening of $1,500 to audit the accounts of the city for the past three years. No one denies that the books of the city collector and treasurer should be properly audited although, by the present arrangement, the two officials serve as a check one on the other. The criticism comes at the amount that has been designated for the purpose.

According to the resolution passed by the Common Council, the sum of $1,500 was appropriated to audit the accounts of the city collector and treasurer from December 1899 to December 1902. At that time, the question was raised as to the need of paying such an amount to do the work. Councilman Mellick, chairman of the finance committee, made the statement then that the lowest cost in any city that he knew of was at Pawtucket, Conn., where $500 a year was paid for the work.

While Mr. Mellick is much better acquainted with financial matters than most of his critics, the fact that private corporations pay so much less to have their accounts audited has caused many to wonder why the city should be compelled to pay so much more. The accounts of Union county, where fully $1,000,000 is handled every year, are audited annually at the cost of $50. With these facts in mind, it is not suprising that considerable talk is heard concerning this subject.

While there are some who believe that the city should have the work done more cheaply, no one questions for a moment the motives of Mr. Mellick and his associates in making the request. They are men whose integrity is above question and the only thing that can possibly be urged against their request is that, in their desire to avoid any possible mistake, they may have gone beyond the actual needs of the situation.

It is to be regretted that the trio of teams which form the Plainfield Amatuer Basket Ball League is likely to be reduced by one. The stand taken by the physical director of the Y. M. C. A. that he must be permitted to act as one of the officials in every game that his team plays is hardly likely to be accepted by the other teams in the league. Unless the Y. M. C. A. physical director changes his position, it looks as if his team would withdraw. This action is no great surprise to those who have been in touch with the organization since its start and have felt the antagonism existing between two of the teams.

LaGrande avenue has officially passed out of existence and East Seventh street has taken its place. When the subject of the change came before the Common Council, there was not the slightest suggestion of opposition. If any property owners did not like the change, they did not express themselves very loudly on the subject. It will now be in order to change the street signs so that they will conform with the new order of things.

Newark is now preparing to have its share of the improvements that are being made along the line of the Jersey Central Railroad. The tracks are being elevated through that city and now the railroad company has decided to erect a station at Newark in keeping with other of the depots along its line.

While Plainfield is able to secure coal in limited quantities, residents on Long Island are really suffering from the lack of fuel. This city can be thankful that it is located on one of the principal coal carrying roads.

Plainfield's football season is scheduled to come to a somewhat belated end Saturday of this week with a match between the elevens of Company K and the I. C. T. Club.

DISPOSAL BEDS DOING WELL

REPORT OF THE RESULTS OF HEALTH OFFICER THURLOW'S INVESTIGATION.

Also Reported to the City Board of Health Regarding Conditions of Local Dairies.

The December meeting of the Board of Health was held yesterday afternoon in the Smalley building when several matters of more or less interest were taken up.

Health Inspector Wm. Addis reported that 165 inspections and visits were made during November, and Health Officer Leon Thurlow reported that he had inspected forty-seven dairies during the same time. One dairy over the mountains is in trouble, owing to its wretched condition. Mr. Thurlow has several pictures of this dairy and he exhibited them at the meeting. These disclosed a very unhealthy condition of affairs and proved the necessity of quick action on the part of the health authorities.

Mr. Thurlow also submitted a lengthy report on Plainfield's sewage disposal beds and his conclusions are that the beds are doing what is claimed for them. The report in detail is not yet ready for publicity, but no doubt will be within a short time.

The last amendments were made to the new sanitary code and in a short time it will be published. Afterwards it will be placed on its third reading and then go into effect. This code is a long felt want in the city and will assist the Board of Health greatly in its work in the future.

Doing the Right Thing.

The trouble begins with a tickling in the throat and a nagging little cough. Soreness in the chest follows and the patient wonders if he is going to have an all winter cold. Probably, if he does the wrong thing or nothing. Certainly not if he uses Perry Davis' Painkiller, the staunch old remedy that cures a cold in twenty-four hours. There is but one Painkiller, Perry Davis'.

PLOT TO KILL RULER

Dynamiters Try to Wreck Japanese Emperor's Train.

THE BOLD CONSPIRATORS ESCAPED.

Mail Advices From Yokohama Also Tell of Brilliant Maneuvers of the Japanese Army and the Launching of a Cruiser.

VICTORIA, B. C., Dec. 3.—The steamer Kaga Maru, which has just arrived from the orient, brought news of an attempt on the life of the emperor of Japan when the imperial train was at Otaka, a station west of Hiroshima, en route to the scene of the maneuvers of Kinshin. A number of conspirators had gone there and arranged to blow up the emperor's train, but the police authorities learned of the plot, and the would be dynamiters fled. The imperial train did not proceed until an engine had been sent over the line to test the safety of the track. The plotters were not captured.

The Japanese maneuvers have been very successful. A notable innovation was the use of telephones and bicycles in the field, and Japanese officers report that several new ideas have been gained in connection with cavalry fighting. The maneuvers were watched by the emperor from a neighboring height. The battles were spectacular. The force was divided into two armies, southern and northern, the former being the invaders.

The new Japanese cruiser Niitaka was launched at Yokosuka and christened by the Japanese empress on Nov. 15. The Niitaka is 3,420 tons, with a speed of twenty knots.

Fire destroyed the premises of Sieber & Wolff, silk merchants of Yokohama, who do a considerable export business with the United States. The fire, which is thought to have been caused by tobacco ashes thrown down by a coolie, involved a loss of over $500,000, covered by insurance.

Strike Situation Worse.

MARSEILLES, Dec. 3.—The only change in the strike situation has been for the worse, although no disturbance has yet occurred. Work at the docks has almost ceased, as the crews of the tugs have joined the strikers, and the movement of foreign vessels is difficult. The prefect has seen individually a number of shipowners, including the manager of the important Mediterranean line, the Messageries Maritimes, with a view to arranging a conference between the owners and representatives of the strikers, but all the owners proved unyielding. Admiral Rouvier took similar steps with the same result. The Messageries Maritimes company has decided to discharge temporarily all their officers except the captains, first mates and chief engineers.

Big Day at Live Stock Show.

CHICAGO, Dec. 3.—Despite the inclement weather yesterday proved one of the biggest days in point of attendance in the history of the International Live Stock exposition, 40,000 people passing through the gates during the day and evening. The judges were kept busy on the host of important entries that gathered in the different rings. Alderman Fowler's Percheron stallion Bourquoi Pas, which has been sold to McLaughlin Bros. of Columbus, O., won the championship over all stallions in the show.

The New Woman and Her Progress

IN 1897 Mr. Fred Rekate went from Portland, Ore., to the Klondike to make his fortune. He worked awhile at mining, saved money, then opened a butcher shop in Dawson. In 1899 Mrs. Rekate joined him. Next he sold his shop in Dawson, and he and his wife went into mining. They bought a claim and fitted it with steam machinery. At first Mrs. Rekate cooked and did the housework of the cabin. Then she became so interested in gold digging that she accompanied her husband into the shaft 340 feet underground. She wore bloomers and rubber boots, so that she could work. She learned to run the engine, wash gold and do every part of the regular work of a miner. She became so expert that finally she labored in the mine altogether, hiring a cook and housekeeper at home. Success came to the plucky pair, and at length they had $40,000 clear in dust and nuggets. They decided to "go outside," as it is called in the Klondike, and take a rest and visit Mr. Rekate's parents in Germany. Mrs. Rekate departed two weeks before her husband to prepare for the journey. The husband followed with the $40,000, taking passage on the steamer Islander from Skaguay. The ship was wrecked, Mr. Rekate went down in her, and with him went the $40,000, lost forever. With the news of his death appeared a former wife, claiming his estate on behalf of her son. The claim was mostly worked out, but there was some gold in it. The second wife went back in the dead of winter to the Klondike, had an administrator appointed for the property and herself began to work it again for all there was left in it. She knew exactly what to do to the last particular, so she got a considerable amount out of it. Then she made an amicable arrangement with the first wife on account of the boy, gathered up what she had left, a neat sum, and at the beginning of cold weather this year returned to civilization. After a rest she goes back next season to start in over again and find fortune.

The college bred woman is entering into business and showing how it ought to be conducted. Two college women partners, Misses Stevenson and Elliot, established some time since a laboratory kitchen and model bread baking establishment at Cambridge, Mass. They use the new bread mixing machine invented by Mrs. Lydia Coale Sharpless and have demonstrated to their own profit the "economic possibilities of breadmaking as an industry for educated women," which is what they started out to do. Two other college girls went into the laundry business in Brookline in 1898. They had six assistants when they began. Now they are running a really artistic laundry and keep sixty persons busy all the time.

THE KIDNAPPED MILLIONAIRES

A TALE OF WALL STREET AND THE TROPICS

CHAPTER I.

KIDNAPPED.

"All about the Kidnapped Millionaires!! Record Extra! All about the Great Mystery!! Record Extra!"

Hundreds of newsboys poured from an alley and dashed into the human currents which surge at the confluence of Nassau street and Park Row. In a moment the air was aflame with the red headlines of the "Record Extra." It was not necessary to buy a paper. The type was so large that it told the news to the passerby.

For a week the Wall street boom had been the sensation of New York and of the country. The perpetual excitement which reigns within the shadow of Trinity church had permeated office and counting room. It was the whispered topic of conversation among clerks, and the noisy subject of debate in hotel lobby and corridor. The jargon of the Stock Exchange was incorporated into metropolitan English. The tales of fortunes made to the clicking music of the ticker, aroused the cupidity of thousands, who saw in the whirl of speculative frenzy the prospect of wealth without work. Newspapers fed the flame and vied in displaying and narrating the golden exploits of magnate and operator.

On this Tuesday morning headlines and text covered the front page of the New York Record and proclaimed the following story:

KIDNAPPED!!!

Four Multimillionaires Mysteriously Missing!!!

Palmer J. Morton, Andrus Carmody, Simon Pence and R. J. Kent cannot be found!!

Fears that They have been Kidnapped, or have met with Foul Play.

Excitement on Wall Street.

"Palmer J. Morton, R. J. Kent, Andrus Carmody and Simon Pence have mysteriously disappeared. They did not appear at their offices this morning. Inquiry by telephone at their houses discloses the astounding fact that though expected they did not come home last night. Various rumors are in circulation, but at this writing nothing is known, except that these four great capitalists have completely disappeared. Their combined wealth is estimated at $750,000,000."

The street crowds received the news calmly. They did not believe it. But they bought the papers.

The news came by the way of Wall street. Strange rumors had been in circulation all the morning. A sense of impending trouble permeated the crowd of brokers which clustered around the standards on the floor of the Stock Exchange. The curb brokers on Broad street were uneasy, as they waited for the hour of ten. The market opened strong and then sagged. It was a few minutes past eleven o'clock when the tickers in a thousand offices stopped in their task of recording quotations.

There was a splutter of dashes on the tape. Customers gathered around the pedestals. There was news coming. They anticipated the announcement of an important failure. It had been rumored that a Consolidated Exchange house was in trouble. The following message spread itself along the tape:

"11:07 a. m.—Palmer J. Morton, R. J. Kent, Andrus Carmody and Simon Pence have not appeared at their offices. They did not return to their residences last night. Relatives are alarmed and have notified the police. They were last seen at a conference held at the office of Palmer J. Morton at four o'clock yesterday afternoon. No trace since. Foul play is feared."

The murmur of the Stock Exchange swelled into a roar which reverberated above the rumble of traffic and the unrest on the streets.

This was the morning of the third of May, memorable in the records of Wall street.

CHAPTER II.

TWO NAPOLEONS OF JOURNALISM.

Robert Van Horne was the owner and editor of the New York Record. He was a leading light in a much-criticised school of journalism. He was the exemplar of the theory that the modern newspaper should "do things"—to quote the idiomatic expression of Mr. William Chalmers, his managing editor.

Robert Van Horne was the millionaire son of a departed millionaire father. His mother died in his school years, and at the age of 26 he found himself the sole owner of the immense Van Horne estate, roughly estimated as having a value of $20,000,000. His cattle roamed on a thousand hills in New Mexico and Texas. The drills of his mining machinery were boring into the rocks in scores of productive mines in Colorado, the Dakotas and Montana. With the traditional "Van Horne luck" his agents had been among the first to strike it rich in the snow-swept valleys of the Klondike. At an opportune moment he had invested a small fortune in Tennessee iron lands, and before this story opens had smiled at the confusion of those friends who chided him as the purchaser of a "gold brick."

Soon after the death of his father, Van Horne bought the New York Record; a paper which had survived a checkered career in the arena of metropolitan journalism. From the first issue under the Van Horne management the Record was a publication which could not be ignored. Like Minerva it sprang into life full-grown, and panoplied in new and startling armor. It commanded attention and received it. There was no escape for the public. Unless one were blind, deaf and dumb he could not remain unaware of the fact that the Record was being published.

Mr. William Chalmers, his managing editor, was a tall, smooth-shaven, clear-cut young man, who had passed his 35 summers. He had acquired no gray hairs in the accumulation of a vast and varied fund of experience. He was possessed of an easy confidence; was handsome without knowing it, and had that grasp of every detail of the newspaper business which made him invaluable as an executive. He had traveled in every part of the globe; had interviewed section hands on railroads and emperors in palaces; knew the language of the slums and the graces of a court; could report a murder case or dictate a message for a president.

Mr. Van Horne thoroughly understood the great reading public to which his paper made a bid for support. It wished to be amused. The Record amused it. It wished to be thrilled. The Record thrilled it. It hungered for sensations. The Record had a never-ending supply of sensations. It clamored for pictures. The Record had them. It stood ready to print instantly reproductions of photographs of past, present or future events.

Mr. Walter B. Hestor was a friend of Robert Van Horne. He was a young man with a fortune and a hobby. His hobby was journalism. His fortune was conservatively estimated at $30,000,000, and he was in a position to indulge in any fancy which attracted him. The New York Record under the Van Horne management dazzled him. Its method of handling great news events appealed to Hestor. At one time he contemplated founding a rival paper, and surpassing, if possible, the bewildering strokes of enterprise which were displayed in the pages of that paper. On reflection he decided it meant too much work. He realized that the management of a great newspaper entailed an enormous amount of detail. Though possessed of much energy and persistence, Walter B. Hestor was introspective enough to realize that he was not fitted for the task of supervising a metropolitan newspaper. He therefore abandoned the idea.

He had no difficulty in forming a close acquaintance with Robert Van Horne. They were fellow-members of several clubs, and both were fitted by wealth and education to move in the same social circles. Hestor lost no time in confiding his ambitions to Mr. Van Horne. He wished to make his mark in the world as a journalist. Mr. Van Horne readily perceived that Hestor was a genius in his line of thought and action. The ambitious amateur would listen to no proposition involving pay for his services. All he asked was a chance to plan and execute those journalistic commissions which gave play to his genius as an initiator and to his skill as a writer.

Mr. Van Horne was delighted to accept the volunteer services of the brilliant but erratic Walter B. Hestor. At the time this story begins, Hestor was about 32 years old. He was a member of a New York family which traced its wealth and ancestry to the sixteenth century. His fortune was an independent one; and, though his tastes were expensive, he did not live up to his income.

It would take a volume to recount the journalistic exploits of Walter B. Hestor. He built the splendid steam yacht the "Shark," and employed it in his worldwide search for sensational news. He took 200 passengers from a sinking liner, and was decorated by four governments for bravery. In every war the "Shark" was in the foreground. It was the Hestor yacht that ran the batteries at Havana and escaped from the harbor with valuable news and information. At every signal of trouble Hestor and the "Shark" were sure to be on hand long before the representatives of other papers were aware that news was brewing. At his own expense he established a system of espionage on all the courts of Europe. Hestor was known in every palace of royalty, and in a few years became recognized as the most brilliant newspaper correspondent in the world.

TO WED THE UGLIEST MEN.

Society of Lovely American Girls Which Has Been Formed for That Purpose.

Extremes meet in the fickle feminine fancy. The attractiveness of the Adonis for women is not to be compared with that of the man who is so fearfully and wonderfully ugly as to serve as a living confirmation of the truth of the Darwinian theory regarding the descent of man, says the New York Herald.

A bevy of lovely American girls have formed a society, the object of which is to search the land for the ugliest men to be found outside a museum and, when found, to marry them as soon as possible.

Ever since the time when Mirabeau, the ugliest of all Frenchmen, had his host of female admirers really hideous men have been worshipped by women.

This extraordinary fondness of women for extremely ugly men is seen when some especially villainous looking criminal, accused of a particularly atrocious crime, is exhibited in the dock and immediately becomes the idol of all the women who attend the trial. The more hideous his appearance and the fouler his misdeeds the more enthusiastic is the worship of the women.

"He is so delightfully ugly," said a pretty girl, when asked what particular fascination a brutal criminal possessed for her.

It is a fact that in all ages and countries this strange feminine tendency has been strikingly demonstrated.

No explanation that seems plausible has ever been given.

ONE OF DOUGLAS' PISTOLS.

Derringer That Belonged to the Famous Illinois Statesman Has Been Located.

A Derringer pistol, with an unusual history, has come into the possession of Col. Walter French, the file clerk of the house of representatives. He found it not long ago in a pawnshop and promptly observed that the inscription on the handle of the weapon, "S. A. Douglas," was probably the name of Stephen A. Douglas, long a prominent democratic figure in congress in the ante-bellum times, says the Washington Post.

Having purchased the weapon, he made inquiries from Col. James Madison Cutts, of this city, a kinsman by marriage of Mr. Douglas, who recognized the Derringer as one of a pair that Mr. Douglas owned during the exciting political events preceding Lincoln's inauguration. It seems that a pair of these pistols, such as men were accustomed to wear in those days, one in each of two small top pockets in the trousers, was presented to Mr. Douglas by the superintendent of the Harper's Ferry arsenal. These were subsequently taken to Louisiana, where it was discovered that the springs were fashioned so that the hammer would not explode the percussion cap. This defect in mechanism was corrected.

In just what manner the pistol was secured from the possession of Mr. Douglas is not known. Col. Cutts has the mate to it, which the great democrat presented to him.

BEGINNING OF BEET SUGAR.

Originally a Vegetable of France and Developed by Man of That Nation.

The great sugar-beet industry of the world owes its very existence to a discovery of Vilmorin, says Success. The original sugar beet grown in France did not contain enough sugar for commerce. The amount of sugar could be easily determined in the beet, but in making the test the reproductive qualities of the plant were always destroyed. Vilmorin learned how to extract the pulp without destroying the plant, and by selection and cross-breeding he grew a plant upon which the great industry is now founded. We owe also to Vilmorin the present carrot, a vegetable which was nothing more than a thin, hard, woody root, unfit for the stomach of a sheep or a cow. Year after year, he sowed in a bed and carefully examined every root. By selecting seed from only the best plants for the new sowing, he produced a carrot with more flesh and less wood. The horse-radish, the turnip, and, indeed, the potato vine, were once plants with thin, dry, woody roots, without the least suggestion that they would ever develop into food for man or beast.

Artificial Eyelids.

The latest surgical triumph is the grafting of a new set of upper and lower eyelids to the eyes of a man who lost his original set in a fire, says London Science Siftings. The accident had left both eyeballs entirely unprotected

Metuchen Has Organized a Police Force of One Man.

The citizens of Metuchen becoming tired of the frequent burglaries in that quiet town, organized a police force last evening, and in the future thieves will do well to give that place a wide berth. The police force consists of one man. He is to go on duty every night when the curfew bells rings and remain on duty until the cocks crow in the morning. For the rest of the time he can go fishing, sleep or do anything he likes. This one policeman is Enos Fournack, who has a record of excellence. In the future the citizens believe that the town will be immune from burglars.

DENOUNCES NEW BILL OF CONGRESSMAN FOWLER

A Strong Letter of Criticism Written by Prominent Republican of This City.

APPEARED IN THE SUN

TERMS THE BILL RADICAL, DANGEROUS AND REVOLUTIONARY.

Letter Has Caused a Mild Sensation as Chas. S. Sminck, the Author, Has Always Been a Strong Supporter of the Administration.

To Plainfielders at least, one of the most interesting articles in yesterday morning's New York Sun was a communication from Charles S. Sminck, of this city, denouncing Congressman Fowler's new bill. Mr. Sminck has always been known as such a strong advocate and admirer of the present administration and Mr. Fowler that his letter has caused a mild sensation in local political circles.

For the benefit of whose who did not see The Sun and are anxious to learn exactly what he did say, the letter is published in full as follows:

"To the Editor of The Sun—Sir: House of Representatives Bill No. 9 is surprising, radical, dangerous and revolutionary. Its author is Congressman Charles N. Fowler of New Jersey. It makes five commissioners and five secretaries, with annual salaries of $40,000 and all additional expenses, such as travelling around the world. An assistant five-headed President is thrust upon us with a twenty-year term.

"This commission invades both the executive and legislative departments of the government and it is endowed with the power of a United States District Court. It is empowered to enter into negotiations with the governments of foreign countries, with the view of arranging reciprocal and eqnivalent concessions in favor of products, manufactures and commerce of the United States. This power is essentially an executive function. The Constitution of the United States, in defining the power of the President, states that he shall have the power by and with the advice and consent of the Senate to make treaties, provided two-thirds of the Senators present concur. There is established in the proposed commission a new auxiliary treaty-making power. What good will be served by this novel creation? It will certainly force the entry into out diplomatic relations of conditions the reverse of harmonious, especially if the President should fail to agree to the commission's recommendations. Foreign governments would have the commission, the Senate and the President to deal with—now they have but the Senate and the President.

"Direct diplomatic negotiations with foreign countries is a power of the Executive that no commission should possess. It makes a bad precedent.

"The President, with the aid of our representatives abroad, should be left free to conduct the affairs of the nation. Commissioners with Presidential or other 'bees in their bonnets' might raise serious trouble with the diplomacy of the country.

"Congressman Fowler proposes to lop off part of the Executive prerogative and distribute it among five commissioners not responsible to the President. The commissioners shall be removed only by and with the consent of the Senate. Next time Congressman Fowler may propose a commission to write the Presidential messages. Instead of a fixed responsibility, we shall have a divided responsibility.

"The life of the commission shall be twenty years. The Presidential term is four years. It is easy to imagine from the terms stated a conditin wherein the members of the commission might be politically hostile to the President, and they might play, as some politicians in the past have done, to put the President in a hole. A dignified possibility for our diplomacy! Would the fathers of the Constitution have arranged for this perilous distribution of power? The Constitution answers No! It remains for Congressman Fowler to do that. The Constitution of the United States is a masterly arrangement of checks and balances. The tariff commission proposition offers no improvements; it does introduce a hazardous innovation and, therefore, ought to be defeated. The government as it exists is able to deal with the subject of reciprocal trade relations. It requires no commission to give it ideas and assistance at an expense of probably $100,000 per annum; no commission with Congressional powers delegated to it; no commission invading the rights of the Executive; no commission with the powers of a court to worry farmers and business men with contempt of court for failing to tell publicly their private affairs. The nation is not ready for a revenue trust.

"The people are in favor of protection to American industries and labor, and they are in favor of reciprocity. Public opinion demands it. Congress and the President are able to deal intelligently with the subject. Public measures, with or without commissions, can only be sustained by popular approval.

HOCKEY TEAM.

Is Being Selected at the City High School and a Schedule of Games Arranged.

Much interest is being shown at the City High School in the formation of a hockey team and it is probable that the school will be well represented in that sport during the coming season. There are many candidates for the various positions of the team and the boys are anxiously awaiting some cold weather so that they may turn out for practice.

At a recent meeting of the Board of Directors of the Athletic Association, Jose L. Tweedy, 1904, was appointed manager of the hockey team. Tweedy will shortly begin to make up his winter schedule of games and there is every cause to expect that, if the winter is an icy one, theer will be plenty of opportunity to witness good hockey.

There is some talk of forming class teams and if candidates are plentiful it is possible that each of the classes of the school will put a team on the ice and inter-class championship games will be played.

CITY YOUNG PEOPLE JOINED IN WEDLOCK

Marriage of Miss Margaret May Mulford and William R. Townsend, Last Night.

WAS A HOME WEDDING

RELATIVES AND FRIENDS GATHERED AT THE BRIDE'S HOME.

Bride Given Away in Marriage by Brother, Armstrong Mulford—The Members of Bridal Party—Reception Followed Ceremony.

A pretty home wedding was that held at the home of Mrs. M. M. Mulford at 403 East Fifth street last evening when her daughter, Miss Margaret May Mulford, was united in marriage to William Raymond Townsend, of this city. The ceremony was performed in the presence of a large number of friends and relatives of the bride and groom by the bride's pastor, Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass, pastor of the First M. E. church.

At 7:30, all the guests had arrived and Mendelssohn's wedding march was played by the large stringed orchestra partly concealed from view by palms. Dr. Snodgrass took his position beneath a bower of greens held in place by white ribbons and awaited the approach of the young couple. The groom, accompanied by his best man, William H. Clark, of this city, entered the parlor through the hall door. Through the folding doors leading from the library and accompanied by her bridemaid and maid of honor, the bride entered the room. They met at the western corner of the room where they plighted their troth. The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Armstrong Mulford.

The bride wore a most becoming gown of white crepe de chine with trimmings of pearl silk. She carried a large bouquet of bridal roses. The maid of honor, Miss Carrie Mulford, a sister of the bride, wore a gown of white point d'esprit over blue silk and carried white carnations. The bridemaid, Miss Bessie Lee, of Easton, Pa., wore gray crepe de chine with pink trimmings and carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

After the ceremony had been performed making them man and wife, the ushers, Eugene Towner, of Brewster, N. Y., and Harold Davis, of this city, escorted them to the dining room where the wedding supper was served to the bridal party and the immediate family.

After the wedding supper a reception was held until train time when the newly married couple departed for Buffalo where they will spend several weeks on a honeymoon. On their return they will reside in this city for some time.

The presents received by the young couple were not only elaborate but very numerous. Included in the display were articles of cut glass furniture, silverware and checks of large size. The groom's gift to the bride was a handsome check, and his gifts to the ushers were gold knot stick pins. The bride presented her maid of honor and bridemaid with silver brooches.

The decorations in the parlors of the house were very fine. The color scheme in the parlor where the ceremony was performed was green and white and in the library pink and green. The knot was tied under a canopy of green tied in place by white ribbons.

The groom is employed in the offices of the Metropolitan Railroad Company in New York where the members of the office force remembered Mr. Townsend with substantial gold coins.

When the time came for the young couple to depart they found the carriage gaily decorated with white ribbons and tin cans which dragged along behind making a great noise as the carriage bowled along to the depot where they were given a send off with a shower of rice.

MOTHER FAINTED IN COURT

WHEN HER SON WAS SENTENCED TO THREE YEARS IN STATE PRISON.

Sentence Day in Union County Court—Justice Was Meted Out by Judge Vail.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, Dec. 4—Yesterday was sentence day in the Union county court, and Judge Vail meted out punishment as follows:

Albert Gerwig, one of the three robbers who, in February last, entered the office in the new Central Railroad shops at Elizabethport, blew open the safe and obtained $3,000, was sentenced to three years in State prison.

James Donnelly, formerly a watchman at the shops, and who, the State claimed, planned the crime, three years.

Julius Branks, colored, larceny of a bicycle and assault on Miss Cora Seal, of this city, three years.

When his mother, who was in court, heard this she gave a wild shriek and then went into hysterics. She had to be carried out by two constables and struggled desperately with them all the way to the door, where she fainted.

William Judson Kilpatrick, of Roselle, nephew of the late General Judson Kilpatrick, fined $150 and costs for selling bottled beer without a license.

Thomas McDonald, similar offence, fined $100 without costs.

Sarah Fitzgerald, larceny, committed to jail for thirty days.

Thomas Condon, stealing a bulldog, fined $10.

Kiva Barman, receiving stolen goods, fined $50 and costs.

William McCandless, Patrick Condon, James Linder, Daniel Martin, Aaron F. Rich and Frank K. Lynch all pleaded guilty to petit larceny and were turned over to the probation officer.

Walter R. Gayno pleaded guilty to stealing $50, and was sentenced to the county jail for ten days.

Herman Meyer pleaded not guilty to barn burning, and will be tried next week.

The sentence of Charles Meyer, the Elizabethport Fagin, as he is called, and who the police claim has for years been receiving stolen goods, was again postponed for one week. Strenuous efforts are being made to save the old man, who is sixty-eight years old, from being sent to State prison.

NURSE NOW ILL.

Miss Evans is doing well and there seems to be every reason and hope that she will pass through the dreaded disease all right.

BEACH CONTROL GOES TO ASBURY PARK NOW

Arranging Transfer of Rights of Founder Bradley That Is Soon to be Made.

PLANS FOR THE FUTURE

THE LEGAL REPRESENTATIVES OF MR. BRADLEY AND CITY MEET TOMORROW.

Will Tranfer Property Valued at Over a Million Dollars for $150,000—Council Will Call Election to Vote on Bond Issue.

Persons, who live in this city but who spend a portion of their summers in Asbury Park, will be pleased to learn that tomorrow in New York, a conference will be held at which a special committee appointed by President Appleby, of the Common Council, will be present to confer with the city attorney of Asbury Park, John F. Hawkins, and Founder Bradley's legal representative, Charles L. Corbin, of Jersey City, about the acceptance of Founder Bradley's offer to transfer his propery, comprising all the beach front and sewer system now his his property, valued at over a million dllars, to the city for $150,000.

The conference will follow the action taken by the Asbury Park Common Council at its meeting Monday night which assures to the people of the seaside resort the ocean beach front and the sewer system which was hitherto the property of Mr. Bradley, unless an unforseen hitch occurs. It is probable that the transfer will be made before the first of the year.

At the meeting the first step toward this end was taken when the resignation of Mr. Bradley was accepted after which a resolution was unanimously adopted accepting the terms and authorizing the President of the Council to appoint a special committee to negotiate the details of the transfer of the property in conjunction with the city attorney and Mr. Bradley's legal representative in Jersey City.

After the conference a special election will be ordered to vote on the issue of bonds to be used for the purchase of Mr. Bradley's holdings and a sufficient sum for the construction of a new steel boardwalk, casino, music stand, and bathing establishment. It is contemplated by the city authorities to anticipate the sale of these bonds by inviting bids for plans and the construction of these improvemens on the beach front and stipulating that the same shall be completed by the time of the opening of the summer season.

By a unanimous vote the Council directed the president to appoint a special committee, empowered to draft a suitable memorial expressive of the appreciation of the city's appreciation of Mr. Bradley's long and eminent services as a public official since the foundation of the resort to the present day.

The property to be transferred to the city by Mr. Bradley includes the beach front and the riparian rights to it; the boardwalk; pavilions, fishing pier, bathing houses and bathing establishments, and other properties, including the sewer system and several parks and squares near the beach and about the city. The beach property is said to be worth $500,000 alone. Later, it is believed, Mr. Bradley will transfer to the city his rights in Deal, Sunset and Westley Lakes.

SHAKE UP.

One is Promised When the Executive Committee of Somerset County Gets Together.

The Somerset county Democratic executive committee will meet early in January and organize. It is the intention of some of the leading Democrats throughout the county to reprimand a few of the members of the committee for their inactivity at the recent eletcion and those who know say that there is bound to be a general "shake up" in some of the ranks of the politicians "high up."

It has been said that some of the members of the committee have been rather remiss at the last election and that the low results in the Democratic count were responsible for this.

LAD CUT IN TWO BY CAR WHEELS

August Kleps, Aged Twelve, Met Death While Playing on the Railroad Tracks

THE END WAS INSTANT

Supposed to Have Slipped and Fallen in Path of Cars—Companions Ran Away in Fear—Parents Grief Stricken at News—The Body Was Completely Severed.

While playing "tag" around a coal car near the crossing of Grant avenue yesterday afternoon the life of an eight-year-old boy was crushed out by the cruel wheels of the gondola on the tracks of the Jersey Central Railroad. The body was cut in two and the parts thrown in different directions. The victim was August, the eight-year-old son of Rudolph Kleps, a moulder, living at Grant avenue and Second street. The accident is supposed to have happened at about 4:45 but the exact time is not known as the children who were playing with the unfortunate lad ran away as soon as they saw that their comrade had been killed and it was some time after that the body was found cut in two.

The head and shoulders were picked up some distance from where the legs and part of the abdomen were found. A workman returning from his work found the body and placing the two parts of the body together he called for help. It was some time before help arrived and word was sent for the ambulance and to police headquarters. Patrolman Higgins was sent to the scene of the accident and then the father, almost insane with grief, arrived on the scene.

Some one sent word to the home of the boy at the corner of Second street and Grant avenue and the mother of the lad rushed to the spot hysterical and wringing her hands with grief. The scene at the railroad was a very pathetic one and it was with difficulty that the frantic mother was restrained from throwing herself upon the bleeding form of her son. Word was sent to County Physician Westcott and some time afterwards the permit to remove the body to Cole's undertaking establishment was received by telephone.

The story of the accident as told by the playmates, who ran away, frightened, at the sudden death of their playmate, is that the boy had been playing tag with them and was chasing another boy across the track in front of the coal car which was standing still during the afternoon. While the boys were at play a shunting engine coupled onto the car and started to haul it down the track. The other boys saw the car approaching and got out of the way. It is believed that young Kleps saw the car approaching, too, but he slipped on the ties and fell across the track and the next instant the wheels were crushing out the life of the boy.

The funeral of the child will be held tomorrow afternoon but the exact time has not been set. At a late hour last evening the body was removed from the parlors of the undertaker to the parent's home on South Second street.

Strange misfortune has followed the bereaved family ever since they have been living in this city. Late in the month of August the family lost their eldest daughter suddenly and with the death of the only son there is only one daughter who is left of the family of three children.

The father of the child is employed at the Pond Machine Tool Works and resided at the corner of Grant avenue and South Second street, where he has lived since he came to this city a few months ago from New Brunswick and took the position in the machine works.

The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock from the residence of the parents, 203 Grant avenue, when Rev. L. R. Howard, pastor of Hope chapel, will officiate.

An illustrated lecture on Mount Pelee will be given in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue church on the evening of December 16, by Dr. E. O. WHY COUNCIL FIXED PRICE FOR AUDITING

Councilman Mellick Explains That $1,500 Was Simply a Maximum Figure.

WILL REALLY BE LESS

MAXIMUM COST HAD TO BE FIXED TO GET WORK DONE AT ONCE.

Mr. Mellick Says Citizens Need Not Fear That City's Money Will be Wasted—Work Will be Done As Reasonably As Possible.

As chairman of the finance committee of the Common Council and the one who introduced the resolution appropriating a sum not to exceed $1,500 to audit the accounts of the city treasurer and collector for the past three years, it was to Councilman George P. Mellick that an explanation was generally looked for as to why such a sum should be expended when it was the general belief that the work could be done at a much less cost. A Daily Press reporter interviewed Councilman Mellick, this morning, and obtained a statement from him which will put a new light on the situation.

"Judging from your editorial of last evening and from what others have said," remarked Mr. Mellick, "the real sitation is not clearly understood. The resolution, as it was passed, provides that a sum not exceeding $1,500 be appropriated to audit the accounts of the city treasurer and collector for the past three years. It does not state, however, that such a sum must be expended. In fact, it will probably be very much less. It was necessary, however, to fix a maximum amount that would cover any possible contingencies."

Mr. Mellick explained that the members of the Common Council were anxious to have the work done at once and not drag along until another year. If the books were audited now and every year hereafter, there would be no discovery of some clerical error in the future, the blame for which would revert to the present Common Council and its finance committee. Mr. Mellick said that the citizens need have no fear that the city's money would be wasted in this way. He was personally well acquainted with this branch of work and would consult the best auditors in connection with it.

The work on the city's books, he was sure, would be done just as cheaply as possible consistent with good work. This limit of $1,500 as not to be exceeded and the finance committee would go as much lower as possible. Unless, however, some maximum figure was selected, the finance committee could not be empowered to go ahead without delay and have the work done this year.

RUN DOWN BY HAY WAGON

TWO CRANFORD WOMEN THROWN OUT OF CARRIAGE AND INJURED.

Thomas Ryan, Driver of the Hay Wagon, Was Arrested and Sent to Jail for Thirty Days.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, Dec. 4—Mrs. Frank Bass, whose home is on Orange avenue, Cranford, in company with her sister, Mrs. Burtis, were injured while driving along the county road between Westfield and Cranford, Tuesday afternoon, through their carriage being run into by a hay wagon owned by William Baldwin, of Plainfield, and driven by Thomas Ryan, of the same place.

The carriage was demolished and both women were thrown out. Three of Mrs. Bass's front teeth were knocked out and she was otherwise hurt. Mrs. Burtis' nose and face were badly cut.

Ryan, who it is alleged was drunk, was arrested, as was George McIntee, the driver of another wagon belonging to Baldwin. The former was sent to jail for thirty days and McIntee was discharged.

NO CONTRACT.

Judge Vail Decided Against E. M. French in Suit Against Wm. H. Voorhees.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, Dec. 4—Judge Vail yesterday heard the case brought by Elston M. French against Wm. H. Voorhees. Mr. French claimed that Voorhees owed Charles H. Lyman $200 for inducing the purchaser of the Voorhees building on West Front street in Plainfield to pay $2,000 cash down and to postpone taking the title from June to September so that Voorhees could have the rents in the meantime, the balance of $28,000 to be paid when the deed was delivered. Lyman had assigned his claim to French.

Senator C. A. Reed represented Mr. French. Craig A. Marsh appeared for Mr. Voorhees. He moved to non suit Mr. French on the ground that if any such contract was made, it was void because it was not in writing. Senator Reed combatted this view and insisted that the suit was not for commissions, but for the work and labor called for by the special contract. The court agreed with Mr. Marsh and granted his motion.

Fell Off and Run Over.

A sudden jolt caused by driving over a hole threw Charles Freeman, of Short Front street, off a wagon which he was driving about the new hospital grounds, yesterday. The wheels passed over his right leg and, as it was thought it was broken, he was removed to Muhlenberg Hospital. The physicians declared it to be a bad sprain and he will be out in a short time.

Assorted Cakes.

The stilhouette booth in charge of Miss Stevens did a flourishing business and was popular with all Miss Stevens was assisted by Miss Miriam Carman. Miss Laura Rogers, the gypsy fortune teller, fortold the future of scores of people, and the sales at the fancy booth far exceeded any others. During the evening a handsomely dressed doll was presented to this booth, the donor with holding its name. A guessing contest was begun to determine the name and the winner who will receive the doll, will be announced this evening.

The stock of sweets at the fancy table was replenished yesterday afternoon and Miss Florence Burr, Miss Louise Brakeley and Miss Frank Burr were in charge of the booth during the evening. The country store continues to draw a large crowd and the postoffice department has increased to such proportions that it seems possible that a carrier system will be adopted this evening.

The fair will be continued this afternoon and will close this evening. A turkey dinner will again be served from 6 to 8 tonight.

FARMERS OF SOMERSET RECEIVE STATE AID

Farmers' Institute in Session at Somerville Yesterday and Today.

INTERESTING SPEECHES

SECRETARY DYE, OF STATE BOARD OF AGRICULTURE, PRESIDED.

Address of Welcome From President E. E. Cooper, of the County Board—The Speakers for the Sessions of the Two Days.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, December 4—For the first time in many years Somerville is the scene of a Farmers' Institute. It began yesterday morning in the Court House and was very well attended, although the weather was so threatening many farmers from a distance were doubtless kept away. Franklin Dye, secretary of the State Board of Agriculture, presided.

The address of welcome was made by Hon. Edward E. Cooper, of Warren township, president of the Somerset County Board of Agriculture. He said there could be no doubt but the institutes held throughout the whole State were productive of great benefit to the farmers, who thereby are enabled to hear the result of experiments, in new lines, told.

Edward VanAlstyne, of New York, made a very interesting address on "Fruit Growing For Profit" and told of the essentials for success.

Prof. J. B. Smith, the State entomologist, spoke about "Locusts and Other Insect Pests" in a very entertaining and instructive manner. The farmers were convinced that the pig brings in a great deal of money to the farmer, after hearing Mr. VanAlstyne's talk on "The Pig—A Profitable Partner on the Farm."

"Origin and Development of the State Weather Service—How It May Benefit the Farmer," was the topic of Director E. W. McGann of the Bureau at New Brunswick.

Today the speakers and their subjects were: "Cultivation as Related to Soil Fertility — Conservation of Moisture and Crop Production," Alva Agee, Ohio; "How One Man Improved a Worn-out Soil," Robert S. Seeds, Pennsylvania; "Conformation and Selection of the Dairy Cow," Henry Van Dreser, New York; "Feed and Care of the Dairy Cow," Mr. VanAlstyne and Jos. Fitzga; "Mistakes of Life Exposed," Mr. Seeds.

In the First Reformed chapel this evening the two-day session will be closed. Rev. Wm. S. Cranmer, the pastor, will offer prayer. "Poultry Management and Winter Egg Production" will be Mr. Van Dreser's topic. Mr. Agee will speak on "Rights of the Boy."

An institute will be held at Harlingen tomorrow.

Howard and Linder, in a German comedy sketch entitled "Heinie Noodles;" Hal Merritt, the cartoonist and monologue comedian; Tom Almond, the eccentric long shoe and skate dancer; the Zarnes Duo, flying rig experts; Cherry and Bates, bicyclists, and other strong features, go to make up a well balanced and excellent bill.

FIVE-ACRE STORE.

43rd Christmas Display of Amos H. VanHorn, Limited, in Newark.

There is one store in Newark, that of Amos H. VanHorn, limited, 73 Market street, that can point with justifiable pride to forty-three consecutive Christmastides, where Santa Claus chose them for headquarters. This year they have added another building to already ample quarters and installed a $4,500 Otis electric elevator and a $2,500 steam heating plant.

With over five acres of floor space given over to practical every-day gifts in the home furnishing line they certainly have a right to the title "Everybody's Store."

There are furniture pieces for the parlor, and hall, fancy rockers, comfortable Morris chairs, couches, desks, bookcases, dressing tables, chiffoniers, shaving stands, fancy tables, pictures, rugs, lamps, clocks, and any number of other good things to give.

One entire section is devoted solely to the selections people have made for later delivery; this is proving more and more of a convenience to customers who like to choose ahead of the rush, and be sure of a delivery of their order just when and where they want it.

It seems that the low prices and accommodating terms peculiar to this house are doing its best advertising. The store the people want is certainly the store that is for the people—such an one is "Everybody's Store."

THE CURRENCY REFORM.

Secretary Shaw Urges Immediate Financial Legislation.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—The annual report of Secretary of the Treasury Leslie M. Shaw has for its chief feature the urgency for currency reform.

At considerable length the secretary treats of the evils of the existing money system as illustrated within the past half year.

The secretary does not recommend any specific remedy for congress to apply, but he makes it clear that just as long as the present laws are on the statute books just so long will the country be subject to periods of money stringency like that of September and October, and sooner or later it may find itself in a predicament from which it may not be able to extricate itself even with clearing house certificates and the unprecedented measures that the treasury in the last crisis felt itself justified in adopting.

He urges legislation without delay which will give a flexible currency. The secretary does not favor any of the plans which have been put forth for an "emergency" currency, believing that such steps would be merely a makeshift. He is rather in favor of something which will be of permanent value and gives many reasons why congress should not delay taking action.

The report points out the condition in which the financial world found itself late in the summer and early in the fall, when the supply of currency proved to be utterly inadequate to the volume of business and extraordinary means were necessary to release money in the treasury and relieve the stringency, which threatened to cause a serious financial disturbance, if not a money panic.

November Failures.

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade will say: "Reports show commercial failures in the United States during November 1,080 in number and $9,276,716 in amount of defaulted liabilities compared with 974 failures a year ago for $9,070,446. There were 213 manufacturing failures for $3,391,060 against 216 last year involving $3,507,695, 746 in trading lines for $5,029,843 compared with 707 in 1901 for $4,836,275, and in other commercial lines not properly included in either of the two chief classes there were 41 defaults with liabilities of $855,813 compared with 51 a year ago for $726,476. Banking and other strictly financial insolvencies were only four in number and $157,369 in amount, while in November, 1001, there were two failures for $450,000."

Ex-Speaker Reed's Condition.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—Dr. F. A. Gardner, who is attending ex-Speaker Thomas B. Reed, has issued the following statement regarding his condition: "Mr. Reed has an attack of catarrhal appendicitis. His temperature at first was 103. Later it was 101 2-5. He suffered a good deal when first taken, but is now resting easily. Dr. T. L. MacDonald, a surgeon, was called into consultation yesterday. He did not consider the case one that demanded surgical interference at the present time. While Mr. Reed is resting comfortably, it is impossible to say when surgical interference may be demanded. Every case of appendicitis, however simple, is serious, and he is a sick man."

COAL COURT MEETS

Taking of Testimony Resumed at Scranton.

AGREEMENT RUMORS ARE AFLOAT.

Usual Crowd In Attendance, but the Proceedings Were of a Dull and Desultory Character — Six Witnesses Examined.

SCRANTON, Pa., Dec. 4.—The anthracite coal companies and their employees having failed to come to an agreement during the Thanksgiving recess of the strike commission, the hearing of the miners' side of the case has been resumed, and unless something is done by the lawyers on both sides to curtail matters its proceedings will surely run into next year. With the reassembling of the commission, however, there was a revival of the talk of a settlement "out of court." Nothing definite has been done, and neither side has approached the other, so far as can be learned, regarding further negotiations; but, as one attorney expressed it, "there is something in the air." The lawyers on both sides have heard the rumor and profess they know nothing about it, "but would not be surprised if something in the way of an agreement is reached before the hearings are concluded."

Chairman Gray, speaking for the commission, again expressed the hope that efforts would be made by both sides to agree on as many points as possible and that the commission was ready to lend any conciliatory help to bring about that end.

Yesterday's proceedings were of a more or less desultory character. Six witnesses were on the stand during the two sessions. They were President Mitchell, two photographers, two practical miners, one of them a Hungarian, and the wife of a German miner. Mr. Mitchell was on the stand for a short time only and was called to show that a 20 per cent increase in wages did not mean a corresponding increase in the price per ton of coal. The photographers produced about a half hundred photographs they had taken of the homes of mine workers in the Hazleton region, which territory was under investigation. The two miners testified with reference to wages paid and working conditions at the collieries of Coxe Bros. & Co., an independent concern in the Hazleton region, and the woman, whose husband is employed in the Coxe mines, told a general story of poverty.

The commissioners at times were seemingly impatient at the way the proceedings dragged. While they had a half dozen witnesses before them, they did not learn much more than they already knew. On their trip through the coalfields they saw houses whose general appearance was worse than those pictured, and they also received much information along the lines presented from the men in the mines which they visited. They are anxious for the documentary evidence, such as wage statements and other data bearing on wages and conditions. This was strongly evidenced when they eagerly seized upon the due bills handed up by the Hungarian witness. Every member of the commission examined these and had questions to ask about them. One of the commissioners said it was principally a question of wages, and they wanted these facts as quickly as they can get them.

The usual crowd was in attendance at the superior courtroom, where the hearings are being held.

Russian Railway Lacks Water.

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 4.—Freight traffic is at a complete standstill on a portion of the Kursk-Kharkov railroad in consequence of the water supply giving out. At Losovaya alone 2,400 loaded trucks are tied up. A fall of snow is anxiously awaited in order that snow water may be available for the locomotives. The only means of overcoming the difficulty seems to be to pipe water from the Samara river at a cost of $250,000.

STEAMER BLOWN UP

Twelve Missing and Many Hurt at San Francisco.

EXPLODING OIL TANK THE CAUSE.

Accident Occurred at Fulton Iron Works Wharf, Where Large Force of Men Was Repairing the Ship—Loss, $200,000.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 4.—While the steamer Progreso was lying at the wharf of the Fulton Iron works at Harbor View an explosion occurred. As a result twelve men are missing, a score were more or less seriously injured, and property valued at $200,000 was destroyed.

The disaster occurred while forty mechanics of the iron works and twenty employees of the ship were on board.

Below the decks the mechanics were busy completing the work of changing the vessel from a coal burning coal carrier to an oil burning oil carrier, when suddenly one of the oil tanks blew up. Men were dashed against the steel wall, and a sheet of flame came sweeping into their faces. Those on the upper deck were hurled into the air or thrown into the water. Three sailors engaged in washing paint outside the pilothouse disappeared as the cloud of black smoke came up from the ship and were seen no more.

Following the explosion the ship sagged in the center, showing that she had broken in two. In the office of the iron works, twenty feet away, every window was shattered, and flying glass cut the faces and hands of many of the officials and clerks. As they rushed out into the open survivors who were able to help themselves were leaping from the ship. A great crowd of mechanics came running out of the works. As soon as the panic had subsided the men set to work to rescue men from the burning vessel. A stream of burning oil running from the tanks spread out until the ship lay on waves of fire. The flames crept under the wharf, and soon the timbers were blazing, adding to the difficulty of the work of rescue.

As the ship was built of steel the fire was nearly all below deck. There were fourteen oil tanks containing about 400 barrels of oil in all, and despite the efforts of the fire department this continued to burn fiercely for hours after the explosion.

Several minor explosions due to the flames going from tank to tank occurred at short intervals, but all the injury and loss of life was caused by the first one. One peculiarity of the explosion was that several men who were on the other side of the bulkhead from where it occurred were uninjured, while others farther away were badly hurt. Several men in the yards were injured by flying debris.

The loss to the Fulton company by the wrecking of the building and the burning of the wharf will exceed $20,000. It is estimated that the Progreso was worth about $175,000.

The explosion shook all the buildings at Harbor View, and the shock was felt a mile away. In a few instances windows were broken several blocks from the scene.

James Spiers, Jr., general manager of the Fulton Iron works, is positive that the explosion was due to the oil and not to the bursting of the boiler.

The Petrel returned to Kingston to remain until the opening of navigation in the spring.

CONGRESS BEGINS WORK.

House Passes Bill to Defray Strike Commission's Expenses.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—The senate yesterday began the real work of disposing of the business before it, although the session lasted only an hour and a half. When an adjournment was taken at 1:30 o'clock, out of respect to the memory of Representatives De Graffenreid and Sheppard of Texas, the bill to amend the immigration laws was under discussion.

Early in the day Mr. Nelson, from the committee on territories, reported a substitute for the omnibus statehood bill, with the recommendation that Oklahoma and Indian Territory be admitted into the Union as one state under the name of Oklahoma. When the immigration bill was brought up, Mr. Quay precipitated a discussion over the status of the statehood bill which was terminated by a ruling from the chair that, beginning on Dec. 10, it would be the unfinished business and that at the close of the morning hour each day it would be laid before the senate unless displaced by a vote of that body.

The house passed the bill to appropriate $50,000 to defray the expenses of the anthracite coal strike commission and then adjourned until Friday, when the London dock charge bill will be considered. There were two hours of discussion on the commission bill, during which the president's course in creating the commission was highly commended except by Mr. Benton, a Missouri Democrat, who contended that the commission was created without authority of law or constitution. There was some criticism of the feature of the bill allowing double salaries to members of the commission now in government employ and also because the bill left the amount of the compensation of the members to the president. But all amendments were voted down. The bill was passed without division.

Box Placed Beneath White House.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—Last evening, without the least ceremony, a pretty function occurred in the main corridor of the White House. A copy of the message sent to congress Tuesday by the president, autographs of the Roosevelt children, specimens of United States coins and the chisel with which the mason did the work were sealed in a marble casket, which then was deposited in a bed of cement beneath the floor of the main hallway. Covering the little treasure box was placed a marble slab bearing the inscription "1792-1902" in an ellipse of stars, one for each state of the Union. The idea of making the deposit originated with the workmen employed on the interior finishings of the White House. While it had the approval of the president, he was not present at the sealing of the box.

Actor Johnstone Dying.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 4.—Barry Johnstone, the actor, who murdered Kate Hassett, a member of the Keith theater stock company, Monday night and then shot himself, is dying at the Hanemann hospital. The physicians have given up hope of saving his life, and their efforts have been to render his death as painless as possible. Johnstone's mother, his two brothers and two sisters, who came here from their home at Syracuse, N. Y., on learning of the tragedy, have been in constant attendance at the bedside of the dying actor. Because of his weakened condition the physicians have been unable to extract the two bullets Johnstone fired into his breast.

Vanderbilt Allen Set Free.

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—William S. Vanderbilt Allen, great-grandson of Commodore Vanderbilt, who for six years has been confined in a private sanitarium at Westport, Conn., has been released and went to the home of a friend in this city. His release was the result of an agreement by all concerned that Allen should be placed at liberty until a date to be fixed, when it will be finally determined whether the release shall be made permanent or he be formally committed to the sanitarium.

Deschamps Sails For New York.

AGAINST VENEZUELA

Germany and England Adopt Punitive Measures.

WARSHIPS ORDERED ON THE SCENE

Rumors That President Castro Has Offered to Settle All Claims If Given Time Not Made Known to Powers.

LONDON, Dec. 4.—Great Britain and Germany, according to official statements made here, have commenced punitive measures against Venezuela. German war vessels, it is stated, are already on the scene of the contemplated action, and Great Britain by today should have a squadron there capable of coping with any resistance that Venezuela might offer.

Meanwhile it is asserted that no definite answer has yet been received from Washington by the financiers here who wish to bring about a pacific settlement. An important communication one way or the other is expected from Washington today. If the United States is willing to give its moral support to the request that Venezuela be allowed time to fulfill the suggested bargain, the plans thereof will at once be submitted to the British foreign office. If Washington refuses to suggest to the European powers that Venezuela be allowed time, it is probable that the financial house now interested will drop the plan altogether. In the latter alternative the Venezuelan delegation here is likely to submit the suggested settlement to the British and German governments, with an application for time to admit of their entering into negotiations with other financial interests.

The Venezuelan delegates maintain that their status has been seriously affected by the adoption of the aggressive measures announced yesterday, but they declare that it would be obviously bad policy, in spite of the critical position of their country, to make any suggestion to Europe until the attitude of the United States, both as a joint creditor and a largely interested political power, had been ascertained.

One who is in a position to know states that Venezuela offers the payment on a unified loan of over $3,000,000, interest yearly, guaranteed by the customs, with the establishment of a European bank at Caracas to superintend the collection. The whole plan is on a basis similar to that on which Brazil satisfied its European creditors. If such a method is now followed, the Venezuelan delegation maintains that all claims can eventually be met, whereas it alleges that the temporary seizure of the customs would so disturb the commerce of the country as to practically render it impossible to satisfy the European bondholders and would bring with it the danger of another revolution.

All these details are still unknown to the powers who have ordered their warships to Venezuela. In spite of the announcement of joint action by Great Britain and Germany Downing street exhibits not a little perplexity over the Berlin dispatch Dec. 1 announcing that President Castro has handed to the German minister at Caracas a written acceptance of part of Germany's claim sufficiently comprehensive to delay the presentation of a joint ultimatum by Germany and Great Britain, if not rendering it altogether unnecessary, and also stating that it was understood that Great Britain's demands would be satisfied. Not the slightest official information to this effect has reached London.

Prison For Squatter Streeter.

CHICAGO, Dec. 4.—George W. Streeter, whose long fight for filled in land on the lake front makes a curious chapter in Chicago history, has been found guilty of manslaughter, and punishment was fixed at imprisonment in the penitentiary. Henry Hoeldke and William McManners, members of Streeter's "squatter" colony on the filled in land, also were found guilty of manslaughter and similar penalties ordered, clemency, however, being recommended for Hoeldke.

Nashua's Smallpox Scare.

NASHUA, N. H., Dec. 4.—Four additional cases of smallpox have been found here, making nineteen cases now under observation. City Physician Congdon says that the board of health has reason to believe that other cases are being concealed by families of the patients. A state law makes intentional concealment of a contagious disease a criminal offense, and the board is securing evidence for prosecutions.

Bad Storm In Kansas.

TOPEKA, Kan., Dec. 4.—Kansas is experiencing the first bad storm of the winter. Some damage to stock has resulted, and railway business in some instances is being carried on under difficulty. The Rock Island reports difficulty in operating wires and trains as a result of the storm. Trains on all roads from the west have been late on account of the snow in Colorado and western Kansas.

Butler Portrait Unveiled.

BOSTON, Dec. 4.—A portrait in oils of the late General Benjamin F. Butler has been unveiled in the gallery of the senate reading room at the statehouse. The likeness is about three-fourths profile of the bust and head and is after a photograph of the general made during his term as governor in 1883.

Allentown Suffers Costly Fire.

ALLENTOWN, Pa., Dec. 4.—Crossed wires caused a fire which completely burned out Bittner, Hunsicker & Co.'s wholesale dry goods store and several local lodges occupying the large four story building of Elias Bittner; loss on building and contents, $150,000.

STATE REFORM.

Governor Murphy has a plan whereby he aims to reorganize the large force of clerks employed at the State House and run the State's affairs on civil service lines similar to those in force at the National Capital. It is his desire, as he expresses it, to run the State's affairs on business principles. Such an aim is certainly a laudable one and, if properly conducted, one which is bound to secure the approval of good citizens throughout the State.

It is not likely, however, that Mr. Murphy will be permitted to so revolutionize the State machinery without some vigorous opposition. The "spoils" system is an old one. While undoubtedly a vast majority of the men in the various departments at Trenton are capable officials, there are some who have powerful friends, who would be affected by the inauguration of any civil service rules. Their appointments were admittedly political rewards and the rewards will not be taken away if the interested ones can prevent it. Then, too, such a plan would prevent any further distribution of political "plums" which state of affairs is not desired by the political workers.

Of late, there has been a tendency on the part of Jersey's Governors to appoint men to office who are fitted for the positions. An able man, if he happens to be of the right political persuasion, gets the place even if his pull doesn't happen to be quite as strong as some man's who is admittedly unfit for the place. Such a course is along the proper lines and is to be advocated by all means. If Governor Murphy can further instill that principle into State affairs, he will put the people of New Jersey under deep obligations to him. It seems likely, however, that he will not be able to accomplish it on the lines which have been made public. While it may be possible to provide for future appointments on civil service lines, any retroactive scheme is going to stir up a hornet's nest among the politicians throughout the State.

It is only occasionally that the public gets a glimpse of the wonderful changes that have been wrought since the organization of the Y. M. A. at Hope chapel. That organization began its career in 1896, but it was a lifeless thing when Rev. Fred B. Newman, now pastor of a church in Trenton, took hold of it and put new life into it. With Mr. Newman at the head, the association prospered and grew until he moved away from Plainfield two years ago and City Judge William N. Runyon assumed the presidency. Under his direction, the Y. M. A. has been flourishing. Now the members are preparing for active gymnastic work during the winter and a permanent camp of their own located on the shores of Lake Hopatcong. What a difference there is between the organization as it now exists and the one of a few years ago.

The most reasonable way out of the present trouble which has come to the Plainfield Amateur Basket Ball League seems to be to provide for officials from out-of-town and who will have no possible interest in any of the contesting teams. If the Y. M. C. A. will recede from its arbitrary position and accept this compromise, it seems possible that the league may continue its career without further interference.

A. H. Atterbury's subscription concerts are to be a feature of the local musical world this winter. Mr. Atterbury has won the heartiest thanks of the music-loving public of Plainfield for these treats which he annally provides.

Congressman Fowler's bill which provides for a tariff commission does not seem to meet the approval of lots of good Republicans. From present appearances, there seems little likelihood that it will ever be made a law.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Dec. 7—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic.—Do I discourage others?—Mark x, 46-52; Num. xiii, 26-33.

There is no man that liveth to himself. Every man has some influence for good or for evil upon somebody else. We are "good angels" or "bad angels" to those with whom we come in contact in life. We inspire men to faith and to endeavor or we dishearten and discourage them. The very atmosphere of our lives has often one of these two effects without our saying or doing anything directly. In the presence of some people we are inspired to hope, to trust, to believe, while the presence of others impresses us with doubt and despair. What is the effect of our lives? Do we inspire or discourage? Are we a help or a hindrance?

Do we discourage others from coming to Christ? It seems incredible that any should do this, yet many do stand in the way of others who want to accept and to confess Christ. In Matt. x, 46-52, we have an illustration of such a character. Blind Bartimæus pressed toward Christ, crying, "Have mercy on me," but many cried out, "Hold your peace." What a discouragement! How different if they had taken his hand and led him to the Saviour. Yet he persevered and was healed and saved. Parents brought children to Christ, but the disciples discouraged them, saying, "Trouble Him not;" yet Jesus Himself was willing to be troubled and invited them to come. Thus many have been discouraged from coming to Christ. Some have been ridiculed and scoffed, some have been told they were too sinful and some that they were too young. And then in deeds as well as words many are discouraged from coming to Christ. Do we thus discourage any one? Are our lives so inconsistent that we lead them to think that perhaps after all it is as well not to come? What could be sadder than to keep a soul from Christ?

Do we discourage others in Christian work? Of this we have an instance in Num. xiii, 26-33. Ten men by discouragement kept a nation of people from performing their duty and from fulfilling the task appointed to them by God Himself, with the terrible consequences that for years they wandered aimlessly about in a wilderness. What could better illustrate the direful consequence of discouragement? It is easy to discourage Christian workers. A look, a word, an act, may take the heart out of one who is earnestly striving to serve God. "But woe unto that one through whom the offense cometh." Christ Himself has pronounced a terrible woe upon those who discourage the simple and the weak. We should earnestly strive against being discouragers or discouraged. Like Bartimæus, we should strive the more in the face of opposition, resting assured that God will hear us and will own and bless all efforts sincerely put forth in Christ's name.

BIBLE READINGS.

Gen. iii, 1-12; Neh. ii, 19, 20; iv, 1-9; Ps. xxvii, 1-5; Matt. xviii, 1-7; Luke xviii, 15-17; John vi, 66-69; Rom. xiv, 15-23; I Cor. xv, 58; Gal. vi, 9.

An Important Committee's Work.

Advertise religion. Why not? The world finds that the quickest way to push forward an enterprise is to advertise it. As long as there is nothing wrong in the method, why not use it in promoting the enterprise of Christian Endeavor? Next to a consistent life, I believe, the best advertisement of Christianity is Christian literature, and "good literature" committees should constitute themselves advertising agents to bring Christian literature before the public.—John Willis Baer.

The Quiet Hour.

The Quiet Hour enrollment has now passed the 30,000 mark. The simple, farreaching covenant of the comrades of the Quiet Hour is this: "Trusting in the Lord Jesus Christ for strength, I will make it the rule of my life to set apart at least fifteen minutes every day, if possible in the early morning, for quiet meditation and direct communion with God."

In the Frozen North.

Rev. Dr. Clark, on his recent old world journey in the interest of Christian Endeavor, found one society in Sweden beyond the arctic circle, in latitude 67 degrees 30 minutes north.

Dr. Conwell's Church.

In Rev. Dr. Russell H. Conwell's church in Philadelphia there are fourteen Christian Endeavor societies.

In China, Germany and Japan.

The first society in Fuchau was called by a Chinese word which means "the Drum and Rouse Up society," not a bad translation of Christian Endeavor.

There are more than 100 societies in Germany, and in that country they call the movement "Christliche Entschiedenheit."

The "Kyoreikwai" is the Japanese name for Christian Endeavor. Recent statistics show seventy-one societies in the Land of the Rising Sun.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning Dec. 7. "The Missionary Uprising of the Young People"—Text. Acts ii, 17, 18, 21; I Tim. iv, 12-16.

"Let no man despise thy youth, but be thou an example to them that believe."

It too often occurs that people are ashamed of something in early life. Foolish things are done in carelessness or a spirit of independence and bravado and afterward bitterly repented when the inevitable sting comes. It is not necessary to sow wild oats. Nothing in our nature makes it compulsory. Nothing can make it right. Many never do it. Their tribe is increasing. A multitude, greater than ever before, of the young people are coming forward to places of prominence and power and are doing work of which they shall never be ashamed. Those who see them now and those who shall in coming time see what they accomplish shall applaud and not despise.

Though long experience and age may be needful to bring mature wisdom, it is yet a fact that no one has to live many years to get enough knowledge to go safely if he desires it. Youth is not by any means the age of foolishness, though it is a period of abounding life, and because so many ways open and none has been fully explored and some are very attractive and there are curiosity and longing to know what each will lead to dangers and risks are met and taken which might have been shunned.

It is in young life that God gives the spirit of prophecy if it ever comes to one at all. This is the time when the realities of life begin to loom up large and the mighty problems of existence and all the mystery of right and wrong and ideals of duty and visions of the perfect and beautiful unfold themselves before the awakening soul. The spirit begins to realize its own nature as above the earthly and to struggle for its birthright and strive for speech.

The church of Jesus Christ is recognizing increasingly the possibilities open to her young people if they are God filled and God led.

If the world is ever evangelized, it will be done by those young in years. That sounds like a rash statement, but the more fully it is studied the more fully its soberness appears.

Young people free from family cares can go among heathen people, endure privations, apply themselves more vigorously, adapt themselves to circumstances more fully and quickly than older persons incumbered with children. Languages must usually be acquired in early years or they will never be mastered efficiently. Physical endurance, mental alertness, spiritual enthusiasm, are all at their best in early years, and these make much for success in the work of Christ's kingdom.

One of the most hopeful signs of the times is the great forward movement among young Christians of all denominations in missionary work. The best talent of the church is offering itself for this aggressive work in winning the world to Christ. Whether those entering the ministry in the home land are as well equipped and as highly talented as those entering business life, it is certain that in the foreign work God is getting the best. The brainiest and brawniest of the great colleges, the purest and most Christlike, are the standard bearers there.

The Gate of Prayer.

The gate of prayer is an important gate in Zion. "My house shall be called a house of prayer," is God's own word. The prayer gate should give us entrance every day to God's inner temple. What burdens do we bring through this gate! What blessings do we carry away! To forsake this gate of Zion is to face a world without strength. In the early morning run into this gate of prayer for strength. At evening return with gratitude.—Christian Intelligencer.

The Difference.

One who had spent her life in weeping, mourning her lot as hardest to be borne, sighing that others' lives were easy, paying no heed to any but self, when asked what most she craved in heaven replied, "A place to laugh." And one who bravely bore her burdens, upright and smiling, thinking but little of her woe, but helping every suffering mortal, when asked, "What most do you desire in heaven?" replied, "A place to weep."—Christian Register.

A Good Wisher.

Benevolence is a universal possibility. The poorest can wish his fellow well. A good wisher is never a bad man. He may err but his errors are those of judgment. His heart is never out of place. Envy has no part in his nature. Slander and calumny are foreign to his disposition.—Presbyterian Journal.

Civilization and Christianity.

That civilization has reacted on Christianity is palpably true, but it is not one whit more true than the fact that Christianity has woven itself into the very fiber of the civilization whose triumphs it has so immeasurably increased.—New York Tribune.

'Tis Good to Live!

'Tis good to live! If but to learn,
Although I'm weak, my friend is strong,
And many a minor tone it takes
To swell the chords for one grand song.

'Tis good to live! If but to hear
A tuneful voice, homesick for heaven,
Or read a glowing prophecy
The poet to the world has given.

'Tis good to live! If but to love
All brave, true women, [illegible] men;
To know a doubter may find [illegible]
Through some pure heaven of [illegible] again

'Tis good to live! [illegible]
That even in the city's [illegible]

THE KIDNAPPED MILLIONAIRES

A TALE OF WALL STREET AND THE TROPICS

By FREDERICK U. ADAMS.

Copyright, 1902, by Lothrop Publishing Company. All rights reserved.

At the time this story opens Mr. Hestor had returned to New York after a cruise in Philippine waters. He was interviewed by all the newspapers, and his portrait flashed from hundreds of prints in all parts of the country. He was proud and happy of his success. His mind was ever alert for some scheme which would emphasize his fame. He regarded his foreign triumphs as but stepping stones to some great coup which would immortalize his name.

Hestor was disappointed when he learned that Mr Van Horne had departed recently on a secret mission to Europe. At first he thought of joining him, but finally decided to remain in New York for a time and devote his energies to matters of local interest. Hestor was greeted warmly at the clubs, and found himself a popular hero. He was welcomed at the theaters and some of his newspaper exploits were made the subject of a topical song and rendered with great success at a leading vaudeville hall. For some time he had led a life free from care in company with congenial spirits, who were glad to shine in his reflected fame.

At the office of The Record Mr. Hestor had a luxurious private room, as befitted his rank as the special envoy of the paper. One afternoon he received a message from his old friend Sidney Hammond, stating that he would be in the city for two days, at the end of which time he would be compelled to make a western trip on important business. Hestor was delighted to hear from Sidney Hammond, and at once arranged a theater and supper party in his honor.

A party of eight occupied the Hestor box at the opera and thoroughly enjoyed "La Boheme." Walter B. Hestor and Miss Edith Le Roy; Sidney Hammond and Miss Olive, his sister; Mr. Converse and Miss De Neuville; Mr. Blake and Miss Meredith, constituted the merry group, which at the conclusion of the opera mingled in the fashionable mob, and after the usual delays and annoyances found themselves in carriages speeding toward Fifth avenue.

There was a crush of carriages in front of Delmonico's. It was the night hour when New York attains the height of its feverish activity. The avenue was alive with swift-moving equipages. An army of lackeys was busy receiving the arriving guests. Inside the massive doors, the strains of an orchestra throbbed in an air of heavy perfume. The glare of light from thousands of electric globes was reflected from glass and marble, but subdued by palms and masses of roses.

A table had been reserved for Mr. Hestor and his guests—brave in its array of linen and flowers, and its glitter of cut glass. As Mr. Hestor entered the hall he was recognized by scores of friends and for a few moments held an impromptu reception.

When this social duty was ended, Miss Edith Le Roy took prompt charge of certain details—as was the wont of this vivacious young woman. Mr. Hestor had seated himself next to Sidney Hammond. Miss Le Roy had no idea of consenting to such an arrangement.

"You are the host, Mr. Hestor," she said, "and you must take the head of the table. Miss Meredith will sit at your right, and Mr. Hammond will take his place next to her. I am not going to permit you and Mr. Hammond to monopolize each other's conversation. I can trust you, Miss Meredith, to keep Sidney and Walter from entering into any discussion of their dreary schemes for reconstructing the universe."

The dinner went on merrily amid a general conversation in which a limitless number of topics were introduced, discussed, and dismissed. Terrapin followed bouillon, and canvas back ducks were served with some rare old Burgundy. The spacious dining halls had in the meantime become crowded, and the orchestra encountered a noisy rival in the laughter and conversation which mingled in a harmonious blend from hundreds of tables. Dainty preparations of shell fish gave place to a salad, followed by a glace, which Miss Le Roy pronounced "a dream in old rose." While the ladies discussed bonbons, the gentlemen lit cigars or cigarettes, and wooed the god of Nicotine with all the ardor which follows the enjoyment of so sumptuous a repast.

While Miss Le Roy was energetically defending her favorite French author from an attack unwittingly made by Mr. Blake, her plans so carefully arranged at the opening of the dinner were disrupted by Sidney Hammond, who readily persuaded Miss Meredith to change places with him. Miss Le Roy smiled her scorn when she discovered this duplicity and promptly announced a social boycott against the ungallant Hestor and Hammond, who already were absorbed in a quiet conversation on a topic which seemed of special interest to them.

Sidney Hammond was a college mate of Walter Hestor. He was the stroke oar in the famous crew which humbled the pride of the rival university. Unlike many of the athletic heroes of the institutions of learning, Hammond combined the frame of a muscular Apollo with the brain of the scholar. He was even more a hero with the professors than on the campus. The text and reference books prescribed in the curriculum served but to stimulate his thirst for research. Though abundantly able, through the generosity of his father, to enter into all of the pleasures of the gilded class, he performed the rare feat of remaining a studious recluse and retaining his popularity. During the years spent in college he was an intellectual and physical machine, seemingly incapable of mental or bodily fatigue. The few friends who enjoyed the privilege of his apartments found him the best of hosts, with a well-appointed sideboard and the choicest of cigars. Except on rare occasions Hammond did not permit these social relaxations to intrude on his time, and his friends grew to know just how long Sidney would tolerate their company in preference to his books.

Hestor sipped a glass of wine; knocked the ashes from his cigar, and extended an enameled cigar case to Hammond.

"How long does our famous correspondent intend to remain in New York?" asked Sidney Hammond. "It must seem dull here after what you have been through."

"It seems good to be here," replied Hestor. "I am going to quit roaming around and stay in this country for awhile. I believe there is more big news on the tapis here than anywhere in the world. I believe there is some sensational news about the trusts if it could be obtained and properly handled."

"They are getting big enough and bold enough to attract attention," said Hammond. "There will be plenty of news about them some day."

"How do you like the Record's leading editorial to-day?" he asked.

"The one about the big steel combine, do you mean?"

"Yes."

"Candidly, I cannot say I liked it," said Hammond, after a moment's pause, "I suppose Williams wrote it. It sounded like his stuff. Williams is a good writer, and there is no better man on local issues, but I am afraid the trust problem is beyond his depth. He denounces trusts. He might as well denounce the Galveston disaster. He has treated The Record readers to an entertaining but not novel bit of trust invective. I presume it is what they want, but what good does it do? He proposes no remedy."

"Certainly he proposed a remedy," said Hestor, rallying to the support of the editorial staff. "He demands the enforcement of the anti-trust law which, if put into operation, will result in the disintegration of criminal trusts."

THEY ALL SAY SO.
Not Only in Plainfield, But in Every City and Town in the Union.
If the reader took the time and trouble to ask his fellow residents of Plainfield, the simple question given below, he would obtain the one answer. If he would read the statements now being published in Plainfield which refer to this answer, it would surprise him to note that they number so many. As many more could be, and may be published, but in the meantime ask the first person you meet what cures backache? The answer will be, Doan's Kidney Pills. Here is a citizen who endorses our claims:
Mrs. Wm. H. Ludlow, of 88 Jackson avenue, says: "I had backache and a sort of dull pain across my loins for several years. If I sat for any length of time and tried to rise I had a sharp pain in my kidneys. Walking any distance or standing aggravated the difficulty. I could not rest well at night from the fact that I had to be constantly changing about from one position to another trying to free myself from pain. I used quite a number of remedies but got no permanent relief. I was prevailed upon to get Doan's Kidney Pills from L. W. Randolph's drug store. I must say they did me a great deal of good. It is seldom that I feel any pain in my back and when I do a few doses of this remedy never fails to relieve me. I know others who have used Doan's Kidney Pills with good results."
For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.
Remember the name—Doan's—and take no substitute.

Gout in the United States.

A paper read before the American Medical association by Dr. Thomas B. Futcher, of Baltimore, is summarized as follows: Gout in the United States is undoubtedly more common than is generally supposed. Out of 13,400 medical cases admitted to Dr. Osler's medical wards in the Johns Hopkins hospital during a period of 13 years there were 35 gout cases, or 0.24 per cent. of the total number of cases. For the same number of years at St. Bartholomew's hospital there were 116 gout cases out of a total of 31,100 medical admissions, or 0.37 per cent. of the cases. Thus among hospital patients gout is only about one-third more frequent in London than in Baltimore. All the 36 cases were white males. The largest number of cases occurred in the fifth decade. Twenty-seven of the patients were native-born Americans. The majority of the cases appeared to have earned rather than to have acquired their gout. Alcohol and lead seemed to be the most potent predisposing etiological factor.—Medical Record.

Worry Causes Dyspepsia.

Worry is a cause and a source of much unhappiness. It seams the face with lines and furrows and has a most depressing effect upon that hypersensitive organ, the stomach, which at such times becomes a most unwilling and laggard servant. Indeed, it is safe to say that unless encouraged by a cheerful temper and bright or, at least, hopeful thoughts, the stomach will play truant or sulk or do no good work. The physiological explanation of this is the close alliance of the great sympathetic nerves, which are worse than the telegraph for carrying bad news; the work and anxiety which depress the brain cause simultaneously a semi-paralysis of the nerves of the stomach; gastric juices will not flow—and, presto there is indigestion. One sign of mental health is serenity of temper and a self-control that enables us to bear with equanimity the petty trials and jars of life especially those arising from contact with scolding, irascible, irritating persons. Serenity of mind comes easy to some and hard to others.—American Medicine.

Meteoric Electricity.

We now know quite accurately the nature of lightning and the method of production of the enormous electrical pressure exhibited by the flash. When clouds are formed by the condensation of very minute drops of water from the vapor in the air, under certain conditions, these drops exhibit a small electrical charge. As the drops coalesce the capacity increases less rapidly than the quantity of charge, for the reason that two drops of equal size, when they flow together, produce one of only slightly larger diameter, and the capacity is determined by the diameter. On this account the drops formed by the flowing together of the small mist particles, long before they attain such size as to be precipitated as rain, acquire an electrical charge of enormous voltage, sufficient often to leap a distance of a mile through the air. This must correspond with pressures only to be indicated by millions of volts.—Electrical Review.

Fig-Coffee.

For some years there has been manufactured in Austria a product called coffee of figs which is much appreciated in Germany and in Austria-Hungary. Its nutritive power is considerable. It is obtained by drying fruits—especially figs—and mixing them with coffee. It acts as a coloring agent and diminishes the excitant quality of the coffee and corrects the bitter taste. Several establishments in Algeria now manufacture fig-coffee which is already much used in Europe.—N. Y. Sun.

THE CATTLE PLAGUE.

No Cases in New York State—Preventative Measures Taken.

ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 4.—Commissioner of Agriculture Wieting has had a consultation with his assistants relative to the best means that could be taken under the statutes of this state to guard against the possibility of the hoof and mouth disease which is affecting the cattle in the eastern states getting a foothold in the state of New York.

The commissioner states that the disease at present is not within the state of New York, and his concern at the present time is to see that it does not on account of any lack of precautions on the part of the authorities get into the state. The commissioner's views are that every possible avenue through which the animals or their products might be brought into the state should be so picketed as to make it impossible for them to be brought here.

The commissioner says that though this disease is not fatal, yet it may and probably will ruin the animals so far as value is concerned. The disease may be contracted by animals going over the same route or territory where the diseased animals have passed. The animal when coming down with the disease first has a chill, then fever, coat is rough, has a harsh cough, tenderness over the back, has an increased flow of ropy saliva, ulcers form rapidly in the mouth, then burst, and this adds blood and mucus to the saliva. When the feet are attacked, ulcers appear around the top hoof and between the toes and the animal shows lameness. Persons noticing symptoms of this kind among their cattle are asked to report immediately to the commissioner of agriculture at Albany, N. Y.

What Alaska Needs.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—Governor Brady of Alaska in his annual report makes the following recommendations: An overhauling of the public land laws, an appropriation to provide for an Alaskan exhibit at the St. Louis exposition, amendments to the liquor license law, enactment of a donation claims law, to run five years; a delegate to look after the interests of the district in Washington, a commissioner of fisheries, with vessel, helpers, etc.; a commissioner of mines similar to the minister of mines in British Columbia, a commission to examine into the condition of the natives of Alaska and to report to congress, with recommendations; encouragement to those who are undertaking to furnish means of transportation and that Alaska shall be made a lighthouse district and furnished a tender to do the work.

To Pay the Pious Fund.

CITY OF MEXICO, Dec. 4.—Secretary of the Treasury Limantour has asked congress to authorize the payment of $1,420,682, Mexican currency, to the United States, together with $43,050 interest thereon, in accordance with the award of The Hague arbitration in the matter of the Pious fund. Secretary Limantour informs congress that the expenses incurred in the proceedings, amounting to about $73,000, have already been paid, as required by the national honor and decorum.

Revenue Stamps Missing.

DANVILLE, Ky., Dec. 4.—Revenue stamps to the value of $39,000, ranging in denomination from $1 to $1,000, are missing from the internal revenue office of the Eighth district. This discovery was made by the officials investigating the recent mail pouch robbery. Besides these stamps, checks, drafts and registered letters aggregating many thousands more are missing, the exact amount of which probably will never be ascertained.

The Sign of a Watch Case

This Keystone is the identifying sign of the best watch case made—no matter what it costs. It stands for worth and wear—for beauty equal to an all-gold case, at a much smaller price. The is better protection than a solid gold case, because of its stiffness and strength. Better than any other case, because it will last for 25 years without wearing thin or losing its beauty. A reputation of 50 years proves the value of the Jas. Boss Case.

DISTURBED THE HOME.

Johanna Haley Too Strenuous and Was Taken to Elizabeth.

The serenity and monotony of the Industrial Home was disturbed, yesterday morning, by the wild shouting and cavortings of Johanna Haley, a pioneer inmate. This morning she denied a charge of drunkenness and disorderly conduct but the preponderance of evidence was too much and she went down for thirty days.

GRIFFEN'S MEN ON STRIKE

PLUMBERS AND TINNERS QUIT BECAUSE FINES ARE NOT PAID.

Fellow Workmen Did Not Settle Fines Imposed by Recent Meeting of Union.

All the plumbers and tinners in A. M. Griffen's establishment on East Front street, went out on a strike this morning. At present only the men employed at that store have gone out but it is probable that if the difficulties are not settled soon the entire membership of the local Union will be called out.

According to the statement made this morning by one of the striking men they were called out because of a number of men employed by Griffen not paying the fines imposed upon them at a recent meeting. The last time the local plumbers were called out several members of the union refused to strike and at the meeting held last evening they were fined by the president. When the men refused to pay the fine they were told that the other union men would not work with them and if they were not discharged the rest of the union men would go out on a strike. The men refused to pay the fine and strike was ordered for this morning.

When asked if the men were striking for more wages or for shorter hours, another member of the union said that the question of wages or hours did not enter into the difficulties at all.

GIFTS FOR CHRISTMAS WERE THE FEATURE

At Annual Sale Now Being Held by the Women of All Souls Unitarian Church.

THE MANY ATTRACTIONS

THOSE WHO WERE IN CHARGE OF THE VARIOUS BOOTHS.

Sale Began Yesterday and Continues This Afternoon—Supper Was Served Last Night—Those on the Different Committees.

The annual Christmas sale under the auspices of the women of the All Souls' church, which opened yesterday afternoon, is one of the most successful ever held in the church. It was continued last evening and will close this afternoon. As in previous years, the women have made great effort to display goods that will make useful and appropriate Christmas gifts for every member of the household and they have succeeded admirably this year.

There is a most attractive list of articles, both fancy and useful, and yesterday no trouble was experienced in disposing of them. The sale is being held in the Sunday-school room and the arrangement of the tables and booths is to the best advantage. The booths are decorated in various colors through the use of ribbons, bunting and flowers.

There is the art table, where many pretty things are displayed to tempt one's fancy. This is in charge of Miss Caroline Haviland, Miss Edith Leonard, Mrs. Phillip V. R. Van Wyck, Miss Laura Walker, Miss Bush and Miss Conklin. Adjoining this table is a booth devoted to the sale of neckwear, fancy and plain, to suit everybody. This booth is in charge of Mrs. Charles D. Sperry, Mrs. McCarthy and Mrs. W. L. Brown.

A tempting booth is the one used for the sale of toothsome confections of the deicious home-made kind. Mrs. Henry Nicholl, Mrs. Samuel Huntington, Mrs. Henry Phillips, Miss Huntington and Miss Nicholl have charge of this booth. Then there is the children's table, where many articles that interest the little folks are offered for sale. The Misses Osgood and Mrs. W. W. Coriell are in charge. One of the busy booths was that devoted to useful articles. The assortment is large and as nearly everything was made by the women themselves good prices are obtained. Those in charge are Mrs. Leonard, Mrs. C. E. Ryder, Mrs. Durar and Mrs. St. Enken.

Adjoining the useful booth is one where a handsome display of fancy articles is to be seen. Countless articles, both small and large, made by clever hands are quickly purchased by those who appreciate this kind of work. Those at this booth are Mrs. Adams, Mrs. Angell, Mrs. L. B. Woolston and Mrs. J. F. Buckle.

There was one strong attraction last evening. That was the most appetizing supper served by the women. This was enjoyed by many patrons and helped largely to increase the receipts of the sale for the treasury of the church. Mrs. H. B. Wells was in charge of the supper arrangements, and she was assisted by Mrs. Gates Willard, Mrs. Charles L. Brownell and the following waitresses: Miss Mary Woolston, Miss Inez M. Tolles, Miss Juna Tolles, Miss Louise Nicholl and Miss Clara Buckle.

Mrs. A. C. Nickerson, wife of the pastor of the church, is chairman of the sale and it is due to her and her faithful assistants that the affair is such a success. As previously stated, the sale will be continued throughout this afternoon, when increased patronage is expected.

Plainfielders There.

The quarterly meeting and banquet of the New York Commandery, Military Order of the Loyal Legion, was held Wednesday evening at Delmonico's, New York. Among the Plainfield members present were Dr. Frank S. Wells, S. C. Peck, John E. Stewart, M. C. Dobbins and Walter C. Dobbins. At the meeting Gen. Stewart Woodford read a paper on "The Evolutions of the Army of the Potomac."

Visited Soldiers' Home.

Past Commander Wm. C. Smith, of Post No. 73, G. A. R., inspected the Old Soldiers' Home at Kearney, Wednesday evening. He found everything to be in first-class condition and complimented the officers for it. After the inspection Mr. Smith visited Phil Kearney Post and witnessed the annual inspection.

HOLY CROSS BAZAAR WAS GREAT SUCCESS

Third and Last Day of the Fair Proved Most Successful of All.

LARGE CROWD PRESENT

RABBIT CHASE WAS EXCITING FEATURE NOT ON THE PROGRAMME.

Evening Ended With Auction Sale in Which Geo. O. Stevens Played the Leading Role—All of the Booths Did Rushing Business.

The grand three days' fair and bazaar which has been running at Holy Cross church, came to an auspicious close late last evening. The crowds present yesterday were far the largest of any of the other days, and both afternoon and evening the parish house was thronged with crowds of parishioners.

Each and every booth did a rushing business throughout the evening and the fancy booth was especially popular with the women. The stock of the "country store" had been replenished and Miss Ida Davis, who was in charge, reported the evening to have been an exceedingly profitable one. Malcolm Davis, the whistling grocer's boy, filled the grocery order until late in the evening.

The postoffice department in the country store received great numbers of letters in every mail and these in turn were distributed to the owners. Many special delivery letters and telegrams were received for which regular prices were charged

In front of the grocery store were two coops, one containing fowls and the other a rabbit. While supper was being served the rabbit in some way escaped from his coop and skipped around among the tables, delighting in his freedom. He was instantly spied by about twenty small boys who gave chase and finally succeeded in re capturing the wild creature amid much excitement.

Many large supper parties came to partake of the bountiful turkey supper and it is estimated that more than 200 of these meals were served in the course of the evening. The women of the church choir acted as waitresses.

Miss Stevens' silhouette making was a source of great attraction and scores of silhonettes were made during the evening.

"Features put together and characters torn to pieces" was the sign which persuaded many to have their fortunes told and their "handwriting read" by Miss Laura Rogers. Miss Florence Burr at the candy table had no difficulty in selling all her stock.

Much interest was shown in the guessing of the names of the doll presented to the fancy booth, and it was finally announced to have been won by Miss Mabel Hooley who guessed the right name, "Mabel."

Late in the evening, George O. Stevens caused much amusement by auctioning off various articles. A great variety of articles were sold in this way. Finally the troublesome rabbit was put up and after some hot bidding was knocked down to G. T. Rhodes.

The affair was a grand success both socially and financially and a fine round sum has been realized. The proceeds will go towards the re-decoration of the interior of the church.

Mitchell, the son of Robbin Mitchell, of Westervelt avenue. The only witness to the wedding was Mrs. E. E. Jackson, the wife of the minister.

TALK OF PENNY DAILY.

Reported That W. R. Hearst May Assist the Local Democrats.

An effort is being made by some of the local Democrats to start a penny Democratic daily newspaper in this city. It is said that John D. McAleer, of Kensington avenue, is at the head of the movement. When the local promoters have secured a thousand subscribers, it is said that W. R. Hearst, owner of the New York American, San Francisco Examiner, Chicago American and other newspapers, has declared his willingness to start such a paper here. Canvassers are now after subscriptions.

POLICE RELIEVED.

Fanwood Police Department Passes Through More Trouble—One New Appointment.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Fanwood, Dec. 5—The troubles of the borough police department, which has only been in existence about two months, have been brought to a climax. Chas. Gaffney and John Miller, who were appointed by the Borough Council for the protection of the residents, have been relieved from duty. Chas. Hockey, who has been acting as watchman, has been appointed a deputy sheriff. This gives him full power and he will no doubt be retained and will in the future be the whole department. The residents realize that it is better to have one who will patrol the streets while they are sleeping than to have several drawing salary for duty only partly performed as, it is claimed, Gaffney and Miller were doing.

The Young Friends' Association held one of its regular meetings in the meeting-house on Watchung avenue, Wednesday evening. There was a very good attendance and much interest was evidenced in the very excellent paper prepared and read by Mrs. Anna Rice Powell. The subject was "Simplicity and Moderation," and an informal discussion of it followed. A pleasing feature of the meeting was a well-given recitation by Clifford Vail on "The Crow's Children."

STORM BRINGS WIRES DOWN

First Real Snow Storm of the Season Makes Some Trouble in the City and Borough.

HIGH WINDS WITH IT

Coating of Ice of Early Morning Tore Down Branches of Trees and Carried Disaster to Wires—Two Runaways Caused—Trolley Line in Trouble—Clearing Today.

FOUND, brisk young snow storm, front slightly damaged by transmission, accompanied by strenuous north-east winds; owner can have same by applying to Plainfield, N. J.

It wandered in late last evening when most Plainfielders were comfortably tucked in their beds and displayed itself in most unattractive style when day dawned. Rain, hail and snow formed the advance guard which wandered up the coast. This combination graced the city with a coat of ice and slush which greeted the good folk when they peeped out of doors this morning. There wasn't enough of it to offer any of the attractions of the good, old-fashioned snow storm, of the kind you read about, but it made life miserable for the poor horse and the pedestrian who was compelled to venture forth.

It looked like snow yesterday and the weather observers began to predict it. Even DeVoe wandered out of Hackensack long enough to tell of a storm that was going to arrive today. It was cloudy last night and the air chilly and bleak. At 10:30, the first flakes began to fall and they came, with occasional rain and hail, in occasionally increasing numbers until this morning. The mercury kept close to the freezing point and the raindrops froze on what ever they happened to land. The result was that the trees became encrusted in coats of ice and frail branches began to fall on every side, carrying ruin to whatever wires happened to be in the way. The high wind from out of the northeast assisted in this work. As a result, electric light, telephone, telegraph and trolley companies are much troubled. Sidewalks and roadways were slippery and man and horse tumbled about when opportunity offered.

As the morning advanced, the rain and hail withdrew in favor of the whirling, tumbling snow which began to fall with some persistency. If the weather men are to be believed, this storm will continue today to be followed by clearing and colder weather this evening. While a few flakes have appeared on three previous occasions, this is the first real snow storm of the season.

In this city there was much trouble experienced with the telephone and electric light and power wires and the entire forces of the linemen of both companies were kept on the qui vive looking for trouble.

Representatives of the telephone company this morning said that they were experiencing great trouble in keeping some of their lines open and that every available man was out on the lines repairing breaks and removing branches from the wires. On some streets, principally Crescent avenue, Madison avenue, and Plainfield avenue, there were many trees which were almost stripped of their branches, and the fallen limbs almost covered the streets.

The electric light wires were down in many places and the fuses at the power house were almost constantly blowing out. In this company there was a large force of a dozen men in all parts of the city. At the corner of Watchung avenue and Richmond street, a large limb fell and broke the wires causing much trouble to the telephone and electric light people. A number of the trees were highly charged with electricity and presented a beautiful pyrotechnical display. Some electric light globes were broken.

In the borough the greatest difficulty was experienced with the fire alarm system. Chief J. J. Stahl was kept on the outlook all the morning for fire alarms and had things at the fire house in readiness for an alarm of fire. Some of the fire alarm wires were down and A. F. Brokaw, the superintendent of the system, was kept at work all the morning repairing the breaks.

There were but few accidents re

GOOD WORK DONE.

According to Reports Made at the Meeting of W. C. T. U. Yesterday.

The regular monthly business meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union was held yesterday afternoon in the rooms on Madison avenue. After the meeting opened with a service of prayer, reports were read which were of unusual interest, showing that good work had been done during the past month. It was also reported that the 9:15 o'clock meetings Sunday mornings, as well as the 4 o'clock afternoon meetings, were well attended and special interest manifested.

UNION MISSION GATHERING

METHODIST WORKERS OF CITY AND BOROUGH TO MEET.

Missionary Assembly Will be Held at Grace M. E. Church, December 11.

A union missionary assembly of the Methodist Episcopal churches, Sunday-schools and Epworth Leagues, of Plainfield, will be held at the Grace M. E. church at the corner of Somerset street and Park place, Thursday, December 11.

The afternoon session will be called to order at 2:30 when Rev. Dr. Daniel Halleron will preside. Rev. Dr. A. C. McCrea, the missionary secretary of the Elizabeth district, will make an address on the great Cleveland convention. An interesting hour at this session has been arranged for the children when Miss Agnes McAllister, of West Africa, will tell of the African devil worshippers. Miss McAllister is the author of the book entitled, "The Lone Woman in Africa."

At the afternoon session, Rev. Henry H. Carroll, secretary of the Missionary Society, of the Methodist Episcopal church, will preside. Rev. Dr. A. H. Tuttle, who made an address at the Cleveland convention, will repeat his address on the "Preparation for Mission Work."

"The Present Opportunities in China," will be the subject of an address at the evening session by Rev. Dr. David Hastings Moore, Bishop of Shanghai, China. There will be special music at both the afternoon and evening sessions and a large number of out-of-town Methodists are expected to be present.

RUSTIC DRESS EXPECTED.

Pad and Pencil Club Will Frown Upon "Glad Rags."

The committee of the Pad and Pencil Club announces that store clothes in detail will be frowned upon at its country dance to be given in the I. C. T. club rooms, Wednesday evening, December 17. Great pains have been taken to make the affair as unique in a rural way as possible and the presence of "biled" shirts, evening dresses and modern frills will be decidedly out of contrast with the surroundings. Gingham and calico gowns with sunbonnets and loose flowing hair will befit the women while the swains are warned that fancy raiment will be frowned upon. Suhr's Possum Hollow orchestra is to be arrayed in colonial costume.

Auction at Church.

A meeting of the Sewing Circle, of the Swedish Evangelical Pilgrim church, was held yesterday afternoon in the church when the pastor, Rev. O. G. Norseen, was present and spoke. The regular mid-week service of the church was held last evening when the pastor conducted the service. An auction sale will be held at the church a week from this Saturday evening.

The local team's work in conferring the Orient is considered to be the best of any in the district as any of those who have got it can testify.

SMOKED PEACE PIPE IN WETUMPKAH'S LODGE

Local Red Men Played Hosts and Regaled the Visitors With Song and Story.

INNER MAN CARED FOR

WETUMPKAH TRIBE ENTERTAINED WITH A PLEASANT PROGRAMME.

Impressive Part Was Presentation of Seminole Peace Pipe to Tribe by Mr. Merriam—The Committee in Charge of the Affair.

Wetumpkah Tribe, No. 229, I. O. R. M., acted as host for a large number of pale faces who filled the wigwam on Park avenue, last evening, for a peace gathering. The ordinarily conservative Red Man proved a capital entertainer and the visitors were regaled with song and story and powwow and afterward with "corn and venison.

The programme given in deail was as follows: Piano selections by Marcus Hoyt and Mrs. Daniel Dodge; recitations by Miss Josie Murphy, Miss Ada Westphal, Miss Adele T. vonOhl and Jere Foss; violin selections by Robert Hand, accompanied by Mrs. Daniel Dodge, William McKillop, Miss Lizzie Hickey and P. Hawksburst O'Reilly; vocal selections by Miss Anuie Daley, Mrs. John Manley, Karl A. Martin and John Moran; piano duet by the Misses Vodemeier and remarks by William A. Westphal.

An impressive part of the evening's entertainment was the presentation to the tribe of an Indian peace pipe by Dr. Merriam, who spent ten years among the Seminoles of Florida, and who is a member of the order. Part of his address was spoken in the Seminole tongue and was responded to by Robert Humphrey.

The committee in charge of consisted Michael Armstrong, William A. Westphal and Robert Humphrey.

HILLSIDE PLAYED.

But Its Women's Team Failed to Finish Better Than Fifth in Second Section.

Miss Ruth Underhill has sent out the official ratings of the Class A and B. team championships of the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association, the first cup having been won by Baltusrol and the cup for the second series by Powelton.

It has been the most successful season of team play in the history of the association, for only one team withdrew, and, of the twenty-one matches scheduled in Class A., only one was defaulted and one was not played within the time limit, a great improvement over the season of 1901. The Class B series was carried out without a break, although some of the teams had to make quite long journeys to fill the dates. The two series will be continued next year, on a schedule to be arranged at the annual meeting in the spring.

The tables follows:

CLASS A.

	Won.	Lost.	Per Cent.

I. C. T. FAIR.

Tonight Will be Y. M. A. Night and Members Will be Admitted Free.

No signs of abatement were noticed in regard to interest at the I. C. T. fair, last evening, the attendance being as large as ever. Many of the larger articles on sale at the booths were disposed of at profit to the organization while the other attractions did a thriving business.

Owing to illness, Voight Burke, the giant policeman, was unable to be present. This evening will be Y. M. A. night and all members of the association are to be admitted free.

To Play on Hyde's Pond.

The management of the City High School hockey team has secured the use of Hyde's pond for games. The pond is enclosed and is of such a shape as to make it an admirable hockey pond.

Several Degrees.

A special convocation of Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, F. and A. M., was held last evening when the mark master, past master and most excellent degrees were worked on several candidates.

KENTUCKIAN'S TALE OF BACK ROOM AND WINE

Claims His "Jag" Was Obtained From Shop of Barber and Peanut Vender.

ARRAIGNED IN COURT

PATSY ROSSO SAYS THAT KENTUCKIAN NEVER CAME IN HIS SHOP.

Police Found J. Barrett Rowdin, a Horse Tainer, in Backyard—Was Helplessly Intoxicated—Told His Story This Morning.

Evidence that Patsy Rosso, who has a combination barber shop and peanut store on Park avenue, near Fourth street, has another enterprise on the side, was heard in the city court, this morning, when J. Barrett Rowdin, a horse trainer from Kentucky, was arraigned on a charge of drunkenness and disorderly conduct.

Rowdin declared with emphasis that he had gotton his entire jag in Rosso's place, last evening, whither he had gone for some tonsorial needs. Rosso had remarked, he said, that he was retailing some good red wine. The Kentuckian proceeded to a rear room where he sampled the beverage. Rowdin soon lost his bearings and Rosso, he says, deposited him in the back yard. He was taken from there by Patrolman McCarthy in response to a telephone message from a tenant in the building.

In court Rowdin claimed that he had $4 when he went in the place but thirty cents was all the police found in his pockets. As the court considered he had been sufficiently punished, sentence was suspended. When questioned by the police Rosso denied the man was in his place.

Howard, pastor of the Hope chapel. Interment was in the Methodist cemetery.

SOCIAL QUEEN.

Lakewood is Now Most Fashionable Winter Resort.

Lakewood's popularity is the result of years of well directed effort on the part of those interested in its success, and now it is not only the most renowned but the most fashionable resort in the vicinity of New York. Its exceptionally mild climate permits participation in all kinds of sports throughout the entire winter months, and driving, walking, cycling, golf, polo, and other out-of-door pastimes are indulged in. Nowhere else in this country is there so great a number of finely equipped and comfortable hotels as at Lakewood, and the guests, slightest wants are gratified in every respect. Lakewood is a healthful place as its location is in the famous pine belt of New Jersey, and that it is accessible is demonstrated by the numbers who are daily commuters between New York and Lakewood and Philadelphia and Lakewood via the New Jersey Central. If you are interested in Lakewood's life, drop a postal to C. M. Burt, general passenger agent, New Jersey Central, New York, for Pamphlet, L. I. It's free for the asking. c —Mrs. Freda Leavy, who is the daughter of the late Anton Gaub, has returned to this city to reside here permanently. She has been living in New York, where her husband, Morris Leavy, died suddenly two weeks ago.

A Cold Wave.

The forecast of sudden changes in the weather serves notice that a hoarse voice and a heavy cough may invade the sanctity of health in your own home. Cautious people have a bottle of One Minute Cough Cure always at hand. E. H. Wise, Madison, Ga., writes: "I am indebted to One Minute Cough Cure for my present good health, and probably my life." It cures Coughs, Colds, La-Grippe, Bronchitis, Pneumonia and all Throat and Lung troubles. One Minute Cough Cure cuts the phlegm, draws out the inflammation, heals and soothes the mucous membranes and strengthens the lungs. L. W. Randolph.

ONE VIEW.

West End Taxpayer Objects to Building of a Separate Disposal Plant for the Borough.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—There has been considerable talk about North Plainfield getting a sewerage system of its own, and of securing for this purpose, the farm at West End avenue and Greenbrook road and building a sewerage disposal bed thereon. This, in my way of thinking, would be a most unwise move. For it would spoil for all time a most promising section and one which now is (and soon will be more so) a great credit to the borough.

The section in question is admirably situated, for improvements of a beneficial nature, for it is far enough away from the business section to be out of its noise, confusion and disagreeablenesses, while at the same time everything is accessible. Is convenient (only seven minutes walk) to the station at Grant avenue.

Here most of the ground is as high (if not higher) than at any other point of Plainfield.

Then, too, in the past few years Rockview terrace has been improved by the expenditure of large sums of money in the building of fine houses.

If North Plainfield must have sewer beds, why not join Plainfield and use those already built. But better still why not carry a sewerage system to tidewater at New Brunswick.

A West End Taxpayer.

THEATRICAL.

The story of "The Crisis," which James K. Hackett presented for the first time in New York at Wallack's Theatre on Monday evening Nov. 17, has been made familiar to something like a million readers through the medium of Winston Churchill's remarkably popular novel of the same title; and in his dramatization the author has achieved the unusual feat of making a play which is even more popular than the book, while at the same time it stands on its own merits as a dramatic production irrespective of the original. Thus the spectator enjoys the play whether he has read the book or not; and if he is already familiar with the events and characters of the novel, still more will he enjoy the realization on the stage, amidst the scenes which the author has described so vividly. Mr. Churchill has eliminated all the historical characters and battle scenes which occurred in the book, and confined the play principally to the romance of Stephen Brice, the young Abolitionist, and Virginia Carvel, the typical daughter of the south, whose hearts and hands are eventually joined, even across the bloody chasm of sectional conflict. The stirring events immediately preceding and during the Civil War are used merely as a background against which to bring this dainty romance, and its contributory characters, into vivid and highly dramatic relief; but in atmosphere and sentiment the play is more closely allied to "Alabama," than to the class of war plays typified by "Shenandoah."

A ROYAL TRAIN.

Such is the Train Between New York and Washington.

The finest is none too good for the traveler and tourist of today, and in its Royal Blue Line between New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington, the New Jersey Central has a most complete and fast service. There are five trains each way each day, which make the run New York to Washington in five hours, and the trains in every respect are sumptuous to the last degree. The coaches, parlor cars, buffets, observation, dining and cafe cars were specially built for these trains and no detail, no matter how trifling, is overlooked. Of the dining car service enough is said in the statement that it has no peer. The route of the Royal Blue is picturesque and the scene presented one of great variety. The New Jersey Central operates a sleeping car service to Pittsburg, Cincinnati, St. Louis and Chicago, and its rates to these points are reasonable; its stations in New York at foot of Liberty street, North River and South Ferry. If you want to travel and travel in style use the Royal Blue Line. If you want a book on the Royal Blue, write to C. M. Burt, G. P. A., New Jersey Central, N. Y. It's free for the asking. c —T. C. Roberts-Honfield, of New York, has been secured as the speaker at the men's meeting at Y. M. C. A. Hall, Sunday afternoon.

—Harry Schuck, of Manning avenue, is the assistant during the holidays of J. J. Stahl, in his candy manufactury on Somerset street.

What's In a Name?

Everything is in the name when it comes to Witch Hazel Salve. E. C. DeWitt & Co., of Chicago, discovered, some years ago, how to make a salve from Witch Hazel that is a specific for Piles. For Blind, bleeding, itching and protruding Piles, eczema, cuts, burns, bruises and all skin diseases DeWitt's Salve has no equal. This has given rise to numerous worthless counterfeits. Ask for DeWitt's—the genuine. L. W. Randolph.

BILLS FOR BARBERS.

State Association is After Legislation on Sunday Closing and Licensed Barbers.

The New Jersey State Barbers' Association, which was recently formed, is preparing to introduce two bills in the next Legislature, one of which will provide for the appointment of a State board of examiners, before which all barbers will have to go to be examined as to their knowledge of tonsorial practice, and another will call for the closing of all barber shops throughout the State on Sundays. The first bill, the association intends, will provide that no barbers be allowed to practise in the State without a certificate from the proposed State board.

The association will also seek the aid of legislation to do away with unsanitary barber shops. A meeting was recently held at Newark, when the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Charles Troxler, of Newark; first vice president, J. L. Bollin, Jersey City; second vice president, Harry Colon, Elizabeth; treasurer, P. H. Duffy, Hoboken; secretary, Otto Bayer, Jersey City; sergeant-at-arms, John C. H. Nicholaus, Passaic. The next meeting of the association will be held at Hoboken on December 7, when a legislative committee will be appointed.

The Christmas Rush Has Started In Early.

The good folk who comprise the shopping public are realizing more and more each season the advisability of making their selections just as soon as the holiday announcement is made, and it's a wise policy, too—one that means much to the merchant and a great deal more to the buyer. Isn't it better and more profitable to shop when assortments are complete than to wait until the last minute and be forced to look over broken lines? Remember in the season's which are now history how the public waited until the last minute and what disappointments was theirs. Conditions have changed. We've urged morning visits when practical, and the large crowds that have flocked, as it were, into our store before 12 o'clock prove that our urging was not in vain. THE MINERS TESTIFY

Conditions Existing In Hazleton Region Related.

RUMORS OF SETTLEMENT STILL RIFE

A Fireman Tells of Being Compelled to Work Twenty-four Hours Without Relief—Father Hussie's Story.

SCRANTON, Pa., Dec. 5.—At yesterday's session of the anthracite strike commission the representatives of the mine workers continued to call witnesses, mostly practical miners, who told their story of conditions as they exist in the Hazleton, or middle, coalfields. The miners tried to show by these witnesses that the Coxe and other companies had violated the agreement entered into by both sides when the commission was appointed that the strikers should return to work and be given their old places back where they had not already been filled. Some of the witnesses called testified that they were not given back their old places and maintained that men prominent in the union in the various localities during the strike were discriminated against.

The commission has decided to invite the mine inspectors to appear before them, because the miners claim that the workmen fear to inform the mine inspectors of dangerous or unhealthy places in the mines because the inspectors are usually accompanied by some representative of the company, who may cause the man's dismissal. This is a new point before the commission.

Rumors of possible negotiations looking toward a settlement outside the commission continue to be heard. Lawyers admit they have heard such rumors, but say they know nothing about a possible settlement. Whatever is done will be first decided upon in New York, where those in authority to act are located. Several attorneys, among them W. W. Ross of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western company, have returned to the metropolis. Whether or not it is in connection with peace negotiations cannot be learned here. The opinion still prevails here, and rather strongly, too, that the operators and the miners will agree on most points before the commission concludes its hearings.

Jackson Ansbach of the Hazleton region was an interesting witness because he is the first fireman to appear before the commission. He said he received $1.57 for a day of twelve hours and his assistant $1.26. On every other Sunday, when he and his assistant shifted from day to night work, they were compelled to work twenty-four hours straight without relief. This statement caused a buzz through the courtroom, and every commissioner straightened up and became more interested. In answer to a question put by the commission he said he was off duty one day every two weeks, thus working six days one week and eight days the following week.

"Supposing you should fall asleep when you work in the long shift of twenty-four hours, what would happen?" asked Mr. Darrow.

"Well," he replied, "if I slept long enough the fans would stop, gas would accumulate in the mines, and if an explosion took place some men might be killed; that's all."

The Rev. James V. Hussie, rector of St. Gabriel's Roman Catholic church, Hazleton, and the dean, by appointment of the bishop of the diocese, of lower Luzerne county, an ecclesiastical preferment, as he called it, was the next witness. Father Hussie stated that he had an intimate knowledge of conditions in and about Hazleton by reason of being the rector of the parish there.

When asked to explain the general conditions as he found them, Father Hussie said he had lived in the coal regions practically all his life. "The conditions in this region," he said, "are deplorable. The mine workers are barely able to exist. I say this without any coloring, knowing that I am under oath. I realize that what I say is going to the American people, and I want to talk cautiously. I have been in their homes. They are not homes, but merely a habitation, a resting place. They are frugal, conservative, reasonable and a God fearing people. We have eight Catholic churches in Hazleton, and they are crowded every Sunday with worshipers, and this is no doubt true of the churches whose faith is opposed to ours."

Continuing, Father Hussie said that this was the condition before the strike, that during the suspension the mine workers and their families were more pinched and that they were most economical in many things and barely existed. Families cannot be kept together, he said. The boys are sent into the mines almost as soon as "they are able to toddle out," and the girls are sent to the mills in the small towns in the vicinity or drift to the large cities. He related instances of poverty and said that it took one man six years before he was able to pay off a funeral debt of $200. In reply to further questioning Father Hussie said that he had examined fifty or sixty mine workers and found that only three of them were able to save any money. One was a Scotchman, one an Austrian and the third inherited money. He examined the tax lists of Hazleton, he said, and in a population of which perhaps 70 per cent was made up of mine workers only eighty mine employees out of 1,723 persons assessed owned their own homes. He could not say whether they were clear of debt.

ORGANIZED 1888.

At a special meeting of The Home Building and Loan Association held November 17th, 1902, a resolution was passed to amend its by-laws pertaining to interest on loans, which was heretofore six per cent. per annum—permitting the Board of management to loan money at a reduced rate of interest on future loans. Prospective home buyers will do well to apply to the Secretary for particulars.

The Home Building and Loan Association during fifteen years of business has redeemed seven semi-annual series. It has at this time an investment of over $150,000 00 divided among about eighty members; and has paid 5½ to 6 per cent. compound interest to its investors. Total number of members 350.

The Association meets the third Monday of each month from 7 to 9 p. m., at 120 East Front Street, Plainfield. Shares $1.00 per month. Entrance fee 25 cents per share.

Here's a Recipe for Making Bread.

WHEN a well bred girl expects to wed,
'Tis well to remember that men like bread.
We're going to show the steps to take,
So she may learn good bread to make.

2.
FIRST, mix a lukewarm quart, my daughter,
One-half of milk and one-half of water;
To this please add two cakes of yeast,
Or the liquid kind if preferred in the least.

3.
NEXT stir in a teaspoonful of nice clear salt,
If this bread is n't good, it won't be our fault.
Now add the sugar, tablespoonfuls three;
Mix well together, for dissolved they must be.

4.
POUR the whole mixture into an earthen bowl,
A pan's just as good, if it hasn't a hole.
It's the cook and the flour, not the bowl or the pan,
That—"Makes the bread that makes the man."

5.
NOW let the mixture stand a minute or two.
You've other things of great importance to do.
First sift the flour—use the finest in the land.
Three quarts is the measure, "GOLD MEDAL" the brand.

SOME people like a little shortening power,
If this is your choice, just add to the flour
Two tablespoonfuls of lard, and jumble it about,
Till the flour and lard are mixed without doubt.

7.
NEXT stir the flour into the mixture that's stood
Waiting to play its part, to make the bread good.
Mix it up thoroughly, but not too thick;
Some flours make bread that's more like a brick.

8.
NOW grease well a bowl and put the dough in,
Don't fill the bowl full, that would be a sin;
For the dough is all right and it's going to rise,
Till you will declare that it's twice the old size.

9.
BRUSH the dough with melted butter, as the recipes say;
Cover with a bread towel, set in a warm place to stay
Two hours or more, to rise until light,
When you see it grow, you'll know it's all right.

10.
AS soon as it's light place again on the board;
Knead it well this time. Here is knowledge to hoard.
Now back in the bowl once more it must go,
And set again to rise for an hour or so.

11.
FORM the dough gently into loaves when light,
And place it in bread pans greased just right.
Shape each loaf you make to half fill the pan,
This bread will be good enough for any young man.

12.
NEXT let it rise to the level of pans—no more,
Have the temperature right—don't set near a door.
We must be careful about draughts; it isn't made to freeze,
Keep the room good and warm—say 72 degrees.

13.
NOW put in the oven,—it's ready to bake,—
Keep uniform fire, great results are at stake.
One hour more of waiting and you'll be repaid,
By bread that is worthy "A Well Bred Maid."

Here is the Same Thing in Prose.

GOLD MEDAL FLOUR.

BREAD RECIPE.

To one quart of lukewarm wetting—half water and half milk, or water alone—add two half-ounce compressed yeast cakes, or the usual quantity of liquid yeast, and stir until dissolved.

Add one teaspoonful of salt and three tablespoonfuls of sugar and when well dissolved, stir in with wooden spoon, three quarts of well sifted flour, or until dough is sufficiently stiff to be turned from the mixing bowl to the moulding board in a mass.

If shortening is desired add two tablespoonfuls lard.

Knead this dough, adding if necessary from time to time, flour until it becomes smooth and elastic and ceases to stick to fingers or board.

Do not make dough too stiff. Spring Wheat Flour needs a little more working than Winter Wheat Flour, and should be a little softer to make it rise properly.

Put dough into well greased earthen bowl, brush lightly with melted butter or drippings, cover with towel and set in warm place, about 75 degrees, for two hours, or until light, then knead well and return to bowl, cover as before and set for another hour's rising or until light.

When light, form gently into loaves or rolls, place in greased bread pans, brush with butter or drippings, cover again and let stand for one and one-half hours, then bake.

Disaster In Chicago Hotel Already Condemned.

"A VERITABLE TRAP," SAYS CORONER

The Building Was Filled to Its Utmost Capacity When the Fire Broke Out—Guests Were Suffocated.

CHICAGO, Dec. 5.—It is now known that fourteen men met death by suffocation in the early morning fire which occurred in the Lincoln hotel, 176 Madison street. Thirteen of those who lost their lives were stifled while lying in their beds. One was taken from the building before life was extinct, but died in the ambulance on the way to the nearest hospital.

Coroner Traeger after inspecting the building united with Fire Chief Musham in declaring that the building was a veritable trap and never should have been used for hotel purposes. Chief Musham declared that there were such wide cracks in the floors that the smoke poured through the building in clouds, rendering escape extremely difficult for those on the upper floors.

There was no fire escape on the front of the building, although one was in process of construction. The scaffolding was up, and from it dangled several ropes, down which a number of people slid to the pavement after all escape by the stairway had been cut off.

The hotel was four stories in height and contained an unusual number of rooms for a hotel of its size. After the fire Chief Musham of the fire department declared that they were the smallest rooms he had ever seen in any building. Had there been fewer partitions, he declared, the chances of life for those sleeping on the upper floors of the hotel would have been greatly increased.

F. A. Smith, proprietor of the hotel, declared that there were as nearly as he could judge without his books about 125 people in the hotel. It was, in fact, filled to its utmost capacity, and many applicants for rooms had been turned away with the information that they could not be accommodated.

Night Clerk E. C. Weber first discovered smoke pouring through the halls and did his best to alarm the guests, but the smoke was so dense and increased in volume so rapidly that he was able to arouse only a small number and was then compelled to grope his way to the street to avoid suffocation. The guests came pouring down the one stairway of the building in all stages of undress, and several leaped from the windows of the second story to the sidewalk below and escaped without serious injury. A number of men, turned back by the smoke in the hallways, which prevented them from finding the stairs, swung down on the ropes placed in the front of the building by the workmen who were erecting the fire escape.

The building was some time ago condemned by the city building inspectors as unsafe for hotel purposes. After the inspection Coroner Traeger said:

"The fire undoubtedly was caused by the explosion of an oil stove in the rear of the third floor."

Marseilles Strike Unsettled.

MARSEILLES, Dec. 5.—The syndicate of shipowners has made a proposition to the strikers which, it is stated, is in the nature of a compromise, and it is believed that an agreement will be made. Meantime the government has organized a temporary steamship service with Corsica, Algiers and Tunis, furnishing sailors from the navy for the regular steamers. When the steamer Rhone was on the point of sailing for Bona at noon, the crew suddenly deserted in spite of the protests and prayers of the 250 passengers. The latter refused to disembark, and the steamer sailed late in the afternoon manned by naval sailors.

Great Crowds at Stock Show.

CHICAGO, Dec. 5.—Yesterday was a banner day at the International Live Stock exposition, 70,000 people passing through the turnstiles. In the Dexter park amphitheater the crowd was so dense that a police reserve was sent into the ring to prevent a crush and to lend assistance in case of emergency. No accidents occurred, however, and the enthusiasm of the spectators was great as the prize winners composing the evening's parade passed through the exhibition space.

Floods In Georgia.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Dec. 5.—Heavy rains have fallen throughout south Georgia for four days. Reports from Bainbridge, Brunswick, Valdosta and Waycross say the water courses are out of their banks, and houses in towns are flooded and bridges washed away. Bainbridge reports a rainfall of about thirteen inches in four days. At Valdosta a small boy was struck and killed by lightning. Railroad schedules are being interrupted by high water.

Rathbone Asks Investigation.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—Major Estes G. Rathbone, who was convicted of irregularities during his incumbency as director of posts of Cuba and who was pardoned after the American occupation ended, is at the capital for the purpose of pressing his petition filed with the senate at the last session for an investigation of the methods used in his conviction by the Cuban courts.

William Has a Sore Eye.

BERLIN, Dec. 5.—Owing to a slight inflammation of the left eye the emperor was unable to go hunting, as he proposed, at Slawentzitz, Silesia. His majesty remained at the castle and canceled an engagement to lunch with the officers of the cuirassiers.

WORK OF THE RELIEF ASSOCIATION.

The annual report of the Relief Association, just at hand should always be welcomed with thoughtful interest, for it represents the charitable work done by a body of intelligent and conscientious women who disburse with discretion the gifts of many generous and liberal minded citizens.

An increase has been made in the number constituting the Board of Managers, thus interesting a larger number of persons. One of the most effective methods of the association is that of personal visitation, the families visited often finding in the visitor a wise, cheerful and judicious friend. The employment bureau stands for independence instead of dependence, making possible work by the poor in place of charity to the poor. The receipts from the wood yard, $171.25; the amount given in payment for work done by women, $461.66, and the amount of sales, $559.50, make a good offset to the amount given gratuitously, $168.71.

Unless one has given this subject thoughtful consideration, the great gain in careful investigation and wisely given labor instead of careless and promiscuous alms-giving cannot be fully appreciated. The Relief Association deserves the hearty support and co-operation of those blessed with prosperity. Many who have means, cannot give the time necessary to learn the merits of the applicants and devise ways to aid without injury, but this organization planned with thought and carried on with an outlay of time and more thought is seeking to do its best for the unfortunate and afflicted.

The appeal for visitors ought to reach some women with leisure who would find a rich reward in ministering to the wants of some struggling fellow traveller, with whom the battle of life has been a hard and losing one. Here is work, not only for the rich, but for the willing hearted, the spiritually gifted, the sympathetic helper and tactful adviser.

Councilman Geo. P. Mellick's statement, as given in The Daily Press yesterday, serves to straighten out a misunderstanding which seems to have been quite general. The appropriation of $1,500 was simply a maximum figure and the finance committee has no intention of spending that amount on the work of auditing the books of the city treasurer and collector, unless it cannot be done for less which is not at all likely. Mr. Mellick has shown himself such a careful man in city affairs that it seems as if he could be counted on this time to see that there is no extravagant use of the public funds.

A New York merchant with a small store (his capital being $2,000) had only a neighborhood trade when he began to advertise in the newspapers, relates the Philadelphia Record. In selling a lot of women's wrappers he paid for his advertising nearly all his profits, but the publicity brought business for his other lines. For ten years his trade doubled each year, and he is now in new quarters and is in a fair way to do the business of a great department store. His success is due largely to his courage in advertising.

Local coal dealers assure us that, the report to the contrary notwithstanding, the price of coal in Plainfield is not likely to go any higher this winter. They declare that Plainfield is better supplied than most cities in the country, New York included.

This is the season when the wise merchant is telling the people what a supply of holiday goods he possesses. You cannot expect them to know by intuition but there is no better medium to reach the public of Plainfield and vicinity than The Daily Press.

Even the cold weather cannot keep the lovers of outdoor sport quiet. After unusually active seasons in baseball and football, they are now making special preparations for hockey.

After all the troubles which have afflicted the Somerset Republicans, it is a change to hear of a probable shakeup in the Democratic ranks in that county.

ported this morning in the borough. One farmer, drove into town and stopped his horse beneath a tree on Stone street. A branch of the tree fell on his back. The animal took fright and dashed down the street but was caught before it had run very far. There was a deep cut on the animal's back where the limb had struck it.

Several accidents were reported where persons had slipped on the icy pavements but their names were not learned. The borough school was not in session as the teachers were away at Bound Brook where they are attending the sessions of the Teachers' Institute, and consequently the small boy and his sled was the principal object of life in the streets. On Franklin avenue there were a number of small branches lying in the street, but in the Park there were some very large limbs broken off and in some places blocked the travel on those streets.

The trolleys were operated this morning under difficulties on the local lines and on account of the ice forming on the trolley wires they were unable to keep to their schedule time. The surburban lines were almost unable to keep running as the tracks were slippery and the wheels were unable to take hold. Sand had to be used in great quantities in order to keep the cars running.

In this city on some of the lines trouble was experienced by wires falling on the trolley wires and the fuses in the cars blew out on several occasions. The snow was not deep enough to necessitate the operating of the snow plow but a force of men were on the lines keeping the tracks and wires clear of obstructions. No accidents were reported.

Late this morning this city was shut off from all communication westward either by telephone or telegraph. The railroad tracks between this city and Bound Brook were blocked by twenty-three poles which had blown down leaving a tangled mass of wires on the tracks, which blocked the railroad for some time. The train which was due in this city from Bound Brook at 11:25 did not arrive here until after 12 o'clock.

There was not a car running on Front street this morning on anything like schedule time. The power fluctuated so that at times there was not enough to move two cars at once. The snow sweepers were not put in operation until the power from the Elizabeth branch of the line was turned into this city.

For three hours this morning the city was without any protection against fire as a large limb of a tree on East Second street fell and broke almost every wire in the system where they run into the fire headquarters. The telephone people who have charge of the system were at work in a short while repairing the break. Shortly before noon, the snow stopped. The high wind continued, however, with no signs of abatement. The mercury began a downward course. The total snow fall amounted to two inches.

QUIET HOME AFFAIR.

Marriage of Miss Agnes M. Graham and Edwin T. James.

A quiet home wedding was celebrated Wednesday evening at the home of Benjamin Sutton, 417 Webster place, when his niece, Miss Agnes M. Graham, and Edwin T. James, of St. Kitts, British West Indies, were married by Rev. F. D. Tildon, pastor of Bethel chapel, in the presence of a few intimate friends and relatives. The bridemaid was Miss Sadie Graham, a sister of the bride, while Edward Jackson, of East Second street, was best man.

After the marriage a very informal reception was held and refreshments were served. The couple will reside in this city. The groom has been employed for some time past by F. O. Herring, of Park avenue.

Ended Its Suffering.

A trolley car yesterday ran over a little dog on the upper part of Somerset street when making its trip to this city. The dog was very badly mangled and was suffering great agony. A small boy who was returning from a hunting trip in the mountains came along with a shot gun and ended the animal's misery.

REED'S CONDITION CRITICAL.

Ex-Speaker's Disease Takes a Turn For the Worse.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—The condition of ex-Speaker Reed is worse. Uræmia has developed, and a specialist from Philadelphia has been sent for. The doctors have held several consultations.

All reports from the sickroom show that the condition of the distinguished patient is serious. Dr. MacDonald, the surgeon in charge, says that the kidney trouble has manifested itself, and that is more serious than appendicitis.

It is understood that Mr. Reed is also a sufferer from Brightis disease, and this serious complication of disorders renders his condition very alarming to those in close attendance.

While there is a disposition to discourage the idea that the condition of Mr. Reed is critical, Dr. MacDonald admits that the case has reached a serious stage.

Dr. Gardner makes this statement regarding former Speaker Reed's condition:

Mr. Reed's temperature was 100, pulse 80, respiration 33. As far as the inflammation of the vermiform appendix is concerned, this is giving the physicians little concern, as the inflammation is steadily decreasing, but a kidney complication has made its appearance, which at the present time is more serious than the appendicitis."

A GHASTLY JOKE.

Boy Blown Up With Air Pump by His Companions.

PATERSON, Dec. 5.—Harry Wright, a boy employed in the Cooke Locomotive works, in this city, was horribly tortured and killed by several other boys who worked in the same shop. Wright was actually blown up by a pneumatic pump. Compressed air was forced into his body at high pressure until the pressure broke his heart. Then his abdomen swelled to a frightful degree, and the boys who were inflicting the torture dropped the pump and fled.

Men who were at work in the shop heard the boy's screams and, rushing to the spot, found Wright writhing in agony. An ambulance was summoned, and young Wright was taken to a hospital. Every effort was made to save his life, but the shock could not be overcome, and the boy died.

Wright's torturers were Henry Dorn, Albert Ross, Daniel Christie, Leonard Vanderslag and William Heintjes. All are boys around the age of sixteen. They were employed in the night shift at the locomotive works.

Milks Acquitted of Arson Charge.

LITTLE VALLEY, N. Y., Dec. 5.—Gilbert Milks of Cattaraugus, who has been tried three times for arson, has been acquitted after a trial before Judge Lambert lasting four days. This is thought to be the end of the somewhat celebrated Milks-Smith arson case, which has been watched with interest throughout western New York. In June, 1898, the Milks farm buildings in the town of New Albion were burned. In September following Milks and Mitchell Smith were indicted for arson. Since then Milks has been tried three times, being convicted on each occasion and each time securing a new trial. Mitchell Smith has been also acquitted.

Medal For Professor Hilprecht.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 5.—Professor H. V. Hilprecht, the eminent archæologist, was presented by the University of Pennsylvania with a diploma awarding to him the Lucy Wharton Drexel medal for his excavations at Nippur and his publications on the subject. The fund for the medals was established last month by Lucy Wharton Drexel, who donated to the university the sum of $2,000, the income of which is to be expended for medals to be awarded once a year for the best archæological excavator or for the best publication based on archæological excavations by an English speaking scholar.

Two Children Burned.

DETROIT, Mich., Dec. 5.—A special to the Free Press from Saginaw, Mich., says that two children of Mrs. Ainsley Bowers, 914 Starles street, were burned to death when their mother left them alone in the house for a few minutes. One child was a girl six years old and the other an infant of two months. It is supposed the little girl set fire to some papers with which she was playing. The two dead bodies lay on the floor when the fire department responded to an alarm. The house was only slightly damaged.

Dynamite Dropped; Death Followed.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 5.—Horace E. Keilig, aged forty-five years, superintendent of the Germantown Crematory company, was blown to atoms by an explosion of dynamite. The dynamite was used for blasting purposes in the cemetery attached to the crematory, and Keilig was carrying twelve sticks of the explosives into a toolhouse when he stumbled and dropped his bundle. An explosion followed, and Keilig was blown to pieces.

Zero Weather In Kansas.

TOPEKA, Kan., Dec. 5.—Zero weather is reported from a number of localities in northern Kansas, but the sudden fall in temperature is believed to have caught but few cattlemen unprepared. In Kiowa county, in the southwestern part of the state, the supply of coal for general consumption is scant.

Early Snow In Mississippi.

JACKSON, Miss., Dec. 5.—General rain and snow storms prevail throughout the entire state. This is the earliest snow known here in years. Business is practically at a standstill, telegraph wires are prostrated, and railway traffic has been impeded to some extent.

Weather Probabilities.

Snow, followed by fair and colder.

THE KIDNAPPED MILLIONAIRES

A TALE OF WALL STREET AND THE TROPICS

By FREDERICK U. ADAMS.

Copyright, 1902, by LaSalle Publishing Company. All rights reserved.

"You talk like a political platform, Walter," replied Hammond. "You believe nothing of the kind. You are perfectly well aware that no effective anti-trust law will be affirmed by the courts. Every time a test is made, the various courts pronounce such laws unconstitutional. Twenty states have passed anti-trust enactments, and all have met the same fate. I do not believe it is possible by law to prevent any two men, 20 men or 100 men from consolidating their interests and thereby saving and increasing their profits. The trust is the inevitable result of revolutionary forces. It possesses certain advantages. These must be conserved. On the other hand, the trust of to-day possesses certain features which menace our very existence as a people. A remedy must be found; but it must be a natural remedy. You know my views on this subject, and I do not propose to abuse your hospitality by inflicting anew on you the details of my pet theory, which may or may not be worthy of consideration."

"If we could but devise some plan to bring about a national or international congress of such men," said Hestor, taking out his pencil and jotting down a list he had in mind. "I can imagine the headlines, 'College of Financial Giants,' 'Millionaires as Reformers,' 'Syndicates to the Rescue,' 'Trusts Tremble,' 'Wealth Willing to Compromise.' It would be great! If we could get some foreign financiers with titles to stand sponsor for the idea, our home product would be more likely to follow their lead. It is worth thinking about. I am going to cable Van Horne and suggest it to him."

"No, I do not think it possible to bring such a body of men into a conference," continued Hammond, as Hestor remained silent, with a far-away expression in his eyes. "In the first place they would not meet; in the second place, they would not talk. They are not willing even to defend their methods, to say nothing of taking the initiative towards reforming them. We must possess our souls in patience; do the best we can, and let the sequence of events work out its destiny. It is our good fortune that we can better afford to wait than most of those who think they have reason to complain. A millionaire lawyer with a good practice, and the millionaire correspondent and special envoy of a newspaper, should be able to withstand the onslaughts of trust magnates for a considerable period."

"I am going to form a trust," said Hestor suddenly.

"Yes?"

"You need not laugh. I am. I am going to form a newspaper trust."

"All right, Walter," rejoined Hammond, who was familiar with Hestor's moods. "It is too late for you to begin to-night. Let me know when you are ready to draw up the papers and I will render you my best services as your attorney. Thus far I have been more successful in organizing trusts than fighting them."

"I will need your services in a short time," said Hestor, with some excitement, which Hammond attributed to the wine. "I am not jesting. Of course this is confidential."

"Certainly. I am going to Chicago to-morrow, and will be back in about a week."

"Let me see you when you get back. I shall wish to talk with you."

"I will do so. Olive, by dear," said Hammond, addressing his sister, "it is time your aged brother was on his way home. I shall ask the permission of the ladies, and of our excellent host to depart, as I have a long journey ahead of me to-morrow—or more properly to-day—it now being past two o'clock."

"You and Walter are as ungallant as you can be," pouted Miss Le Roy, as Mr. Hestor gave the signal for the party to disperse. "Just because you have talked all you wish, we must all run along home like good little girls. I am going to give a supper party soon, and it will last until everybody has talked as much as they care to." And with this awful threat Miss Le Roy was captured by Mr. Hestor and led away to her carriage, nor did her smiling face show that her resentment was deep or lasting.

CHAPTER III.

MR. HECTOR PLANS A NEWSPAPER TRUST.

The morning after the supper Hestor appeared at the Record office at an early hour. He looked over his mail, and then wrote a note to Palmer J. Morton, the great financier and railroad magnate, requesting an early interview on a matter of some importance. This off his mind, Hestor made the rounds of the office. He chatted awhile with Mr. Chalmers and then drifted into the art department. He was in effervescent spirits, and seemed highly satisfied with all the world. Finally he returned to his room and proceeded to work off the exuberance of his animal spirits by performing a clog step to a lively tune, the words of which he sang with more regard for speed and exact time than for expression:

"There was an old geezer, and he had a wooden leg;
No tobacco could he borrow, no tobacco could he beg;
Another old geezer was as cunning as a fox,
And he always had tobacco in his old tobacco box."

(Spirited breakdown and repeat—)

"Yes, he always had tobacco in his old tobacco box."

As the versatile Mr. Hestor paused to contemplate with much satisfaction, the success which had been attained in this terpsichorean diversion Mr. Chalmers, the managing editor, entered the room.

"By the way, Chalmers," said Hestor, as he paced up and down the room, "why wouldn't it be a good scheme to let the women of New York assume entire charge of the Record for a week. Get some well-known society woman to act as editor-in-chief, and advertise for women writers of all kinds. Of course you will have to look after the mechanical and routine part of the paper, but let them collect and write all the stuff. Select young women to report the horse races, prize fights, the police news, the courts and to handle all departments of the paper. They could run just as much or as little foreign and out-of-town stuff as they pleased. They would write all of the editorials and draw all of the pictures. Great scheme—don't you think so?"

Mr. Chalmers said it would probably drive him into an insane asylum, but that it was nothing short of an inspiration. He agreed to outline a plan and to confer with some progressive women he had in mind.

While they were discussing this project, word was received from Mr. Palmer J. Morton that though very busy he would be pleased to see Mr. Hestor about four o'clock that afternoon. The financier was not unacquainted with the erratic correspondent of The Record, and while not in sympathy with the aims or methods of that paper was not inclined to incur hostility by refusing the request made by Hestor.

At four o'clock the Hestor automobile wheeled in front of a Broadway office building, and a few minutes later the famous correspondent was ushered into the magnate's private office. This apartment was severely plain.

Mr. Morton was a large, broad-shouldered man, with a close-cropped beard which must have once been black or dark brown. Shaggy grey eyebrows stood guard over eyes of steel blue-grey; eyes which looked you full in the face as if to bid you tell your innermost thoughts; and to tell them quickly. Enormous hands were knotted with muscles of which the foreman of a railroad section gang might be proud. A dark suit of blue; a scarf of the same color, without any pin; and a modest watch chain, were features of apparel which distinguished Mr. Morton from the well dressed attendants who ushered Hestor into this office.

"I am glad to see you again, Mr. Hestor. Take a chair. You will find that one more comfortable. I trust you do not intend to interview me. You know my rule." Mr. Morton looked sternly at Hestor, who smiled and replied that he had long ago abandoned that enterprise as a vain pursuit.

In order to accommodate all classes of borrowers (those who cannot borrow at a bank, as well as those who can), the Mutual Loan and Investment Company, of 118 Market street, Newark, N. J., has a department for handling quickly and confidentially loans ranging from $10 to $500 on furniture, pianos, storage receipts, etc.

The security is not removed from your possession or in any way disturbed. The honest, careful and conservative borrower will try and decide two points before borrowing. First, where he can get the best terms. Second, where he can get fair and square treatment.

This company is in a position to give you by far the most satisfactory terms ever offered by any concern or individual negotiating this class of loans.

With this company you are assured of getting the lowest rates, easiest payments and longest time for repayment. We also take up loans from other companies and advance more money.

Kindly call and let us explain our simple and up-to-date methods. If not entirely convenient for you to call, please write and our representative will call and give you any desired information. Remember it costs nothing to make application. Loans promptly made in Elizabeth, Plainfield, Westfield, Roselle, Rahway, Perth Amboy and all suburban towns.

IN SECRET SESSION.

Senate's Brief Sitting Mostly Behind Closed Doors.

STATEHOOD MATTER BROUGHT UP.

Admission of Oklahoma and Indian Territory as One State Favored by Delegates—House Committee Agrees on Pension Bill.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—The senate was in session yesterday one hour and five minutes, most of which time was spent behind closed doors. After the reception of a number of bills and petitions and the adoption of a concurrent resolution calling on the president for the papers in the Pius fund case, recently arbitrated before The Hague tribunal, Mr. Beveridge had read the resolutions adopted by the delegates to the Oklahoma nonpartisan convention favoring the admission of Oklahoma and Indian Territory as one state and opposing the house omnibus statehood bill. The senate then went into executive session and at 1:05 adjourned until Monday.

The senate committee on foreign relations has authorized favorable reports on all the nominations to diplomatic positions before it, as follows:

Robert McCormack, ambassador to Russia; Charlemagne Tower, ambassador to Germany; Bellamy Storer, ambassador to Austria; David E. Thompson, minister to Brazil; William B. Sorsby, minister to Bolivia; J. B. Jackson, minister to Greece; Arthur S. Hardy, minister to Spain; Leslie Combs, minister to Guatemala; Percival Dodge, secretary of embassy at Berlin; R. S. Hitt, second secretary at Berlin; Peter A. Jay, third secretary at Paris.

The senate committee on military affairs met during the day for the purpose of taking up the bill for the reorganization of the militia and listened to representations in support of the measure by Secretary Root and General Carter. Pleased With Single Statehood.

ARDMORE, I. T., Dec. 5.—The proposition to combine the Indian Territory and Oklahoma as a single state as provided for in the bill before congress is generally favored throughout this section. There was great rejoicing in the towns when the senate committee on territories favorably reported the bill providing for single statehood. An organization will be perfected immediately to work for single statehood, which up to the present time has been considered impossible. Each town in the Indian Territory is to send representatives to Washington to work for union with Oklahoma.

Bishop Doane Heads Regents.

ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 5.—At a meeting of the state board of regents the Right Rev. William Croswell Doane, Protestant Episcopal bishop of Albany, was elected chancellor, to succeed the late Anson Judd Upson, and Regent Whitelaw Reid was elevated to the position of vice chancellor, to succeed Bishop Doane. The finance committee submitted summaries for the fiscal year which showed an increase in cost of maintenance of university departments of $3,792.06. As a result, however, of increased receipts from fees and economy in expenditures for maintenance the board will be able to show a decrease in the general and supply bills to be submitted to the next legislature of $801.34.

The Lehigh's New President.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 5.—E. B. Thomas was elected president of the Lehigh Valley Railroad company and the Lehigh Valley Coal company in place of Alfred Walters, resigned, at special meetings of the boards of directors of those companies held here. Mr. Thomas makes the statement that the Lehigh Valley railroad will be operated independently as heretofore and in no manner connected with the operations of the Erie railroad or with any other of the trunk lines. While maintaining friendly relations with all of them, the property, he says, must be worked on its merits. Mr. Thomas is chairman of the board of directors of the Erie railroad.

Cadavers Very Scarce.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Dec. 5.—A scarcity of cadavers for legitimate use in the medical colleges here and in Louisville, Ky., is said to be impending, and prices of bodies have risen to unheard of figures. The scarcity is attributed to the Indianapolis investigation. It is said that the ghouls in the employ of colleges all over the central states have become apprehensive for fear that a general investigation is to be made, and they are seeking other ways of earning a livelihood. It is said there has been no body snatching in Indiana since the investigation began.

Dead Treasurer's Accounts Short.

DANVERS, Mass., Dec. 5.—Danvers people have been given a surprise by the announcement that a deficiency amounting to several thousand dollars has been found in the accounts of Albion F. Welch, late treasurer of the Danvers Savings bank, who died a few weeks ago from an operation performed for a carbuncle on his neck. With the appointment of a new treasurer, an examination of the bank's accounts covering a long period was begun, and it is not yet ended. The alleged irregularities are said to be in small amounts during the past eight or ten years.

HEADING FOR PERTH AMBOY

ULTIMATE AIM OF NEW BRUNSWICK-TRENTON ELECTRIC ROAD.

Is Now After Right to Bridge the Raritan River and Continue Across Country.

With the opening of the Trenton-New Brunswick electric railroad between these cities, there have been many rumors that the road was a part of a scheme of the Goulds to build a steam road between Philadelphia and New York and that the electric road was only built to get the rights of way. This has been denied by the management on several occasions. The latest report is that the electric road proposes to extend its lines across the Raritan river and push on towards Perth Amboy and Rahway.

On the maps of the route of the road it is shown where the new road is considered and it is only a matter of a few years before the road, which has its terminus at New Brunswick, will have a bridge across the Raritan in back of Milltown and make a cross country cut for Perth Amboy, and from there to Rahway.

It was said in New Brunswick by one who is in touch with electrical railway matters in that locality that the road is already negotiating for the rights of way to lay its tracks across the Raritan. Some grants have been secured but there has been much difficulty experienced so far in securing rights of way for approaches to the bridge. There is some talk of using the Albany street bridge for this purpose but there seems to be little likelihood of this being done unless the company finds it impossible to secure the rights of way for the bridge.

ESCAPED ELECTRICITY APPEARS AT STATION

Fence Between the Tracks Charged by Current Escaped From Trolley Line.

IT MUST BE REMEDIED

RAILROAD COMPANY HAS GIVEN FINAL NOTICE TO TRACTION COMPANY.

Trouble is Said to be Caused When Trolley Car Poles Slip Off Wire Passing Under Bridge—Electrical Display This Morning.

During the past few weeks there has been frequent electrical displays at the North Avenue station which have interested many people who have seen the curious phenomenon, but now a serious question of safety has arisen in consequence. The long iron fence standing between the tracks has been frequently charged with an electric current. Fortunately the employes at the station have not touched it at these dangerous times. The current is sent through the fence by the poles on the trolley cars which pass under the Watchung avenue bridge, and happens only when the pole slips off the trolley wire.

The trolley company has been notified several times to remedy the trouble, and last evening a final warning was given. It is generally conceded that if a person happened to touch the fence while such a current was passing through it, it would result in serious injury at least.

Early this morning the crowd standing at the station witnessed one of these electrical displays. It started at the Watchung avenue bridge and extended over three-quarters of the entire length of the fence. The sight was a pretty one, as here and there would be seen bunches of electric sparks being thrown off into space. A few days ago one of these currents melted a lock on one of the fence gates as completely as though it had been in a furnace.

There was some talk this morning that unless the danger was abated, an injunction might be obtained restraining the trolley company from running cars under the bridge.

HOPE LEADS CITY LEAGUE

By Defeating Y. M. C. A. Basket Ball Team by the Score of 20 to 19.

AT HOPE GYMNASIUM

Game Was Won by Superior Goal Throwing From Field—A Pretty Contest—Many Fouls, But Few of Serious Nature—No Change Made in Officials Selected.

PLAINFIELD AMATEUR BASKET BALL LEAGUE.

	Won.	Lost.	Ave.
Hope Y. M. A.	2	1	.667
Alis A. A.	1	1	.500
Y. M. C. A.	1	2	.333

Again the Hope Y. M. A. basket ball team demonstrated its superiority in its own gymnasium by defeating the crack five of the Young Men's Christian Association, last evening, by a score of 20 to 19. The game was the fourth in the series in the Plainfield Amateur Basket Ball League. Physical Director C. E. A. Heywood had announced, after the last game between Alis and Y. M. C. A., that the Y. M. C. A. team would not be allowed to play unless he officiated but both of the other teams took a firm stand against his position and the officials chosen by the executive committee of the league filled their places without change.

While the smallness of the gymnasium was rather conducive to rough play, the game was a clean one. Fouls were frequent, however, R. Smith, Cahoone and McCombe being the worst offenders although most of the fouls called were not of a serious nature. Hope's team work had improved considerably but the goal throwing of all except Dilks was not up to the standard. After the Y. M. C. A. boys became accustomed to the gymnasium, their team play began to develope but their goal throwing showed no signs of improvement over the previous game with the Alis A. A.

Hope started off with a rush and for a few moments it looked like a rather one-sided contest, then Y. M. C. A. steadied down and as pretty an exhibition of basket ball as could be played in such a small place was given. Dilks had Heinecke, Y. M. C. A.'s star guard, against him but that wonderful backward throw of his twice landed goals. He was given good support by Whitley who scored once. Ray Smith made Y. M. C. A.'s only goal while Denton and Cahoone got in some clever team work. The Hope guards stuck to their posts well and prevented many goals. Cose, at centre, showed a much better game than when he played against the Y. M. C. A. before but he had a hard man to meet in Cahoone. Time was called with the score 11 to 7 in Hope's favor.

Several changes were made in the second half by both teams and they seemed to even up things. Y. M. C. A. played more aggressively while Hope seemed more inclined to resort to defensive play. Two clever goals by Cahoone and one by Denton were balanced by a goal on one of Dilk's backhanders, a long shot by McCombe and Duckworth's neat throw. Cahoone developed much accuracy in throwing goals on fouls doing much better than his opponents. Play was finally called with Hope a single point in the lead.

The game was won on superior goal throwing from the field, Hope making six to Y. M. C. A.'s four. On fouls, Y. M. C. A. did bettter but the difference was not enough to overcome the lead gained by Hope in the field.

Hope's victory now makes that team first in the league while the defeat relegated the Y. M. C. A. to last place. The present standing is of the nature of a surprise to all as it was supposed that the fight lay between Y. M. C. A. and Alis and that the Hopes would bring up the rear with much regularity. Such a reversal of fortunes has served to doubly increase the interest in the series. The next game is called for Monday, December 15, between Hope Y. M. A. and Alis A. A. at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium.

The teams in last night's game lined up as follows:

HOPE Y. M. A		Y. M. C. A.
Dilks	right forward	Denton
Whitley,		Smith.
Cose, Whitley	centre	Cahoone
McCombe	right guard	Scull, Neal
Chamberlain.		Heinecke.
Forter	left guard	Giles

Score—Hope Y. M. A., 20; Y. M. C. A., 19. Goals from the field—Dilks (3), Whitley, Duckworth, McCombe, Denton, R. Smith, Cahoone (2). Goals on fouls—Dilks (5), Whitley (3), Denton (3), Cahoone (8). Fouls—Hope Y. M. A., 23; Y. M. C. A., 28. Referee—Robert A. Meeker. Umpires—S. B. Joseph and Charles R. Morse. Timers—J. Fred Wharton and C. E. A. Heywood. Scorer—Herbert Monroe.

PLUNGED INTO FREIGHT TRAIN

Then Jersey Central Locomotive Rolled Into a Ditch at Westfield and Started Fire.

HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

The Engineer Claimed That Signal Didn't Work and Flagman of First Train Wasn't Far Enough Back—Engine, Three Cars and a Caboose Piled Up—Tracks Blocked.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, Dec. 6—A wreck on the Jersey Central Railroad about 100 yards west of the station occurred at about 11:30 o'clock, last evening when an east bound freight train crashed into the rear of another freight on the east bound track and piled three cars laden with coke a caboose and an engine in a tangled mass of debris, blocking both east bound tracks. To make matters worse the wreckage caught fire from a stove in the caboose of the train standing on the track and for three hours the fire department of Westfield battled with the flames. No lives were lost although the engineer, William P. Olssen, of Newark, was bruised and cut by the ice as he jumped from his engine when the rear end of the train in front of him loomed up in the darkness.

The wreck was caused, it is claimed, by the failure of the train which was already standing on the track, to have its flagman standing far enough in the rear with a danger signal. The engineer of the approaching train claims that the signals were not set against him. When he was about to blow his whistle for the Westfield station he suddenly saw a light some distance ahead and the next instant a red lantern was swung in the track before him.

It was too late to stop the train and calling to his fireman to jump he made a leap for life in the dark and landed against a wire fence. His fireman, whose name was given as Brownley, of Jersey City, escaped uninjured.

The engine climed up on the caboose of the train ahead and slowly turned over and rolled down an embankment where the woodwork caught fire leaving this morning only the skeleton of the gigantic machine. The engine, which was numbered 493, was the same one which jumped the track into the Elizabeth river and was only taken from the repair shops three days ago.

This morning the wreck was almost entirely cleared away but the engine lies in such a position that the east bound freight track is still blocked and trains to New York this morning had to be switched over to the west bound tracks this side of the wreck and then back onto the east bound tracks after passing the scene of the smashup.

THROWN INTO SNOW BANK

DRIVER GEORGE LEE TOOK FLYING TRIP WHEN ENGINE STRUCK WAGON.

One of Henry Voehl's Baker Wagons Struck by Train Near Basking Ridge Yesterday Afternoon.

George Lee, a driver for Henry Voehl, the Somerset street baker, had a narrow escape yesterday afternoon from being killed at the railroad crossing near Basking Ridge when a train ran into and hurled the wagon high into the air, demolishing it completely. A telephone message was received in this city at 7 o'clock last evening and Mr. Voehl left at once for the scene of the accident.

Lee was crossing the tracks totally unmindful of his danger when a shrill shriek of the engine warned him of his danger. Before the man could jump the train hit the wagon and Lee was thrown fully twenty-five feet into an embankment of snow. He was uninjured and when he looked for the horse he was surprsed to find that the horse was grazing along the roadside. The wagon was heaped some distance from the crossing in a pile of ruins.

The horse was brought to this city last evening but the wagon was left there and will be removed this afternoon.

SOMERSET COUNTY REPUBLICAN COMMITTEE NOTIFIED HIM OF ACTION.

The Mayor of Borough Has Been Dropped From Membership in County Committee.

What the receiver believes to be the first of a new series of echoes from the recent annexation fight in the borough came to Mayor N. B. Smalley, Thursday, in the form of the following letter from F. A. Pope, of the Somerset county executive committee:

"I have been ordered by the Somerset County Executive Committee to notify you that your name has been dropped from membership."

In speaking of the proceedure, Mayor Smalley said he had been informed some time ago that charges were to be preferred against him. In communication with the officers he asked that if such was the case they be submitted in writing, but nothing more was heard by him until the receipt of the letter. When the meeting was held at which the action was taken he has not ascertained.

Mayor Smalley leaves for the west tonight and until his return, at least, he will take no action in the matter.

ANOTHER FACTORY.

Company to Manufacture Aniline Expects to Locate Its Factory in This City.

Councilman E. E. Pray, of this city, Fred G. Lasher, of New York, and J. Wesley Johnson, also of this city, compose the principals of a company engaged in the manufacture of aniline colors, which are made of coal tar. This company has been manufacturing these colors in an experimental way at Hackensack during the past two years, and it is now proposed to build a factory in the West End of the city.

The company has purchased a plot of ground consisting of nearly forty acres and it is hoped to cover this with buildings in the course of time. The aniline colors are used principally in the manufacture of wallpapers although they are used to some extent in the manufacture of lithographic inks.

At present the company does not care to state the exact location of the land purchased, but work will be started within a short time on the erection of buildings. In time a great many men will be employed.

SMOKE IN ENGINE HOUSE.

Ripped Up Floor Only to Find the Fire Was Outside.

The members of the Warren Engine Company were alarmed yesterday afternoon at seeing that smoke was issuing from the flooring of the house on Somerset street. Rufus Jennings and Thomas McCann, who were in the house at the time, saw smoke and began ripping up the floor. They had ripped up about a foot of the flooring when they discovered that the smoke was issuing through the cracks in the brick wall from the other side. Upon investigation it was found that some boys in the adjoining yard had a fire built against the wall.

PYTHIANS SOUGHT TO OUTDO EACH OTHER

Friendly Contest to Decide Which Lodge Was the Best Entertainer.

OF THESE TWO LODGES

PERSEVERANCE LODGE PLAYED HOST LAST NIGHT FOR HARRISON'S LODGE.

Ethic, of Harrison, Brought Its Best Talent, While Perseverance Was at Its Best—A Banquet to the Guests Followed.

Acknowledged as the princes of entertainers by all other Pythian lodges in the State, Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, of this city, and Ethic Lodge, No. 115, of Harrison, sought to outdo each other, last evening, when the Essex county contingent visited Plainfield as the guest of the former. Each put forth its best talent and its best speakers. The question of supremacy between the two still remains to be settled and will be decided only when Perseverance journeys to Harrison.

In addition to the members of Ethic Lodge, who numbered fifty, there were present twenty-five members of Unity Lodge, No. 102, of this city, making in all 150 Knights. The entertainment was in Perseverance Castle Hall and was in charge of Chancellor Commander William N. Runyon. The contributors from Perseverance were Chancellor Commander Runyon, Elmer D. Cutting, Asa Pope and the Jews Harp Orchestra and from Ethic, Past Chancellors S. S. Savage and George Lennox, James Hedd and John Logan. The latter is an alderman of East Newark and is considered one of the best contortionists and rapid fire talkers in the State.

Following the entertainment the Knightly host adjourned to the Democratic headquarters on East Second street where a repast was awaiting them that had taxed the ingenuity of Caterer W. W. Warnock to devise. The menu was elaborate and at each plate reposed a souvenir appropriate to the occasion.

The committee which arranged and had charge of the affair consisted of Samuel J. Robinson, chairman, Thos. Muir and Walter L. Hetfield, Jr.

CLASSMATES AT GRAVE.

Little Friends of August Kleps, Killed on Railroad, Bore the Casket at Funeral.

Impressive indeed were the last sad rites over the remains of August Kleps, the little son of Rudolph Kleps, who was killed by a freight car on the Jersey Central Railroad Wednesday evening. The services were held at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the home of the child's parents on West Second street at the corner of Grant avenue. Many friends of the dead child's parents were present at the services.

The display of flowers was very handsome, among them being a floral piece which was sent to the home by the classmates of the dead boy in the Irving School. Six of his little classmates acted as pall-bearers. The services were conducted by Rev. L. R. Howard, pastor of the Hope chapel, and the interment was in Evergreen cemetery.

PACKED CHRISTMAS BOX.

Although There Was No Meeting of Mission Band at Trinity.

There being no quorum, the Young Women's Mission Band of Trinity Reformed church was unable to hold a regular meeting yesterday afternoon. However, several members were present and the Christmas box, containing clothing, toys, candies, and in fact everything appropriate for the season, was packed and sent to a mission school at Zeeland, Michigan.

It was expected that Miss Mary Pugh and Miss Abbie VanCleef, delegates from the band to the annual meeting of the Woman's Executive Committee of the Board of Domestic Missions, held in New York, November 12, would present their reports of that meeting, but this was deferred to Thursday, December 11, when the band will hold an adjourned meeting. These reports were read Monday afternoon at the meeting of the Ladies' Christian Work Society.

Business and Social.

A meeting of the Benevolent Band, King's Daughters, was held this week at the home of Mrs. Elmer E. Runyon, of Madison avenue. Following the transaction of routine business the members enjoyed a social time, during which refreshments were served.

MORE CAME THAN EXPECTED

AT SALE BY WOMEN OF FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

Given at Home of Mrs. H. A. Pope Under Auspices of Ladies' Aid Society.

A successful sale of cakes, bread, rolls, fancy articles and flowers, was held yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Howard A. Pope, of East Fifth street, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the First Presbyterian church. Early in the day the weather was so threatening that a small attendance was expected. The women in charge were agreeably surprised, however for after the storm, the people turned out in large numbers.

The sale was so well patronized that nearly everything was disposed of. There were only a few fancy articles left. W. H. Browers' Sons, florists, kindly donated a quantity of flowers which were quickly disposed of.

Those in charge of the sale were Mrs. Howard A. Pope, Mrs. LeRoy Gates, Mrs. Joseph A. Haynes, Mrs. Edward Burroughs, Miss Helen Burroughs and Mrs. John S. Johnston.

JUNIOR Y. M. A.

Plans to Form Such An Organization Among the Boys of Hope Chapel.

Boys belonging to Hope chapel, between the ages of eleven and sixteen years, will meet this evening for the purpose of forming a junior organization, similar in purpose and designs to the Y. M. A. Rev. L. R. Howard and William N. Runyon, president of the Y. M. A., will be in attendance and preside at the gathering. It is possible that a stated time will be named when the boys can have the use of the gymnasium.

The young women of the chapel have also undertaken to promote inter-mural athletics and will begin with a basket ball team. The first meeting will be held Monday and application for the use of the gymnasium, Wednesday evening, will be made to the Y. M. A.

NO FOOTBALL TODAY.

Game Between Company K and I. C. T. Postponed by Mutual Consent.

The game of football, which was to have taken place this afternoon on Hope Common, was postponed by mutual consent last evening. The game was to have been played between the I. C. T. Club football eleven and Company K, but owing to the poor condition of the field it was decided that it was best to postpone the game until next Saturday. Both teams are anxious for a game as they are about equally matched and the winning team will have to score by team work alone, as strength will not count any more in favor of one team than another.

Inspected State Hospital.

AFTER BIDS FOR ENGINE HOUSE

Borough Council Decides to Advertise for Bids According to New Specifications.

HEARD OF SPITE FENCE

New Engine House Was Only Subject of Real Importance That Came Before Borough Council at Its Session Last Evening—Council to Attend Cornerstone Laying.

Plans for the new fire headquarters and payment of bills were the most important business brought up for discussion at the regular meeting of the Borough Council which was held in the Council Chambers last evening. All the councilmen were present except Mr. Northrup and Borough Counsel Charles A. Reed. There were also a number of interested spectators present, including J. J. Stahl, chief of the borough fire department.

Aside from the discussion of the new plans for the fire house the session was taken up with routine business. After the reading of the minutes of the last regular meeting and the special meeting which was called on November 17, the regular business of the meeting was taken up.

A communication was received from Mrs. Louise Bright, an aged woman who owns property on Vine street, complaining that a spite fence had been erected on the property of Charles W. Krauss by the owner of the land which prevented the light from the street lamps from shining on her property and she petitioned the Council to have the light changed so that she could receive the benefits from it. This matter was referred to the committee on streets and lamps, which committee after much discussion decided upon the recommendation of the Mayor to have the light moved. Some of the councilmen were in favor of tearing down the offending fence.

An invitation was received from the secretary of the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital to be present today at the corner stone laying of the new hospital building. The Mayor requested that at least some of the members be present at this ceremony so as to have the borough of North Plainfield represented.

Mayor Smalley nominated George F. Stewart for the position of steward for the Warren engine house until the unexpired term of his predecesser expired in March of next year.

Claims amounting to about $2,800 were ordered paid with the exception of the bills of Mrs. Irene Uhrhahn and Sarah Lewis, of $50 each for cattle killed as a result of a bite of a mad dog, which were ordered referred to the Corporation Counsel for the purpose of ascertaining whether or not the borough was liable for the damage.

The report of the tax collector and treasurer was read as follows: Taxes, $5,662.58; bills payable, $3,000; recorder's fines, $76; license, $5; sales of dirt, $6.72; Plainfield Street Railway Company, $120.27; discount on State tax, $24.96; balance on hand, November 1, $14,242.65; total receipts, $23,138.18; disbursements, $19,935.85; cash on hand, $3,202.33.

The report of James F. Arnold, as chairman of the streets and roads committee, follows: Cleaning streets, $78.80; grading Belmont venue, $92.40; clearing snow, $2.50; street sprinkling, $4; total, $177.70.

Councilman Arnold, of the street and roads committee, moved that the following property owners be ordered to place flagstone pavements in front of their houses: H. K. Carroll, of Grandview and Westervelt avenues; Mrs. Isabella Harriet, of Summit avenue; Edward A. Smith, W. E. Thorne and Mrs. Margaret McDonald, all of Summit avenue.

A recess of ten minutes was taken during which the new plans as prepared by Architect Charles A. Smith for the new engine house were discussed.

At the end of the recess the members of the council went again into session and a motion was made that the clerk of the board advertise again for bids, according to the specifications, with and without a concrete floor.

Mr. Arnold was appointed a committee of one to ask Mr. VanEmburgh if the map for the widening of Somerset street had been prepared yet, after which the meeting adjourned.

It was expected that the report of the sewage commission on tidewater drainage would be presented to the board at the meeting but no report was received.

PREHISTORIC RELICS.

Wanted by Department of Archaeology at Phillips Academy.

Andover, Mass, Dec. 3, 1902.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—Phillips Academy, Andover, Mass., has recently established a department of archaeology. My object in writing you is to encourage the preservation of stone, bone and clay prehistoric art forms. In your section of the country are frequently found various "Indian relics." These have a direct bearing on the history—or rather prehistory—of America, and as such should be preserved in fireproof buildings for the study and edification of present and future generations.

I am persuaded that there may be persons who have found some remains of the ancient Indian tribes, "Mound builders" etc. and that possibly they would be willing to send them to us. We shall be glad to pay express charges on any and all boxes of specimens sent to us, to mention the gifts in our report and to give the donors due credit in our exhibition cases.

All these axes, pipes, spear heads, clay vessels and "strange stones," should be carefully preserved somewhere, where they may be of service to the public and to science. Archaeology—technically followed—is a new science in the United Stnets and it is more important than the average reader imagines, for these "stone relics" have a direct bearing on the antiquity of man.

I shall be glad to correspond with persons who have "relics" in their possession. Thanking you, I am,

Yours very truly,

WARREN K. MOOREHEAD,
Curator.

Doing the Right Thing.

The trouble begins with a tickling in the throat and a nagging little cough. Soreness in the chest follows and the patient wonders if he is going to have an all winter cold. Probably, if he does the wrong thing or nothing. Certainly not if he uses Perry Davis' Painkiller, the staunch old remedy that cures a cold in twenty-four hours. There is but one Painkiller, Perry Davis'.

DEDICATION OF A CHURCH

NEW R. C. CHURCH AT CRANFORD WILL BE DEDICATED SUNDAY.

Service Will be in Morning—Prominent Priests Will be There—Elaborate Musical Service.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Cranford, Dec. 6—A solemn dedication of St. Michael's Roman Catholic church, on Miln street, which was completed this fall, will take place at the church Sunday morning at 10:30 o'clock.

The church is to be dedicated by Right Reverend Bishov John J. O'Connor, of Newark. Very Reverend John A. Stafford, president of Seton Hall College, will be celebrant of the mass. Rev. Charles H. Mackel, dean of the faculty of Seton Hall College and professor of dogmatics and theology, will be the preacher for the occasion. Very Reverend Father Sheppard, of St. Michael's church, of Jersey City, vicar general of the diocese, and Very Reverend Dean Smyth, of St. Joseph's church, of Jersey City, and a number of other priests of the diocese are expected to be present.

The musical part of the service promises to be very elaborate. The singers for the occasion will be Miss Maurer, of Brooklyn, contralto, who sings in grand opera, and was heard at the Metropoitan Opera House last Sunday evening; Miss Hortens Smith, soprano; Mrs. Frederick K. Schilling, soprano; Miss Buhlmyre, soprano; and Miss Gertrude MacConnell, contralto, of Cranford; Albert Patton, tenor; Frederick K. Schilling, basso; M. A. Cooper, of New York, basso; Harry Van Saun and Clarence Cree, tenors, also of Cranford. There will be an organist, pianist and violinist for this occasion. The exercises will be attended by a large audience, nearly all of the forward pews of the church having already been engaged.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

Three or four schemes for the formation of new counties in the State have been broached since election. The latest one is to take a few towns from Morris county, one or two from Essex, and New Providence, Springfield and Summit from Union and bind them all into one county, with Summit as the county seat. This breaking up of the State into new blocks is a very pleasing game for children and may also teach geography, but that is about the only good it will do.—Newark News.

THEATRICAL.

Proctor's Twenty-third Street Theatre will introduce for the first time in New York the sensational bicycle novelty, "Loop the Loop," as constructed for stage use by Tom Eck, the well known trainer of long distance cyclists. Lottie Brandon & Co., will perform the feat, Miss Brandon doing the actual performance. Fisher and Carroll will be the head-liners in the "variety" element of the continuous performance. The Fifth Avenue Stock Company will revive Henry Arthur Jones's society play, "Saints and Sinners," with a specially selected cast and an entirely new scenic equipment. The mere mention that "Uncle Tom's Cabin" is to be the stock company offering at the Fifty-eighth Street next week will probably serve to pack the house. Up in Harlem the Permanent Stock Company will offer "Alvin Joslyn" as the comedy bill for next week. Over in Newark the "twice-daily" vaudeville will have Mr. and Mrs. Mark Murphy, in Con. T. Murphy's newest sketch, "The Seventh Son," as the leading feature, with the marvellous Merrills, expert cyclists, as the extra attraction.

—William Wyckoff, of High Bridge, has secured a position at the Safe Works.

—The regular communion service will be held at the Park Avenue Baptist church tomorrow morning.

—Plainfield Council, No. 711, Royal Arcanum, will elect officers at the meeting to be held Monday evening.

—A covenant meeting was held last evening at the First Baptist church preparatory to the communion service to be held tomorrow morning at the church.

The Home Building and Loan Ass'n.

ORGANIZED 1888.

At a special meeting of The Home Building and Loan Association held November 17th, 1902, a resolution was passed to amend its by-laws pertaining to interest on loans, which was heretofore six per cent. per annum—permitting the Board of management to loan money at a reduced rate of interest on future loans. Prospective home buyers will do well to apply to the Secretary for particulars.

The Home Building and Loan Association during fifteen years of business has redeemed seven semi-annual series. It has at this time an investment of over $150,000.00 divided among about eighty members; and has paid 5½ to 6 per cent. compound interest to its investors. Total number of members 350.

The Association meets the third Monday of each month from 7 to 9 p. m., at 120 East Front Street, Plainfield. Shares $1.00 per month. Entrance fee 25 cents per share.

A MIDOCEAN MUTINY.

American Sailors Become Unruly on a British Ship.

QUEENSTOWN, Dec. 6.—The British ship Leicester Castle, Captain Peattie, from San Francisco, July 26, has arrived here. Her commander reported that on Sept. 2 three American seamen mutinied, and Captain Peattie and his second officer were shot, the latter fatally, after an encounter with the mutineers, who left the ship on a raft in midocean.

Captain Peatlie gives the names of the mutineers as W. A. Hobbs, Ernest Sears and Turner. They were all shipped in San Francisco.

The second officer, Mr. Nixon, was shot while attempting to rescue the captain. In the darkness the mutineers got a few planks and coops, formed a raft and launched it from the ship, which was then about 300 miles north of the Pitcairn islands. The captain searched for the raft the next day, but it was not sighted, and it was surmised that it went to pieces.

The captain is unable to account for the mutiny. He supposes it was the intention of the mutineers to murder the officers and the men who refused to join them and take the ship to Pitcairn island.

Captain Peattie adds that Hobbs was the actual murderer of Mr Nixon, whom he shot through the heart. The captain himself was shot twice, but had quite recovered when he arrived here.

PENSIONS FOR EMPLOYEES.

President Harriman Inaugurates System on Southern Pacific.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 6.—President Harriman of the Southern Pacific Railroad company has inaugurated a system for pensioning employees who have grown old in the service of the company, and a circular has been issued outlining the plan. In general the plan is similar to the system of the Pennsylvania, Illinois Central and the Chicago and Northwestern roads. Employees who have attained the age of seventy and who have been in the service twenty years or more are to receive pensions on the basis of 1 per cent per annum of the average salary received for ten years previous to pensioning for each year of service.

Thus an employee whose pay has averaged $1,000 a year for ten years prior to retirement and who has been in the service of the company for thirty years would receive a pension equal to 30 per cent of $1,000, or $300 a year.

Between the ages of sixty-one and seventy years employees incapacitated for further work may be retired by a pension board provided they shall have been in the service twenty years or more.

The employees make no contributions to the fund, pensions being paid by the company in full and without any condition, the employees being at liberty to engage in other business after being pensioned should they see fit.

Improvements For Sing Sing.

ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 6.—The state prisons commission will ask the legislature to authorize an appropriation of about $150,000 for improving the cell building of Sing Sing prison and making an extension thereto. The commission will recommend to the legislature that the lower tier of cells be removed so as to provide air space between the cell block and the ground, that the remaining cells be enlarged at the proportion of two new cells to three old ones and that an addition be constructed with accommodations for about 500 prisoners.

Another Revolution Threatened.

PANAMA, Colombia, Dec. 6.—A revolutionary movement is threatened in Honduras. It seems that General Sierra has been induced to refuse to turn over the presidential power to Senor Bonilla, who was elected president in October. It is believed that the Honduras congress will try to declare the last elections illegal, and Senor Bonilla's numerous partisans threaten to protect their leader's rights by force if necessary.

Choctaws Emigrating.

ARDMORE, I. T., Dec. 6.—Emigration of hundreds of Choctaw Indians from Mississippi to Indian Territory has commenced. Many families have reached this city to appear before the Dawes commission for enrollment. Under the law these Indians must reside in the Indian country for a certain period and must prove they are Choctaw Indians before they are entitled to allotment.

MINERS BLACKLISTED

Coal Companies Refuse to Employ Leading Strikers.

TESTIMONY BEFORE THE COMMISSION

Many Witnesses Say That Places Have Been Refused Them Since Strike Ended—Father Curran Describes Their Condition.

SCRANTON, Pa., Dec. 6.—The lawyers for the mine workers continue to call witnesses before the strike commission to testify to the alleged blacklisting methods pursued by several coal companies in refusing to re-employ strikers who took a more or less prominent part in the affairs of the mine workers' union during the recent suspension. All of them said they had been employed before the strike, but were refused their old places after the strike was ended. In most cases, according to the testimony, no satisfactory reason was given why they were not taken back. Two blind men who were also otherwise badly injured by underground explosions were presented as living evidence of the dangers in the mines.

Nothing could be learned here with reference to the reported efforts at a settlement outside the commission.

Mr. MacVeagh before leaving stated that a majority of the operators thought it better to adjourn all efforts to reach by amicable conferences a basis for the award of the commission until both sides had presented all the testimony they wished to offer. Whether the efforts to reach such a basis will be then resumed can only be decided after the testimony is closed.

Mr. MacVeagh added that he personally thought, in view of the extraordinary conditions existing in the anthracite region, that this was a mistaken attitude for the operators to assume, as he feared each day's testimony would tend to increase the bitterness of feeling, but it was not only the right, but the duty, of the operators to act on their own judgment of the situation, and he sincerely hoped the results would fully justify the conclusion they reached.

From this expression it is taken that Mr. MacVeagh was opposed to the calling off of the negotiations last week. It is his sincere hope that an agreement will be effected, and it is known that the commissioners still hope for an agreement on many, if not all, the important points at issue.

Rev. J. J. Curran, the Roman Catholic clergyman of Wilkesbarre, who occupied the witness stand for some time, read a statement in which he said he made every effort possible to prevent the recent struggle and that after the men had concluded to strike he came out and strongly espoused their cause because he thought they were being unfairly dealt with and deserved more money for their labor.

Father Curran then gave a description of the conditions under which the mine workers live, which is somewhat similar to that previously given by Father Hussie of Hazleton. In answer to questions put by Judge Gray Father Curran said he was opposed to the boycott and the blacklist. This sentiment raised the approval of the chairman, who said that if the boycott was permitted the "country would go to pieces."

Father Curran's testimony was not concluded when the court adjourned.

No Possibility of Settlement.

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—Wayne MacVeagh, who arrived from Scranton last night and went to the Waldorf-Astoria, when asked whether there was any possibility of a settlement of the strike by an agreement outside of the commission, said emphatically: "There is no such possibility, and there will be no further conferences outside the commission except such as may occur between counsel for the clearing up of minor details. The commission will go on with its work to the end." Mr. MacVeagh will go to Washington today. His visit, he said, was on private business and in no way connected with the coal controversy.

Millionaire Brewer Found Guilty.

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 6.—After two days of trial Charles Denny, the millionaire brewer and director in the Suburban Street Railway company, formerly a member of the house of delegates, charged with perjury in connection with the suburban bill boodle deal, has been found guilty and his punishment fixed at two years in the penitentiary. The only defense offered by Judge Krum, attorney for Denny, was testimony in behalf of the defendant's good character.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Dec. 6.—The objection of religious bodies to the presence of two Mormon elders who are seeking converts here has taken form in the presentation to the mayor of an appeal from the Woman's Christian Temperance union for the suppression of the work of the elders. The city is quite stirred over the efforts of the Mormons.

New York Commissioner of Agriculture Gives Orders.

FORTY SPECIAL AGENTS ON GUARD

Cattle Disease Prevalent In New England to Be Kept From Getting a Foothold In Empire State if Possible.

ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 6.—Commissioner Wieting of the state department of agriculture has notified the officials of all the railroads operating in this state that all cars used by them for the transportation of cattle must be thoroughly disinfected at once in order that nothing may be left undone to prevent the foot and mouth disease now epidemic in New England among cattle getting a foothold in this state.

Commissioner Wieting also placed forty special agents at the several points of entry to the state to examine all cattle in process of shipment and turn back all coming from the infected districts. Most of these men are placed along the eastern boundary, and their instructions are to quarantine all affected cattle at once.

The instructions to the railroad companies is that any and all cars in which any animals have been transported since Aug. 1, 1902, shall be thoroughly disinfected before any animal or animals shall be transported therein from any point to any point within the state.

Commissioner Wieting is fearful that if a single case of the disease is discovered within the state a quarantine will be declared against the port of New York. Consequently he is devoting the entire energies of his department to preventing the contagion reaching the cattle of the state.

Stone Resents Action of Yates.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Dec. 6.—Governor Stone has taken prompt action to raise the quarantine which has been ordered by Governor Yates of Illinois against Pennsylvania cattle on account of the foot and mouth disease which exists among cattle in the New England states. Governor Stone wrote a letter to Governor Yates protesting against his action and advising him that there has been no such disease in this state since 1882, that there has been none in New York and there is none and has been none in New Jersey.

England Permits Cattle to Land.

LONDON, Dec. 6.—The board of agriculture has intimated its willingness to remove the embargo on cattle arriving from New England ports whenever the American department of agriculture considers that the outbreak is suppressed. The board has issued an order enabling the landing of cattle under certain restrictions from the steamer Irishman, which has arrived at Liverpool from Boston; the steamers Kansas and Victorian, due today from Boston, and the steamer Cambrian, due at London from Boston.

Skeleton Found.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Dec. 6.—Mrs. Thaddeus Haight's farmer, while plowing on her farm, three miles from the village of Milton-on-the-Hudson, uncovered a human skeleton, believed to be that of Thaddeus Haight, Jr., a son of the woman who owns the farm. He has been missing for eight years. Haight inherited some money, and one day he started away from home with over $2,000 to pay some bills. He was never seen after that. It is supposed he was murdered and buried. The district attorney of Ulster county will investigate.

And She Got a Divorce.

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—Mrs. Sarah G. Loud of Twenty-third street, Sheepshead Bay, has just been given a divorce from her husband, Richard, a horse trainer, in the Brooklyn supreme court, and this is what she proved he did to her: Threw eggs at her, threw a lamp at her, hit her with a frying pan, kicked her in the jaw, kicked her in the thigh, tore her clothes off her back and chased her to the barn with an ax. Richard put in no defense.

Serious Failure In Boston.

BOSTON, Dec. 6.—Serious delay to municipal government work is likely to occur by the failure here of the contracting firm of F. G. Coburn & Co., one of the largest firms of its kind in the east. The liabilities are estimated at $150,000, one-half of which is due to the Central National bank and the rest to seventy-one other creditors, mostly business houses of Boston and vicinity. The assets are estimated at about $62,000.

TRADE CONDITIONS.

Activity Exceeds Previous Records. Farm Products Rule High.

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

Aside from the interruption to retail trade in winter goods at many points by unseasonable weather, business activity continues in excess of previous years, and it is probable that all the postponed trade will be made up now that low temperature has become general.

Irregularity is reported in the iron and steel market, most departments having much business while a few are seeking new orders and seem disposed to make slight concessions.

Thus far, however, only a slight tendency is noted in the direction of cheaper iron, and in such products as steel rails and structural material the consumer cannot hope for early concessions. As it is well known that much business is held back by high prices, there is no prospect of dullness in the near future.

Farm products are remarkably well sustained considering the liberal quantities moving to market. Wheat declined slightly, but recovered as weather at the west threatened to interrupt the movement. Receipts for the week were 9,964,659 bushels compared with 8,004,868 bushels last year, while exports from all ports of the United States, flour included, were 5,340,739 bushels against 4,815,752 bushels a year ago.

Corn is held fairly steady by the poor grading of receipts, which aggregated 3,831,040 bushels for the week compared with 2,894,145 last year. A decline of over 10 per cent in price from the level of a year ago is encouraging to foreign buyers.

PRIVATE BILLS PASSED.

House Authorizes the Acceptance of Presents From Foreign Powers.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—The house devoted yesterday to bills on the private calendar. The most important bill passed was one to adjudicate in the court of claims the claims of certain importers of steel blooms who between 1879 and 1882 paid customs duties equivalent to 45 per cent ad valorem when, it is claimed, the correct rate should have been 30 per cent. About $350,000 is involved. A bill to pay Smithmeyer & Pelz, architects of the Congressional library, $50,000 additional compensation was defeated.

A bill was passed authorizing the following persons to accept presents and decorations from foreign governments:

Captain B. H. McCalla, U. S. N.; Drs Eugene Wasdin and H. B. Geddings, U. S. M. H. S.; Henry E. Alford, W. A. Taylor, H. W. Wiley, M. A. Carleton and John I. Shulte of the department of agriculture, John A. Okerman of the Mississippi river commission, Casper S. Crowninshield, United States commercial agent; Miss Anna Tolman Smith and Lieutenant Colonel F. H. Phipps.

Must Not Give Away a Drink.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Dec. 6.—A man who gives a drink to a friend is violating the law unless he has a license. This is the substance of a decision rendered by Justice Lovely of the state supreme court in the case of the state in the matter of Harry Krebs, relator, against Frank Jones, village marshal of Perham, Minn. Krebs as agent of a St. Paul liquor firm gave a prospective customer several sample drinks of liquor. He was arrested because he had no license and was bound over to the grand jury. He brought habeas corpus proceedings to the supreme court to get out of jail, as he could not get bail. The supreme court says Krebs must stay in jail.

A Horrible Tale of Bacteria.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6. — Twelve million bacteria inhabit the skins of half a pound of cherries, according to Dr. Ehrlich, a German scientist, who has made extensive experiments in regard to the infection of fruit with bacteria. Currants come next, with 11,000,000 to every half pound, and grapes next, with 8,000,000. An account of these experiments has been transmitted to the state department by United States Consular Clerk Murphy, at Frankfort. Dr. Ehrlich urges that all fruit be cleaned by either peeling or washing before it is eaten.

SCHOONER'S CREW LOST.

Gale Off Cape Hatteras Was Very Destructive.

NORFOLK, Va., Dec. 6.—Reports received here are to the effect that none of the ill fated Wesley M. Oler's crew escaped the disaster which wrecked that schooner near Hatteras. Only one chance of a rescue is known, and that was brought to light by the German steamer Koln, from Bremen to Baltimore, reporting the crew of an abandoned schooner aboard while entering the capes. Yesterday morning's hurricane blew sixty miles an hour here.

The three masted schooners William D. Hilton and Melville Phillips, together with several smaller craft, were blown ashore in the harbor and lower bay. The tug Underwriter, which was towing the Oler from Nassau, has not been heard from, and fears are entertained that she foundered in the gale. The crew of the schooner Ida Lawrence abandoned that vessel in a rudderless condition off Hatteras early yesterday morning and were rescued with the greatest difficulty by life savers.

In a collision between a derelict freight barge and the schooner Melville Phillips during the storm the Phillips' fore rigging was carried away.

EX-SPEAKER REED BETTER.

Slight Improvement Noted by Physician—Condition Yet Critical.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—The improvement in the condition of former Speaker Thomas B. Reed noted in the physician's bulletin yesterday continues, although his condition is still critical. The latest bulletin issued is as follows:

"10:30 p. m.—At the present time Mr. Reed is resting comfortably. Owing to unavoidable excitement yesterday there was slight elevation of temperature. This has subsided, and his temperature is now normal, 98 6-10; respiration, 36; pulse, 88. Retains nourishment. Mind clear, and appendical symptoms continually abating."

The physicians say that Mr. Reed's recovery at best will be slow. For precautionary reasons the physicians have on hand a quantity of saline solution and a tank of oxygen, but the use of neither has been resorted to. Its purpose, Dr. Gardner said, was to oxidize the blood so as to eliminate the poison which may have developed as a result of the uræmic disorders.

New Railway to Enter Buffalo?

BUFFALO, Dec. 6.—The incorporation in this state of the Niagara Transfer Company of Buffalo to construct a steam road between Tonawanda and Buffalo and the application filed at Ottawa by the Niagara Grand Island Bridge company for an extension of time in which to complete its works, taken in connection with the fact that Canadian engineers have been making a survey of the land on the Canadian side of the Niagara river opposite the north end of Grand island, have given rise to many rumors. It is stated that a western road will seek entrance to Buffalo through the province of Ontario, that a new bridge will be built across the Niagara river at Tonawanda and that the Niagara Transfer railway will be the connecting link with an eastern road.

Railroad Trestle Washed Away.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Dec. 6.—The long trestle on the Atlantic and Birmingham railroad over the Satilla river has been washed away and destroyed by the flood. The Satilla is higher than it has ever before been recorded. Orders have been issued annulling all Atlantic and Birmingham trains over the division affected until repairs can be made. Many country roads in Ware county are impassable from water and fallen trees.

MORGAN HAS A PLAN

Consolidation of Coal Operating Roads the Latest.

TO BUY INDEPENDENTS OUTRIGHT.

Statement Is Made That the $100,000,000 Necessary For the Success of the Scheme Is Already Provided For.

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—J. Pierpont Morgan's plan for the ultimate consolidation of all the anthracite coal roads of the country is now asserted to be well under way.

It is said that the main feature of the comprehensive new scheme is to be the purchase outright of the property of the independent operators who have caused trouble, thus eliminating them from the problem.

The statement is made that this will mean an expenditure of $100,000,000, but that it is already practically provided for if the plan is carried through.

The attitude of the independent operators in the recent negotiations when an effort was made to settle the coal strike has prompted Mr. Morgan to deal with them in no uncertain way.

He still intends, if possible, to end the trouble without the aid of President Roosevelt's strike commission and so has made up his mind to buy out the Delaware and Hudson railroad's interests, together with those of John Markle, the Coxe Bros. and the others.

He is particularly desirous of getting the property of Markle, as the latter is regarded as the chief stumbling block to peace with the miners at present.

That matter settled, the coal roads will then be brought under one head.

The selection of E. B. Thomas, chairman of the Erie, as president of the Lehigh Valley, a choice dictated by Mr. Morgan, is one of the steps in the plan for putting the hard coal properties wholly under his domination.

Minister Buck's Death.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—A few details of the untimely death of Minister Buck are furnished in the following cablegram received at the state department from Mr. Ferguson, the United States charge at Tokyo: "Minister Buck's death was caused by paralysis of the heart. It occurred on an imperial hunting preserve near Tokyo. The funeral takes place here on the 8th, and full official honors will be extended by the Japanese government, as in the case of Minister Swift. The widow probably will leave Yokohama on the 24th with the body for burial at Arlington. I respectfully recommend that the military attache be granted authority by telegraph to accompany the remains to Washington and to return as soon as possible to his post."

Crushed by Falling Walls.

ALLENTOWN, Pa., Dec. 6.—A large section of the brick wall of Bittner, Hunsicker & Co.'s store, which was burned Wednesday morning, was blown down by the high wind yesterday. Elias Bittner, senior member of the firm, and Elias Helwig, a master carpenter, who were taking measurements preparatory to rebuilding, were in the ruins. Helwig was crushed to death. Bittner is still living, but is in a critical condition. Helwig was a veteran of the civil war. He had a son in the Porto Rico campaign in 1898, and another son is now serving at Cavite, Philippine Islands.

Harvey Buys Magazine and Paper.

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—The fact is made public that George Harvey, president of Harper & Bros. and proprietor of the North American Review, was the purchaser of the Metropolitan Magazine and Daily Telegraph, which were recently sold by the receiver for $100,000. Mr. Harvey said that the mission of the Metropolitan Magazine would be to tell about New York and that John Kendrick Bangs would be the editor. The Telegraph, he added, would be devoted to the best interests of sport, the opera and the drama.

Judgment Against M. E. Conference.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Dec. 6.—State Senator W. L. Thornton in the supreme court of Monticello received a verdict for $1,035 against the trustees of the New York Methodist conference for services rendered as attorney for the trustees in connection with the contest over the will of Mrs. Hammond of Monticello, who left legacies to the trustees and various societies of the Methodist Episcopal church aggregating $17,000.

Prince Dolgoroukoff Deposed.

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 6.—Prince Dolgoroukoff, chairman of the Soudja district, has been deposed and subjected to police supervision for five years and has been forbidden to engage in any public activity on account of the revolutionary resolutions which were adopted by the local agricultural commission. The town of Soudja immediately conferred upon the prince its freedom and gave him a banquet.

LESSONS OF STORM.

Yesterday's storm reproduced on a much smaller scale the experience of the great storm which visited this section on the eve of last Washington's Birthday. Already there were only two inches of snow, the storm proved more disastrous than would the ordinary one in which the snowfall amounted to six times that amount. Rain and damp snow fell when the thermometer was just below freezing and it wasn't long before the trees were coated with ice. Then came the wind. The heavy weight of ice combined with the wind proved disastrous to the smaller branches and all wires that happened to be in their path suffered.

Plainfield was more fortunate than its neighbors in that most of the wires here are underground and cannot therefore be affected by such storms. The short stretches from the distributing poles can be demoralized but it is a comparatively easy job to repair them when compared with the task of renewing the entire system as has to be done in some places. The New York and New Jersey Telephone Company is best provided for as far as underground wires are concerned although a portion of the light and power wires of the Plainfield Gas and Electric Light Company are similarly cared for. There has been talk about enlarging the underground system of both companies. The sooner it is done the better it will be for all concerned.

One great advantage of a spread of this underground system of wires will be in the increased safety for the local fire alarm system. The falling of a large limb yesterday morning left the city almost without the use of any of the alarm boxes for nearly three hours. A portion of the wires of this system are underground now in the conduits of the telephone company. More should be given similar protection, especially in the business portion of the city. Without the fire alarm boxes in use, the fire department would be severely crippled, particularly as the telephone wires would in all probability suffer the same fate. The quicker the underground conduits are built all over the city, the better it will be for the public.

For the second time in a year, telegraph poles on the line of the Jersey Central Railroad, have been blown over in considerable numbers, delaying traffic on the railroad and interrupting communication by wire. Accidents of that nature unusual in this part of the country and the two which happened within the last year, are the only ones of that magnitude that have occurred for a number of years.

The publication of the pupils of the Plainfield High School will make its first appearance Monday. The Oracle, as it is called, will be awaited with unusual interest. While a school paper has been talked of for years at the City High School, it has remained for the present classes to bring about that which previous classes have greatly desired.

It has been wisely suggested that when the Jersey Central Railroad build its new east bound baggage room that a flight of steps be built from the extreme western end of the platform at the west bound station to Park avenue. Such a flight of stairs would be of great convenience to the passengers on the long trains arriving here at night.

Now is the time that the lack of coal is carrying trouble into many homes throughout the land. Residents of Plainfield are fortunate, indeed, that they live where an excellent supply of coal has been received despite the troublesome conditions.

This is the season when the teachers of the public schools are taught modern ideas and methods at the county institutes. These gatherings are undoubtedly the means of improving the schools.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

You know that when your home is painted on the outside it is seen by all your friends. Have it done by James Hansen & Company and it will be admired by one and all. They do only first-class work.

A new shipment of Colgate's toilet articles and perfumes have been received at the drug store of B. J. Schreiner, at the corner of Park avenue and Second street, and a special sale of these articles will be made this week.

The style as well as quality can be found in all the hats sold by Bonn, the West Front street milliner. His stock compares with those to be found in New York and besides you can save yourself time and money by trading with Bonn.

With the arrival of genuine winter weather no time should be lost in purchasing suitable clothing. The Paris Cloak Store on West Front street, has an exceptionally good stock of suitings for women, also cloth and fur cloaks, as well as a fine stock of furs.

Heavy snow storms and chilly north winds are great producers of severe colds and attacks of grip. Hot water bottles are a great comfort if the best are obtained and will prevent many colds during the season. These are on sale at the drug store of T. S. Armstrong, on Park and North avenues.

A reproduction of the $10,000 painting entitled, "Flower Farming in California" is being displayed in the window of Powers' Somerset pharmacy. The original is the property of Rieger, the California perfumer. Mr. Powers is the agent for the perfumes and has just received his Christmas stock of the well-known goods.

Lovers of vegetables often have a longing for their favorites at this time of the year. It may not be possible to get them just from the garden but they may be had every bit as fresh, that is if the White Label brand is purchased. Neuman Brothers are the sole agents in this city and state that the sifted sugar peas, small green beans and small lima beans are especially fine.

TO FIGHT FIRE.

Legislature Asked for Funds for Suppression of Forest Fires in New Jersey.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, Dec. 6—In a special report to Governor Murphy, the State Geological Survey recommends that the Legislature be asked to appropriate the $10,500 for the suppression of forest fires in New Jersey. This money is to be divided, according to the plan of the survey, among a head forester, who is to receive a salary of $2,000 a year: twenty first-class wardens, who are to receive $600 a year each; one hundred second class wardens, who are to receive $25 a year each; travelling expenses, $1,000; contingent fire fund, $1,200; general contingent fund, $500; clerical help, $600; clearing brush in co-operation with the townships, $1,000; general equipment, $500.

It is pointed out that New Jersey has 1,400,000 acres of timber land to be protected and the survey expresses the opinion that, under the conditions, the expense would be very light. This 1,400,000 of timber land is located in the pine belt of south Jersey, chiefly in Atlantic, Burlington, Cape May, Cumberland, Gloucester and Ocean counties, and it is here that the forest fires are most prevalent. They also occur, but less frequently, in the Highland belt of Morris, Passaic and Sussex counties, and on Kittatinny Mountain from the Delaware Water Gap northeastward.

HUSBAND SAVED HER

Deed of Valor Performed by Count von Goetzen.

Germany's African Viceroy Takes Good Care of His Wife, When Attacked by a Giant, Blood-thirsty Panther.

[Special Berlin (Germany) Letter.]

The vast German possessions in Africa are ruled by a governor general, who exercises autocratic functions over natives and settlers alike. The present viceroy is Count von Goetzen, the husband of a charming American woman, who was Mrs. William Matthew Lay, of Washington, and before that May Rowney, of Baltimore. Her position in German Africa is frequently likened to that of the wife of the viceroy of India, Lady Curzon, nee Leiter, of Chicago; but, as a matter of cold fact, it is even more consequential. The countess is queen of half a million more subjects than the regent of Bavaria, and the kings of Wuerttemberg and Saxony combined reign over fewer people than her ladyship. When she rides to parade ten regiments of well-trained troops lower their colors before her.

Count von Goetzen has been a traveler all his life, and his bravery has earned for him many medals, both at home and abroad. His latest feat of courage was saving his wife from the fate of being eaten alive by a giant panther.

His was a deed of prodigious valor—having no firearms, he drove off the maneater with a whip of rhinoceros skin that chanced to be in his carriage.

Count von Goetzen is the absolute ruler of a territory embracing 1,470,413 square miles and 6,550,000 of blacks. The adventure here told occurred about a month ago, in the evening, on the Pugu road, about one mile outside of Dar-es-Salam, capital of the German African empire, as the count and countess were returning from a visit to friends living on a plantation near the edge of the virgin forest, an hour or so further in the interior.

COUNT VON GOETZEN ATTACKING THE PANTHER.

They drove in an open phaeton, the box of which had been lowered to allow the count to handle the reins from his accustomed place. Their team was a pair of grays, light in color, and quite recently imported. Having heard that wild animals will rarely attack persons clad in white, the kaiser sent the countess two white carriage horses, with a graceful note saying he hoped she would be "able to drive them herself, as they were gentle and proof against surprises by denizens of the African forest."

The imperial surmise was quite correct, as will be seen presently.

The countess had just remarked that after the next turn in the road they would see the lights of their palace, outside the city, when something dark bounded from the bushes into the middle of the street, causing the horses to halt and rear.

"At the same moment," said the countess afterwards, "I felt a painful twitching at the roots of my hair—yes, I was frightened, what woman would not be under the circumstances? While the count threw the reins to me and told me to hold on for dear life, I perceived two faint yellow glimmers piercing the darkness. My first thought was: 'A lion—the natives had often told me of the unbearable brightness of the lion's eyes, of the fixity of his metallic glance. It made me shudder, but nevertheless I looked at the object of my terror with a keen air, sinking my eyes in his. I had read once that it is not impossible to hypnotize a wild animal that way."

The count says the animal was no more than five feet from his horses' heads when it stopped and refused to go further. There it stood stockstill, regarding the trotters with eyes like fire balls.

The viceroy continues: "The rearing mares had smashed the lantern in front and I was obliged to go to the rear of the carriage to get the one fastened there. It was of the American, electrical kind, giving out a big, white light. When, lantern in hand, I again passed by my wife, she handed me a heavy whip of rhinoceros, which, on that day, I had confiscated on one of the outlying plantations, as it is against the law to use this terrible instrument of punishment, that, at one time, no native chief or slave-holder could do without.

"The whip weighs about fifteen pounds and many a poor black devil's back has been broken with one of its kind. To reassure my wife I said, in advancing: 'If it's a dog he won't hold up the viceroy's carriage a second time after I get through with him.' But I knew all the time that it wasn't a dog and was upbraiding myself for having gone without pistols. A kingdom for a Mauser revolver! such as I had at home.

"Such and similar thoughts passed through my mind as I jumped forward, whip in right, lantern in left. Then I suddenly remembered the paragraph from the emperor's letter, accompanying the gift of horses. 'I must not obstruct the view of the animals,' I concluded hastily, 'they may, after all, prove an element of protection.'

"The light of the lantern now fell full upon the object in the road. First I saw only the head of the beast. It was as big as a lioness's, but I recognized at once the panther's outlines. As I approached nearer the beast raised his tail, a powerful appendage, round like a stick, and towering two or three feet above his head. The animal himself appeared to be some three feet high by three and a half feet to four feet long.

"I struck him a terrible blow with the rhinoceros whip across the face, following it up with another and yet another across the shoulders. Thereupon, to my surprise, the panther turned tail without offering any violence, though as the whip first descended he showed a formidable array of teeth and his pointed tongue. He turned tail and ran sideways, I after him, raining blows upon his back, some of which, I am sure, took effect. Next I heard the young wood lining one side of the road creak and rustle. The panther had leaped into the thicket and made off in a hurry."

Then the count jumped into the carriage, took the reins from his wife's hands, and, giving her the lantern, told her to wave it in order to keep off possible other intruders of the sort just encountered. But the horses were too frightened to move at once, and it took a lot of persuasion and no end of whipping to make them go. Once coaxed to a gallop, they flew along the road at breakneck speed. "No troika chased by wolves ever made better time," says the countess.

The viceroy is undecided as to what circumstances he shall attribute their marvelous delivery, and, courageous man that he is, he hesitates about taking too much credit to himself. "The color of the horses, my lantern, the fact that the beast was crammed with food—all worked together," he said to his military household upon reaching home. That is probably true, but the person with the rhinoceros whip, advancing upon a 300 pound king of the wilderness as if he was an unruly house dog, was evidently the decisive figure in the one sided battle.

"But don't forget the countess," wrote Von Goetzen to Kaiser Wilhelm; "who but a nervy American woman could have managed those plunging horses at the crucial moment? Ninety-nine out of a hundred women would have fainted, the hundredth would have jumped out to seek salvation in flight, or would have run me over to get away. Not so her excellency. She held the horses in a firm grip, and at the same time coaxed and encouraged them with the best German at her command. Then, as we drove home, I standing upright in the carriage to keep the frenzied animals under control, the countess leaned far out waving the lantern, once as a protection against other wild beasts that might follow us and again as a signal for our servants."

"I really had no time to be afraid, except for that momentary twitching at the roots of the hair, but I confess it makes me shudder when I think of the savage cry the panther uttered as he leaped into the bushes," writes the countess.

"The danger that threatened the first lady in the land and the way in which she conducted herself on this trying occasion," say the kaiser's reports, "have increased, if possible, the respect in which her excellency is held by natives and whites alike."

NAGGING THE CHILD.

A Disagreeable Fault Some Mothers Have.

Don't nag the child. What is the use? If you want the child to obey you, speak once and once only. Stick to this rule, and you will have no trouble. This is how the average mother makes a mistake:

"Now, Susie! The idea of your doing that! How many times have I told you not to? Susie, Susie! Do you hear me? Stop that this very instant! Now do. That's a good child. Susie! I'm ashamed of you! What will your papa say when he comes home and I tell him how bad you have been? Susie Jones, if you don't stop this minute I'll come over there and give you something you won't like!"

"DON'T! DON'T!"

Perhaps this threat will work, and then perhaps again it will not. Anyway Susie's mother will have to leave her work or make a feint of doing so.

Now, this is all wrong. The simple remark: "Susie, you know I forbade you to do that. Stop doing it," ought to be enough, and it will be, too, if the child knows that you mean what you say. If the child does not obey immediately, punish it. It is not likely you will have to do so a second time.

If the child is not doing actual wrong, don't nag it. Some women seem to take a fiendish delight in this sort of thing. If you want to make your child sulky, self conscious and fretful, why, follow their example. Don't keep tormenting the child by telling it to stand just so, smile just so and say just such and such things. In particular do not indulge in this sort of performance before visitors. Lessons in deportment should have their time and place.

Above all, try not to poison the lives of your children by perpetual wails of "Don't!" Let the tots have a little chance to live. Many of their trying peculiarities they will overcome themselves in the course of time.

If the child is doing wrong, one word of admonition should suffice. If it is not doing wrong, leave it alone.

THE BILLIARD ROOM.

A Few Hints on Fumed Oak—How to Furnish It.

Nowadays nearly every up to date home is equipped with a billiard room. This may be pretentious or not, just as one's purse allows. At any rate, the furnishings should be largely on the carved wood order, and a quaintly simple effect is to be desired.

The accompanying illustration shows one of the latest designs for a room of this kind. It was planned for the country house of a well to do business man.

The woodwork is of fumed oak, the walls are wainscoted and the ceiling heavily beamed. A long window, or rather five single windows in a group, let in plenty of light. A quaint old time effect is afforded by the small panes of glass. The long window seat is upholstered in red leather. The chairs are treated in the same fashion, a handsome stone fireplace lends dignity to the room and a rich Persian carpet gives a warm look to the hardwood floors.

R. DE LA BAUME.

The Use of Fur.

The low cut bodices make the fur lined opera cloak or cape necessary. The evening waist this season is not so decidedly a pouched shape, and a pretty innovation is to have a row of flowers around the neck. Others have a real swansdown puff around the neck and sometimes around the sleeves or down the front of the waist. This is soft and delicate. It allows the lace of the gown—for nine out of every ten are made of lace—to melt into snowy softness and is a beautiful finish.

If the ant family, those incessant, hustling toilers that do all the work of a colony are of the neuter gender.

THE KIDNAPPED MILLIONAIRES

A TALE OF WALL STREET AND THE TROPICS

By FREDERICK U. ADAMS.

Copyright, 1902, by Bodfrey Publishing Company. All rights reserved.

"I have called on a matter of business," said Mr. Hestor, briskly, as he removed his gloves, and leaned slightly forward in his chair. "You are a busy man and I will attempt to state my proposition as concisely as possible. According to popular report and to general knowledge you have been kept the moving spirit in those great financial undertakings which have resulted in the reorganization of various industries. Your standing is such that your name is sufficient to guarantee the success of any undertaking of this character. Did it ever occur to you that there is one great industry which never yet has tested the benefits which come from a community of ownership? in other words, have you considered the possibilities of a newspaper trust?"

Mr. Hestor paused. The stern old millionaire did not answer for a moment, and seemed to be waiting for the editor to continue. Hestor was content to wait.

"I have thought of it, but I did not imagine the first suggestion would come from a representative of The Record," said Mr. Morton. Hestor was not the least abashed.

"I am not responsible for what appears in The Record, and you know enough about newspapers, and especially metropolitan papers, to understand the exigencies of politics," he said. "You will concede that our criticism of trusts has not seriously interfered with your plans. In any——"

"I do not concede that," interrupted Mr. Morton. "That, however, has nothing to do with your proposition. State your plan. I am willing to listen to it."

"There is no industry in the country offering so great an opportunity for trust management as that of the newspaper press," said Mr. Hestor, with earnestness. "It is true that we have the Associated Press service, which is a co-operative affair, but this, while an invulnerable adjunct, is really a small item in the total expense of a great paper. It simply does on a small scale what can and should be done on a large scale."

"I HAVE THOUGHT OF IT," SAID MR. MORTON.

"You would have a syndicate of papers—one paper in each of the large cities," suggested Mr. Morton.

"I would have a syndicate which would own two papers in all cities having populations in excess of 100,000," replied Mr. Hestor.

"Yes, I see. One republican and one democratic paper in each city. Ah-um-m. That would be quite a plan," said Mr. Morton, drawing his hand slowly over his stubbled chin. "Both under one general management, I suppose?"

"Certainly."

"Have you made any general estimates of the expense of such a plan, or prepared any synopsis of the way in which it could be executed?" asked Mr. Morton, with the first manifestation of real interest.

"I did not care to go to the trouble and expense of doing so until I had a conference with you," replied Hestor, who guarded himself against over-enthusiasm when he saw that he had made some progress. "It will require considerable capital, much work, and good judgment in the execution of the plans; and more than all, the most rigid secrecy must be maintained. You are the only man to whom this subject has been broached, and I need not ask you to regard this matter as strictly confidential in case you should decide to do nothing in the way of its advancement."

Mr. Morton nodded his head and growled a consent to this injunction, which he evidently regarded as unnecessary.

"I would start this syndicate in a chain of 30 cities, with two papers in each," continued Mr. Hestor, who rapidly noted a list. "Here are the cities I have in mind: New York, Brooklyn, Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, Rochester, Buffalo, Atlanta, New Orleans, Louisville, Cincinnati, Pittsburg, Cleveland, Detroit, Indianapolis, Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul or Minneapolis, St. Louis, Omaha, Galveston, Kansas City, Denver, Helena, Seattle, Tacoma, Portland, San Francisco and Los Angeles."

Mr. Hestor then entered into a detailed and comprehensive explanation of the proposed newspaper trust. He submitted figures showing that 60 papers could be purchased for less than $115,000,000, and proved that these papers were then earning $7,500,000 a year, or more than five per cent. on the required investment. Hestor proposed retrenchment in three important departments, viz.: the Sunday papers, the editorial staffs, and the abolition of the advertising agency. Instead of preparing 60 Sunday papers, the syndicate would print four, each of surpassing excellence. These four papers would give all syndicate papers in contiguous territory a distinct Sunday paper. Each of these four Sunday papers would have a marked specialty, and each would strongly appeal to a certain class of readers. One would make a specialty of amusements; another of literature; the third of fiction, and the fourth of science and art—but each would be a complete magazine. Hestor showed that four such Sunday magazines could afford to employ the highest literary and artistic genius of the world, and proved that no competition with them would be possible. The saving would amount to not less than $4,000,000 a year, in the single item of Sunday papers.

The editorial department would be conducted on a similar plan. Instead of 400 editorial writers—as at present—he would have a staff of 20; acknowledged authorities in their respective specialties. The editor-in-chief would keep in touch with the owners of the syndicate, who would thus be able to dictate the thought of the country in the leading republican and democratic papers.

"The reduced expenses of the editorial department will be about $700,000," said Mr. Hestor. "You can place your own estimate on the financial benefits your syndicate will receive from being able to inspire and regulate the thought of a nation."

Hestor then explained how millions could be saved by dealing direct with advertisers without the intervention of the advertising agency, which he characterized as the "most stupid survival of the middle-man system." He explained that the agency levied tribute on advertiser and newspaper, and that an enormous percentage was absorbed by a worthless parasite. Hestor said that a staff of ten men could do the work now performed by several thousand.

"The expense of securing advertising will be practically nothing," concluded Hestor; "the average rates will be doubled, and we will receive all of the enormous fund which now goes to the agencies. This will be of benefit to all concerned, except to the useless and decadent advertising middle-man. I would not dare place any estimate on the added revenues from this much-needed reform. It certainly will far exceed any other item of saving."

"You make out a strong case," said Mr. Morton, after an interval, in which both gentlemen said nothing. "This is too important a matter to decide off-hand. I should not care to go into it without consulting with some of my associates. What financial interests have you in mind in this connection?"

"I propose to leave that matter entirely in your hands," replied Mr. Hestor promptly. "I do not know that I am on unfriendly terms with any of the men who are reported to be your associates in similar organizations. I stand ready to invest $10,000,000, provided a company is financed for a total of $125,000,000 or $150,000,000. I have talked this matter over with Mr. Van Horne, and you can count on his co-operation."

"You have the proper confidence in your plans," said Mr. Morton. "I will discuss this project with some of my associates. If I find they deem it worthy of more careful examination, it might be well to arrange a conference and settle on some definite mode of procedure. Mind you, I am not holding out any promises. If these gentlemen evince a decided interest in the matter I will communicate with you. The secrecy of the plan will not leak out through the men I have in mind."

"When can I reasonably expect to hear from you?"

"Four of the gentlemen I have in mind meet here to-morrow afternoon at a director's meeting," said Mr. Morton, consulting a memorandum. "Later they dine with me at an uptown club. I will see what they think about it and send you word when I can see you. In the mean time it will be a good idea to reduce your plans to writing. If possible, make an estimate of the amount annually expended by your 60 papers for commissions paid to advertising agencies. Make your report as comprehensive as possible. I can give this no more time to-day. I have an engagement at five o'clock."

Mr. Morton arose, closed his desk, and shook hands with Mr. Hestor. That gentleman joined the crowd of clerks who had finished their day's work, descended the marble stairs and stepped into his automobile.

MANAGING A MAN

How a New York Girl Has Her Own Way with an English Titled Fiance, As Viewed Through the Eyes of Clo. Graves, the Famous English Authoress and Dramatist.

"TO HUNT the stag in the real old English way, on real old English ground," said Miss Van Zan, sparkling up at Lord Pinehead through her double thicket of black eyelashes and smiles.

"Do you ride to hounds in New York state?" asked that young gentleman rather fatuously.

"We have paper drag-hunts that are real enjoyable if not mighty exciting, and latterly the club has imported 18 couple of real English foxhounds. The trouble about them was, that they wouldn't chase anything but a fox; and the foxes we'd imported on purpose—such common little things!—had no idea of running in country they didn't know. Besides, the passengers on the liner had spoilt them so with sweet biscuits and chicken wings that they were too corpulent for exercise. So we got a nigger and a red herring—one of your real old English high-dried sort—and the nigger engaged for five dollars to drag it over the ground we'd fixed on, and the meet was arranged. There were 24 members of our hunt club, ladies and gentlemen all turned out by first-rate sporting sartorialists. And I won't say, in a light green cloth with orange facings and a special button, but what the style was real handsome. It was a real splendid day, with blazing sunshine, and when that nigger broke covert and ran—we didn't want any English dogs to smell for us—that herring seemed to our American noses to flavor the whole country for miles"—the pretty nose of the narrator wrinkled fastidiously—"and John B. Alding, the smartest and best got up member of the hunt club, turned his horse right round. 'Where are you going?' I called out, for the whole hunt was streamin' up a risin' ground-lob, leanin' out of their saddles and sniffin' the air, and the nigger was melting into the perspective like a liquorice drop on a hot stove lid.

"'Where? Miss Hattie?' says John B. 'Why, I guess I'm going to hunt out a part of the landscape for myself that don't perfume of British bloater—an' if you like, you can come along!'" contrast between your red clay fields and your green trees and hedges—"

"Is as charming as the contrast between blue eyes and black hair? I agree with you," said the infatuated young man.

Miss Van Zan's pearly cheek did not assume the faintest tint of rose. "Oh! I guess I don't admire myself much," she said, "since I've seen your English beauties. Peaches, I call 'em. Why, Lady Susan Wendover—that lovely girl the society papers say you're engaged to—"

"I'm not engaged to Lady Susan Wendover," said Lord Pinehead, eagerly.

AS SHE WISHED TO GO TO THE HUNT.

"I should think you'd want to be," said Miss Van Zan, "I should—if I had been born to employ a tailor instead of a coutouriere."

"I am devoutly glad," said Lord Pinehead, "that fate destined you to wear a train instead of tr——" He pulled up.

"You just saved yourself," said Miss Van Zan. "Well, poppa's visit and mine to this dear old place of yours comes to an end in another week. I'm sure you've made us feel as if the place belonged to us."

"Make it yours," said Lord Pinehead, bringing up at the end of the rose alley in which they were walking, with the proposal which Miss Van Zan had intended should be made before they got back to the upper end. "Only if you take it you must accept it with its encumbrances. I am one of them—the chief one."

"I guess I can put up with you," said Miss Van Zan, and as the triumphant lover captured the lovely hand upon which the latest fashion in rings glittered and sparkled, she added to herself: "Not forgetting the title." Then she went back to the house and looked up poppa in the library.

"Have you had a successful time, pet?" asked the parent, without glancing up from the Stock and Share column of the Times.

"I guess so," said the daughter. She threw herself into a lounge and crossed her lovely feet — exquisitely stockinged and divinely shod—upon one of the awful bed footstools worked by Lady Pinehead in her youth. "It's fixed, anyhow. I've left him sorting his ideas in the garden."

"From what I know of the effect you commonly have upon young men," said poppa, "I should rather have supposed his ideas were limited to one."

"Come over and put it in my mouth, and light it for me," said his daughter. "I'm too exhausted by being proposed to, to do it myself. . . . Poppa!" she remarked, when the obedient parent had fulfilled her behest, "does a mistress of staghounds wear any sort of uniform—in England? Because, if not, I'll have one designed right away. Pink, with a diamond badge and topaz buttons would be elegant. And a silver-gilt horn with turquoises encrusted round the rim and an ivory mouthpiece. My!"

She rose, and tripped across to the piano, and, sitting down, rattled out the opening verses of "We'll Hunt the Stag To-Day."

A masculine voice took up the burden rather out of tune; a masculine watch chain entangled itself in Miss Van Zan's back hair as she leaned coquettishly against the support afforded by her admiring lover.

"Only we're going to hunt him on Wednesday," said the charmer, giving Lord Pinehead a distracting glimpse of her eyelashes. "You don't know how I'm longing for my first experi-

HER HATPINS HAD GONE, HER HAT HAD VANISHED.

"Well?" Lord Pinehead's tone was chilly and the bright eyes of Miss Van Zan sparkled more mischievously through her eyelashes, as she replied:

"Well, I did!"

"And made strong running, I suppose."

"We'd always been thick," said Miss Van Zan, "since John was a Harvard student and I was a girl attending lecture classes with a pigtail tied up with ribbon. But we concluded to be something nearer than friends before the day was over, and when we lighted down at a farmhouse to get a drink of molasses and water and some doughnuts, we were positively engaged. The affair was only broken off last fall."

"And were you sorry?" asked her interlocutor.

"I guess," said Miss Van Zan, "I wasn't so sorry as John, anyway!"

"And where is John now?" inquired Lord Pinehead, with a tinge of jealousy.

"My!" retorted the enchantress, "you do ask questions. He's got chambers on Broadway, an' an apartment in Paris, an' a shootin' lodge in the Rockies, an' a villa on Como, an' a huntin'-box in England—and if he isn't located at one of those addresses, I allow he's elsewhere. As for me, I'm at Pinehead castle in Devon, and I do think the Notwithstanding that the air was biting cold, the weather was quite propitious for the laying of the corner-stone of the new hospital, Saturday afternoon. There was a large attendance of people interested in the hospital and its work including a majority of the Board of Governors, the medical staff, members of the Woman's Auxiliary, Mayor O. L. Jenkins, Councilmen R. I. Tolles, J. F. Buckle, B. Frank Coriell, president of the Council, most of the physicians of the city, as well as many clergymen representing the churches. It was much regretted that Charles J. Fisk, president of the Board of Governors, was unable to be present on account of illness, but his place was ably taken by William R. Cock, first vice president, who had charge of the exercises.

The exercises began at 3:30 o'clock, with invocation by Rev. Edward L. Earp, after which Mr. Cock made the following address:

"I regret exceedingly that Charles J. Fisk, the president of the Board of Governors, is not with us today and that the duty of presiding on this occasion devolves on me.

"On the 30th day of May, 1880, Decoration Day, the corner-stone of the present hospital building was laid by Hamilton Wallis, Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons in the State of New Jersey, assisted by his Grand Officers, according to the impressive ceremony of that ancient order. Addresses were made by Rev. Thomas H. Stockton, pastor of the First M. E. church, the late Hon. Wm. B. Maxson, former Mayor of the city, and Bishop Scarborough. It was a great and eventful day for us, but more especially for those of us who were most deeply interested in the work. We had just received the gift of land from the late Hon. Job Male and had our plans drawn for the building. With the funds we had in hand at the time we commenced its erection. Our contract figure for the building complete was $4,400.

"In December of that year the finance committee was obliged to report that we had expended all the money we had in hand, namely $2,400 and if the money necessary to finish the building was not forthcoming, we would be obliged to suspend operations. This we had to do, and the incomplete building, for lack of funds, $2,000, was allowed to stand in this condition through the winter. In the spring the Woman's Auxiliary Board, which has always done so much for us before and since, held a fair in Vandeventer Hall and succeeded in raising $1,500. With this amount and subscriptions from our friends, we were able to complete the building and it was opened for the reception of patients November 1, 1881, or four years after the hospital was incorporated.

"Our building as it stands today is totally inadequate for our needs, and the Board of Governors realizing the fact, and also that we must look to the future, determined to secure land and erect a building suitable for the increased and growing demands upon the institution. The land was purchased and paid for, and the buildings are now in process of erection as you see. The Board of Governors had decided to erect and finish as much of the plant as our funds admit of, but reluctantly have to abandon the completion of one of the main wards.

"We must have more room and better accommodations. If we cannot secure funds to complete the hospital, we must go as far as we can. We will not run in debt. Our great hope is that when our dilema is known to the people of Plainfield, that they will come forward with contributions, and enable us in the near future to finish the other ward. Then we will have a hospital building as complete, for its size, as any in this country, and of sufficient capacity to meet all require-

BREAKS IN FIRE ALARM

LAST FRIDAY'S STORM MADE LOTS OF TROUBLE FOR LOCAL SYSTEM.

Linemen Were Busy All of Friday Night Trying to Find the Troublesome Breaks.

Almost all Friday night the men in charge of the fire alarm system of this city worked on the lines trying to locate a bad break in the wires in the east end of the city, during which time some sections of the city were without fire protection save by still alarm. There were four breaks in the alarm system Friday and at different times during the day the gong sounded.

One of these breaks was in the west end of the city and was caused by a crane in the Pond Machine Tool Works coming in contact with the wire and breaking it. Another break was in the center of the town and required almost an hour to find it. The third break occurred almost in front of the headquarters on East Second street and was caused by the breaking off of a large limb on one of the trees, as large as the trunk of one of the regular trees which border the streets of this city. All three circuits were disabled by this break and it was almost a half hour before it was repaired.

The most serious break of that day was in the east end of the town and was discovered at about 2 o'clock. At 4 o'clock the break was still hidden but by Saturday the lines were in perfect working order again.

NETTED $400.

Results of Fair Held by Women of Park Avenue Baptist Church.

Wesley Johnson, at 207 LaGrande avenue, at which time the reports of the recent fair, which was held in the Rockfellow store on Park avenue, will be read.

The fair was a great success and the net proceeds will amount to $400, which will be used to help lift the floating indebtedness on the church. At this meeting it is probable that the time for holding the tea which is contemplated will be set when some of the articles not disposed of at the fair will be sold.

A sale, conducted and the articles for sale made by children not over thirteen years of age, was held Saturday afternoon between the hours of 2 and 6 o'clock in the rooms of the Women's Christian Temperance Union in the Babcock building. The sale was well attended and the patronage was generous.

The rooms were prettily decorated with pink bunting and each booth which was presided over by the children of the Junior Advance Guard of the King's Daughters, which organization held the sale for the benefit of the support of the city nurse at the hospital, was decorated in the Junior Advance Guard's colors: purple and white. Among the attractions at the fair was a fish pond which was well patronized. The proceeds of the sale were large and the children were particularly proud of the their efforts.

SLIPPED ON ICE.

Charles M. Wilson Injured by Fall on His Own Front Steps.

Charles M. Wilson, of 206 West Sixth street, met with a serious accident Saturday morning as he was leaving his home to go to the new hospital, where he is engaged on the carpenter work. He was walking down the front steps at his home when his feet slipped and he fell the entire distance to the ground. His back struck a sharp corner of the steps, severely wrenching and spraining the ligaments. The noise made in falling attracted the attention of the members of the family who hastened out of doors. They found Mr. Wilson almost helpless on the ground. He was assisted into the house and a physician was summoned. It is believed that the injured man will be detained at home at least two weeks. Fortunately no bones were broken, although the exact extent of the injuries cannot be ascertained.

STOVE STARTS FIRE IN STUDIO

IN BUSINESS SECTION

Oil Stove Exploded in Photographic Studio of F. C. Langhorne—Mr. Hughes Tried to Smother It—Alarm Sent in at 9 o'Clock—Several Hundred Damage.

What threatened to be a serious conflagration directly in the heart of the city broke out at 9 o'clock, this morning, in the photographic studio of F. C. Langhorne, on the top floor of the Schwed building. An oil stove, burning at its full capacity, melted the upper part and an explosion followed, scattering blazing fluid in every direction. It was discovered by Thomas Hughes, Mr. Langhorne's assistant, who made a heroic effort to smother the flames but succeeded only in getting himself badly burned about the head and arms.

The department was summoned from box No. 12 and on its arrival the developing room was a mass of flames. It was almost impossible to force an entrance to the scene but, by crawling on hands and knees, Driver James Daley got a stream from the chemical engine directly on the remains of the stove and the oil covered floor. The rest of the blaze was extinguished after a half hour's hard fight but not before the floor, walls and wooden partition were badly burned.

In the studio there were 2,500 negatives and until the exact damage to these is determined Langhorne cannot estimate his loss. The damage to the building is placed at several hundred dollars and is covered by insurance.

"IMMANUEL."

Production to be Given at Y. M. C. A. Hall Thursday Night.

One of the most important numbers to be rendered in the production of "Immanuel" at the Y. M. C. A. Hall, Thursay night, is the soprano solo, "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth," from the "Messiah." This number will be rendered by Miss Bianca Holley, the special artist who has been engaged to sing with the Star Recital Company in this new sacred recital. The Jefferson County Journal in speaking of her rendition of Handel's compositions, says:

"Miss Holley held her place in the hearts of the people and nothing but praise is heard of her delightful singing. In the 'Messiah' she lifts the soul from earth to Heaven, bathing it in an element of bliss and satiating it with a feast of purest joys."

Greater expression will be added to these gems of sacred composition than has ever before been given by the beautiful works of art which will picture the life of Christ as these sacred selections are rendered by this company of artists.

BEST FREIGHT SERVICE HERE

Remarkable Work Done by Station Agent Haynes and His Assistants.

AT THE FREIGHT HOUSE

System Here is Best and Most Efficiently Carried Out of Any on Line of Jersey Central—Some Idea of How the Freight is Handled in Plainfield.

While all marvel at the reports in the newspapers regarding the freight blockade throughout the country, especially on the Pennsylvania Railroad, scarcely a person living in this city gives a thought to the vast amount of freight handled at the Central Railroad freight-house on Richmond street, where a force of fifteen men, under the supervision of Station Agent J. A. Haynes, are constantly employed at the clerical work and in unloading of the merchandise freight at the platform about the house from 7 a. m. to 6 p. m.

From eighteen to twenty-two cars of mixed freight consigned to the many different residents, are either placed in the house for delivery or landed upon the platform to be loaded upon waiting trucks each day. This does not include the many solid carloads of freight consigned to the different concerns about town, such as the feed and grain merchants and coal dealers. A large part of these solid carloads of freight is composed of green goods which is consigned to the fruit and vegetable dealers in town, and which in turn find its way to the tables.

The Plainfield office has the reputation of being one of the busiest on the line and at the same time of giving the best service. In dealing with those who have business with the company every facility is used to rush the work, especially in handling perishable freight, such as green goods, several kinds of groceries and fruits which keep the men busy in the morning hours making deliveries of meat, poultry and the other merchandise previously mentioned.

To the stranger unfamiliar with the work of the modern freight-house with its ceaseless rush and apparent confusion, the noise and the rumble of the wheels of the hand trucks as they are pushed over the rough boards with their crushing loads which make the rafters of the house creak, makes it appear that there is much confusion there. He sees heavy hand trucks going in every direction with loads of merchandise only to return in a second for another load; men stand in corners calling out the names of the consignees while others are engaged in checking off the numberless boxes and barrels and marking them down in the records of the company. He is bewildered with the amount of work going on before his eyes but he cannot conceive the simplicity of the work in the system which has built up the Central Railroad more rapidly than any other feature of that great company.

In the apparent confusion there is the greatest order. The great house is divided off alphabetically and each piece of freight coming out of the cars has its own place on the floor where it can be found when wanted at a moment's notice. This is the great benefit of having the freight-house where it is at present as in the old house opposite the depot the men were cramped for room, which caused frequent delays in delivering the freight when it had arrived here.

The handling of freight is one of the biggest problems the modern railroad has to meet with. It is of more importance than the passenger traffic as the company's duty ends when the passenger has arrived at his or her destination but in the case of the handling of freight it is different as every box has to be handled separately and then delivered to the truckmen at the freight-house. In this city the Central Railroad has solved this most difficult problem and today with the wonderful growth of Plainfield and its daily increase of business, which amounts to thousands of dollars a month, the city is fortunate in securing the best freight service on the line.

FAVORS VIVISECTION

Wonderful Surgical Operation Made Possible by It.

SURGEON KEEN MAKES A PLEA.

Says His Ability to Save Midshipman Aiken's Life Came Through Experiments on Animals Now So Strongly Opposed.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 8.—Dr. William W. Keen, the eminent surgeon of this city, who was recently summoned to Annapolis to perform an operation on Midshipman Aiken to relieve him of the effects of injuries sustained in a football game, attributes the success of his operation to knowledge gained through experiments in vivisection.

Dr. Keen has addressed a letter setting forth the facts in the case to Senator Gallinger, whom he regards as one of the leaders of the antivivisectionists in this country. Dr. Keen in his letter says: "I deem it my duty to call your attention to the case of Midshipman Aiken of the United States Naval academy, who was recently injured in a football game. My reason for doing so is to show undoubtedly a single concrete example that knowledge gained by animal experimentation is an immense boon to humanity and that therefore such experiments should be heartily encouraged.

"The facts of Mr. Aiken's case are as follows: When I first saw him, three days after the accident, I found that he had been unconscious for a half hour after the accident and ever since then had complained bitterly of headache, which he located always in the forehead. Soon after the accident he began to develop convulsions. In six hours and a half after I saw him he had twenty-four of these attacks, all limited to the right arm.

"There was no fracture of the skull. The only physical evidence of any injury was a very slight bruise at the outer end of the left eyebrow.

"Had I seen this case before 1885 I would have been unable to explain why the spasms were chiefly manifested in the right arm. I would have been justified in inferring that probably the front part of his brain was injured at the site of the bruise. Had I opened his skull at that point I would have found a perfectly normal brain and have missed the clot. The young man, therefore, would have died whether his skull had been opened or not.

"In 1902 observe the difference. As a result of knowledge derived from experiments upon animals which have located precisely the center of motion of the right arm I reached the conclusion that there had been a rupture of a blood vessel within the head and that the situation of the clot should correspond to the 'arm center.' Its position was fixed absolutely as a result of experiments upon animals.

"As soon as the skull was opened at this point the clot was found, its thickest point being exactly over the arm center, and the blood was removed, with the result that the patient's life was saved. This is only one of hundreds of cases in which a similar exact localization has been made by many surgeons both in Europe and America.

"The antivivisectionists have frequently denied that surgeons have learned anything from such experiments. I state with the greatest positiveness that without knowledge derived from experiments upon animals which have demonstrated the facts of cerebral localization I should never have been able to locate the clot in Mr. Aiken's head and to remove it.

"In view, therefore, of the evident and positive benefit of such experiments I trust that you will be willing to desist from further efforts at such repressive and, as I regard it, most inhumane and cruel legislation."

The crew were afterward transferred to the liner Goth, Table Bay for Southampton, while the passengers proceeded to their destination on the Argyll.

Will Submit to Arbitration.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Each side will select three arbitrators, who will appoint a seventh, a majority decision to be final. About 3,500 men are affected.

DEATH OF T. B. REED

Remains of Ex-Speaker Taken to Portland, Me.

NO CEREMONIES IN WASHINGTON.

Dead Statesman's End Was Peaceful—Was Unconscious For Several Hours—Sketch of a Famous Career.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—The remains of Hon. Thomas Brackett Reed, formerly speaker of the house of representatives, who died early Sunday morning, have been forwarded to Portland, Me., his former home, where the interment will take place tomorrow afternoon. Accompanying the body were Mrs. Reed, the widow; Miss Catherine Reed, the former speaker's daughter; Hon. Amos L. Allen, Mr. Reed's successor in the house of representatives; Mr. Asher C. Hinds, Mr. Reed's parliamentary clerk while speaker, and Mr. Augustus G. Payne of New York, a lifelong friend. At Mrs. Reed's request there were no ceremonies of any kind here, and at Portland they will be of a simple character.

During the entire day there was a stream of sympathetic callers at the Arlington hotel, where the body of Mr. Reed lay awaiting removal to the railroad station. They included President and Mrs. Roosevelt, members of the cabinet and of the senate and house of representatives and of the diplomatic corps. Many persons in private life also called. Neither Mrs. Reed nor her daughter saw any of the visitors, who simply left cards.

The body was inclosed in a casket, with heavy oxidized extension handles, and on the top was a solid silver plate, on which had been engraved the following simple inscription: "Thomas Brackett Reed, Oct. 18, 1839—Dec. 7, 1902."

The casket remained at the hotel until about 4 o'clock in the afternoon, when it was brought downstairs and lifted into the hearse, the undertaker's assistants and the employees of the hotel acting as body bearers. Then, without ceremony or display of any kind, it was removed to the railroad station. On the casket rested two floral offerings, one of them from the widow and the other, inclosed in a long pasteboard box, from Mrs. Roosevelt.

Mrs. Reed's offering was a large wreath of violets, American Beauty roses and orchids sprinkled with lilies of the valley, while in the box which came from the White House were an assortment of white and pink roses with maidenhair ferns loosely thrown together, for use on the casket when the interment is made.

Mr. Reed reached Washington a week ago Sunday, having come to attend to some matters in the United States supreme court. He was at the capitol last Monday visiting with friends and former associates in congress and witnessed the convening of the second session of the Fifty-seventh session. Apparently he was enjoying good health, but later in the day he called on Dr. F. A. Gardner and complained of gastric distress.

The following day his physician compelled him to remain in bed while a diagnosis was made of his condition. Mr. Reed was strongly averse to staying in bed, but a rise in temperature made it imperative that he remain quiet. Symptoms of appendicitis appeared, though his condition was not considered alarming. A trained nurse remained with him throughout Tuesday night, and the patient showed signs of improvement.

Mrs. Reed and daughter arrived Wednesday and remained with Mr. Reed since. Thursday the physicians announced that the appendical symptoms were abating, but that kidney trouble had developed, giving a more serious aspect to the case. Dr. W. C. Goodnow was summoned from Philadelphia for consultation. An attack of nausea Friday night distressed the patient considerably because of his weakened condition.

Saturday afternoon a decided change for the worse was noted in his condition, and Mr. Reed became unconscious shortly after 8 o'clock. He remained in this condition until the time of his death.

Thomas Brackett Reed was sixty-three years old. He was born in Portland, Me., Oct. 18, 1839. His life may be briefly told in this chronological way: Graduated from Bowdoin college in 1860; joined the United States navy as acting paymaster in 1864; member of the lower house of the Maine legislature in 1868 and 1869; member of the Maine senate in 1870; attorney general of the state of Maine from 1870 to 1872; solicitor of the city of Portland, Me., from 1874 to 1877; representative in congress from Maine from 1877 to 1900, being first elected speaker in 1888; practiced law in New York up to the time of his death.

"Czar" Reed, as he was known in political circles, came from old New England stock. He was directly descended from George Cleeve, an Englishman, who was the first white settler of Portland. Cleeve owned the whole of Portland—then Falmouth Neck—having settled there in 1632. Cleeve had one daughter, Elizabeth, who married Michael Mitton, an Irishman. One of their daughters married Anthony Brackett, a famous Indian fighter. From Brackett it was that Reed got his name, seven generations away. Anthony Brackett's great-great-great-granddaughter married Thomas Reed, and she was the grandmother of the last Tom Reed.

The early life of Reed was passed in most humble surroundings, for his father was as poor as the proverbial Job's turkey and worked for years as a watchman in Brown's sugar house. Being one of seven children, young Reed had to make his own path in the world. His birthplace is still standing in Portland, and just around the corner is the house in which Henry W. Longfellow first saw the light of day.

Reed's mother was Matilda Mitchell, a superior woman, and she gave the first direction to the intellect of her son. When a boy, with her apron tied around him to protect his clothes, she gave him his first work, that of churning butter. One day it is related that while Tom was churning some of his playmates came along and chided him about having to work.

"If you wait until I get this butter churned, I'll settle with you," said young Reed angrily. And they did. Reed kept his word, for he trounced them soundly.

At the age of nine years Reed attended the grammar school in the place of his birth. Two years later found him in the high school, from which he was graduated five years later. He was then sixteen years old and was sent to Bowdoin college, from which he was graduated just prior to the beginning of the civil war. It has often been related that Reed wanted to become a minister, for he was a regular attendant of the Congregational church in Portland.

Reed was most temperate in all of his habits. He was a total abstainer and only smoked occasionally. He was fond of walking and always tabooed elevators. He was a great reader and liked poetry.

THOMAS NAST DEAD.

Our Consul at Guayaquil Succumbs to Yellow Fever.

GUAYQUIL, Ecuador, Dec. 8.—Consul General Nast is dead after a three days' illness with yellow fever. He was interred at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The funeral was attended by the governor, the consular corps, the American colony and by many friends. The coffin was wrapped in the stars and stripes. The British consul recited a prayer in the cemetery.

The death of Mr. Nast is deeply lamented by the natives, who held him in high esteem.

Thomas Nast was nominated consul general at Guayquil May 1, 1902, and left New York for his post July 1. He arrived at Guayaquil the latter end of the same month. Consul Nast was born in Landau, Bavaria, Sept. 27, 1840, and came with his parents to the United States six years later. He early developed the artistic ability which made him famous as a caricaturist and cartoonist. For years he was traveling artist for British and American newspapers and in 1860 and 1861 was with Garibaldi in Italy. Afterward he was with Harper's Weekly as political cartoonist.

American Machinists Favored.

EAGLE PASS, Tex., Dec. 8.—The machinists in the shops of the Mexican International railroad at Cindad Porfirio Diaz have been notified that from Dec. 1 they will be paid standard American wages on a gold basis. The machinists will get $3.30 and the boiler makers $3.50 per day in American money or in Mexican silver at the average rate of exchange for the month in which they work. This is an entirely new departure in Mexican railroading and was caused by the fact that Americans could not be held at the old rates. The advance applies only to Americans.

Smallpox In Boston.

BOSTON, Dec. 8.—Among the deaths reported to the Boston board of health for the last week are seven from smallpox. The total number of cases reported is twenty-three, and residents are greatly alarmed. The health commissioners report that one of the smallpox patients who died was a woman who after being vaccinated by her family physician washed the virus off with alcohol, as directed by him.

Three Drowned In Washington.

WENACHIE, Wash., Dec. 8.—W. R. Wasser of Seattle, H. Coole and M. M. Martin were drowned in the Wenachie river near Leavenworth while engaged in surveying a location for a new power plant. Only Coole's body was recovered. It is supposed that while crossing the river their boat became unmanageable, drifted into the rapids and capsized.

American Pianist Honored.

VIENNA, Dec. 8.—Fanni Bloomfield Zeisler, the pianist, played Saint-Saens' piano concerto at the Philharmonic society's concert here. This is the first occasion on which an American soloist has been invited to appear at the society's concerts, and Mme. Zeisler met with an enthusiastic reception.

WHY CARNEGIE SAILED.

Desires to Make His Daughter a Christmas Present.

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—Andrew Carnegie's reason for disregarding his London physician's advice and sailing on the Oceanic for New York last Wednesday has become known.

It is Mr. Carnegie's desire, stronger than any fear of the evil results of an ocean trip in winter, to give to his little daughter Margaret a Christmas present of the new mansion at Fifth avenue and Ninety-first street. On Christmas day, his health permitting, he will give a house warming, and the magnificent structure will be presented to the light of the household. The family on arrival will go direct to the new house.

This wish of the father's heart has been delayed too long already in the mind of Mr. Carnegie. The house was to have been occupied a year ago, but the magnitude of the work had been miscalculated. Men were engaged night and day during the year now passing to make sure that there would be no further postponement.

Now all is in readiness for the arrival next Wednesday of Mr. and Mrs. Carnegie and Margaret. Mr. Carnegie's private secretary as well as the household staff came to New York several days ago and have superintended the finishing touches. The great entrance in Ninety-first street, just around the corner from Fifth avenue, has been kept locked so that the little mistress of the new home, with her father and mother, may be the first to enter by that door.

It will certainly take Miss Margaret Carnegie many days to get acquainted with her Christmas present, which is worth—house, land and garden—fully $2,500,000.

JAIL FOR A MAYOR.

Chief Official and Council of Denver Punished For Contempt.

DENVER, Dec. 8.—The mayor and the entire city council of Denver have been sentenced to jail for four months for contempt in passing and signing the tramway franchise bill.

The conviction of Denver's mayor and aldermen was brought about by the Municipal league, a reform organization. When the commissioners of Arapahoe county were defeated at the polls on Jan. 1 last, they declared that they would get even with the people for their defeat and arranged to give different street railway corporations a rebate of $600,000. The Municipal league secured an injunction, and the commissioners waited.

The board of aldermen then declared its intention to grant the Denver City Tramway company a twenty year franchise, with privilege to grant five cent fares and no transfers. The league enjoined the board from doing this, but the franchise was granted over the court order.

Convicted Murderer Again Escapes.

STROUDSBURG, Pa., Dec. 8.—Charles Grether, the convicted murderer of Constable Adam Strunk, has escaped for the second time from the county jail. Daniel Van Buskirk, another prisoner, escaped with him. In the morning after breakfasting Grether was asked by Reinhart, the watchman, if he did not care to take a bath. He replied that he did, and Reinhart unlocked his cell door and led the prisoner to the nearby bathroom. Reinhart then walked out of the jail corridor to the reading room, failing to lock the big iron doors. Grether was quick enough to notice the watchman's mistake, and in a few minutes after Reinhart had settled himself down to read the morning papers he and Van Buskirk quietly stole out and ran upstairs to a room in the second story of the dwelling house adjoining the jail and jumped from the window.

Six New England Fires.

BOSTON, Dec. 8.—Six places in New England have been visited by fire during the past twenty-four hours, the most disastrous one being at Guilford, Me., where a large block valued at $22,000 was destroyed. A fire almost as large in the matter of loss occurred at Peterboro, N. H., $20,000 worth of property being consumed. In this city the Boston Beer company's plant in South Boston was damaged to the extent of $10,000. At Franklin, N. H., the Congregational church was burned. At The Weirs, N. H., a large pail shop, with several adjoining buildings, were destroyed, and in Fitchburg the Park hotel was damaged. The total property loss is $77,000.

Dr. Lorenz In Baltimore.

BALTIMORE, Dec. 8.—Dr. Adolf Lorenz, the eminent Austrian orthopedic surgeon, who is in the city, visited the Hospital For Crippled Children. While he did not perform an operation, he advised the physicians of the institution how to treat some of the patients whom he met there. Dr. Lorenz gave a public clinic at Johns Hopkins hospital this forenoon.

BULL FOR FILIPINOS

Mgr. Guidi to Issue Papal Proclamation at Once.

WILL DEFINE CHURCH'S POSITION.

Collector Shuster Rules That Chinese From the United States May Enter the Philippines—Returning Soldiers Are Disorderly.

MANILA, Dec. 8.—Mgr. Guidi, the apostolic delegate, is preparing to publish a papal bull to the Filipino people. He expected to proclaim it yesterday, but its publication has been deferred because the translations have not yet been completed. It is thought that the bull will clearly define the position of the church toward the Philippine Islands and possibly outline the plans for the reorganization of the church here.

Customs Collector Shuster rules that Chinese residing in the United States may enter the Philippine Islands. His decision says, "Any Chinese legally resident in the mainland territory of the United States are entitled to enter the Philippines, irrespective of class or occupation, provided that he comes by a reasonably direct route and uses due diligence in coming."

The disorderly character of some of the discharged soldiers who are going home on the transport Logan has led General Davis to order a company of infantry aboard to act as a special guard. The company will accompany the transport to San Francisco and then return here. The Logan sails on Dec. 15 and will carry the remainder of the men discharged under the reduction order.

Preparatory to an aggressive campaign against the ladrones in the Rizal province of Luzon Governor Taft has established zones of concentration. The land will be tilled during the daytime, and the people will retire within the zones at night. A strong force of constabulary will be used against the bandits.

Church's Wonderful Growth.

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—The Rev. Matthew A. Taylor, rector of the Church of the Blessed Sacrament, West Seventy-first street and Broadway, announced two Sundays ago that the seminannual collection to reduce the debt of the church would be taken up on the following Sunday, and yesterday he announced at all the services that the special collection amounted to $11,250. Six months ago the collection amounted to $11,000. Fifteen years ago Dr. Taylor held mass in a stable on West Seventy-second street, and his congregation numbered but twenty people. Since then, besides taking off a debt of $200,000 on the present church property, two new congregations have been formed from his church—namely, the Church of the Holy Trinity and the Church of St. Matthew, the first on West Eighty-second street and the latter on West Sixty-fifth street. A year ago Dr. Taylor's congregation presented him with a $35,000 new rectory in honor of his silver jubilee.

Arbitrators Receive Much Advice.

SCRANTON, Pa., Dec. 8.—It is expected that the mine workers will consume all of this week and more in presenting to the anthracite coal strike commission their side of the controversy with the coal operators. While no one positively knows, it is estimated the employers will take about ten days to submit the information they desire the commission to have. The arbitrators are daily receiving letters from persons residing in all parts to act in the present investigation. No attention is paid to any of the letters. A great number of the communications, nearly a majority of them, make pleas for the protection of the nonunion men.

Large Tannery Burned.

RIDGWAY, Pa., Dec. 8.—The Eagle Valley tannery, at this place, has been destroyed by fire, caused by an explosion of natural gas in the engine room. The loss on the building is estimated at $75,000 and that on the stock of leather and hides at from $250,000 to $300,000. The loss is said to be well covered by insurance. This tannery is in the Elk Tanning company's district, which is identified with the United States Leather company. A large number of employees will be thrown out of work. Rebuilding will be commenced soon. The bark stacked in the yards was not burned.

New Mexico's Prosperity.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—The annual report of Governor Otero of New Mexico to the secretary of the interior says the territory is unusually prosperous, irrigation work has taken great strides, new mines are opening up, and new towns and cities are springing into life. The net bonded debt of the territory is $1,034,054. The assessed valuation of property in New Mexico is now $41,108,745, which, the governor says, is not one-third of its actual value for taxable purposes, a fair estimate, he says, not falling far short of $150,000,000.

A Valuable Estate.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Dec. 8.—Appraisers appointed to fix the inheritance tax on the estate of the late James Jennings McComb, who died at Dobbs Ferry March 31, 1901, have reported to the surrogate here that $35,000,000 represented the value of the various parcels of real estate and other holdings.

New Issue of Stamps.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—The postoffice department has begun to issue stamps bearing the Martha Washington portrait. These stamps will replace the present eight cent stamps. It is estimated that about 25,000,000 of them will be distributed to the postoffices of the country within a year.

AN OPPORTUNITY.

Occasionally one is able to find a specimen of humanity who possesses the hypnotic power sufficiently to make himself believe anything. His own declaration of facts is brought forward as unsurmountable evidence of their truthfulness. Arguing against such premises is therefore hardly worth the while. It is regrettable, however, when such illogical reasoning is aimed at the possessions of others.

An instance of this kind appeared in the last number of the Borough Health Board Review when the worthy editor explains to us ordinary mortals that he told us so long ago and that the Plainfield sewage disposal beds are not a success. Of course, we are properly shocked at the sudden news but a careful perusal of his columns explains it all.

His reasoning can be summed up somewhat after this fashion. The State Board of Health has decided that the present sewage disposal plant of the city of Plainfield is a success. The Plainfield Board of Health has failed to discover that it is not working along the desired lines. But the North Plainfield Board of Health, at a recent meeting, passed a resolution in which it branded the Plainfield disposal works as a failure. Therefore the city disposal works are a failure and the editor of the Review is perfectly justified in jumping up, kicking his heels together and shouting, "I told you so."

All joking aside, the "anti" element will have to seek about a little more for a new foundation if it wishes to find some cause for attacking the Plainfield sewage disposal system. It speaks broadly of trunk sewers to tidewater and septic tanks at the mouths of such sewers but some actual facts concerning this expensive engineering feat are not forthcoming. If these "antis" will only review a little ancient history, they will find that Plainfield passed through just such an epidemic of "tidewater sewer" talk but that when it came to considering facts, it was found that such an enterprise was beyond the reach of this city's pocket book. If there is a way whereby a trunk sewer can be built to tide water so as to be within the means of even a city the size of Plainfield, let the fact be know, but what is the use of generalizing. If some of the "anti" element would only consent to throw a little less mud at their neighbors and use that now misdirected energy to searching for some really feasible plan to accomplish the end about which they talk so much, how much more happy would the community be. It seems hardly possible that they could find what the best authorities for the city failed to discover but there's the opportunity and let them grasp it without delay. If they should make such a discovery, they will become public benefactors instead of the subjects of ridicule as at present.

It is interesting to know that Plainfield possesses one of the best equipped freight houses of any of the suburban cities. While this may not mean a great deal to the private individual who sees little of his property transported by freight, it means much to the local merchants and enables them to serve their patrons in far better fashion than if they were compelled to work under adverse conditions. It is also of prime importance to the local manufacturing concerns, particularly when it is taken into consideration that they have to accept what treatment they can get, there being no other railroad on which to fall back for relief.

COLUMN FOR THE SHOPPERS

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

C. L. Stanley, the North avenue florist, has a large assortment of fine hot house flowers on display at his store and also makes a specialty of making designs for funerals and weddings.

Grapes, apples, Florida and California oranges, nuts, candy, Japanese persimmons and especially red bananas, and in fact everything in the fruit line. Entire fresh stock is to be found at Alex. Lusardi, 211 West Front street.

Nothing adds more to the attractiveness of a fire place, mantel or bath room, than good tile work. R. B. VanArsdale is a practical tile setter and would be pleased to furnish estimates. His office is located on Central avenue.

John H. Doane, the West Front street shoe dealer, is offering a very fine stock of shoes for men, women and children, in the best quality and all sizes. He also has an attractive line of fancy and plain slippers for the holiday trade.

Although many cannot go to the Orient, they can visit the Oriental tea store on West Front street, and see the hundred of pretty and useful things offered for sale. Japanese goods in wide variety, including delicacies, are very attractive.

This cool snowy weather makes an overcoat acceptable at all hours of the day or night. One of the kind that Harry Werner is offering at present would make a nice Christmas gift. Better see the samples he has and lay one aside for father or brother.

All articles of furniture purchased now of Powlison & Jones will be laid aside until called for at Christmas time. By doing this you have the advantage of a larger stock and avoid the holiday rush. The firm's exhibition at the present time cannot be surpassed.

Fowler, the East Front street candy man, makes a specialty of supplying all sorts of candy and confectionery in large lots for the Christmas trade. Sunday-school officials will find it to their advantage to consult with him before getting their supply. And don't forget that in a retail way Fowler gives the best of everything.

Hill & Shupp are now having their holiday opening and hundreds of patrons are being attracted to this store filled with the best quality of goods. Monday will be children's day all over the store. There will be specials in all kinds of children's clothes and a pair of doll's shoes will be given free to any little girl who will bring her doll to be fitted. The Home Building and Loan Ass'n.
ORGANIZED 1888.

At a special meeting of The Home Building and Loan Association held November 17th, 1902, a resolution was passed to amend its by-laws pertaining to interest on loans, which was heretofore six per cent. per annum—permitting the Board of management to loan money at a reduced rate of interest on future loans. Prospective home buyers will do well to apply to the Secretary for particulars.

The Home Building and Loan Association during fifteen years of business has redeemed seven semi-annual series. It has at this time an investment of over $150,000.00 divided among about eighty members; and has paid 5½ to 6 per cent. compound interest to its investors. Total number of members 350.

The Association meets the third Monday of each month from 7 to 9 p. m., at 120 East Front Street, Plainfield. Shares $1.00 per month. Entrance fee 25 cents per share.

This is the third fire of which only one has caused much damage.

The sidewalks around town were cleaned off in remarkably quick time after the snow storm yesterday and the people are to be commended for their promptness.

CHEESE IS HEALTHY.

Contains Double the Nutriment of the Choicest Beef.

United States the Greatest Cheese-Making Country in the World—New York and Wisconsin at the Head.

[Special Milwaukee (Wis.) Letter.]

NOTWITHSTANDING the fact that cheese is much more nutritious than meat, and less expensive, much less of it per capita, is used in this country than in England, where the latter is not so plentiful. America is the greatest cheese-making country in the world, yet the average consumption for each person is three pounds, while in England it is 18 pounds. Our great cheese-manufacturing centers are in Wisconsin and New York, each of which has about 1,000 dairies. There are about 1,000 others generally distributed over the country. Wisconsin only manufactures about one-half as much cheese as New York. The production increased from 100,000,000 pounds (all made by farmers) in 1850 to 1,492,699,143 in 1890, 97 per cent. of which came from dairies. Of this latter, 37,000,000 pounds was sent to Great Britain.

From one gallon of milk a pound of cheese may be made, containing as much fat as three pounds of beef and as much protein as two pounds. The casein and butter fat contained in this food are very nutritious. It not only furnishes needed fat for the system but also produces heat and energy. Casein is a valuable protein composed of hydrogen, nitrogen, carbon and sulphur. If sugar and bread be eaten with cheese, the combination furnishes a most valuable meal, but the food will be found hard to digest unless one exercises vigorously. It is by some considered advisable to mix a very small quantity of bicarbonate of potash with cheese when it is eaten, as an alkali assists in rendering casein soluble.

In manufacturing cheese, fresh milk is first poured into a vat and left until the cream rises to the top. If "skim milk" cheese is to be made, the cream is removed. If whole milk cheese, it is left, and if cream cheese, more cream is added. The milk is now heated to a temperature of 90 degrees and left in the vat until it is sour enough to add rennet (an extract made from the fourth stomach of a sucking calf, an enzyme or bacterial product. As chymosin and pixine, it is found in nature among both animals and plants). This causes the milk to coagulate in about 20 minutes, a quantity of green whey containing a slimy white mass of curds. No scientist has yet been able to discover how the rennet produces this result. The rennet only affects the casein, while acids added change the milk-sugar. After drawing off the whey in order to dry the curds still more, they are cut by a wire framework into half-inch cubes, which begin to shrink immediately. They are now raised to a temperature of 100 degrees and raked around until about one-sixth their original size.

PROF. H. W. CONN.
(Discoverer of Bacillus 41, Which Has Revolutionized Cheese Making.)

when they gradually form themselves into a compact mass, which is now cut up into pieces several inches square. When these become fibrous and oily, they are placed in a mill and ground, then into cylinders lined with cheese-cloth and pressed for about 20 hours until solid. The cheeses are then placed in a curing-house where they remain for several months, or until they acquire the desired ripeness and flavor. This process as described may seem very simple, but the dairymen do not find it so, for they have constantly to guard against hostile bacteria which may assail the material from the time it is poured into the vat as milk until it is a matured cheese. While trying to cope with these, he must exercise great care in order that friendly germs (without whose services he could have no good cheese) may remain uninjured.

In 1893, Prof. H. W. Conn secured a can of milk from his dairy which contained a bacterium, previously unknown to science, and which has proved to be of incalculable value to cheese manufacturers. This is a fighter, killing harmful bacteria while ripening butter, cheese and cream. It is the famous bacterium "B 41," of which pure cultures are now constantly being made and used all over the country. It is hard to imagine the advantage this discovery has proved to the cheese manufacturer. All sorts of experiments had been made to get rid of dangerous germs. Heating the milk was found unsatisfactory, as it was hard to raise the temperature of a large tankful evenly. Prof. Conn demonstrated that one cubic inch of milk may contain 500,000,000 bacteria. They are in the milk when it comes from the cow, they come from the atmosphere, the hands and clothing of the milkmen, the hay, the pans and buckets, everywhere. They multiply with great rapidity in the warm milk. Various species may change the milk to a variety of different colors; some render it bitter, some strong. They sometimes cause a cheese to swell, and when cut it is seen to be full of bubbles. Sometimes red or blue mold is found in great patches, rendering it unfit for food, occasioning a dead loss. If salicylic acid be added to kill these small enemies, the germs that are necessary for proper cheesemaking are destroyed also. Hence the value of the discovery of "B. 41."

Wisconsin supplies nearly all our southern trade because, being fine in texture, its cheese stands the heat better than that made in New York, which supplies the export trade. A few years ago there was a large business done in "filled cheese," which is an adulteration, harmless and profitable had it not been represented as the genuine article, causing the government to legislate against it. The process of its manufacture consisted in using a "skim milk" cheese as a base and injecting into it with a steam jet some fat to take the place of butter. Oleomargarine was first used, then lard was found satisfactory.

The village of Cheddar, Somersetshire, England, gives its name to a cheese that has been noted for over 300 years. This is imitated all over the world, a very fine quality being made in Wisconsin. The English cheese of highest price and most imitated is the Stilton, named after a town in Leicestershire, England. The long, cylindrical cakes weigh about 12 pounds, each having an irregular, whitish rind. Inside it is white and mellow, and traversed by bluish veins. It requires about six months to properly ripen. Cottenham resembles Stilton cheese, but is richer in flavor, more creamy and more strongly marked. Gloucester cheese and Dunlop cheese, made in Scotland, are said to be the best for toasting purposes in the world. About 25 miles from Paris the famous Brie cheese is manufactured. It is but one inch in thickness and 12 inches in diameter. After being placed in the curing room it is turned daily until it is coated first with a white mold, then a blue, and finally a red mold. Millions of cakes are sold in Paris yearly. At Calvados, Normandy, the noted Camembert cheese is made. The cakes are globe-shaped, covered first with white, then with blue mold. This is the most popular French cheese after Brie. Roquefort, a blue-veined cheese, is made at the town of the same name from goats' or ewes' milk, sometimes from cows' milk. It is cured in underground caverns and should not be cut until well-decayed, when the flavor is excellent. Parmesan cheese, manufactured at Parma, northern Italy, is carefully prepared from the skimmed milk of cows kept in stalls at all seasons. It is generally colored greenish with saffron, and requires three years to ripen. Probably no cheese more persistently makes its presence known than that made at Limburg, Germany. The one-pound, square, flat cakes are all covered with oiled paper after becoming decomposed. The flavor is considered by many to be very appetizing, and he who carries a piece of Limburger cheese in his pocket may be nearly sure of a seat in a crowded street car.

EDWARD JULIAN.

Facts About Pins.

Pins cost only a trifle nowadays, where once they were very expensive. In 1900 the 75,000,000 people in the United States used 66,000,000 gross of common pins, which is equal to 9,500,000,000 pins, or an average of about 126 pins to every man, woman and child in the country. This is the highest average reached anywhere in the use of pins. Ten years ago we used only about 72 pins each. The total number of pins manufactured in the United States during 1900, the census year, was 68,889,260 gross. There are 43 factories in all, with 2,353 employes. The business has grown rapidly during the last 20 years, for although there were 40 factories in 1880, they produced only half as much, employed only about half the capital and only 1,077 hands. —American Exporter.

Experiment of the Co-operative Neighbors

THE one department of human industry that has lagged behind the rest in the march of modern progress is housekeeping. Perhaps this is because women are at the head of it, but that is neither here nor there. At any rate, it becomes plain that for all except the very isolated and the very wealthy there must be ere long radical changes in household operations. The increasing difficulty of obtaining girls willing to do domestic labor makes these inevitable.

A recent co-operative cookery venture has been made at Decatur, Mich. This differed from others in the fact that it was men instead of women who first proposed it and who advocated it most warmly. The ladies came in a little later. For men and women to work together is good for both. The groundwork of the plan was similar to those already in operation—a central kitchen and dining room where neighborly families met and took their meals in common, families having little tables to themselves.

Mr. L. G. Stewart, a merchant, originated the co-operative cookery idea at Decatur. He told his thought to the postmaster, Mr. White, and they conferred with the local editor, Mr. A. L. Moulton, and others. Mr. Stewart's first thought had been to provide a noon luncheon for business men who did not have time to go home. On this scheme the enterprise was begun and afterward enlarged. A vacant shop building was found which would contain the kitchen and dining room, and operations were begun. Presently twenty-five families joined the organization and 100 persons were taking their meals in the common dining room. Two cooks did most of the work.

An executive committee of five, composed of men and women, managed the affair for thirty days, at the end of which time another five were chosen, and so on. This method gives opportunity for experience to all, institutes a friendly rivalry and prevents methods and menu from running into ruts. The cost of meals is astonishingly low. The first week it averaged 12½ cents, the second week 10. A specimen menu shows that the co-operators are quite up to date in the modern hygienic scheme of avoiding meat and other heavy foods for breakfast. The sample breakfast bill of fare includes eggs, a cereal preparation, fried potatoes, cookies or doughnuts and coffee or chocolate.

For dinner the co-operative menu includes two kinds of meat, two kinds of vegetables and bread, two desserts, all inviting to the palate. The first result noted was that the same food cost less under the co-operative plan than when it was bought and cooked in each separate family kitchen. Two cooks and one fire served for all. It was, besides, possible to buy supplies at wholesale rates. There was another advantage that a woman appreciates better than anybody else. It was that of not having so much cold roast left over. In the small family this becomes a nightmare to the economical housekeeper. She uses it cold for luncheon, she makes a stew of it for dinner and frequently hashes it over for breakfast, and yet it remains. But with the co-operative dining system even a large roast may be disposed of. A great advantage likewise of the common kitchen and dining room system is the amount of time and annoyance that are saved to the homemaker herself. She has leisure to look after her children and to cultivate her mind.

The Decatur co-operative dining room was a pretty one from the beginning. Each family brought its silverware, and they took turns in furnishing the table linen. Each lady took pains to make her own table sightly with a vase of flowers in the center. In another way such a plan would work well. That carelessness as to hair and attire which even some good women permit themselves to slump into at meals in the presence of only their own husbands and children would not for a moment be indulged in at the co-operative dining room, and in that respect it would be a clear blessing.

CHAPTER IV.

SOME STRANGE HAPPENINGS.

Mr. R. J. Kent, the great operator, paced slowly up and down his room, but never missed an examination of the tape as it escaped from the chattering ticker, by an interval exceeding half a minute. As the hour of two approached, the little machine became furious in its efforts to keep pace with the operations of the sweating, swearing and struggling brokers, two blocks away. Mr. Kent let the tape slide through his fingers and read a record which translated was as follows: 3,000 shares Sugar 149⅞—2,200 Sugar 149—4,000 Sugar 148¾—700 B. & O. 107¼—1,100 B. & O. 107—2,800 B. & O. 106⅝—500 B. & O. 106—3,200 St. Paul 171—4,000 St. Paul 170½—500 St. Paul 170—3,000 St. Paul 169¾—1,400 Metropolitan 173¼—900 Metropolitan 172½—1,600 Metropolitan 171⅞—4,000 Jersey Central 159¼—200 Jersey Central 158⅝—1,700 Jersey Central 158—55 Jersey Central 158¼—2,400 Sugar 147⅝—800 Sugar 147.

Mr. Kent stepped to his private telephone.

"Who is selling that Sugar?" he asked his broker.

"Street & Rogers are selling most of it now. Brokers for Morris & Hauser of Boston, and Wright & Fanning of Chicago have also been selling it. These houses have been selling St. Paul, Jersey Central, Baltimore & Ohio, Metropolitan, Steel and Iron and other stocks," was the prompt answer. "I advised the office of it some time ago.

"Who is the selling for?"

"No one seems to know."

"What do Haven's brokers say?"

"They seem to be up in the air. They are still buying Sugar."

Mr. Kent called up Mr. Haven, the great sugar magnate.

"What in the devil is the matter with your Sugar stock?" he demanded.

"I don't know," was the response. "It's all right. I am buying it as fast as it is offered. What is it now?"

Mr. Kent examined the tape.

"One hundred and forty-eight and a quarter," he replied. "It has been down to 146½ but has recovered some. Who is doing that selling?"

"Sure I don't know," answered Mr. Haven with some impatience. "Probably some one taking profits. It will go up again."

"All right. Thank you. Good-bye."

Mr. Kent studied the tape for a few moments. The market was slowly steadying. The public was obeying the mandate, "buy on every reaction." Mr. Kent pondered deeply. He rang a bell.

"How much Sugar have I bought?" he demanded of his private bookkeeper.

"Forty-three thousand shares," was the reply.

"It will average about 142, will it not?"

The bookkeeper produced a slip of paper, ran his eye over the figures, made a rapid calculation, and said that the average price paid for this line of Sugar stock was 142⅝.

"Very well; that is all," Mr. Kent said.

He called up his broker who represented him on the floor of the Stock Exchange.

"Sell all the Sugar you can without breaking the market," he commanded in a voice that could not be heard ten feet away. Wall Street is all ears. "There is good buying just now. Begin on 500 share lots. Feel them out at the start, but keep busy. Sell at least 50,000 shares before you close, no matter what happens. When you have sold 20,000 shares, offer it in 1,000, 2,000 and 3,000 lots.

The broker repeated the order quickly so as there could be no mistake. Mr. Kent returned to the ticker.

"Some one taking profits, eh?" muttered Mr. Kent as he paced the floor, nervously chewing the end of an unlighted cigar. "I'll show them how to take profits! They must think I am in my second childhood. They have an idea I am going to hold the bag, do they? This is the way they keep their agreement!" He rang the bell furiously.

"How much B. & O. have I?"

"Fifteen thousand shares at an average of 93," was the reply.

"Wire Brown & Addy of Boston, to sell me 20,000 B. & O. at the market. Send word to Blake & Co. of Chicago, to sell me 25,000 St. Paul at the market. Rush! hurry!"

He was at the private telephone again.

"How much Sugar have you sold?"

"Twenty-two thousand. It has broken a point and a half."

"That's all right. Put it out in 2,000 and 3,000 lots. Sell me [illegible]000 shares of Metropolitan at the market. Got it? That's right. Good-bye."

The ticker was singing like a sewing machine. Sugar, B. & O., St. Paul, Jersey Central, Metropolitan, Steel and Iron and other stocks came out in blocks of from 1,000 to 4,000 and even 5,000 lots. But the market held remarkably well. There was "not a cloud in the sky," and the public was sunning itself. But even their guileless optimism could not withstand the impact of the mysterious interest which had been selling hundreds of thousands of shares on Saturday and during the present session, reinforced as it was by the enraged Mr. Kent, who ascribed this selling to the perfidy of his associates. When the day's battle was over the field was covered with dead and wounded. Sugar had closed at 145¼ bid and 146 asked. Baltimore and Ohio had dropped to 105⅝; St. Paul to 167½; Metropolitan to 170; Jersey Central to 158½; and Steel and Iron showed a net loss for the day of three points, and an extreme drop from its high point at the opening of nearly nine points.

When Mr. Kent had received reports from his brokers, and telegraphic advices from Boston, Chicago and Baltimore, he found that he had sold 55,000 shares of Sugar and that all of his other commissions had been executed. He had accomplished one of the phenomenal changes of position for which he was famous and dreaded. In a hundred offices his name was mentioned, coupled with expressions which would not warrant reproduction on these pages. He quietly talked the situation over with his lieutenants, instructed them to "smash" the market at the opening next morning, and with an unruffled mien left his office shortly before four o'clock.

CHAPTER V.

THE WALL STREET PANIC.

What happened on this famous Tuesday has been lightly touched on in the opening chapter of this history. The morning papers had devoted considerable space to the "bear flurry" in Wall street. There were guarded allusions to the coup performed by Mr. Kent, who had conducted his operations with little attempt to disguise his attitude. His profits were variously estimated at from $750,000 to $3,000,000, and it was strongly intimated that he would live to regret the unwarranted scare he had precipitated.

On the following Tuesday morning London ignored the New York break in prices and opened strong. Chicago and the speculative west looked on its splendid crops and telegraphed buying orders in generous volume. The galleries around the trading floor of the Exchange were crowded with the sight-seers who are always in force when the market is excited. The hand of the big clock slowly approached the hour of ten. The thousand or more brokers gravitated towards the various standards which bore the names of the important trading stocks.

The market opened strong and at a slight advance in spite of large offerings of stock by Kent brokers and from Street & Rogers—acting for their unknown principals—the market held its own the first half hour. It was at this time that vague and portentious rumors were circulated on the floor, and whispered over telephones. These rumors were greeted with general incredulity, but the effect on the market was apparent from the time the first suspicion was breathed. London, Chicago and other speculative centers continued buying and selling, unconscious of the shadow which was now darkening the street.

The storm broke at 11 o'clock.

The yellow slips distributed by a news agency contained the following paragraph in double-leaded type:

"11:05 a. m. Andrus Carmody, Palmer J. Morton, R. J. Kent and Simon Pence cannot be found. They were last seen in Mr. Morton's offices about four o'clock yesterday afternoon. Their relatives know nothing of their whereabouts. The police and detective force have been notified."

A message of similar purport was recorded on the tape.

Any description of the scenes which followed on the floor of the Stock Exchange would be deemed exaggeration by those who never have seen a speculative panic sweep all before it. The tempest was loosed. Before its fury the sturdy financial oaks bent in the blast. The puny speculative saplings were uprooted and borne away on the wings of the cyclone. Staid old men who had not been seen on the floor of the exchange for months, rushed hatless through the streets and hurled themselves into the crazy mob.

The 60 acres of the financial district was a Bedlam. Men tore papers from the hands of newsboys and rushed away without paying for them. The wildest rumors, if of evil purport, became certainties. The word went down the street that a great bank had closed its doors. There was no fragment of truth in the statement, but it was accepted as an unquestioned fact. It was charged that the great enterprises in which Carmody, Pence and Morton were concerned were insolvent, and that these men were in secret conference, endeavoring to arrange a compromise with creditors. Mr. Kent was regarded as the speculator who had been intrusted with this news, and commissioned to use it to recoup some of the losses.

A SCOUT'S FEARFUL DEATH.

Yaquis Forced Ryan to Walk to His Death With Feet Sawed Off.

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 8.—A special to the Constitution from Bisbee, Ariz., says: "Colonel Kosterlitski, commanding the international boundary riders of Sonora, Mexico, has received from the mayor of Rioyaqui a letter giving an account of the tragic death of 'California Dan' Ryan, chief of scouts under General Louis Torres, at Torin Nov. 23. Ryan and George W. Wilson were sent out on a scout. They were surprised and taken prisoners by the Yaquis, tried by a council of war and 'California Dan' condemned to death. Wilson was acquitted.

"In the presence of Wilson the Yaquis with dull saws cut off the feet of 'California Dan' just above the ankles. After this they unbound him and told him to go back to duty to Torres. By goading him they compelled him to walk beyond their intrenchments, only to fall dead in the bush a hundred yards beyond their stronghold. The next morning the Yaquis took the body of 'California Dan' and suspended it from the limb of a tree growing by the road. Wilson was then released and told by the Mexicans to bury the body."

Another Railway to Raise Wages.

SCRANTON, Pa., Dec. 8.—The Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad company purposes a substantial increase in rates of pay to employees in the various departments. The officials are now at work on a general plan of readjustment and equalization to become effective at an early date, probably from Dec. 1. The rates paid by the Lackawanna road since October, 1899, have not been exceeded by any road in the east, and the increases already made by some of the companies do not now much more than equal the Lackawanna rates, if as much. Still, the company is disposed to continue such encouragement to its employees, many of whom have devoted practically a lifetime to its interests. All branches of the service and practically all the employees will be affected by the company's voluntary action.

Murder or Suicide?

BELLOWS FALLS, Vt., Dec. 8.—Whether a case of murder or suicide is the question presented by the discovery of the body of Miss Helen E. Berron of Rutland, Vt., in a paper mill canal, with a piece of lace and strip of clothing about the neck and the tongue protruding from the mouth. A verdict of death by strangulation was rendered at the inquest, and, although the police have no tangible evidence to lead them to believe the woman met with foul play, the matter will be thoroughly investigation. Miss Berron was sixty-four years of age and had lived in Rutland thirty years, but formerly resided here. She left Rutland last Monday, saying that she was going to Saratoga, but instead she came to Bellows Falls and was last seen alive on Monday afternoon.

Severe Weather Abroad.

VIENNA, Dec. 8.—The weather is increasing in severity throughout Austria-Hungary. Heavy snow is falling, and the supply of milk and vegetables to Vienna is curtailed owing to the roads being impassable. Many accidents have occurred. It is reported from Bucharest that the Danube is frozen over for a considerable distance. At Ibrails and Galatz, on the Danube, about eighty-five grain laden vessels are icebound.

AFTER CLUB ROOMS.

Orange Field Club Will Drop the Younger Members and Start on a Firm Basis.

The Orange Field Club, of this city, which has sixty members, has been in search of suitable rooms for some time and have at last secured an option on two places in town which will answer the purpose. Hitherto the O. F. C. has been rated in town as a juvenile club to some extent, although it has taken a prominent place in local athletics in this city.

At a meeting, which will be held Thursday evening, some of the younger members of the club will be stricken from the membership list in order that the club may be rated on a par with the Alis A. A. and the I. C. T. Club. It is desired to cut the membership down to thirty-five active members. The committee consists of three representative members of the club. The club will occupy its new club rooms the first part of the coming year, but which hall it will be has not yet been decided.

Wedded Thanksgiving Eve.

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Mary Pollon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gideon Bollon, of Cottage place, to Frank Conger, of the same street. The ceremony was performed in the parsonage of St. Mary's church Thanksgiving Eve by Father Egan. Miss Mary Pollon was bridemaid and Andrew Pollon acted as best man. The young people are living at the home of the bride's parents.

CORNER-STONE FOR HOSPITAL

ments without enlargement for many years to come.

"Our operating pavillion is a memorial gift, and will stand as such as long as the hospital exists. What more fitting memorial can be erected to the memory of the dear ones who have left us, than a building whose sole purpose is for the benefit of suffering humanity.

"To give an idea of the growth of our work at Muhlenberg Hospital, I would state that the first report of the medical staff to the Board of Governors in 1883 the total number of patients treated in the hospital from December 31, 1881, to January 1, 1883, a period of a trifle over one year, was fifty-two. We treat this number in a month nowadays.

"In an appeal made to the public for aid to support the hospital by the finance committee in 1882, it speaks of the growing work of the institution, and states that at present there are four cases in the hospital, which statement to us now seems almost ludicrous. But for many years it was seldom that we had such a 'rush' that the number went up to eight, whereas in the past year we have had as high as twenty-seven, if not more in the wards and private rooms at one time.

"This statement must be convincing, and you can readily understand why the Board of Governors are desirous of having a building suitable for our present and future needs. I sincerely trust that you will take to heart our appeal for aid to complete our buildings and when so completed, support it."

In connection with this address, Mr. Cock gave a summary of the work of the hospital from the opening to date. This showed that in the first thirteen months, from November 29, 1881 to January 1, 1883, sixty-five patients were treated, and during the next seventeen months, from January 11, 1883, to May, 22, 1884, sixty-four were treated. The estimated number between 1884 and 1889 is 375 and 87 between 1889 and 1890. The number treated during the succeeding years is as follows: For the year ending May, 1891, 105; 1892, 112; 1893, 122; 1894, 130; 1895, 188; 1896, 222; 1897, 288; 1898, 256; 1899, 325; 1900, 332; 1901, 419; 1902, 403; to December 6, 1902, six months, 215, total, 21 years, 3,663, besides about 4,164 patients treated in the dispensary running from 22 in the first year to 588 last year.

Rev. Erskine M. Rodman was then called upon by Mr. Cock and he made a brief address in a happy vein. He called attention to the usefulness of a new hospital and told how small the present institution is for the work it has to do. He praised the generous nature of the late Job Male, who donated the property upon which the present hospital stands, thus assisting largely in making such an institution a fact. He lauded the noble efforts of the women who have so zealously worked for the success of the hospital and made an urgent appeal for even greater support from the people of Plainfield. From Charles E. Brooks he learned that nearly 125 people were steady contributors to the hospital, whereas, he said, there should be 1,500 contributors. In conclusion he said that he hoped that there would be no lack of support and that Muhlenberg Hospital would always continue as a place to relieve suffering humanity. He said that he was pleased to know that Rev. Father Egan was to have a part in the exercises, for the church of which he is pastor, has in the past supported the hospital in a generous manner.

Following this address, the corner-stone was laid by Mayor Olin L. Jenkins. This work was performed with a silver trowel, purchased specially for the occasion, and which was afterwards presented by Charles E. Brooks to William R. Cock, as first vice president. After the stone was laid by the Mayor, His Honor said: "I now declare that the corner-stone of this building is laid in due form."

The exercises closed with the benediction pronounced by Rev. Father Andrew M. Egan, pastor of St. Mary's R. C. church.

Charles E. Brooks, who had charge of the exercises and who arranged for the placing of the various articles in the box which was laid inside the corner-stone, read a list of these articles. They are as follows: Reports of the Board of Governors from 1881 to 1901, New York daily newspapers, a copy of The Daily Press, photographs of the old hospital, medical staff, superintendent, assistant superintendent, Dr. G. W. Endicott, a copy of "Plainfield Illustrated," documents containing the names of the officers of the hospital, Board of Governors, medical staff, superintendent, assistant, building committee, contractors, list of names of nurses now in the training school and photographs of the late Howard Wright Corlies and Park Wright Mason, grandsons of J. Howard Wright, who is erecting the operating pavillion in memory of these two young men.

The corner-stone was laid in the west corner of the operating pavillion, the foundations of which have just been completed by the contractor, William H. Pangborn. There is no inscription on the stone.

After the exercises many of those present took the opportunity to inspect the new hospital, as far as it has progressed. All expressed much pleasure with the general plan and arrangement. Much satisfaction was also expressed regarding the grading and general lay of the grounds.

HANDBALL.

Handball Tournament Was Opened at the Y. M. C. A. Gymnasium Saturday Evening.

The handball tournament is now on at the Y. M. C. A. and on Saturday evening there were some very interesting games played during which C. N. Sebring and Arthur Denton and Raymond Smith played the star games.

Sebring and Neal played the closest game of the evening in which Sebring defeated Neal by a score of 21 to 20. When the fact that twenty-one points constitue a game the closeness of the contest may be readilly seen. In another game between Arthur Denton and Raymond Smith, Smith won by a score of 21 to 11.

The best two out of three games win and at the end of the contest the winners will be pitted against each other for the silver cup which will be awarded to the one that wins the last game.

The list of entries of the handball contest are as follows:

William E. Neal, Arthur F. Connant, A. J. Spicer, Arthur C. Aalholm, H. E. Scull, C. N. Sebring, Raymond Smith, C. B Koons, Arthur Denton, W. B. Mundy, and H. A. George.

NEW POSITION.

May be the Means of Making Dead-Lock in Local Basket Ball League.

It looks as if the troubles of the Plainfield Amateur Basket Ball League were not yet over after all. C. E. A. Heywood, physical director of the Y. M. C. A., has decided not to insist that he officiate in every game which the Y. M. C. A. plays, but now announces that no games can be played in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium in which he is not either referee or umpire. As both the Hope Y. M. A. and the Alis A. A. have officially decided that Mr. Heywood cannot officiate as either referee or umpire in any game in which their teams play, it looks as if there will be a deadlock.

VISITED OLD CHARGE.

E. E. Anthony Back to Plainfield on a Flying Trip.

At the conclusion of the Sunday-school session at Trinity Reformed church, yesterday afternoon, Edward E. Anthony, its former superintendent, who went to Wiccopee, N. Y., to regain his health, spoke to the pupils in regard to his new home. His statement that his health was greatly improved was borne out by his appearance and all felt convinced that he was enjoying himself. He also spoke of the Sunday-school work he is engaged in near his present abiding place. Mr. Anthony was called to New York on business, Saturday, and being so near, decided to come to Plainfield.

PRAISE FOR CITY OFFICIALS

REV. MR. MAC MURRAY SAYS PEOPLE ARE ALWAYS READY TO CRITICIZE.

Instead They Ought to Give Credit to City Officials for What They Can Do.

Under the subject, "The Kingdom of Heaven—is Righteousness," Rev. John McMurray, of the Monroe Avenue church, took occasion, last evening, to applaud, in a figurative sense, the officials of Plainfield and its government.

In the course of his remarks, the preacher declared that this city is one of the best managed in the country. Mayor Jenkins, he said, is an executive who is God fearing and not to be swerved from any purpose which may assist law and order; Chief Kiely, a vigilant officer who is a terror to wrong doers, and in City Judge Runyon the people have a conscientious man who is a veritable Haroun Al Raschin. The Councilmen, as a whole were eulogized for the thorough manner in which they transact all business, yet receive no compensation, and the time they devote to other people's affairs. Yet, withal, Mr. McMurray declared there are few whose work they benefit that are willing to acknowledge the fact and that, instead of encouraging them, they continually offer adverse criticism.

ALMOST A FIRE.

Early Arrival of Store Boy at Peck's Found Too Much Heat.

A fire was averted this morning at Peck's store on West Front street, by the early arrival of the store boy. When he opened the door the heat was so intense that it nearly knocked him down. Word was sent to Mr. Peck at once and a hurried investigation disclosed the fact that J. W. Gavett, next door, had forgotten to extinguish his gas kiln Saturday night. Everything in Peck's store was intensely hot. Chief Doane was called later and made an examination. The cause of the trouble was quickly remedied.

JACK FROST REIGNS HERE

This Was the Coldest Morning of the Winter With the Mercury at Eight Degrees.

THE SLEIGHING IS GOOD

A Day More of Cold Weather Will Make the Skating Fine—A Crowd at Holly's Yesterday, But Tier's Isn't Safe Yet—The Prospects of a Very Hard Winter.

Jack Frost has visited this city with his icy blasts from the north and for the past few days he has succeeded in keeping the people of this section of the State rubbing their hands and ears and burying themselves in furs whenever they ventured out of doors.

Since Friday morning when the people awoke to find the ground covered with a white mantle of snow the temperature has gradually fallen until this morning when the thermometer reached as low as eight degrees above zero. This frigid temperature did not last long, however, for as soon as the sun arose the thermometer went up several degrees until at 10 o'clock it registered twenty degrees.

There are a number of sleighs about the streets which is quite an uncommon thing at this time of the year. The livery stables were not anticipating the sudden freeze up and when the second snow storm came they were unprepared to accommodate those who wanted to hire sleighs.

Many people in this city own sleighs and they have been enjoying the sleighing which is not only good in this city but also along the country roads. On the ponds in and near the city there is a thin coating of ice but it is not thick enough to bear except on Holly's pond where there were a number of young people yesterday. On Tier's pond the ice is rather treacherous so far but another day or two of freezing weather will make excellent skating as the wind has not been high enough at the first freezeup to make a layer of rough ice.

On some of the slopes near the mountain some young people have rigged up a tobaggan slide and many young people of this city have gone to the place to enjoy the sport.

Seldom has Plainfield experienced this kind of weather at this time of the year and the fact that the low temperature for the last few days has been colder than on any day last winter, excepting the night and day of the big ice storm, causes many to think that there is to be a cold and severe winter.

FUEL GAS COMPANY.

John Bushnell, of This City, is One of the Incorporators of Concern.

John Bushnell, of this city, is one of the incorporators, of the National Fuel Gas Company, capitalized at $2,500,000. The company was incorporated at Trenton yesterday, to manufacture gas from oil. The other incorporators are George Chesbro and George W. Colton, of Brooklyn. The papers were filed by the counsel for the Standard Oil Company, and it is rumored that this company through the new organization, purpose absorbing a number of fuel oil gas companies.

To Carry on Business.

A meeting of the stockholders of the Hygeia Ice Company, which recently applied for a receiver, was held in the Casino last evening, when all the stockholders and officers of the company were present. Matters of importance were discussed and a general plan of carrying on the business under the hands of a receiver was agreed upon.

The offering at the Crescent Avenue church Sunday will be for Synodical Home Missions in New Jersey.

COSTLY BARN IN FLAMES

STABLES ON COUNTRY PLACE OF MAX MARX AT EAST SOMERVILLE.

Destroyed by Fire Yesterday Morning—House Was Threatened—Hard Times for the Firemen.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Dec. 9—Early yesterday morning a fierce fire burned the big and handsome barn on the country residence of Max Marx in East Somerville to the ground. The blaze is thought to have originated in the coachman's room on the second floor.

The fire had gained such headway when the alarm was turned in that the firemen could, with difficulty, keep the flames from spreading to other buildings on the property. It was the worst fire the town has had in a long time and the fire boys suffered terribly from the cold, the ice freezing on their garments very rapidly.

There was no one in the barn, but the livestock was all saved by quick work by the firemen and neighbors.

The building was insured, but it is not believed there is enough to cover the loss.

Former Senator William J. Keys formerly owned the place and when he lived there the house caught fire. It was saved from entire destruction by the Somerville firemen at that time.

SOCIETY WILL BE MASKED

COTILLION CLUB COMMITTEE HAS ARRANGED FOR A MASQUERADE.

Decided to Hold a Big Ball at the Casino New Year's Eve—Invitations Out.

So successful was the first dance of the Cotillion Club, which was held in the Casino last week, that requests from many of the members of the club and guests who were present at the last dance have been received by the committee in charge of the arrangements and they have decided to give a masquerade ball in the Casino New Year's Eve.

Novel features will no doubt be introduced at the ball and it will become of the most elaborate masquerade balls ever given in this city. The committee, which will have charge of the dance, is the same which arranged for the last cotillion and comprises Lewis G. Timpson, Lewis E. Waring, Elliot T. Barrows and Frederick W. Yates. They have already begun preparations for the dance and invitations have been sent out for this event.

The dance on New Year's Eve will be the means of breaking the long interval between the dance of Monday evening and the next one on the regular schedule which will be held on February 11, at the Casino.

BROKE THROUGH ICE.

Wm. Gwynn Fell in Tier's Pond While Investigating the Skating.

William Gwynn, accompanied by three companions, Peter Emmons, Morris Brokaw and Daniel Randolph, went to Tier's pond, yesterday afternoon, to see whether or not there was any skating. The boys started to slide out towards the center of the pond when with a resounding crash the thin surface of ice gave way and Gwynn was seen to be slipping below the surface of the ice. He gave a startling cry and his companions who were some distance ahead rushed to his assistance and saved the lad from disappearing beneath the ice. The boy was badly frightened but was otherwise uninjured.

HIGH SCHOOL ORACLE MAKES ITS APPEARANCE

First Number of City High School Publication Was Issued This Morning.

IT IS QUITE CLEVER

THE YOUNG PEOPLE WHO ARE INSTRUMENTAL IN PREPARING IT.

Cover of Pretty Design and Well Printed and Edited Pages Makes an Excellent Impression.

Neatly arranged, well printed and full of bright news items of interest to the Plainfield High School, the Oracle, the official paper of the school, made its first appearance this morning. It is a paper which will be an ornament in the parlor, a necessity in the study room and a pretty memento of school days to the graduate. The cover of the paper is of a very neat design and in the lower right hand corner is a cut of the school shield and flags in the official colors. On the frontispiece is a cut of the school building and on the first page, where the Oracle makes its bow editorially, are the names of the editorial and reportorial staffs, all of whom are deserving of congratulations for the neat and artistic appearance of the first issue of the new school paper.

Athletics, as is to be expected is given a prominent place in the paper. General reports is a department in which all the current events of the month are told in an interesting and a witty manner. The Alumni notes are by no means the least interesting of the departments in the paper.

The board of editors comprises: Editor-in-chief, Arthur F. Conant, '03; literary editor, Miss Dorothy Waldo, '03; school editor, Jessie McClay, '04; corresponding editor, Edith L. Jarvis, '03; business manager, Alden E. Moore, '03; art editor and assistant business manager, VanWyck Brooks, '04; associate editors, Lindsey Best and Miss Grace E. Burroughs; reporters, Miss Harriet C. Randall, G. Archibald Brakeley, '03; Miss Louise Klein and Harry G. Thompson, '05; Miss H. Mae Batchelor and Jose L. Tweedy, '04; Miss Helen Boice and Stuart Freeman, '06.

PLAYED GAMES.

Great Success Was Salamagundi Party of Miss Hazen's Sunday-School Class at Hope Chapel.

Informality reigned supreme at Hope chapel, last evening, when Miss Grace Hazen's Sunday-school class gave its second salamagundi party to its friends. The attendance was even larger than at the preceding one and the enjoyment derived much greater.

Unique games were the features of the gathering, some of them being apple paring, drawing and "cities." All were fascinating and caused much amusement. Prizes were awarded Benjamin Evans, Charles Dixon, Miss Helen Hand and Miss Ethel Reynolds.

Supper was served at the close in the dining room, which had been tastefully decorated in red. Those who assisted Miss Hazen in serving were the Misses Mabel Firstbrook, Marion Porter and Mary Duvier. Miss Eleanor Messinger poured chocolate.

BATTERY EXPLODED.

Burned Clothing Belonging to Chas. J. Fury, of Somerville.

Charles J. Fury, of the New Jersey Bottling Association, of Somerset street, who is also proprietor of the Somerset Hotel in Somerville and who resides at that place, met with the loss of considerable clothing in a most peculiar manner. He had a storage battery in the closet in his room and in some manner the jar burst throwing the contents in all directions on the clothing hanging in the wardrobe. The clothes were burned so that they are beyond repair but a $400 fur overcoat escaped and was unharmed.

HISTORIC CHARACTERS.

An interesting evening was spent at Stafford Hall last evening when Rev. Father Egan entertained the members of his parish with an illustrated lecture and moving pictures. There were a number of excellent solos rendered by George T. Martin, of Easton, Pa.

Among the pictures shown on the screen were those well known persons of history in the Roman Catholic faith and all of these were portrayed with some of the leading incidents of their lives shown on the moving screens. Some of the pictures showed the destruction of St. Peirre by the recent terrible volcanic disturbances which showed in a manner as lucid as it was comprehensive of the awful ruin wrought by the seismic disturbances.

There were several unique features to the evening's entertainment which proved to be interesting and instructive. The proceeds amounted to a large sum which will be used for the benefit of the church.

I. C. T. FAIR OVER.

Closed Last Night After Netting the Club $200 in Eight Days.

With the attendance as large as on the initial evening, the I. C. T. fair closed last night, after a run of eight days. As a result the organization will be over $200 richer and the affair will long linger in the memory of those who participated as one of the most successful affairs ever given by the club.

There were numerous articles remaining on the fancy booth, last night, and these were auctioned off by Ray King and Matthew Sweeney, who by their persuasive powers ran the bidding high. The large and handsome rocker was won by Miss Devine.

NO CHRISTMAS CANDY.

First Baptist Sunday-School Will Give Money to the Poor.

Contrary to the general rule, the members of the main school of the First Baptist church Sunday-school, will not receive presents of candy at the annual Christmas festival this year. Instead contributions of money have been asked for to be distributed among the poor of the city. This money will be distributed through the City Union of King's Daughters. The entertainment will consist of a Christmas story illustrated with stereopticon pictures.

DANGEROUS PLACES.

Results of a Partial Obeying of the Common Council's Orders.

Many residents of West Sixth street, between Grant and Monroe avenues, who have complied with the Common Council's notices to flag the walks in front of their homes, complain loudly of those who have not done so. As it exists at present there is a continuous succession of ups and downs where the gaps exist. It is also dangerous as at night the projections are apt to catch the unwary and result in a tripping up.

DEATH OF MRS. COOPER.

A Resident of Springfield, Mass., Passed Away at Hospital.

Mrs. E. L. Cooper, of Springfield, Mass., who came to Plainfield to spend Thanksgiving with Mr. and Mrs. Edgar B. Smith, of West Front street, died at the hospital yesterday afternoon following an illness of pneumonia which she contracted soon after her arrival in this city. The funeral services will be held at Springfield tomorrow. Mrs. Cooper was an intimate friend of Mr. and Mrs. Smith.

Relieving Freight Congestion.

Station Agent J. A. Haynes, of the New Jersey Central, had two drill engines working all day Sunday so that the congested condition of the local coal and freight traffic might be relieved. The wreck at Westfield Friday night was responsible for some of the delay and it resulted in a hold-up of much business.

Christmas Plans.

The Christmas service at the Park Avenue Baptist church will be held Sunday, December 21, and the Christmas entertainment Tuesday evening, December 30. The Sunday-school is now rehearsing music for these occasions.

Preparing for Christmas.

Under the guidance of M. J. Cashin, the St. Mary church choir is now rehearsing the Chrismas music. This year one of Mercadante's masses will be used. Rehearsals are held Monday and Friday evenings.

T. A. B. "Bal Masque."

The second annual "Bal Masque," under the auspices of St. Mary's T. A. B. Society, will be held in the society hall New Year's Eve, December 31.

VALUATION OF BANK STOCK

STOCKHOLDERS ASK FOR A REDUCTION IN THEIR ASSESSMENTS.

Hearing Before the Borough Commissioners of Appeal Last Night.

The Borough Commissioners of Appeal held an adjourned meeting in the Borough Council Chambers last evening when the matter of reducing the taxes of the City National Bank stockholders was discussed. The borough assessor, Elston M. French, was up held by Corporation Counsel Charles A. Reed, who held that the Assessor had arrived at his figures in a manner which is prescribed by law. One of the stockholders of the City National Bank, Mrs. Emily H. Corey, retained John H. VanWinkle to argue the side of the question on behalf of the bank. The arguments on both sides waxed very warm and lasted until late in the evening.

The difficulty lies in the assessed valuation of the bank stock. The stock of the City National Bank is valued at $130, which is much higher than before because of an increase in the surplus fund. Some of the stockholders object to paying taxes on this surplus although it belongs proportionately to each stockholder.

The Commissioners could not arrive at any decision at the meeting last night and another meeting will probably be called at a later date.

GRETHER CAPTURED BY BOYS

THE MURDERER GOT AWAY FROM COUNTY JAIL AT STROUDSBURG.

Was Convicted of Murder of Constable Strunk—Was Implicated in Assault Case at Dunellen.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Stroudsburg, Pa., December 9—For the second time since his incarceration, Charles Grether, the convicted murderer of Constable Adam Strunk, escaped from the Monroe county jail, Sunday morning. He was accompanied by another prisoner, Daniel VanBuskirck. Grether was captured, yesterday, by a crowd of boys.

As is the usual proceeding, Grether was conducted to the bathroom by a keeper, yesterday morning, who after ward left without locking the door. The condemned man was quick to notice it and with VanBuskirk, stole out and up to the second story where they jumped from a window.

When they reached the Stroudsburg brewery, VanBuskirk gave Grether all the clothes they could spare and they separated. Posses were immediately organized to hunt them down and Grether was sighted last night near Spragueville by a band of boys. He took refuge in a barn but was dragged out after a short fight. VanBuskirk is still at large.

Grether is the man who, with Charles VanSchank and Harry Mettler, committed a murderous assault upon a Mrs. Demko in Plainfield, and afterward robbed her of the savings of years. VanSchank is now doing time in the New Jersey State prison and Mettler is in the Rahway reformatory.

STATE BULLETIN.

Social to Her Class.

Mrs. L. C. Ely, of 26 Somerset place, gave a social to her Sunday-school class Wednesday evening, the object being to have the old members become acquainted with those who recently entered the class. Bible games were the feature of the evening, after which a bountiful repast was served. Among those present were some of the oldest members of the class, but who have not been attending lately.

Helpful Talk.

MEN FOUGHT, ONE KILLED

William Robinson Died From Stab Wounds Received in Affray Near Linden.

QUARRELED OVER WIFE

His Alleged Assailant was Joseph Robinson Who Has Since Disappeared—Elizabeth Police Were Summoned to the Scene of Trouble—Robison was Dead.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, Dec. 9—In a desperate fight which took place in a shanty at Linden, yesterday, William, alias "Bud" Robinson, received stab wounds which resulted in his death a short time afterward. His alleged assailant was Joseph Robinson, a relative, who immediately fled and is now supposed to be in hiding in New York City.

The murder was the aftermath of a drinking carouse which took place in a dilapidated dwelling belonging to Isaac Roll, of Linden. Joseph Robinson's wife was among them and "Bud" was accused of seeking to win her favor. The affray followed and "Bud" was eventually felled to the floor with a heavy oaken chair. Stab wounds received during the fight soon caused death.

Chief of Police Tenney and Detective McGuire, of this city, hurried to the scene but found the place deserted. The officials of the entire metropolitan district are on the lookout for the murderer.

TO REPLACE OCTAGONAL HOUSE

PERMIT ISSUED FOR A FINE RESIDENCE TO COST $6,000.

Other Permits Issued by Building Inspector T. O. Doane Last Week.

A permit was granted recently in the office of Building Inspector T. O. Doane to Mrs. Hanna Pope, of this city, to erect a residence at the corner of East Fifth street and Park avenue where the picturesque octagonal house once stood but which was demolished recently. The new residence will cost about $6,000 and will correspond very well when completed with the other residences on that block.

The house will be a frame structure and will be three stories in height. It will have large and commodious living apartments on the second floor and on the first floor the plans call for a comfortable arrangement of the parlors, reception halls, kitchen and dining room. The architect is William H Clum and the contracting carpenter will be W. H. Brokaw, of this city. The mason work will be done by J. Snyder, of this city.

At the corner of Clinton avenue and West Third street there will be erected another house, the owner of which will be J. D. Loizeaux, of 535 East Second street. The architect for this house will be C. C. VanNuyse, and the carpenter and mason will be W. D. Bird and W. M. Daly respectively.

At 735 Berkley avenue, David Hand will soon begin operations for the erection of a residence adjoining his present residence at 737 Berkley avenue. The architect and carpenter will be Edward Willis. This house, when completed, will be one of the most handsome in town.

A permit to move a house from 510 Division street to 810 West Sixth street was granted to James A. Totten, yesterday, by the building inspector. When the house has been placed in its position there will be many alterations made to it which will make of it a modern dwelling. The architect will be Fred Lancaster and the mason will be W. C. Mundy.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

In Somerville, the claim is made that the defeat of the Republicans in Somerset county was due to the unpopularity of the annexation bills, while in Plainfield it is declared that the popularity of the measures was responsible for the outcome at the polls. The truth of the matter is that the dismemberment scheme, like a two-edged sword, cut both ways in North Plainfield. The anti-annexationists there cut the Republican candidates because the party had passed the bills, and the annexationists did the same thing for the reason that they proposed to show the Republican leaders that they had no further use for Somerset county.—Newark News.

THEATRICAL.

Whether because of luck or good fortune, or what not, the fact remains that Viola Allen and Hall Caine in the theatre are incomparable and unsurpassable. Miss Allen presented Mr. Caine's new play, "The Eternal City," at the Victoria, New York, Monday evening, Nov. 17, and the success of the star and play were complete and tumultuous. New York has not had such another "first night" of a play in many a long day, for the reason, doubtless, that such another drama, company of players, or production, are but seldom seen in conjunction. The strength and power of "The Eternal City" and Miss Allen's splendid rendering of the character of Donna Roma, proved so swaying and commanding that William Winter, the dean of the profession, who has delighted in "squeezing literary sugar out of Caine," as one wit put it, was completely captured and won over. Of Miss Allen's performance, Mr. Winter said: "Miss Allen, whose coming is always the herald of pleasure and the garantee of earnest effort, was hailed with many plaudits. Her rendering of Donna Roma is an image of tender, enticing, and spirited womanhood, and a professional achievement of ample variety and admirable skill. Roma is a most exacting role, but it provides the actress with excellent opportunities, and all of them are utilized with judgment, ardent feeling, and sympathetic power."

—Freedom Castle, Knights of the Golden Eagle, will meet this evening, when two candidates will be initiated.

MINERS' SAD TALE.

Gross Ill Treatment Charged Against Markle & Co.

A SURPRISE FOR THE COMMISSION.

So Called 10 Per Cent Raise In Wages Not Being Paid—An Adroit and Misleading Way of Figuring Adopted by Operators.

SCRANTON, Pa., Dec. 9.—Almost the entire time of yesterday's sessions of the coal strike commission was taken up by the mine workers in presenting their side of the controversy with C. B. Markle & Co. in the Hazleton regions. The miners placed witnesses on the stand who gave testimony to show that the company refused to employ them because they belonged to the union, had evicted them from their houses for the same cause, that the docking system was intolerable, that the question of the men getting the 10 per cent in wages granted as a result of the 1900 strike is much in doubt because the men do not know how the company is figuring out the price of powder, which enters into the computation of the increase, and that the size of the mine cars has increased, but the wages have not.

Two Hungarian women, one of them the mother of the boy who testified on Saturday, were placed on the stand and told how the Markle company deducted house rent from the last wages of their husbands who were killed in the mines and how the company attempted to get them to sign a paper which would absolve the Markles from damages for the death of the men. The women also confirmed the story told by the breaker boy that the children had to work without pay until the debt owed by the dead fathers was paid off.

The Markle company was not represented by its own lawyers before the commission, although it had ample notice that testimony affecting their collieries would be presented. The commissioners expect the company to bring in evidence in rebuttal to the stories told by witnesses.

The commissioners were very much surprised to learn that the 10 per cent granted in 1900 was not a straight out raise in wages, but instead a 2½ per cent increase and a reduction in powder of 7½ per cent, making the net increase in earnings 10 per cent, which the miners claim is not being paid by the Markle company through some way of figuring they do not understand. The question came in for considerable discussion, and no one in the court-room could give the commission a satisfactory explanation.

There was a flurry at the afternoon session because Lawyer Ira H. Burns of Scranton, for the independent companies, referred to the president of the United States as "Teddy" Roosevelt. The remark brought out an emphatic objection from Brigadier General Wilson, and the general was sustained by Chairman Gray.

Fire In Chicago.

CHICAGO, Dec. 9.—Fire destroyed the five story building at 62 to 66 Canal street and did considerable damage to a four story building adjoining it. A panic among the 100 employees of the firms occupying the building was created at the first alarm of fire, and many had narrow escapes. For a time it was feared that many had been unable to escape, the dense smoke preventing a thorough search of the ruins for possible victims. The loss on the building and contents is estimated at over $100,000.

To Flash Across the Ocean.

WELLFLEET, Mass., Dec. 9.—Before the present month is out a message is to be sent across the Atlantic ocean from Massachusetts to England. The arrangements have been conducted with the greatest secrecy, and it was only in an incautious moment that one of those connected allowed the secret to leak out. Marconi expects to reach this station before Christmas and to have a perfect system of intercommunication with Poldhu, in Cornwall, before Jan. 1.

Five Schooners Driven Ashore.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Dec. 9.—The blizzard is still raging, and five schooners—the Ellen James, Arbitrator, Industry, Allright and Rogers—have been driven ashore on different parts of the coast. Three of the vessels were laden with fish and the other two with provisions. All the crews escaped, although two crews were in peril for some time.

Jail Breaker Captured.

STROUDSBURG, Pa., Dec. 9.—Charles Grether, the notorious murderer who broke jail Sunday, has been captured near Spragueville, this county. He was located by some boys and when discovered took refuge in a barn. He was captured after a desperate fight. This is the second time that Grether has broken jail.

Five Killed In Tunnel Explosion.

TO TAX IMMIGRANTS

Senate Adopts Amendment Fixing Three Dollar Rate.

New York Officials Before Committee Favor Extension of Time For Deportation of Aliens Who Become Public Charges.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—The senate yesterday adopted all the committee amendments to the immigration bill with the exception of one prescribing an educational test, and then laid aside the bill to pass a number of unobjected pension bills.

The amendment fixing a three dollar head tax on each immigrant coming into the United States furnished the principal topic for debate. Mr. Gallinger insisted that there was less necessity for it now than there was a year ago, but it was adopted without division. A new amendment was added designed to stop the alleged perjury on the part of persons seeking admission to the United States, and the committee amendment making the head tax a lien on the property of the transportation lines bringing immigrants to the United States was stricken out. An amendment also was agreed to exempting from the tax aliens in transit through the United States and aliens once admitted and who have paid the tax.

The senate committee on immigration gave a hearing to parties interested in the bill to regulate the immigration of aliens into the United States. Those present were L. E. Paycon, representing the Southern Pacific company; S. C. Neale and William Haywood of Washington, representing the Hawaiian Sugar Planters' association and the Honolulu chamber of commerce; Goodwin Brown and Dr. A. B. Richardson of the New York state lunacy commission; S. J. Barrows of New York, Commissioner of Immigration Sargent and Commissioner of Immigration Williams at New York.

Mr. Brown said in the state insane hospitals of New York there are 24,000 inmates, and they are increasing at the rate of about 700 a year. One-half of the large number, he declared, are foreign born and should not have been permitted to land. He offered a proposed amendment to the bill extending the time to two years for deporting an alien who has become a public charge and with the additional provision that "any alien who becomes a public charge by reason of lunacy, idiocy or epilepsy within two years after arrival will be presumed to have become such from causes existing prior to landing unless the contrary be affirmatively shown."

Answering Senator Lodge, Mr. Brown said that in the course of ten years the foreign born insane in this country will cost the United States $50,000,000. He declared that the state of New York would be willing to pay the entire expense of deporting all who came to the state and who became insane within the two years provided in his amendment should it be adopted.

Wright Favors Tariff Reduction.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—General Luke E. Wright, vice governor of the Philippines, before the house committee on ways and means advocated a reduction of tariff rates on Philippine goods coming into the United States to 25 per cent of the Dingley schedule, as provided by the bill introduced by Representative Cooper, instead of 75 per cent, as under the present law. General Wright said this would result in a better market for Philippine goods and provide more revenue for the islands.

Fatal Head on Collision.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Dec. 9.—Two trainmen were killed and two injured by a head on collision between a passenger train and local freight on the Pennsylvania road in the western part of the city last night. None of the passengers was hurt. The local freight crew had been ordered to send a flag out to warn the passenger train, but failed to do so in time.

Shot While Playing Indian.

AMSTERDAM, N. Y., Dec. 9.—Ford L. Messinger, the fourteen-year-old son of Charles G. Messinger, a prominent contractor of this city, was shot by a companion, Arthur Morris, with whom he was playing Indians. The boy received the charge of a shotgun which was supposed to be unloaded, destroying his right eye and inflicting wounds which may prove fatal.

Dan Patch Brings $50,000.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Dec. 9.—M. W. Savage of this city has bought Dan Patch, the famous unbeaten pacer, of M. E. Sturgis of New York for $50,000. M. E. McHenry, who has driven the horse many a fast mile and scored 1:59¼ with him, has signed a contract with Mr. Savage to handle the horse for the racing season of 1903-04.

Austrian Minister Promoted.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—The Austrian minister, M. Ladislaus Hengelmuller von Hengervar, has received official notice of his promotion to the rank of embassador. His credentials are expected to arrive here by Dec. 18, and the minister's presentation to the president in his new capacity probably will take place before the new year.

Fatal Powder Explosion.

WILMINGTON, Del., Dec. 9.—An explosion of powder in the Hagley yard of the Dupont Powder works on the Brandywine recently killed William McDowell, aged fifty-seven years, an employee. He was blown to atoms. No one else was injured. The shock was plainly felt in Wilmington.

REED'S FUNERAL TODAY.

Remains of the Dead Statesman Lie In State at Portland.

PORTLAND, Me., Dec. 9.—In the Unitarian church lies in state the body of Hon. Thomas Brackett Reed, an honored son of Maine, for twenty-two years one of her chosen representatives at Washington, and for six years speaker of the national house of representatives.

This forenoon his old neighbors, who include every man, woman and child in the city of Portland, were permitted to gaze for the last time upon the face which to them was ever full of life and jollity, and in the afternoon at 2 o'clock, in the main body of the church, will assemble a distinguished gathering of statesmen from Washington, business men from New York, governors from other New England states and nearly every prominent citizen of the Pine Tree State to honor his memory. There will be read a few passages from the Bible, a brief but fervent prayer offered, a short eulogy delivered by the pastor, Rev. John Carroll Perkins, and when the benediction is pronounced the body will be quietly removed to the tomb at Evergreen cemetery. Such will be the funeral of Speaker Reed—brief, unostentatious and in strict accordance with his own wishes.

The body of Mr. Reed arrived here from Washington in a special train shortly after noon yesterday, after a twenty hour journey from the nation's capital.

It was accompanied by the widow, the daughter, Miss Catherine Reed; Colonel Augustus G. Payne of New York, C. D. Barrows and his sister, Miss Barrows; Congressman Amos L. Allen, Mr. Reed's immediate successor in the First district; Asher C. Hinds, his private secretary, and State Senator Mitchell of York county. The sad little party was met at the station by a local committee of arrangements. Mrs. Reed and her daughter were at once escorted to a hotel, while the body, which rested in a plain black casket, was borne to a hearse and conveyed to the First parish house.

Tribute of the House.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—The house during the day paid a remarkable tribute to the memory of ex-Speaker Thomas B. Reed. His death has created a profound impression, and there had been expressed a universal desire among the members that the house show a signal mark of respect to his memory. For the house to take action on the death of a former member had only three precedents in its history—namely, on the occasions of the death of Benton, Blaine and Alexander Stephens, when the house adopted resolutions and adjourned out of respect to their memories. It was decided to follow these precedents in the case of Mr. Reed. In offering a resolution to adjourn Congressman Sherman referred to ex-Speaker Reed as follows: "A distinguished statesman, a lofty patriot, a cultured scholar and incisive writer, a unique orator, an unmatched debater, a master of logic, wit, satire, the most famous of the world's parliamentarians, the great and representative citizen of the American republic has gone into history."

Sunday Dancing In Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, O., Dec. 9.—The ordinance favored by the clergymen of this city regulating dance halls on Sunday has been defeated in the city council, and in its place was passed one permitting public dances on Sunday as well as on other days after due permission had been given by the director of police. The first named ordinance was defeated after hearing the opinion of the director of law, who gave it as his interpretation that an ordinance forbidding Sunday dances would not stand the test of the courts. A number of clergymen were present in the council chamber, but none other than councilmen was permitted to speak.

Russia Dislikes Award.

LONDON, Dec. 9.—A dispatch from St. Petersburg to the Morning Post says the Russian government is by no means satisfied with the Bering sea award, which the Dutch jurist Professor Asser gave in favor of the United States Nov. 29. It does not object to paying the stipulated sum, but it objects entirely to the principle of the award, whereby Russia is not allowed to chase trespassers beyond the limit of her territorial waters.

CROWDS DEMAND FUEL.

Almost a Riot at New Haven Coalyards.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Dec. 9.—The announcement of the arrival at this port of 25,000 tons of coal had the effect of sending hundreds of people to the local coalyards yesterday, all endeavoring to get a share of the latest shipment. At one of the yards a crowd of persons with baskets and pushcarts made urgent demands for coal, but were refused, the firm saying that while they had a small amount of coal for regular customers they could not supply other applicants. The police were sent for to drive the throng away from the yard, but as the people were orderly the police declined to interfere. The hands at the yard finally drove the crowd back and shut the gates.

Similar scenes were enacted at other yards. Many disappointed ones found their way to the police stations and demanded that they be told where they could buy coal. One man who said his family was suffering threatened to tear down the coal shed if necessary to get fuel. Some of the women wept as they told stories of suffering. The police were powerless to help them.

Most of the coal that has just come here will be shipped to inland parts. Part of the lot is soft coal. Local dealers who had coal arrive reported that it was all sold early in the day.

PRODUCES HEART BEATS.

Interesting Discovery Reported From the University of Chicago.

CHICAGO, Dec. 9.—The discovery of a new means of causing rhythmic beats in a strip of heart muscle is announced from the University of Chicago. The stimulus is oxygen, and Dr. David J. Lingle is the discoverer. He has been working on the lines of Professor Loeb's announcement made two years ago that a solution of salt would start a heart to pulsating.

It has long been known that the heart is extremely sensitive to oxygen and to carbon dioxide, the gas produced in vitiated air, but heretofore the action of oxygen has been thought to be confined to the purification of the blood. Dr. Lingle shows that this gas has the power directly to sustain the beats of a strip of heart muscle removed from the body of a turtle and to keep it going for from twenty-four to seventy-two hours. Even then the muscle stopped only because dissolution set in, and, in fact, the strip continued to beat for twenty-four hours of the seventy-two with part of it already dead.

Wabash Shopmen Return to Work.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Dec. 9.—The 1,000 Wabash shopmen who on Oct. 21 inaugurated a strike for 4 cents per hour increase of wages and have since been idle returned to work this morning. In the Springfield, Moberly and Fort Wayne, Ashley, Peru, Tilton, Chicago, Decatur, East St. Louis and Stansberry shops the men have accepted President Ramsey's terms, which are as follows: For men receiving less than 30 cents per hour, 2 cents advance; for those receiving more than 30 cents per hour, an increase of a cent; helpers, an increase of 1½ cents, and all others a corresponding increase. The men demanded an increase of 4 cents per hour all around.

Santiago to Havana by Rail.

SANTIAGO, Cuba, Dec. 9.—Two thousand persons, among them the American representatives of the Cuba company, witnessed the departure at 7 o'clock yesterday morning of the first regular train to Havana with 150 through passengers. The crowd gave the train an enthusiastic send off. The Cuba company publishes liberal freight and passenger rates, and it is anticipated that the opening of the railroad will lead to the rapid development of the interior of the island.

ULTIMATUMS SENT.

Germany and Great Britain Say "Must" to Venezuela.

REASONABLE TIME LIMIT ALLOWED.

If President Castro Fails to Settle Claims, Seizure of Customs Will Follow—Respective Ministers Ordered to Withdraw.

LONDON, Dec. 9.—Great Britain and Germany have presented ultimatums to Venezuela, which will be followed up by the seizure of the customs unless a satisfactory settlement is forthcoming within a brief period.

The ultimatums have a time limit, but the exact date cannot be ascertained here. The foreign office states with regard to the time limit:

"It is a reasonable time in which Venezuela can satisfy the injured governments. Both notes are practically identical, although the amounts of the claims differ. The notes merely reiterate the continued disregard by the Venezuelan government of all our representations, specify our claims and demand immediate action on the part of President Castro's government in connection therewith."

The British government's case is practically identical with the statements made in previous dispatches from London in which it was first announced that the present action was contemplated. Should the British ultimatum meet with a hostile reception the British minister, W. H. D. Haggard, has already been instructed to go aboard a British warship or if that is impracticable to go into the neighboring British colony. The foreign office, however, does not appear to anticipate such a contingency for the moment, nor indeed does it look forward to any startling development within the next few days.

The foreign office says: "There is not the slightest desire to coerce Venezuela, and if any answer had been made to our repeated protests and demands no such action as now taken would have been proceeded with. It was the persistent and insulting disregard to all representations which compelled us to move. It is now too late in the day for anything but purely diplomatic arrangements to be accepted in satisfaction for our injuries."

MINISTERS LEAVE CARACAS.

CARACAS, Venezuela, Dec. 9.—The British minister, W. H. D. Haggard, and the German charge d'affairs, Von Pilgrim-Baltazzi, left Caracas at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon for La Guayra, where Minister Haggard went on board the British cruiser Retribution and Herr von Pilgrim-Baltazzi boarded the German cruiser Vineta. Both the British and the German legations have been closed.

Sunday afternoon the British minister and the German charge d'affaires deposited at the private residence of the foreign minister, Lopez Barralt, separate demands, the British demand being for the settlement of claims and other matters arising out of the last revolutions and the German demand being for the payment of the interest on the German loan and other claims. The demands are without any specification as to the time given for an answer, but they are in the form of an ultimatum.

The actual situation is incomprehensible here in Caracas. Nobody seems to know anything about the Anglo-German projected demonstration. President Castro refuses to believe the contents of the European cables announcing the combined coercive measures. The foreign minister considers a menace on the part of Germany to be inadmissible. He said, "C'est un ballon d'essai" (It is only a feeler). As for England, added the minister, she has no ground for aggression.

Venezuelan citizens consider the threat of a demonstration as a bluff, and it is not taken seriously by the members of the foreign colony.

Foreign Creditors Must Wait.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—The state department has received a cablegram from United States Minister Bowen, at Caracas, saying that the president of Venezuela has published a letter in the newspapers there saying that foreign creditors must await the re-establishment of peace; then all promises will be fulfilled. According to President Castro's statements, the revolutionary movement in Venezuela has been crushed in the west, and only a few towns in the east are still unsettled.

Dockers to Join Strike.

MARSEILLES, Dec. 9.—The dock laborers have now decided to join the sailors' strike on the condition that no vessels, whatever may be their nationality, shall be discharged. This will mean a serious paralysis of trade. The sailors and stokers of several other ports, as well as the joiners, bakers and butchers of Marseilles, have notified their willingness to join a sympathetic general strike.

Must Kill Infected Animals.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—The secretary of agriculture has sent instructions to Dr. Salmon of the bureau of animal industry, who is personally superintending the work of fighting the foot and mouth disease epidemic in New England, to destroy all animals infected.

Premier Laurier at Hot Springs.

RICHMOND, Va., Dec. 9.—A Hot Springs (Va.) special states that Sir Wilfrid Laurier, premier of Canada, his wife and some friends are there and that the premier is apparently in the enjoyment of excellent health.

THE CHILDREN'S HOME.

While no one doubts for a moment the excellence of properly distributed charity among the suffering and unfortunate members of the community, yet such assistance is generally of a temporary nature. It relieves the present needs but it does little or nothing to prevent a recurrence of them. Of a different nature, therefore, is the work of the Children's Home, which is quietly celebrating the twenty-fifth anniversary of its organization.

The Children's Home aims to care for the homeless little ones and for those home surroundings are such as to make it advisable to remove them. The children are brought up under wise and wholesome influences and, as soon as they are old enough to look out for themselves, are placed in good homes. Instead of being thrust alone on the world at a tender and impressionable age, when a whole life may be wrecked by an unfortunate start, they are carefully and tenderly watched over and brought up to be a credit to the institution and to become worthy citizens of a great country. Instead of relieving the results of misfortune, the Home prevents the causes which so often lead to it.

Taking into consideration these facts, the present appeal of the Children's Home Association in its twenty-fifth annual report should meet with a prompt and hearty response from the people of Plainfield. It is well and proper to relieve suffering at any time but it is particularly advisible to assist in every way possible any movement which aims to prevent such suffering even before it begins. The Home has lost several of its strongest supporters. There should be no difficulty in filling these places when the aims and needs of the institution are considered.

There was a great deal of truth in what Rev. John MacMurray had to say in his sermon Sunday evening about the habit of most people in criticizing public officials. Very seldom, indeed, is a word of praise heard for the men who serve the city in official capacity. When their names are brought forward, it is usually for censure. When it is realized that so many of the city officials serve for nominal salaries or no salaries at all, it sometimes makes one wonder why they are willing to work so hard in the city's behalf and receive, with few exceptions, only criticism at the hands of their fellow citizens. The Daily Press has often referred to the able work done by the city officials, both as a unit and individually. There have been lots of opportunities, however, when words of praise would have been particularly appropriate. Mr. MacMurray's sermon applied, however, more particularly to the private citizens who have many chances of saving a good work that is well deserved.

Every week brings fresh signs of activity in the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. The inauguration of a boys' secretary was questioned by some when it was first proposed but those who have observed the uniform success attendant on the labors of Kenneth Robbie, who was appointed to that position, question it no more. During the brief time he has been here, Mr. Robbie has achieved remarkable popularity with old and young and has shown himself a young man particularly well fitted to fill the place.

An employe of the Jersey Central Railroad, who is in a position to know but whose name cannot be made public for obvious reasons, says the only things lacking to the North Avenue station are a flight of steps from the west-bound waiting platform to Park avenue and more adequate toilet rooms. The present ones, he says, are absurdly inadequate to answer the demands. Otherwise Plainfield possesses the most complete station on the Jersey Central, excepting of course the Jersey City terminal.

A caucus of the Republican members of the House of Assembly of the State Legislature will be held today and the result is now a foregone conclusion. John G. Horner, of Burlington, is to be the speaker and his rival from Essex, Robert M. Boyd, Jr., will be the majority leader on the floor. George J. Coe, of Union county, will undoubtedly be reappointed journal clerk.

According to the Philadelphia Record, John Cotton Dana has made the most comprehensive esimates as to the value of different advertising mediums, and he concludes that "this is the newspaper age. While no one reads everything in a newspaper, each of the diversified advertisements is read by some, and the total effect of this must be tremendous."

Every year sees the City High School adopting feature after feature of the college life. The latest innovation is a senior play, to be given by the young men and women who will graduate from that institution next June. Then the junior class will have to follow the example and another kind of an entertainment will be forthcoming.

Every little while the chemical engine gives another demonstration of its usefulness as a part of the local fire department. Yesterday morning's fire was gotten quickly in hand by the use of that engine without flooding the building. Had the fire been extinguished the old way, every tenant in the building would have suffered severely.

There were reports last summer that a cool summer presaged a mild winter. Present appearances would not go to prove the truth of that report.

Round This Great Round World

Little Letters from Correspondents in Many Lands.

German Ceramic Industry.

According to a German journal, the German manufacturers of earthenware are contemplating an amalgamation, at least as far as the sale of their wares is concerned. Although the output and sales of the manufactures of earthenware have increased, the net result has been rather unsatisfactory during the past few years, owing to the fact that the selling prices have constantly receded, and in many cases have been less than the cost of production. Of course, there is a difference between those factories producing higher grade ware and those manufacturing staple articles for the masses. The former are always able to obtain relatively better prices for their goods, while the business of the latter remains very unsatisfactory. Several years ago, about 30 earthenware manufacturers combined to regulate the selling price of their products, but this combination did not prove effective. On the contrary, the result was the founding of a number of independent companies which underbid the combination. In order to meet the prices of these outsiders, the trust factories sorted their wares more carefully, and, evading the spirit of the agreement, though not the letter, sold a large part of their product as "refuse ware" at greatly reduced prices, hoping thereby to crush the competition from without. This, however, resulted in a general cutting of prices, and to-day the competition between the companies belonging to the [illegible] is just as keen as between the trust and the independent companies. The result is that a number of large companies have gone into the hands of a receiver, others are liquidating voluntarily, and still others are continuing to operate their works at a loss.

On this account, it is intended to form a new combination, in order that the capital invested in the various works may be made to pay at least a reasonable interest. It is not intended to force up the selling prices unreasonably, but merely to prevent an evasion of the spirit of the combination.—Walter Schumann.

New Coal Fields in Belgium.

A year or more ago a new soft coal basin was discovered in the province of Luxemburg, Belgium, north of the city of Liege. Since then extensive soundings have been made over a considerable territory. The deposit underlies many square miles of the northern part of Belgium and the southern part of Holland. One of the veins, at a depth of 1,000 to 1,500 feet below the surface, is from 15 to 17 feet thick, and of a very fine quality of coal. It is estimated that this new coal field contains more than 500,000,000 tons of a good grade of coal, and extensive preparations are being made to open up the mines. The government proposes to enlarge the canals in that part of Belgium, dig new ones, and open new lines of railroads. The working of these mines will be more difficult and expensive than of the other mines of Belgium, because of their depth and the presence of more water; but it is thought that this will be more than counterbalanced by the thickness of the veins.—A. A. Winslow.

Coal Resources of Australia.

According to reports made by the government geologists of Victoria and Queensland, there are no less than 62,000 miles of coal-bearing country in the eastern states of Australia. The probable quantity of coal available (after deducting one-third for loss), in seams ranging from two to 27 feet in thickness, is not less than 240,448,053,000 tons. In Victoria, there are beds of tertiary coal over 260 feet thick, and extensive seams of oil-bearing shale exist in New South Wales and Tasmania. The coal in New South Wales is estimated at 115,346,880,000 tons; in Queensland, at 83,310,000,000 tons; in Victoria, at 32,388,213,440 tons; in Tasmania, at 8,363,520,000 tons; in West Australia, at 1,045,440,000 tons. The royal commission on the coal resources of Great Britain computed that the quantity available in the British isles was 146,480,000,000 tons, which amount, added to that of Austrial, makes the enormous total of 386,928,063,000 tons. It would appear from these figures that the British empire produces about one-third of the coal mined in the world.—F. W. Goding.

The Khabarovsk-Sretensk Railway.

The important extension of the Trans-Siberian railway from Khabarovsk to Sretensk has been completed from the first-mentioned terminus to Mikhailova-Semenovskaya, a distance of 149.8 miles. The most difficult part of the enterprise—the crossing of the Khingan mountain range—will now be commenced, and will give considerable trouble to the engineers. In order to hasten the completion of the whole line, which will cover a distance of 746.5 miles, the constructive work between Sretensk and Pokrova, from which place the track will run direct to Blagoveshtchensk, will be immediately begun. The cost of the new Khabarovsk-Sretensk railway is estimated at about $4,789,500, but that figure, it is claimed, will be largely exceeded in consequence of the constructive difficulties in the Khingan range.—Bolloway.

Loss of Time.

Van Grunt—I thought your creditors were going to meet to-day.

Sagway—They said they couldn't afford to lose the time.—N. Y. Herald.

ence in a really good English field."

"Darling," said her lover, nervously, "it goes to my heart to disappoint you, but the women of our family never hunt."

"They've been sinfully neglectful of their chances in life, then," said Miss Van Zan.

"And I could not—even for you," said Lord Pinehead, "go against the accepted and traditional opinion of my family in the matter. It would be a breach of a rule which has not been broken since my ancestress, Lady Selina, fell from her jennet in view of the field assembled to hunt the stag at Routsham in the reign of Henry VIII."

"She ought to have been tied in her saddle, or labeled 'This side up, with care,'" said Miss Van Zan, "before the stupid old thing was allowed out."

"That is neither here nor there," said her lover, with firmness. "My mother does not hunt—"

"Too fat," pouted Miss Van Zan.

"My sister does not hunt—"

"Too—no! You can't be too thin to ride."

"My cousins do not hunt—and my betrothed wife certainly shall not—at least, while we relatively occupy the position of engaged people."

"I guess you'd better go out and get your rubbers," said Miss Van Zan, with moisture shining on her eyelashes. "I'm going to cry."

She did, floods, but her lover would not yield, even in the matter of her riding to the meet. As a great concession, she might drive her new ten horse-power four-seated white-enamelled "Runhard" motor-car as far as Routsham farm, where the opening meet of the season would take place.

"I guess one must be thankful for small mercies," said Miss Van Zan, "when one happens to be the fiancee of a British peer who happens to know his own mind."

The day of the opening meet opened drizzly, but cleared up in the course of the morning and became fine and warm. Miss Van Zan did not appear at the breakfast. She bided her time, and heralded by the warning "toot" of the horn, flashed into the midst of the assembled field in her white and gold automobile. She was dressed in an exquisite costume of pink with topaz buttons, her cravat was fastened with a diamond whip. On her dainty head was securely perched a three-cornered hat of the Diana Vernon type, the flaps fastened with diamond buckles, and diamond buckles were upon her lovely shoes.

A stag was quickly found, and the general attention of the hunt became diverted from Miss Van Zant. Hats were touched and courtiers vanished. Pinehead, as master, on a great big-boned chestnut, led the pace as the pack streamed across the side of Bunkery Beacon in full [illegible].

"Oh! Oh!" cried Miss Van Zan, letting go the steering-wheel to clap her white-gauntleted hands. And as she did so, her "Runhard" leapt forward and thundered down the steep hillside after the flying field. Then, with an awful bound across a turf trench, the pneumatic tires gripped the springy moorland and—

"I guess this is better hunting than one could get out of a horse," said Miss Van Zan. "Sit tight, stoker, you don't seem used to takin' obstacles. Guess we're over the hundred kilometers. Guess we're leavin' the riders behind. Guess the dogs aren't goin' to keep up with us . . . guess we're causin' considerable of a sensation in aristocratic circles."

Her hatpins had gone, her hat had vanished, the principal whipper-in picked it up in a moorland stream. And thundering in the wake of the white and gold automobile came the big-boned chestnut of the master of the hunt. The stag in pursuit of freedom, Miss Van Zan in pursuit of the stag, Lord Pinehead in pursuit of his betrothed—formed a subject for an allegorical frieze.

Before them glinted the Rush, over its brown pebbles and beneath its green canopy of forest-boughs. With backward glance of his great terrified eye at the extraordinary monster that pursued him, the stag dropped his forelegs over the shallow bank.

"He's taking to the water—just like Scott's novels!" screamed Miss Van Zan. But no one heard her, for the stoker was picking himself out of a clump of ladyfern, and the big-boned chestnut was a hundred paces in the rear. Then—with an extraordinary combination of crash, splash and bump, the Runhard leapt over the bank, plowed deep into the pebbly river-bed, and turned Miss Van Zan tightly as a bundle of pink iris out into the gleaming stream. She landed upon something wet, soft and hairy, and Lord Pinehead, springing from the saddle of the big-boned chestnut and rushing to the assistance of his beloved, found her sitting in the water holding the stag's head in her lap and, mingling her tears of pity for the animal with the tributary waters of the Rush.

"He's awful hurt, I guess," she sobbed. "We collisioned, and he got the worst of it—his hind limb is kind of fixed under the machine! Oh! if he's killed it'll spoil my splendid day—but I'll have the brush, anyway—I've won it honestly."

There is a lame stag amongst the herd which frequents the bosky woods of the Corner Valley. He is a fat and heavy animal, never molested by hound or scared by horn, and in winter he visits the lawns of Pinehead to renew his acquaintance with its mistress and be liberally treated with the sugar, bread and carrots—for which he contracted a penchant during his convalescence. But her ladyship follows the example of her predecessors, and does not even [illegible] to the meet.

BALL GOWNS OF TODAY.

For a Pretty Debutante—Handsome Toques of Fur.

Pretty ball gowns are now in demand, for the ball season is about ready to begin. The matrons and young married women can have the rich and stately velvets and brocades covered with superb lace and all the jewels they can persuade their husbands to buy for them, but, after all, they cannot look as lovely as the dainty young girl in her filmy dress of mull. White or cream or some pale pastel tint in silk mull or tulle or lisse or some other exceedingly light and transparent material should be used to make ball gowns for the young, for they have the dower of youth and freshness to embellish them.

A beautiful dress for one of the youngest and prettiest of the debutantes of the season was made of blush pink silk mull and trimmed with a handsome pearl beaded passementerie at the top of the row of three flounces. These varied in width, being short in front and deep in the back. Around each went three rows of narrow pink satin ribbon. The waist had a row of the passementerie and one ruffle below that. The belt was a twist of pale pink satin ribbon without ends.

An evening wrap is of garnet cloth of fine texture and lined all through with squirrel and bordered with a narrow roll of chinchilla. The high collar and the flat collar both have the fur.

Squirrel fur grows in favor. Many garments are entirely made of it, and it is also used as lining to various materials, from cloth to velvet. Hats are made of this soft fur, one in turban shape being exceedingly handsome. Another has the crown of velvet and the turban brim of the squirrel fur. Its delicate color enables any one to wear it. A drapery of silk or velvet and a fancy buckle at the left side finish the hat. Quite a number of rather large toques are made of fur, with wings or steel ornaments. They are very stylish. Automobile coats are made of this fur, and caps or turbans are furnished to match. They are warm and useful for the purpose, but nothing can make a squirrel garment a real dressy one. It is a fad, and the wise woman in buying a fur garment will keep to the old fashioned and refined dark furs, especially when she desires a warm wrap.

Lace dresses are the rule, and they are made in every possible manner. Some have the whole dress of heavy lace over silk of some delicate color, and others have a thin silk underskirt, and the outside is made of point d'esprit, in white or tint. This is dotted and usually made more simply than the point applique. Gowns of this are finished at the bottom with a great fluff of lace and chiffon, held out in the accepted manner by judicious bands of featherbone tape and piping cord stitched in with the upper edge of the ruffle and the lower edge of the silk lining. Some of the flounces are made of silk muslin of rather strong quality, and over this is applied a rich design of bruges lace in a tint different from the white of the lining, like cream or ivory. Cream, ivory, butter and ecru are all seen in the superb lace dresses. White lace is seen on black, and vice versa, the chantilly and some silk guipure being best liked. There are also some beautiful appliques of silk and chiffon and embroidery. They are as fine as the heavier laces. There is a new fancy for an old and almost forgotten lace, a woolen guipure. Black silk guipure and hand run Spanish lace are also in again. The applique guipure resembles the old escurial closely and is used only as an applique.

Hats are trimmed so generally with lace that one cannot go astray if she puts a piece of good lace upon any hat she may possess. The very flat hat is the most popular, and this is made of everything in the way of hat material. These hats are covered with ribbon made into loops, or feathers, lace, flowers or fruit at will of the maker. All are fashionable and pretty. Some of the most elegant are those that are trimmed in the plainest manner. Fancy quills and a little plain drapery make some of them so stylish that one cannot but like them. Still color runs riot on most of the millinery. There are reds of all shades, blues, greens in great number and many intermediate shades. The feathers and the flowers and fruit also offer cheerful tints. Many of the finest tailor suits, however, have the cunningest little toques of the material with scarcely a hint of color aside from that in the suit. Possibly a plain quill will be put on somewhere.

THE KIDNAPPED MILLIONAIRES

A TALE OF WALL STREET AND THE TROPICS

By FREDERICK U. ADAMS.

Copyright, 1902, by Lothrop Publishing Company. All rights reserved.

The evening papers were hooting the city with extras. The news was so stupendous as to confound the genius of the designers of headlines. There was neither space nor type sufficient to depict their emotions. But the imagination of the reporters was equal to the crisis. In bewildering succession the millionaires were kidnapped, lured away and murdered by anarchists; had committed suicide, or reposed safely in the bosom of their families.

At one o'clock Sugar had dropped 25 points, Baltimore & Ohio 18 points, St. Paul 14 points, Metropolitan 32 points, Jersey Central 17 points and Steel and Iron 21 points. The stocks in which the missing men were not known to be interested withstood the shock with smaller losses, but the whole list was mutilated almost beyond recognition. The news had reached London too late to permit English operators to cover in that market, and the cables bore the tales of their dilemma.

Shortly after one o'clock brokers in the employ of Street & Rogers jumped into the market as buyers. In the first hour of the session, before the break came, it was estimated that they had sold not less than 300,000 shares, and Kent brokers had sold fully 100,000 more. The total sales for the first hour reached the unprecedented total of 1,280,000 shares. From 11 until 1 o'clock the representatives of Street & Rogers did nothing. They then began to take some of the stock as it was offered. They became the center of riots. Men fought like fiends to sell them stock. In spite of their support the offerings were so numerous that prices still declined. They bought Sugar in 10,000 and 20,000 share lots. In an hour Street & Rogers had covered 600,000 shares.

Two papers appeared with extras containing a dispatch from Philadelphia stating that Messrs. Morton, Carmody, Pence and Kent were in conference at the Hotel Lafayette. It related with great explicitness that they were considering the details of a gigantic railroad combination, and the article contained a brief interview with Mr. Morton in which he refused to discuss the objects of the meeting, but regretted that the public should have become alarmed at the secrecy which had been deemed necessary. The same news was spread through the brokerage and commission houses by the news agencies and came out on the tape.

The effect was electrical. The market rose by jumps and bounds. Every one seemed rushing to cover, but the spurt was short-lived. When the market had advanced an average of ten points, Street & Rogers and Boston and Chicago interests turned heavy sellers. They threw the stock they had accumulated at the bottom figures right and left. They found plenty of purchasers. The Philadelphia dispatch was so good it must be true. It sounded natural, and was a logical reason for the absence of these men. At two o'clock the market was firm and slowly advancing notwithstanding the vast offerings from Street & Rogers. At 2:30 Wall street was growing optimistic. It regarded the selling as profit-taking, and bought with confidence. Sugar rose to within seven points of the opening figure.

Then came the final disaster. It was announced that John M. Rockwell, the great capitalist, and Hiram Haven, the sugar magnate also were missing. Simultaneously, word was received from Philadelphia that none of the gentlemen mentioned had been at the Hotel Lafayette, and that the dispatch was bogus, having been sent out by a commission house which took this method to recoup some of its losses. In the crash which followed several houses went to the wall. Their holdings were thrown on the market. Sugar dropped an extreme 40 points. Other securities suffered in proportion. A man stood in the middle of Broad street and blew his brains out. Staid old investment stocks which had regularly paid dividends for years dropped five points between quotations. Sugar fell 11 points on a sale of 400 shares, and did not steady itself for ten minutes, during which time it was worth $35.00 a share less than it had been those few minutes before.

Once more it was Street & Rogers to the rescue. For two days they had been selling on good news and buying on bad news. Again their brokers stood in the breach and bought Sugar, B. & O., St. Paul, Jersey Central, Metropolitan and Steel and Iron from men who seemed willing to give it away. When the gong sounded at three o'clock, the signal that this awful day was ended on the Stock Exchange, these brokers were yet surrounded by swarms of men frantic in their efforts to sell stocks at any prices. It was midnight before the lights went out in the offices of Street & Rogers. Scores of haggard men arranged private settlements on terms which would permit them to remain solvent.

The profits of the unknown principals or syndicate represented by Street & Rogers, of New York, Morris & Hauser, of Boston, and Wright & Fanning, of Chicago, were conservatively estimated at $24,000,000.

The members of the firm of Street & Rogers gave out no figures and refused to name the men they were representing. They stated that they had considered the market overbought, and had sold stocks in anticipation of a natural reaction. The unexpected bad news had found them in a situation from which they could not help reaping an enormous advantage. They had simply taken profits on the various movements of the market, and did not share the apprehensions of those who feared for the safety of the missing men. Mr. Street declared that prices were too low at the closing figures, even if it were known that the worst had happened. Intrinsic values could not be permanently affected by the fate of individuals, and he advised buying on any further declines.

Thus closed the most memorable day in the history of Wall street.

CHAPTER VI.

MYSTERY ON MYSTERY.

The hundreds of columns of space devoted by the New York morning papers to the great event could have been condensed into a few paragraphs, so far as any true explanation of the mystery was concerned.

Six men, whose combined wealth was variously estimated at from $800,000,000 to $1,250,000,000, had disappeared as suddenly and completely as if the earth had opened and swallowed them. Four of them—Messrs. Pence, Kent, Haven and Morton—had been in the latter's office about four o'clock on Monday afternoon. Mr. Morton's secretary was sure they held no conference at this time, and said they soon left the building. He thought they left together, and supposed they went away in carriages or in an automobile. It was not uncommon for men distinguished in the world of affairs to meet at Mr. Morton's office. Mr. Morton had arranged for an important conference with some railroad men at his office for the following morning at 11 o'clock. The correspondence files showed that fact conclusively. Mr. Morton had telephoned to his residence that he would not be home to dinner. This was not unusual. That was absolutely all that was known of Mr. Morton's movements or plans.

John M. Rockwell was in his office from 11 o'clock until about two in the afternoon. He transacted business as usual and had planned to start on a trip to Chicago the following day. His private car had been ordered to the Pennsylvania depot. Andrus Carmody was to accompany him on this business journey. Both of these gentlemen had left word at their residences that they would not be home to dinner. Hiram Haven did not leave his office until nearly four o'clock. This was about his usual hour, and there was nothing in his correspondence or instructions to indicate that he would fail to be on hand at the regular hour on Tuesday morning.

Mr. Kent's failure to arrive at his office nearly drove his brokers distracted. They admitted that he had left them certain commissions to fill on Tuesday morning, but the nature of them or how they were executed they declined to make public. He left his office about four o'clock Monday afternoon, but did not say where he was going.

For the first time in 40 years Simon Pence failed to come home. Only on rare occasions did he remain away from a home dinner. He had stated that a business engagement would keep him in the city during the evening, but that he would be back at a seasonable hour. The police officials were notified at midnight of his failure to return to his residence. Not fully appreciating the significance of this event they made no search for the missing man, and classed it among the cases of this kind so familiar to the hardened members of the night police force of the metropolis.

This completes all that was known concerning the mystery.

Do You Wish To Borrow Money?

In order to accommodate all classes of borrowers (those who cannot borrow at a bank, as well as those who can), the Mutual Loan and Investment Company, of 118 Market street, Newark, N. J., has a department for handling quickly and confidentially loans ranging from $10 to $500 on furniture, pianos, storage receipts, etc.

The security is not removed from your possession or in any way disturbed. The honest, careful and conservative borrower will try and decide two points before borrowing. First, where he can get the best terms. Second, where he can get fair and square treatment.

This company is in a position to give you by far the most satisfactory terms ever offered by any concern or individual negotiating this class of loans.

With this company you are assured of getting the lowest rates, easiest payments and longest time for repayment. We also take up loans from other companies and advance more money.

Kindly call and let us explain our simple and up-to-date methods. If not entirely convenient for you to call, please write and our representative will call and give you any desired information. Remember it costs nothing to make application. Loans promptly made in Elizabeth, Plainfield, Westfield, Roselle, Rahway, Perth Amboy and all suburban towns.

JUDGE FOR YOURSELF.

Which is Better—Try An Experiment or Profit by a Plainfield Citizen's Experience.

Something new is an experiment.

Must be proved to be as represented.

The statement of a manufacturer is not convincing proof of merit.

But the endorsement of friends is.

Now supposing you had a bad back.

A lame, weak or aching one.

You will experiment on it?

You will read of many so-called cures.

Endorsed by strangers from far-away places.

It's different when the endorsement comes from home.

Easy to prove local testimony.

Home endorsement is the proof that backs every box of Doan's Kidney Pills.

Read this case:

Mrs. I. L. Holmes, of 442 West Second street, says: "I used several boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills for back ache and derived more benefit from them than anything else. Before I tried this remedy I was bothered almost constantly with a severe pain across the small of my back, so bad at times that I thought I must give up. If I sat down and got up or was lying down and attempted to rise quickly or retained one position for any length of time, sharp acute pain always followed. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised for such troubles and went to L. W. Randolph's drug store and got a box. They helped me from the first and I improved right along under the treatment."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the U. S.

NOT AFTER PRESIDENCY.

Hanna Sets at Rest Certain Presidential Gossip.

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—United States Senator Hanna has settled for all time reports that he is to be a candidate for the presidency next time.

"I have never been a candidate," the senator said, "nor will I ever be a candidate. I have announced that time and time again. I want to say now and for all time that I don't want the job, and I wouldn't take it."

The reason for Senator Hanna's announcement was the following dispatch from Washington:

"General L. T. Michener of this city, formerly attorney general of Indiana, has sent this letter to numerous politicians in that state:

"'It is believed here that Senator Hanna will try to get the presidential nomination in 1904 and that he expects the support of Indiana. Some of the president's friends are a little uneasy about it. Do you think that Hanna could take Indiana away from Roosevelt or Fairbanks? Kindly let me have your views by next mail if at all convenient.'"

It was at the adjournment of the annual meeting of the industrial branch of the National Civic federation, at 203 Broadway, when Senator Hanna was shown the above dispatch.

"This man Michener," continued the senator, after he had denied that he would ever be a presidential candidate, "is a chump—a big chump."

Earlier in the day the senator, when interviewed at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel, where he is staying, would only say: "It is all rot—all rot. I don't care to talk about it."

No Trace of Plague In Connecticut.

HARTFORD, Conn., Dec. 9.—General H. O. Averill, commissioner on domestic animals, finds that there is no case of foot and mouth disease among cattle in the state, and he is endeavoring to induce Secretary of Agriculture Wilson to raise the embargo of Nov. 27, which forbids the removal of cattle from Connecticut into any other state. General Averill has written to the secretary and has telegraphed Dr. D. E. Salmon, chief of the bureau of animal industry in the department of agriculture, who is now at Boston. General Averill has visited each of the eight counties in the state on an investigating tour.

Insane Man Defies Capture.

He has driven his family from the house, and when any one approaches he fires. So far no one has been wounded.

Convicted of Attempted Suicide.

NEWARK, N. J., Dec. 9.—Frank H. Carney of this city, the first man to be convicted in this state of attempted suicide, has been sentenced to six months' imprisonment in the penitentiary. His counsel at once filed notice of appeal, which acts as a stay.

NEW ATHLETIC CLUB.

Movement Looking Toward the Formation of Club is Progressing.

A number of young men of the city, including some of the members of the Atis A. A., are planning to organize an athletic club for Plainfield in the near future. The club, when organized, will procure quarters but will not make any attempt to occupy the Casino as has been reported. The movement has been under advisement for some time but the leaders have been going slowly in order to make sure of their ground.

PIANO OWNERS ATTENTION!

Old pianos, of any make, made new at an extraordinary low price by Leo H. Battalia, 56 Lenox avenue, New York City, without removing the piano from the house. Old pianos reconstructed with new parts is a great success and inexpensive. The action only is required, as they are the parts that become worn with usage, while the frame and sounding board, in nearly every case remains intact, and in fact improves with age as does a violin. Any reliable piano manufacturer will vouch for the above statement.

He has on file in his office a great many testimonials from leading music teachers and citizens of Plainfield for fine tuning and making their old pianos good as new when expert tuners and repairers have failed. Before you exchange your old instrument why not let him examine it. It may be the means of saving you many dollars.

Bear in mind, in renewing parts, it costs you no more than ordinary repairs you pay to a tuner. Pianos examined free of charge. Branch store, 426 Watchung avenue, this city.

THE FUNERAL OF HENRY VANMIDDLESWORTH HELD THIS AFTERNOON.

Stricken With Apoplexy in Pond Tool Works and Died at the Hospital Soon After.

Funeral services over the remains of Henry VanMiddlesworth, who died suddenly, Saturday afternoon, were held from his late home on West Front street, this afternoon. They were in charge of Rev. J. B. Cleaver, of Bound Brook, and many relatives and friends from this city and Somerville were in attendance. Among the floral tributes were two handsome ones from his shopmates in the Pond Tool Works and the Mount Olive Baptist Sunday-school in which Mrs. VanMiddlesworth teaches. Interment was made in the North Plainfield cemetery.

Up to the time he was stricken, Mr. VanMiddlesworth had practically suffered no illness all his life. He was in the yard of the Pond Tool Works, Saturday morning at 10:30, when he was suddenly attacked by apoplexy. Fellow workmen ran to his assistance and he was removed to Muhlenberg Hospital, but never regained consciousness. He died at 1:30. He was fifty-five years old and came to this city from Somerville in 1886. He leaves a widow and five children, Mrs. Lindsey Woolley, Mrs. John Goodman and John and Lloyd, of this city and Charles, of Brooklyn.

EVENING SERVICE PROBLEM.

Discussed at Meeting of the Plainfield Ministers' Association.

The members of the Plainfield Ministers' Association met yesterday evening in the parlors of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, when Rev. Cornelius Schenck, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, presented an unusually interesting paper on the problem of the evening church service and offering practical suggestions to improve the attendance. There was an informal discussion of the topic.

After the meeting the members were entertained at Mrs. Truell's on Central avenue, by Rev. John McMurray, pastor of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church. Nearly all of the local pastors of the city were present to enjoy the pleasant event and all agreed that a most profitable time had been spent.

This morning she was arraigned in private before City Judge Runyon and Chief Kiely and told stories that implicated several men and other girls. She was allowed to go for the time being in the custody of her mother and steps will be taken against those who have been leading her off.

Dined in Honor of Birthday.

A very pleasant informal event of yesterday was a dinner party given by Mr. and Mrs. William A. Woodruff, of East Second street, in honor of Mr. Woodruff's mother who celebrated the anniversary of her eighty-sixth birthday. The affair was attended by just a few intimate friends of Mrs. Woodruff, who was the recipsent of hearty congratulations from all that she might live to celebrate many similar events.

NEEDS OF EPILEPTIC VILLAGE AT SKILLMAN

Annual Report Made to Governor Murphy Tells of That State Institution.

NEEDS MORE SUPPORT

REPORT OF DR. WEEKS, THE MEDICAL SUPERINTENDENT OF VILLAGE.

Tells of Success of Present Line of Work, and How it Can be Carried Forward on a Much More Elaborate Scale.

There are upward of 2,500 epileptics in New Jersey, according to the annual report of the board of managers of the State Village for Epileptics, located at Skillman, Somerset county, of which H. P. Reynolds, of this city, is the secretary. The report has been recently submitted to Governor Murphy.

The report deprecates the fact that the State has not been more liberal in caring for this class of dependents, and it it pointed out that until proper provision is made for the treatment of the epileptics little real progress can be made. The recent sensational report of the State Charities Aid Association called attention to the fact that in the State and county hospitals for the insane, as well as at the training school for feeble-minded children at Vineland, there are many epileptics that ought to be at the village at Skillman. The reports of the managers of the village also calls attention to this fact and urges that some favorable action be taken this winter by the Legislature in order that the epileptics may be properly cared for.

The report shows that eighty-five patients have been received at the village since it was opened in 1898, and that of this number nine have been discharged as cured, four have been transferred to other institutions, four were removed by parents, two died and three eloped. In the total number of patients admitted the counties were represented as follows: Burlington, 3; Camden, 3; Cumberland, 1; Essex, 23; Hudson, 12; Hunterdon, 3; Mercer, 6; Middlesex, 4; Monmouth, 8; Morris, 5; Ocean 1; Passaic, 3; Somerset, 1; Sussex, 1; Union, 7; Warren, 4. During the past year there have been twenty-five male and twenty female patients admitted, making the total population at the present time seventy-five.

The report of Dr. Weeks, the medical superintendent, says:

"As the village progresses the patients are realizing more and more the advantages of colony life. It is deeply regretted that the amount appropriated by the last Legislature was not sufficient to complete the women's cottage and industrial building, both of which are now in course of erection. Nothing is more conducive to the contentment and happiness of the epileptics than systematic employment, and nothing tends more to the amelioration of their wretched condition. During the spring, summer and fall months there is no difficulty in finding employment for all who are able to work, but with the advent of winter the outdoor work ceases, and the patients are obliged to spend the greater part of their time indoors in idleness, especially the men. The effect of the change is quickly manifested by a rapid increase in the number of convulsions and the irritability and discontent of the patients. It was hoped that the industrial building would be finished and that several industries might be started to give employment to the men during the winter.

"The question is frequently asked, How many epileptics are there in this State? From such information as we have been able to obtain, a very conservative estimate would place the number of epileptics in the State at more than 2,500, including those in the insane asylums and other institutions.

"There is a large number of epileptics confined to the hospitals for the insane and other institutions throughout the State that properly belong in the village. That they should be removed from these institutions as soon as possible, because of the effect produced upon the epileptic, and in turn the effect produced by him upon those with whom he is compelled to associate, is conceded by all who have a knowledge of the matter. To the end that the village may receive and properly care for those seeking admission from their homes, and those now in other institutions, where they are undesirable and where no benefit results to either patient or institution by their detention, a sufficient number of buildings should be provided in which to classify and care for them.

"Separate cottages are required for children. The old, infirm, paralytic, bedridden, should be cared for in buildings planned for their requirements, while the strong and vigorous adults should be properly classified and placed in homes adapted to their needs. Small, plain, homelike houses are desirable, and much better results are obtained by a system which permits a caring for small numbers in a household.

"A cottage for children of each sex should be built immediately. Children and adults cannot be cared for in the same household. This has been thoroughly demonstrated in the instances where children were received, and after trial it was found necessary to have them removed."

GAS WAS LEAKING.

One Man Was Going to Use a Match to Find it When Chief Doane Interferred—Came From Ovens.

When the bakers in the employ of Miss M. E. Stevenson, the caterer, of North avenue, went to work this morning they found that the place from cellar to garret was filled with gas. Word was sent at once to the office of Chief of the Fire Department T. O. Doane and he went to the place to find out the source of the escaping gas.

Some of the people living in the house thought the fumes came from a gasolene stove, but it was found that no gasolene was used in the house at all. The chief, while going down the stairs into the basement, saw a man trying to strike a match to find the leak about the gas meter but was told to stop. If his actions had not been seen in time there might have been an explosion. It was finally found that the gas came from the baking ovens from the coal burning in the grates, beneath it. The ovens will be repaired at once.

FUTURE FOR ASBURY PARK

Transfer of Beach Rights to City Means Some Important Changes For the Resort.

HOW IT WAS FOUNDED

Asbury Park Expects to Own the Beach, Sewers and Other Property Before the New Year Begins—A Remarkable Bargain—Story of the Transfer.

Asbury Park expects to own its picturesque beach front before the new year dawns, and the visitors to this resort next summer will promenade on what is expected to be the finest walk in the world.

The beach is now owned by the founder, James A. Bradley, the New York manufacturer, but he has offered to dispose of it, together with other valuable property, for the "bargain sale" price of $150,000, a trifle less than one-sixth its actual value. The aldermen realize that the offer is a liberal one, but they also realize that Mr. Bradley is a generous man, and they want him to throw in a park or two and his rights in Deal, Sunset and Wesley lakes before they close the bargain. The "Founder," it is believed, will consent to the proposition.

Asbury Park was discovered, founded, developed and nurtured by Mr. Bradley. It was a "wilderness and barren sand waste" in 1871, when the property was bought by him for $90,000. It was he who purchased the first lot ever sold in Ocean Grove, and when he came down to that embryo campmeeting resort to inspect his new property he was struck with the beauty of the property adjoining Ocean Grove on the north, and he purchased it.

Mr. Bradley was in poor health at the time, but he went there, had his possessions surveyed, acted as his own supervisor, worked hard getting his new town in shape for the inhabitants, who soon began to pour in, and the tasks he performed in the sea air soon restored his health.

The new resort was named in honor of Bishop Francis Asbury, the pioneer of Methodism in American. This name was chosen partly as a compliment to Ocean Grove, and partly because Mr. Bradley was a local preacher in the Methodist church. It was the first "made to order" resort on the Atlantic coast, for Mr. Bradley insisted that the streets should be uniform and wide, and that there should be numerous parks and squares for the thousands who he predicted would flock to the place. Then, again, he decreed that the town he discovered and built should be free from the curse of liquor saloons, and every deed contains a clause that the property shall revert to the original proprietor in case the purchaser permits liquor to be sold on the premises.

To this day there are no licensed saloons in Asbury Park, or, in fact, within one mile of Wesley Lake, which divides Asbury Park from Ocean Grove. Liquor is sold in the town, but surreptitiously, and Mr. Bradley has spent thousands of dollars in the last thirty years in prosecuting those who violate the anti-liquor selling laws.

The resort prospered far more than even the "Founder" had dreamed. Because of its prohibition leanings and the straight laced rules governing the beach it was ridiculed by the press, but despite adverse criticisms the resort continued to flourish, until now the winter population of the city and the adjacent towns numbers over 20,000, and in summer Asbury Park alone contains 50,000 persons.

Mr. Bradley has made considerable money out of his investment, but not one-tenth of what it is said less conscientious speculators would have made. Ten years ago he insisted that the city should own the beach, and he offered to sell it to the municipality for $150,000. Enabling acts were passed by the Legislature, but obstacles arose from time to time to prevent the transfer from being made, so the matter has hung fire.

Recently, however, a lawyer raised the point that Mr. Bradley, when he plotted the town, laid the beach front out as a public park, and that the original map on file in the County Clerk's office at Freehold shows this to be the fact. When this discovery was made the Board of Trade, Hotel Keepers' Association and the Board

HARD TASK TO GET PARK BOWLING TEAM

Plenty of Material, But Members Don't Care to Go to Out-of-Town Games.

ROLL TOMORROW NIGHT

PARKS ROLL SERIES OF THREE WITH CRANFORD CASINO.

Difficult Task Which Confronts Captain W. R. Faber—There is Material Enough in Park Club for a Very Strong Team.

Another series of games in The Daily Press Bowling League will be rolled on the Park Club alleys tomorrow evening. On the result of those games largely depends the Park's future in the league. It is generally conceded that the fight lies between the veteran teams of the Westfield Club and the Roselle Casino. The latter has scored two wins for the trophy while Westfield won last year and now holds the cup. The Park Club and the Cranford Casino have been content to fight it out to see which will have to fall into last place. The Parks and Cranfords meet tomorow night and the series may decide which is going to take the last place.

Never has the Park Club entered the bowling season so badly handicapped as this one. There are good bowlers in the club but Captain William R. Faber has had the greatest kind of trouble in getting them out to take part in league contests. They do not mind rolling games in the local alleys but it has been a difficult thing for Mr. Faebr to get material for the team for out-of-town games. It had been hoped that some of the younger members, who were showing promising form in practice would turn out regularly and train for the league contests. While several of them did go to Westfield with the team for the opening games in the league, they were lacking in practice and did not roll a steady game.

Unless the members of the club give Captain Faber better support, his position will be a very hard one and the reputation of Plainfield's bowlers, once so high, will take a big step downward. With the old bowlers and some of the new talent, there is material for an excellent team to represent the Park Club in the league.

SAID GOOD-BYE.

Miss Josephine Butscher's Friends Dropped in on Eve of Her Departure for Florida.

Formal and informal farewells were given in unceasing numbers last evening to Miss Josephine Butscher, of West Fourth street, who is to take her departure, this evening, for a winter's sojourn in Tampa, Fla. Twenty-four friends from this city, New York, Brooklyn and Oswego, N. Y., called unexpectedly at her home and at once made her hostess of the party.

Accepting the position she proved more than equal to the occasion and a delightful time was had in playing time honored games with informal features. Recitations were given by Miss Josephine Murphy; David Mack and Arthur Lederer sang acceptable duets and the latter rendered a pleasing solo, "After All."

At midnight an elaborate collation was served and at its conclusion Miss Butscher was over and again bidden God speed on her trip. She will not return to this city until late in the spring.

ITS COLD THERE.

Willard Martin Railroading it in Arkansas Where it is Zero.

Plainfield people, who have been moving about the past few days all bundled up and exchanging "cold, aint it?" salutes, will shiver to hear that a Plainfielder is daily experiencing weather where the thermometer is below zero almost continuously. He is Willard Martin who is now engaged in railroad work in Arkansas. Although a Jersey boy, he is standing it with the ease of a veteran and writes that he expects to experience colder weather yet before the winter is over.

Contractors Assign.

Charles Allen and Charles Banta, of Cranford, partners in business under the firm name of C. Alien & Company, made an assignment yesterday to John P. Owens, of this city. They conducted a contracting and building business throughout the county. Francis J. Blatz, of this city, is counsel in the matter.

WANT RECEIVER.

Action of the Directors of Columbia Realty Company to Protect the Interest of All Concerned.

The Columbia Realty Company, of Trenton, yesterday, through its attorney, Hon. A. A. Clark, applied on the petition of the directors of the company, who owned 723 shares of the company out of 1,016 shares, to Vice Chancellor Reed for a receiver, this action being caused by Aaron Turnstall and Chris. Carthidge, of Trenton, who owned 104 shares, and who recently applied to the court to have appraisers appointed to appraise the stock of the company.

As the appraisers might appraise the stock of the company as valuable it would be a judgment against the property of the company and the directors deemed it the proper thing to ask the protection of the court to protect the interest of all creditors and stockholders alike. The floating indebtedness is given in the petition as $31,000, with $55,000 in mortgages on improved and unimproved real estate.

The Vice Chancellor granted the Columbia Realty Company an injunction restraining Aaron Turnstall and Chris. Carthidge from appraising the stock and the receiver will be appointed Tuesday, December 16.

As the fiscal year does not end at this time the various reports were not presented. In connection with the election of officers, several matters pertaining to the interest and welfare of the school were discussed. The school was considered to be in excellent condition spiritually, financially and otherwise and in the selection of officers there was a perfect unanimity in the choice.

FAMILY TO DECIDE.

Bequests of Charles Hyde to Charity Are to be Left to the Heirs to Determine.

That in the future there may be no complications arising from the distribution of $100,000 for charity purposes, left in the will of the late Charles Hyde, Chancellor Magie has given a decision that the $100,000 set apart in the will for charity and religious purposes shall go to the family, they to dispose of it as they see fit, and that whatever they do will be in harmony with the purpose of the will.

According to the will the money is to be spent within five years after the making of the instrument, and as the time has arrived for some consideration of the subject, it was thought wise to have the matter settled in a legal manner. Otherwise a future generation of heirs might have it in their power to dispute the definition of charitable and religious purposes as interpreted by the family, thus causing much confusion.

Spelling Bee.

The spelling bee held Monday at the North Plainfield High School, between the classes taught by Miss Green and Miss Weller, was won by Miss Green's class.

Principal Ira W. Travell, of the City High School, returned yesterday from a visit to Williams College and Mt. Holyoke College.

LINDEN RACE TRACK IS SOLD AT AUCTION

The Once Famous Haunt of Gamblers, Near Elizabeth, Was Sold for $8,475.

OR ABOUT $75 AN ACRE

WILL BE USED AS FACTORY SITES OR CUT UP INTO BUILDING LOTS.

Sold at Auction to Melville R. VanKeuren, of Jersey City—It Recalls the Reign and Final Defeat of the Race Track Men.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, December 10—Memories of the days in 1893 when racing men controlled the Legislature and passed their infamous bills, were revived, last week, through the sale of the old Linden track, near this city.

It is one of the courses that proved a mint to the owners ten years ago but of late, like the Guttenberg in North Hudson, the Clifton near Passaic, the Monmouth Park near Long Branch and the Gloucester track below Camden, it has proven a white elephant. Since the track gamblers were driven out of the State and the Metropolitan sports sought elsewhere for their pleasure, it has remained in disuse.

Wednesday it came to the inevitable auctioneer's hammer and was knocked down to Melville R. VanKeuren, of Jersey City, for $8,475, or about $75 an acre. The purchaser intends to sell it for factory sites as it is near the Pennsylvania Railroad or else cut it up into private building lots. It may ultimately become part of this city as it is nearly within the limits.

In its best days the Linden track drew thousands of the gambling fraternity and it was regarded as one of the best known for miles around New York. Its supporters did practically as they pleased in the way of law violation as the then Democratic Legislature was under their control. Wishing to secure additional privileges in 1893 resulted in their undoing, as the jamming through of the "rack track" bill in 1893 led to their being driven from the State. This measure was put through under the direction of Speaker "Tom" Flynn, and Wm. J. Thompson, known as the "Duke of Gloucester." With their removal the Democrats were driven from power in the State and have remained so ever since.

In 1894, the race track act of 1892 was repealed by the Republicans and subsequently a constitutional amendment against race track gambling was adopted. That sounded the death knell of the big courses and one after another they settled up affairs and went out of business. The Linden track was owned by the Linden Blood Horse Association.

EUCHRE AT THE PARK CLUB

ANOTHER SUCCESSFUL AFFAIR AT THAT POPULAR CLUB.

Fourteen Tables Did Not Provide for All Who Assembled—The Prize Winners.

The members of the Park Club, their wives, sisters and friends, enjoyed one of those affairs last evening, for which the club has become famous. It was a euchre party and, as on previous occasions, there was a large turnout, the club being taxed to the limit by the guests. While there were fourteen tables, they but partially represented the number present. In all there were seventy-five guests.

Although the euchre was the chief attraction, the social features were enjoyed fully as much, and it was nearly 12 o'clock when the affair terminated. Mrs. Leslie M. Daniel was presented with the first prize for the women, while Miss Chapman received the second prize. For the men, George T. Rogers won first prize and Arthur Kenworthy the second.

After play refreshments were served and the guests enjoyed a social time. The affair was given under the direction of the entertainment committee, Mr. and Mrs. S. St. John McCutchen, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Townsend, Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. McGee, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Saunders and C. E. Murray.

Tea for Miss Scott.

Mrs. William H. Murray, of Watchung avenue, will give a tea, Saturday afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock, for Miss Bessie Scott, the fiance of Dexter O. Tiffany. Miss Scott is the daughter of the late Col. Julian Scott.

VETERANS ELECT.

Officers Chosen at the Meeting of Winfield Scott Post, G. A. R., Held Last Evening.

Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., met last evening in regular session for the purpose of electing officers for the ensuing year. There was a large attendance of members and considerable interest was taken in the selection of the following officers:

Commander, Hector C. Smith; senior vice commander, Andrew Cox; junior vice commander, Edward Vanderweg; quartermaster, John R. Naylor; surgeon, Israel Compton; chaplain, M. C. Dobbins; officer of the day, Henry C. Drake; officer of the guard, Albert G. Perry; trustees, William C. Smith, M. C. Dobbins, William Hand; delegates to Department Encampment, Andrew Cox, William Day; alternates, Francis M. Whitley, Edward Townley.

This comprised the principal business of the evening, although a few other matters were discussed. The installation of officers will take place at the first meeting in January, at which time Department Commander Enos Hand, of Atlantic City, and several members of his staff, will be present.

ELECTRICITY STILL LOOSE

GIVES PYROTECHNIC DISPLAYS AT THE NORTH AVENUE STATION.

The Fence Dividing the Tracks is Frequently Charged and Sparks Fly.

Pyrotechnic displays through the street railway current charging the dividing fence, continue to be a feature at the North Avenue station. Balls of blue flame are frequently racing along and at extreme points the effect is spectacular. Passengers and many people who go there just for the purpose linger for hours to see the sight.

To the depot employes, however, the current is a source of much annoyance and danger. Monday morning a lineman for the Western Uion, who was about to pass through the gate, received the full force of a heavy charge and was thrown back on the track. At the time a drill engine was backing down and if it had occurred a short time later he might have met death under the wheels.

The baggage men are also almost afraid to touch any part of the iron framework and it is getting to be a serious problem. The officials of the street railway have been informed of the matter and unless the trouble is remedied action will be taken.

OF EXCEPTIONAL MERIT.

Is Combination of Art and Music at Sacred Recital "Immanuel."

The first rendition of the new illustrated sacred recital, "Immanuel," at the Y. M. C. A. Hall tomorrow evening is a programme of exceptional merit to every lover of art and music. The beautiful dissolving views, accompanied as they are by the world's famous composers, present a reality to music and a most vivid impression on the life of Christ.

The evening's programme introduces to the Plainfield people a soprano who is regarded a one of the leading soloists of New York City. The New York Evening Telegram speaks as follows of Miss Holley: "Miss Bianca Holley, a leading soprano of this city, who has been engaged for the New England May festival at New Haven, Conn., is a graduate from the Utica Conservatory of Music and has a pure soprano voice highly trained. Her appearance at the Lotus Club recently was in the nature of an ovation. Her singing of an aria from 'Tannhauser' revealed much dramatic power, and her interpretation of the Arietta Valse from 'Romea E Guiletta,' a most difficult selection, has been pronounced perfect. Miss Holley is a relative of Marietta Holley, who has written much as 'Josiah Allen's Wife.'"

CAMERA CLUB OFFICERS.

A New Set Has Just Been Elected to Office.

Officers have been elected by the Plainfield Camera Club as follows: President, Harold Serrell; vice president, J. Hervey Doane; treasurer, H. H. Coward; secretary, Vincent Sokol; trustees, C. E. Murray, Samuel H. Craig, Frank T. Ostrom, Dr. D. C. Adams and Asa F. Randolph. The club expects to take possession of its new rooms in the Babcock building some time during next March.

The arrival of a young son, yesterday, is the cause of much rejoicing at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Williams, 173 North avenue.

BIDDEN GUESTS WERE TURNED OUT IN COLD

Now Warrants Are Out for the Uninvited Ones Who 'Tis Said Took Possession.

HAD A HIGH OLD TIME

JACOB WERTS, OF SOUTH STIRLING, TELLS A SORRY TALE.

How the Burnetts Paid An Unrequested Visit and Took Possession of Linke's Hotel, of Which Werts Was in Charge.

There was company at Linke's hotel at South Stirling Saturday evening. Some of the guests were invited and two were not. Warrants have since been issued by Justice D. D. Smalley, of North Plainfield, for Peter Burnett, of South Stirling, and Henry Burnett, of Stirling, for their participation in the uninvited visit. According to the story told by aged Jacob Werts, who is in charge of Linke's establishment, the Burnetts caused more trouble in a few minutes than all the law abiding citizens of that village in twenty years.

Werts and a middle-aged couple from Smalleytown, were passing a quiet and highly respectable evening together when there came a knock at the door. It was the Burnetts. According to report, they had been having strenuous times over in Stirling where a local constable attempted to eject them from a saloon and had been roughly handled for his pains. Werts says the Burnetts demanded admission and, when it was denied them, took it upon themselves to come in anyhow. Werts and his invited guests were carted out-of-doors where they had a grandstand view of the operations that followed.

Werts' story is that the unbidden ones helped themselves to liquid refreshment, tossed the stove around the room by way of exercise and then tied bow knots in his arms when he objected to the demolishing of the property under his charge. After the novelty of this pleasure had passed, the brothers departed, leaving Werts and his guests to try to repair damages.

A journey was made to Plainfield as soon as the storm would permit and warrants sworn out against the Burnetts. Constable Pangborn was give them to serve but hasn't found the men yet. It is reported that they are sojourning in Morris county.

HORSESHOERS BUSY.

Demand to Have Horses Sharp Shod Has Made Lots of Business.

Some of the horse shoers in the borough, as well as in this city, have been taken by surprise by the cold spell which has visited this section and consequently there has been a great demand for practical horseshoers for the past few days.

Frank Hand, of Somerset street, has employed two extra hands and during the past five days he says he has put shoes on 450 horses. Horace J. Martin, of Somerset street, has also had to employ extra hands and over 200 horses have been sharp shod at his place during the cold season.

Other blacksmiths have been doing a rushing business and with the forecast of more cold weather it seems probable that the good times and prosperity for the blacksmith will come in a week or two.

REPORTS OF FAIR.

Made at Meeting of Ladies' Aid Society of Park Ave. Baptist Church.

Reports of the proceeds of the recent fair and other church matters were discussed yesterday afternoon at the meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society, of the Park Avenue Baptist church, which was held at the home of the society's treasurer, Mrs. J. Wesley Johnson, at 207 East Seventh street. The attendance at the meeting was large and the meeting was an interesting one.

Among the subjects which came up for discussion was the matter of holding a tea in the near future. Some of the members were in favor of holding a sociable after the holidays and it is probable that some kind of an entertainment will be arranged.

Sold Under Mortgage.

William N. Pangborn, acting as bailiff for Charles Keller, of the borough, sold at Graceley's Manhattan Hotel, Monday, goods belonging to Harry Johns under a chattel mortgage. They were bought in by Frank Mobus. Counsellor F. J. Blatz represented Keller.

DEATH CAME AS MR. PEET SLEPT

Founder of Famous Clothing House Passed Away at His Putnam Avenue Home.

FOUND THIS MORNING

Had Retired Last Evening Apparently in the Best of Health—Recently Retired From Active Business—was Sixty-Three Years of Age—Was a Widower.

Death overtook Charles B. Peet as he lay sleeping in his comfortable home on Putnam avenue this morning. Late in the morning when the maid called him and received no reply from within, an investigation was made with the result that the body of the well-known business man was found lying on the bed in a natural position showing that death had come as quickly as it was painless. Dr. Murray was called and he pronounced the cause of the death as heart failure and that the man had been dead only a short time before he was found.

Charles B. Peet was a retired member of the clothing firm of Rogers, Peet & Company, of New York, and was the founder of that very extensive business. He was sixty-three years of age and was a widower. He had no children. He leaves three brothers, George, Creighton and Henry, all of whom are prominent professional men, and are connected with the firm of Rogers, Peet & Company, of New York. He still retained an interest in the business.

Last evening Mr. Peet was apparently as well as ever but retired early. He directed that he be called early this morning. This morning the maid went to his door and rapped gently, but receiving no response she notified the rest of the household and an entrance to the room was gained through another way. The inanimate form of the man was found lying upon the bed, apparently asleep but on closer inspection it was found that the man was dead.

Besides being the founder of the well-known clothing firm Mr. Peet was, at the time of his death the vice president of the United States Casualty Company and was also a member of the Board of Governors of the Manhattan Club. He was a member of the New York Athletic Club, and was very well-known in many of the clubs in New York.

He was the son of Rev. Edwin Wright Peet, who built St. Paul's church in Rahway. The deceased has been very active in business all his life and started in a small way in the clothing business in New York but gradually opened larger stores until a few years ago he retired from active business.

The arrangements for the funeral have not been fully completed yet.

INJURED IN FALL.

Herbert Hetfield Slipped on Ice and Ruptured Two Blood Vessels.

Former Councilman Walter L. Hetfield received word, yesterday, from his son, Herbert Hetfield, who is in Worcester, Mass., that he is just recovering from the effects of a severe accident sustained some time ago. He was stepping down a porch step when he slipped on the ice, causing a rupture of two blood vessels in the head. He was in a precarious condition for a short time and is still confined to his bed.

Plans for Christmas Dinner.

A meeting to discuss the matter of providing a Christmas dinner for over fifty poor boys of this city will be held Saturday afternoon, at the Y. M. C. A., by the Woman's Auxiliary Society of that institution. It is planned to give an entertainment to the boys after the dinner and thus make Christmas a joyous occasion to many youngsters in this city to whom Christmas exists in name only.

After More Pay.

There is a movement in this city at present to form a horseshoers' union, the object of organizing being to increase the wages of floormen to $3.50 and the firemen to $4 per day. The master horseshoers already have a protective association and the journeymen are now anxious to organize.

of Aldermen demanded that Mr. Bradley surrender the beach, together with several parks and his interests in the three lakes to the city. The aldermen went a step further and were about to bring suit in ejectment, when Mr. Bradley anticipated them by bringing a suit in chancery to determine the ownership of the beach and parks in dispute. This move, of course, blocked the aldermen, but Mr. Bradley agreed to keep the promise made years ago the sell the shore front to the city for $150,000, and for good measure would throw in his sewer system, valued at $75,000; Atlantic Square, worth $75,000 more; Library Square, which would be cheap at $75,000; and two other plots used as breathing spots, valued at $30,000 more. The beach property alone, with the board walk, pavilions, fishing pier, bathhouses and machinery, is regarded as worth $500,000, so to the city has been offered nearly $1,000,000 worth of holdings for the sum of $150,000.

Soon after this latest liberal offer was made the taxpayers held a mass meeting, and were unanimous in declaring that the aldermen should abandon their proposed suit in ejectment and accept the "Founder's" proposition. This the aldermen decided to do, but they insisted that Mr. Bradley also relinquish his rights in the lakes and the little parks surrounding them.

The city, as soon as it comes in possession of the shore front, will spend $250,000 in improvements. These will include a board walk of modern design, three-quarters of a mile long and fifty feet wide; a casino, music stand and pavillions, new bathing houses, and, in fact, everything necessary to make the beach front the finest in the world. Then, with municipal ownership of the beach will come several modern shore front hotels and a spring and winter as well as summer season.

Evidence to prove Mr. Bradley's earnestness in the beach transfer scheme came when he tendered to the aldermen his resignation as mayor of the city. This was done to meet legal difficulties, which would prevent him, as the city's executive, from selling his property to the city.

Mr. Bradley is expected to continue to take an interest in the city he built, for even with his beach gone he will still be the largest property owner in the resort. He owns the dozen or more vacant blocks adjacent to the board walk, as well as numerous properties in North Asbury Park, and acres of desirable land in West Asbury Park. He also holds title to most of the beach front in Bradley Beach, a thriving resort two miles south of that place, and which was named in his honor.

It is Easy to Say

"Be careful," but we must all go from heated houses into chill outer air, and the change sets us coughing and wheezing. Avoiding winter colds is difficult; curing them is not hard if you take Allen's Lung Balsam. Better begin when the cold is young and not wait until it settles deep into the lungs, for then, even with Allen's Lung Balsam, complete relief will be slower.

PATHETIC RECITALS

Tales of Eviction and Suffering Told the Commission.

STRONG CASE AGAINST MARKLE & CO.

As Yet No Refutations Have Been Presented by Independent Companies—Witnesses Tell Further Stories of Blacklisting.

SCRANTON, Pa., Dec. 10.—Tales of evictions from houses owned by G. B. Markle & Co., the narration of the death of a wife as a result of an enforced removal from her home and the story of a mother whose husband was killed in the Markle mines, of how she and her two boys struggled years to pay the Markles the back rent and coal bill she owed them, were the principal features of yesterday's sessions of the coal strike commission. The testimony as presented by some of the witnesses whose lives are given up to the coal mining industry was at times pathetic and surprising to the commissioners, who listened to it with undivided attention.

The miners concluded the calling of witnesses against the Markle company, which concern and other conditions surrounding it have been prominently before the commissioners since last Saturday. In the absence of Samuel Dickson of Philadelphia and George R. Bedford of Wilkesbarre, attorneys for the Markle company, who are reported to be unavoidably absent, only a perfunctory cross examination has been carried on by J. H. Torrey of Scranton, who is representing another company before the commission and who had been asked to take care of the interests of G. B. Markle & Co. as best he could. There has been considerable surprise expressed that the company has not made greater efforts to refute some of the seemingly damaging testimony that has been presented. It is expected, however, that the company will do so later.

After closing the Markle case the representatives of the miners called witnesses who had formerly been employed in the mines of several companies to show that a blacklist exists and that some of the companies had broken the agreement which ended the strike and resulted in the appointment of the arbitration commission.

One of the ten witnesses, who was employed by the Delaware and Hudson company, admitted that there were too many men at work at the colliery where he asked for reinstatement, but thought the company should have given him work because he had been in their employ for fifteen years and always did everything asked of him. He also said he found no complaint with the rate of wages paid by the company.

Speaker Nixon Ill.

JAMESTOWN, N. Y., Dec. 10.—Speaker S. Fred Nixon is ill at his home in Westfield. He has had an attack of heart trouble, to which he is subject. Mr. Nixon has not been well for several weeks. Early in October he was confined to his bed for a week, but had grown better again and was in Albany most of last week, returning home Friday morning in a much weakened condition. Saturday he was confined to his bed and since then has not been permitted to receive callers. His physicians say that with absolute quiet for the present he will recover his strength. His condition has been brought on by overwork, and rest is necessary.

A Road to the Gold Camp.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Colo., Dec. 10.—Deeds conveying right of way to the Cripple Creek and Pueblo Railroad company have been filed here, and simultaneously articles of incorporation were also placed on file. The purpose of the company is to construct a thirty-three mile railroad, connecting the gold camp with Pueblo. The road will be constructed in the district through a system of underground tunnels, and the motive power used in the tunnels will be either electricity or compressed air.

Returned to Take Punishment.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—After five years passed in fear and repentance John F. Short, thirty-two years old, has surrendered himself to the police of the Butler street station, Brooklyn, and asked to be committed to the Kings county penitentiary. Short told Sergeant Allan that he embezzled $7,000 in 1897 and fled to California. He returned to this city several years later and transferred to the man from whom he embezzled the money a house in Henry street, Brooklyn.

Boys' Quarrel May End Fatally.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Dec. 10.—Edward Rodenmacher, fourteen years old, lies at his home in a critical condition as the result of a fight with John Sauter, aged nineteen. A DINNER TO HARLAN

Supreme Court Justice on the Bench Twenty-five Years.

SPEECH BY PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT

Brilliant Assemblage Attends the Function—Three Sons and Daughter of the Kentucky Jurist Grace the Occasion.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—The dinner by the bar of the supreme court of the United States at the New Willard hotel to Mr. Justice John Marshall Harlan in recognition of the completion of twenty-five years of service on the bench of the supreme court was a brilliant function. The banquet hall was handsomely illuminated and the tables elaborately decorated with palms, American Beauty roses and laurel.

In the absence of Attorney General Knox Mr. Wayne MacVeagh presided. When the guests had been seated, grace was said by the Rev. Richard D. Harlan of Lake Falls, Ill., the eldest son of the justice, who had come to Washington especially for the occasion. Justice Harlan was in his happiest mood and gave every evidence of his appreciation of the honor bestowed on him. His two other sons, James S. Harlan, chief justice of Porto Rico, and John Maynard Harlan of Chicago, were also present, while Mrs. and Miss Harlan and a host of friends were interested spectators in the gallery. A hidden orchestra played popular airs throughout the evening.

Interest in the banquet outside of Justice Harlan centered in President Roosevelt. His arrival shortly after 9:30 o'clock was the signal for a great outburst of applause. The president warmly congratulated Justice Harlan, grasping him by both hands before taking his seat. Those at the banquet included members of the cabinet, several senators and representatives, members of the supreme court of the United States, of the court of claims and of the local courts and quite a number of eminent lawyers from outside the city.

When the time for speechmaking arrived, Wayne MacVeagh in a few appropriate remarks introduced the president, who spoke as follows:

"It is a peculiar privilege to be here tonight as one of those gathered to do homage to a career which has honored America. It is difficult to say certain of the truths which most need be said without being guilty of truisms in saying them. It is not an idle boast of this country when we speak of the court upon which Mr. Justice Harlan sits as the most illustrious and important in all the civilized world. It is not merely our own people who say that. It is the verdict of other nations as well.

"Mr. Justice Harlan has served for a quarter of a century on that court. During that time he has exercised an influence over the judicial statesmanship of the country of a kind such as is possible only under our form of government, for the judges of the supreme court of the land must be not only great jurists, but they must be great constructive statesmen, and the truth of what I say is illustrated by every study of American statesmanship, for in not one serious study of American political life will it be possible to omit the immense part played by the supreme court in the creation, not merely the modification, of the great policies through and by means of which the country has moved on to her present position.

"Thrice fortunate is the court when it has as one of its members a man who has played a great part in other spheres of our composite life. Mr. Justice Harlan came from Kentucky, a state in which the patriotism of the people was put to so peculiarly a severe test in the civil war. In the states of the farther north it was easy for the man to make up his mind on which side he would unsheath his sword. In the states of the farther south it was equally easy. In Kentucky the task was a difficult one.

"In any audience in any state of the Union, take it as far north as you wish, I can appeal with confidence to the people I address when I say that next to the homage we pay to the men who proved the truth of their endeavor as they battled in the blue uniform is the homage we pay to the men who with equal energy fought in the gray."

As the president took his seat Mr. MacVeagh introduced Justice Harlan. The cheering was so prolonged that it was some time before the justice could speak.

Senator Hoar was the next speaker. Other speakers of the evening were Chief Justice Fuller, Justice Brewer, Hon. Edward Blake of Canada, Judge Alexander P. Humphrey of Kentucky, Assistant Attorney General Beck and Mr. R. Ross Perry of the District of Columbia. It was after midnight when the party broke up.

INTENSE COLD WAVE

Suffering In Many Places Because of Scarcity of Fuel.

NEW YORK'S POOR IN GREAT NEED.

Unprecedented and Sudden Fall in Temperature Throughout New York and New England Finds the People Without Coal.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—New York and New England are emerging from an experience of the coldest weather of many years. In this city yesterday was the coldest Dec. 9 in twenty-six years, the thermometer registering, as it did in that year, 8 degrees above zero. The severity of the cold was intensified by the fact that the people were not prepared for it, the cold wave having descended upon the country suddenly and without warning. Then, too, the scarcity of coal caused much suffering among the poorer classes, and even those able to afford the luxury of a ton of anthracite had to use it sparingly for fear that the cold snap would last and they would be unable to get a fresh supply. Every effort is being put forth to alleviate the suffering, charitable organizations having taken steps to supply the poor and the board of aldermen having voted $100,000 to help along the good cause. During the day the rivers were covered with a heavy mist, showing the great difference between the temperature of the air and the water.

Commander Booth Tucker of the Salvation Army says:

"The situation of the poor people of this city as regards the fuel famine is a real calamity, the full importance of which I do not believe is appreciated. The Salvation Army has nearly 10,000 persons in this city appealing to it for coal. These people are actually suffering. Up to the present cold snap we were able to supply about twenty-five tons of coal in peck and bushel lots to the suffering. Now we are not able to buy a ton, and the coal companies say they are giving us precedence. We are thinking of distributing oil saturated bricks to the poor. I understand that these can be used in ordinary stoves. If substantial relief does not come soon, I dread to think of the disaster that will follow."

The cold in the city was mild compared with that prevailing in the northern sections of the state and in New England. At Albany the mercury fell to 10 degrees below zero, and in the nearby districts it went down to 18 degrees. The river is frozen over at Albany, putting an end to navigation. Ballston reported 32 degrees below, the lowest registration since 1861, and Saratoga felt the grasp of weather 30 degrees below. In the Adirondack region and along the Champlain valley the thermometer registered between 17 and 26 degrees below.

The situation at Schenectady was made more serious by the scarcity of coal, many families having to face 22 degrees below zero weather without coal to heat their homes. Navigation on the upper Hudson has closed, steamers which had not reached winter quarters having to be towed out of the ice.

The cold wave struck New England at the same time it arrived in New York. Throughout Maine and Connecticut the thermometer registered from 8 to 20 degrees below, a fall in some places of 40 degrees in twelve hours. Norfolk, Conn., reported a temperature of 23 degrees below zero, the coldest in years.

Mayor of Havana Suspendedd.

HAVANA, Dec. 10.—Emilio Nunez, civil governor of Havana, has suspended the mayor of Havana, Senor O'Farrill, pending investigation by the court of a charge of usurpation of power which has been brought against him. This charge is an outgrowth of the recent strike, in which the mayor figured prominently. It was expected that Senor O'Farrill would resign when former Secretary of Government Tamayo gave up his portfolio and when Chief of Police Cardenas was reinstated in office.

Vermont to Have Local Option.

MONTPELIER, Vt., Dec. 10.—Every amendment made by the senate to the local option license bill has been agreed to by the house of representatives, and Governor McCullough will now receive the bill. It is expected that he will sign it. Among the amendments is one providing that license fees shall be divided equally between the state and the town voting license. The bill will become operative provided the referendum on the second Tuesday in February is in favor of local option high license.

County Officials In Jail.

FORSYTH, Mont., Dec. 10.—As a result of further defiance to the orders of Justice of the Peace Roderick McRae the entire board of county commissioners, together with the clerk, for the second time have been thrown into jail for twenty-four hours and fined $50 each. The trouble followed the institution of election contests to oust the candidates who were elected, it is alleged, through the colonization of voters in Rosebud county.

Must Swear Again After Marriage.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—The postmaster general has issued an order amending the postal regulations by requiring that "whenever any woman employed in the postal service either as postmaster or unclassified clerk marries she must take the oath of office anew."

Earthquake In Ecuador.

ASBURY PARK'S FUTURE.

As more Plainfielders annually visit Asbury Park than all the other seaside resorts combined, it is but natural that the people of this city should be particularly interested in the great changes that are soon to be made at that resort. The ownership of the beach, which has been so long held by "Founder James A. Bradley, is to pass into the hands of the city and the boardwalk with its adjacent pavillions is to be rebuilt according to the most improved lines. The change in ownership also promises to carry with it other changes to the city.

Although Mr. Bradley's plan of running Asbury Park has been greatly ridiculed in the past, it has demonstrated its success. That is the only resort in this section of the State which has so many all-day excursions, conducted by various Sunday-schools and fraternal orders, visit it during the season. Each year there are a dozen or more excursions which go out of Plainfield and carry with them thousands of visitors to the shore. Then there are hundreds from this city who go to Asbury Park for longer periods of time. Even with the old-fashioned wooden boardwalk and lack of modern facilities, the shore resort has prospered and the summer visitors seem glad to return year after year.

No one cannot but help wondering what will be the result of these changes which will undoubtedly come with the new year. If the plans now under contemplation are carried out, the place cannot help but be far more attractive than it is at present. That ought to mean such a boom for the Park as was never seen before. Unless new and objectable features are introduced, as does not seem likely, the old patrons of Asbury Park will find that it combines all the good things which made it attractive in the past besides being placed on a more modern and up-to-date plane.

Whatever course is now pursued by the city of Asbury Park will be watched with deep interest by this city. If the same type of resort is maintained, it cannot be doubted that the coming year will see a greater proportion of Plainfielders than ever before headed in the direction of Asbury.

An experienced real estate dealer affirms, according the Philadelphia Record, that newspaper advertising has increased transactions in that line enormously; that through such advertising in every community thousands of people have been induced to become savers in order to invest in real estate. "The material and moral welfare of the entire body of citizens have been advanced through the influence of real estate advertisements in the daily newspapers," he says.

We are glad to greet the initial number of the Plainfield High School Oracle, which was given to the public yesterday. It is a neat, well edited publication which compares very favorably with the best High School papers published throughout the east. If the high standing of the first number can be maintained as the Oracle grows older, it will remain a credit to the institution from which it comes.

Reports from all the different State officials are being presented to Governor Murphy and summarize in complete form the work that is being done along all lines by the State departments. Many of the reports make recommendations which will probably be considered by Governor Murphy in his annual message to the Legislature.

If householders who neglected to have the snow removed from their sidewalks immediately at the close of Sunday's storm would now expend a little effort and distribute some fine ashes over the icy surface remaining, there would be better and much more accurate walking in that neighborhood.

The annual report of the State Sewerage Commission has been sent to Governor Murphy. Included in it is reference to the improvements to the Plainfield disposal plant which are pronounced a success.

While the football enthusiasts had planned to continue their favorite sport well into December, the weather took a hand and put a sudden but very effective quietus upon their plans.

Edward Koechlien, of Somerset street, was the guest of Miss Lola C. Wohleben, of Jersey City, Monday, when a party was given in his honor.

Mr. and Mrs. William Charles and daughter, Miss Gertrude Charles, of Brooklyn, have been visiting their cousin, Mrs. Benjamin A. Moore, of East Second street.

Mrs. William Demarest, of Stone street, who has been very ill with pneumonia, is now convalescing. Her physician believes that she has passed the crisis and hopes for an early recovery.

LITERARY.

To do justice to the thirteenth anniversary number of The Delineator, which for beauty and utility touches the highest mark, it would be necessary to print the entire list of contents. It is sufficient to state that in it the best modern writers and artists are generously represented. The book contains over 230 pages, with 34 full page illustrations, of which 20 are in two or more colors. The magnitude of this December number, for which 728 tons of paper and six tons of ink have been used, may be understood from the fact that 91 presses running 14 hours a day have been required to print it; the binding alone of the edition of 915,000 copies representing over 20,000,000 sections which had to be gathered individually by human hands.

Tonight's Speaker.

Rev. Eli F. Loofboro, pastor of the New York Seventh-Day Baptist church, will address the regular monthly business meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, in this city, this evening at 7:45. Monthly reports will be read at this time and a full attendance is desired.

An enjoyable meeting of the Dunellen Literary Circle was held last evening at the home of Rev. and Mrs. S. K. Doolittle, when the course in reading on American history was pursued. At roll-call last evening the members answered to their names with conundrums. Papers were then read on "Events Leading to the Revolution," by Miss Ritie Brokaw; "Samuel Adams," by Mrs. S. T. Titsworth; "John Hancock," by Harry Boice. Lester Meserole read some of the best extracts from Patrick Henry. At the meeting the members were supposed to wear something to represent famous Revolutionary heroes. Some of the devices were quite ingenious. Refreshments were served before the close.

Dr. Brakeley and Cornelius Taylor were in Flemington yesterday as witnesses on the case of Vail against the Middlesex and Somerset Traction Company for injuries sustained by being thrown from a car. It is the general opinion that the case will be thrown out of court today.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The perspiration standing on the brows of the local blacksmiths these days is not a sign of warm weather, but of hard work in sharpening and nailing shoes on the hoofs of the horse. The misbehavior of one of Mr. Hough's horses yesterday made it very difficult for T. C. Laing to shoe him. With the aid of the owner in holding up the unruly animal the job was nevertheless quickly and well done.

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

The New York Bargain store, on West Front street, has received a fine line of men's furnishing goods for the holiday trade and also a full assortment of winter clothing for men and boys.

The Gayle Hardware Company is offering an excellent line of all kinds of stoves from the smallest to the largest size. They are all guaranteed to be first-class and are reasonable in price.

In making your selections of Christmas gifts call on J. Hervey Doane, the Park avenue jeweler. His stock is large and very attractive and consists of the latest in the best quality of jewelry.

A fine display of holiday goods and toys are to be found this year at the store of I. H. Boehm on West Front street, where a choice line of fine dress goods, flannel waists, and fur jackets, are always on hand.

Before giving out your contract for painting or paper-hanging, consult Charles Conover & Company, of Elmwood place. This firm does only the very best work and it charges only what is fair for this kind. The telephone number is 226 A.

This snappy cold weather demands good warm clothing and there is no better place to find this kind than at Weinberger's clothing store on West Front street. He has a large stock of men's and boys' suits, overcoats, etc., of the right styles and prices.

Rubber and heavy shoe weather is once more at hand. Without these necessary adjuncts to winter season footgear coughs and colds are apt to be frequent. VanArsdale has the shoes, he has the rubbers and he has anything in the cold weather footwear line.

If the Thanksgiving turkey came from Endress's market, of course it was all right. Just so if the roast for Sunday's dinner comes from the same place, you can surmise that it will be all right. That's because Endress keeps nothing and sells nothing but the best.

Just at this time of the year when every one's thoughts are of Christmas and presents for loved ones, a trip to Hodge's pharmacy in the Y. M. C. A. building may help out wonderfully. He has a splendid line of fancy and toilet articles in endless variety. Now is the time to place your holiday order for Belle Meade sweets.

THE NAVAL MANEUVERS.

Admiral Sumner's White Squadron Wins a Victory.

MAYAGUEZ, Porto Rico, Dec. 10.—A notable victory has been achieved by Admiral Sumner, in command of the white squadron, with the Iowa, Illinois, Albany and the Chicago.

He captured Mayaguez without resistance at 6:00 yesterday morning and immediately entered the harbor. The Nashville and the Eagle subsequently entered the channel and reported that the Atlanta and the San Francisco had last been seen off Ponce and that they had perhaps been overtaken.

Admiral Sumner's victory was due to the careful execution of his plans. At Trinidad he directed the white squadron to proceed to a point within a circle with a radius of 720 miles, the center of which was latitude 15 and longitude 45. The white squadron was reported to Admiral Higginson, commanding the blue, or opposing, squadron, at 6 o'clock on the afternoon of Dec. 5. Admiral Sumner's objective was Mayaguez, Guayanilla, Ponce, Ensenada or Culebra.

Under the rules the white squadron would win if it entered the port selected and worked for one hour laying mines before the arrival of a blue squadron 50 per cent superior or if it entered its harbor and completed the work of mining before the arrival of a blue squadron double its strength. The white squadron would lose if it was intercepted by a superior force at sea or within one hour after having anchored in the port selected.

The officers of the blue squadron cannot understand the failure of their scouts to discover the slow moving division of the white squadron, which passed through a line of scouts reaching from Porto Rico to Trinidad and along the coast of Porto Rico.

The problem is held to be a further demonstration of the need of exercise in scouting and of a greater navy in view of the proved inability of a fleet equal to that commanded by Admiral Sampson in the Spanish-American war to prevent the seizure of one of five ports within an area of 170 miles.

Admiral Crowninshield says that after having steamed 6,000 miles it is gratifying to find his vessels in condition to win a signal victory.

Taft May Succeed Shiras.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—The prospective retirement of Justice Shiras from the supreme court, which was announced by his son some time ago would take place at no very distant date, it is believed here, may result in the promotion to the supreme bench of William H. Taft, the chairman of the Philippine commission. Governor Taft's elevation to that court would be in fulfillment of the general understanding that he ultimately would be appointed to that court, which existed at the time he resigned from the federal circuit bench in Ohio and took up his present duties at the request of President McKinley. It always will be in the nature of a reward for his long and arduous work at the head of the Philippine commission. Should Governor Taft retire the expectation is that his successor as chairman of the commission will be General Luke E. Wright of Tennessee, now vice chairman of the commission.

Report on Tunnel Franchise.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—At a meeting of the board of aldermen a majority report of the railroad committee in favor of the passage of the Pennsylvania railroad tunnel franchise was received, debated for a short time and then laid over until next Tuesday, for which day it was made a special order. This action was taken, it is said, in order to give the minority of the railroad committee a chance to make a report. At the same meeting a letter from Mayor Low urging the passage of the franchise was read and ordered spread upon the minutes of the board.

Colonel Phelps Dead In Charleston.

CHARLESTON, S. C., Dec. 10.—A special from Aiken, S. C., says: "Colonel Sheffield Phelps is dead here, and his remains will be taken to his home in New Jersey for interment. He was a son of the late William Walter Phelps and at one time editor of the Jersey City Journal. A few years ago he built a winter cottage here and has spent each season here since. He was the owner of a game preserve of 2,000 acres."

Boy Murderer's Sentence Commuted.

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 10.—An order in council has been passed at a cabinet meeting commuting the death sentence passed on Frank Higgins, the boy murderer of St. John, N. B., to imprisonment for life. Higgins, who is sixteen years old, killed Willie Doherty, a chum.

Death For China's Murderers.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Dec. 10.—Claude O'Brien has been given the death penalty for the murder of A. B. Chinn, a prominent merchant, here last October. His accomplice, Earl Whitney, suffered a similar fate last week. They killed Chinn while burglarizing his home.

Gowns of Tweed and Hopsacking. Short Haired Furs.

The smart gowns of cloth, hopsack and tweed are arranged with fine tuckings, which have the effect of cords, and strappings of silk or material. The strappings are much wider than of yore, and braiding is also employed, especially in scrolls and detached ornaments over the straps. The plaited skirts are generally quite plain or merely ornamented with rows of stitching.

Short haired furs are combined with woolen materials for gowns, and a sack bolero of fur quite short and loose will have a tweed or cloth skirt trimmed with the same fur. Furs of the astrakhan and caracal type are also imitated in wool, and this kind of cloth is very effective when made up with plain cloth of contrasting coloring.

The circular flounces have ceased to be so much the style, and tailors are substituting the skirts tucked in clusters to allow plenty of fullness at the bottom.

The broadcloth suit here shown has one of the latest skirts. The jacket is equally simple and effective.

COLORS THAT ARE WORN.

Flame Tints—Daring Combinations of Bright Shades.

The new flame color is very effective when worn by the right woman, but some of the varieties of this color and of green, too, are horrible when worn by all sorts and conditions of people. This is the worst of a popular craze or a new shade.

Colors are growing stronger, and this we owe to eastern art and the craze for everything Japanese.

Never attempt daring color combinations in cheap materials. Bright shades in cheap materials are invariably crude and lose all the richness of light and shade. Different tones of black blended together are very effective. Panne is of course the order of the day, as its glory can be toned down by somber black chiffon, lightened again perhaps by a curious kind of gauze. The touches of jet seen on so many smart black gowns aid in relieving the somberness.

At least one black gown is indispensable to every woman, be she wealthy or in modest circumstances.

The black taffeta blouse has a tucked yoke and undersleeves of black mousseline de soie, and there are, in addition, touches of black chantilly lace.

THE KIDNAPPED MILLIONAIRES

A TALE OF WALL STREET AND THE TROPICS

That the panic was beyond control was apparent long before the Stock Exchange opened Wednesday morning. The governors met and solemnly discussed the advisability of closing the Stock Exchange until some light was thrown on the mystery. They dreaded to take this step, but the situation was unprecedented. In ordinary emergencies the banks, trust companies, life insurance companies and other representatives of capital had been able to meet and adopt a plan to protect the market and thus avert a panic disastrous to all interests. But the great heads of the money power had vanished. The smaller lights who remained were in a state of physical as well as financial panic. Each imagined himself the next victim. Special policemen guarded all the offices, and every visitor was scrutinized as a possible kidnapper. Hundreds of extra police officers were thrown into the financial district. All suspicious characters were arrested. Crowds were not permitted to assemble and a condition approaching marital law prevailed.

The governors of the Stock Exchange finally decided to open the session as usual, reserving the power to suspend business if conditions warranted such procedure. The market opened from two to five points below the close of the previous day. Several failures were announced. Street & Rogers bought about 300,000 shares of stock in the first hour and then stopped. With their support withdrawn the panic increased. There were rumors that Street & Rogers were heavily "long" and on the point of suspending. This the firm emphatically denied, and stated that they could stand a further drop of 25 points. On a call for margins they promptly furnished them.

With the panic at its height the governors met to take action. A motion was made to suspend business on the exchange. As a member arose to discuss this proposition, a messenger entered and handed the president a letter. It read as follows:

Mr. M. L. Morton, New York City:

Dear Sir: This is to inform you that I am alive and well. I shall be obliged to remain away from the city for a short time, possibly several weeks. You and my relatives and friends need not have the slightest fear for the safe return of myself and the gentlemen who are keeping me company. I remain, very truly yours, PALMER J. MORTON.

May 2.

The letter was in Mr. Morton's handwriting and had been positively identified as genuine by his private secretary and by the oldest clerks in his office. These facts were hurriedly explained to the president of the board of governors, who adjourned the meeting and sounded the gong for attention on the floor of the exchange. At that moment pandemonium reigned. A score of trading houses had failed, and others were on the point of suspension. Banks were calling loans. Money was quoted at 200 per cent. on call loans, with gilt-edged stock as security. Sugar was hovering around par, a drop of more than 60 points in less than 48 hours. The nerve-racked brokers expected the announcement of yet more disastrous news, and listened stolidly as the chairman waved his hand for quiet, cleared his voice, and began his reading. No one heard more than the close of the first sentence: "I am alive and well." The joyous voice of the gray-bearded old chairman told them that the message was from Palmer J. Morton. What a shout went up! It was re-echoed by the vast mob which defied the police and swarmed into Broad and Wall streets. The enthusiastic clerks and customers cheered from every window.

The panic was ended. Prices moved violently upward. In half an hour the face of the market was changed. In the whirl of speculative joy some stocks passed the high figures which had been reached at the opening on Monday morning. But while the agony of suspense was passed, and it was known that the missing men were safe, the case was yet shrouded in a mystery deep as ever. At the close of the day the market stood on a plane which averaged about ten points below the level established before the leaders of finance and speculation had vanished. It was noticed that Street & Rogers were persistent buyers from the moment the first news of the Morton letter was made public. Their sales were so small as to show that they represented but profit taking for regular customers, and not the immense holdings of "long" stock which had been absorbed during the height of the panic. Their profits were roughly estimated at $35,000,000.

The welcome letter was addressed to Mr. M. L. Morton, a brother of the great financier. It was in a plain white envelope and written on ordinary letter paper, with a single fold. The postmark on the letter was indistinct, but when put under a glass the inscription clearly read, "Provincetown, Mass." The letter had been mailed at nine o'clock at night, and left the Cape Cod town on a late train. With slow connections the letter reached New York in time for the 10:45 a. m. delivery.

Here was a clew worth following. A special train with the best detective talent in New York was prepared and dispatched to Provincetown. But the developments which speedily followed, deepened the mystery and puzzled the cool-headed chief of the detective force. Between four and five o'clock the same afternoon letters were received by relatives of John M. Rockwell and Andrus Carmody. These letters were at once placed in the hands of the detectives and not made public. This was in compliance with instructions which had been issued by the chief. The Rockwell letter was postmarked "Springfield, Massachusetts." The Carmody letter was mailed from a Harlem district in New York city.

Early the following morning—Thursday—a letter from Albany, N. Y., was received from R. J. Kent, and another was mailed to the Simon Pence residence from Brooklyn. Mr. Hiram Haven was as yet unaccounted for, but late in the afternoon word was received from him from Philadelphia. These letters were of a purport similar to the Morton letter. They were written on several kinds of paper, and there was no uniformity in envelopes. The Pence letter was written with a lead pencil.

The detectives descended on the peaceful citizens of Provincetown; which sand-girt village of Cape Cod found itself of a sudden possessed of the center of the stage. Probably no town in America affords less opportunities for secretiveness than Provincetown. There is but one street in the village—a narrow, winding lane which follows the sinuosity of the harbor.

But the detectives were not dismayed. There were hundreds of fishing boats at their deep-sea toil, and their skippers were interviewed. So were the trainmen and conductors. The latter were positive that no man answering Mr. Morton's description had traveled over the single road which runs up Cape Cod peninsula. Two detectives were left at Provincetown to continue the search for clews, and the others received telegraphic instructions to proceed to Springfield, Mass., and Albany, N. Y.

On Friday the New York papers contained brief accounts of the disappearance of one L. Sylvester Vincent, a Chicago gentleman, who followed the profession of promoting enterprises and inventions. Mr. Vincent had been stopping at the Broadway Central hotel. He was described as a gentleman of impressive bearing and rare charms of conversation. Mr. Vincent had registered in the hotel two weeks before the time when his absence was noted. His hotel bill was due, and repeated efforts to present this little matter to Mr. Vincent's attention disclosed the fact that he had not been in his rooms since Monday night. An examination of his effects revealed a much frayed evening suit, a small collection of unwashed linen, the prospectus of a plan for a ship canal connecting Pittsburg with Lake Erie, and a pocket dictionary.

In the light of much greater events the fate of L. Sylvester Vincent made so feeble a flicker that it was unnoticed by the great reading public.

Color and Nerves.

Experiments on the nervous system show, according to a foreign physician, that the red end of the spectrum is exciting to the nerves, while violet, blue and green are calming. Every sufferer from nerves knows that a gloomy day affects him unfavorably, while the first ray of sunshine makes him gay again. It has been suggested that the green of vegetation, the blue of the sky and the blue-green of the ocean may thus have a powerful influence in calming the spirits. The authority referred to above, however, cautions his readers against the adoption of too sweeping conclusions.—Family Doctor.

Boiled Stuffed Chicken.

Boil till about half cooked enough onions to fill the chickens to be cooked, and drain; mash them a little, moisten with milk, season with salt and white pepper, add a chopped celery stalk or two to them. Fill the chickens, truss them, and boil till tender. Let the water in which they boil cook away slowly till only a half pint or so remains. Add to this half a pint of rich cream, season as needed with pepper and salt, thicken and serve.—The Epicure.

Worse Still.

Mrs. Housekeep—John, you really must have the landlord come and see for himself if the damage the rain did to our ceiling.

Mr. Housekeep—I can't, without letting him see the damage the children have done to the rest of the house.—Philadelphia Press.

Many local merchants are complaining that there is a delay in receiving their shipment of holiday goods. This is no doubt due to the great amount of business being done by the railroads.

SOCIAL AT COLLEGE.

Students of the Plainfield Business College and Their Friends Were Pleasantly Entertained.

A pleasant social and entertainment was given last evening under the auspices of the Plainfield Business College for the students and a few of their friends. Nearly all of the students were present and everyone had a jolly time. A feature of the entertainment was the harmonica solos by Cortland P. Adams, accompanied on the piano by Willam Kenyon. There were also recitations by Miss Jahn and Miss Myer, of Scotch Plains, and Miss Alway, of Brooklyn, all being students at the college.

A unique feature was the distribution of pictures cut in many parts. The idea was to have the students match these parts and thus select a partner with whom to enjoy refreshments. There was no end of fun in matching the pictures and it assisted much in promoting sociability. During the rest of the evening the time was spent in playing all kinds of games.

The young folks enjoyed the refreshments and the social features of the affair, which were under the direction of Miss Phelps, of the college.

ONE MORE ROAD.

Another Request for a Good Road Made to the Somerset County Board of Freeholders.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Dec. 10—The Somerset County Board of Freeholders had an easy time of it at its regular meeting in the Court House yesterday.

Jacob G. Drake, of South Branch, appeared with a petition asking for the improvement of a stone road under the State Aid act, in Hillsborough township. This road runs from Flaggtown Station north, intersecting the South Branch and Somerville road and runs easterly to the stone road built by James B. Duke, the tobacco millionaire. On motion this petition was placed on file.

The board then adjourned, after deciding to meet at the bridge at Erner's Grove, near Chimney Rock, on Saturday, December 13.

ATTEMPT TO REFORM.

Wayward Young Girl Placed in the House of the Good Shepherd.

Through the efforts of City Judge Runyon and Chief Kiely, Minnie Barry, the young girl whose depravity startled even the staid police court, was committed yesterday to the House of the Good Shepherd at Newark. She will be detained at the institution until she shows a disposition to mend her ways. The girl, who comes of a good family and has a wealthy relative in Brooklyn, has spurned all efforts made by friends to reclaim her and has been living with colored families in the West End. She was taken from the home of one of them, last Sunday, helplessly intoxicated.

High Pressure.

Amos Andrews, superintendent of the Plainfield Water Supply Company, went to the Pederick Ayer & Co. plant on West Front street, this morning, to test a water main which was recently laid at that point. To his astonishment he discovered the water pressure to be seventy-two pounds. This is considered to be very high for that part of the city.

—Mr. and Mrs. Randolph Marsh, Jr., who have been boarding at the home of the groom's parents on Plainfield avenue, have gone to housekeeping at 968 West Fifth street.

NOT PERFECTLY SAFE.

Although There Are Many Enjoying the Skating on Local Ponds.

The cold weather of the past few days has frozen over some of the skating ponds in this vicinity and yesterday afternoon skating was enjoyed by the young people. The ponds while frozen over are not absolutely safe as much of the ice is frozen over layers of snow, especially on Tiers' pond. The skating on all of the ponds is not good, the ice being rough and snowy. At the Park Club there is excellent coasting and all day long the small boys and some of their elder brothers and sisters enjoy the sport.

HOPE TAKES STAND.

Will Not Permit Physical Director Heywood, of Y. M. C. A., to Officiate at Any League Game.

Another phase in the local basket ball league trouble developed last evening at a special meeting of the Hope Y. M. A. With one vote against it, a motion was passed to the effect that the association team should not take part in any game in which C. E. A. Heywood, physical director of the Y. M. C. A., was to act as referee or umpire. The team deplored that such a course should be deemed necessary but the members agreed to abide by the decision of the larger body.

Other business transacted at the meeting was the discussion of a course of night study in mechanical engineering. If sufficient members can be secured for a class the matter will be undertaken. Three applications for membership were received.

DR. HONEYMAN IS INTERVIEWED

Secretary of Borough Board of Health Talks on the Question of Sewage Disposal.

THE MAYOR'S PLANS

Discussion of Methods of Disposal of Contents of Cesspools—Mayor and Dr. Honeyman Do Not Agree—Mr. Honeyman Favors a Sewer to Tide Water.

The action taken by the Borough Board of Health at the meeting held at the home of Dr. Honeyman, last week, when it was inferred in a set of resolutions, that the sewer system in this city was almost useless as the water which was supposed to have been emptied into Green brook in a purified condition was actually making the brook dangerous to the public health of the community; has raised something of a storm in both North Plainfield and in this city.

Just before his departure for the west, Mayor Newton B. Smalley was asked by a reporter what he thought of the resolutions adopted by the Board of Health when he said:

"They had better go out of business if all they have to do is to attack Plainfield's sewage plant. As reformers the whole crew are on a par with the reform administration in New York. They don't know what they do want."

Upon the invitation of the Mayor the reporter was driven to what the former calls the "sewage disposal plant" of the borough, which was located on the Maher property on Belmont avenue, near Mountain avenue, not far from Green brook.

"There you are," said the Mayor, "that refuse will flow into the brook when it rains, so you can see where the real pollution of the brook comes from. I don't find fault with their using the fields as a dumping ground but with such a sewage disposal plant they ought not to attack the up-to-date plant of Plainfield."

Street Commissioner A. J. Gavett, who has charge of the sewerage disposal plant of this city, would not make a statement in reply to the action of the Board of Health of the borough and said that he would not dignify the board's action by any reply.

In reply to the statement of the Mayor, Dr. Honeyman, of the North Plainfield Board of Health, said, when seen at his home:

"The dump which Mayor Smalley referred to is not used now as a dump for the contents of cesspools, or even for ashes. That dumping place has not been used by the borough in over a year. The borough now dumps the contents of its cesspools in a field near the estate of the late John Taylor Johnston. The dump referred to by the Mayor has been abandoned for some time excepting by scavengers from Plainfield who sneak over into the borough at night and dump their loads in the Mountain avenue site.

"It is the Borough Council which determines where the contents of cesspools shall be dumped and if I mistake not, and I have it here on the minutes, the permission to dump garbage and the contents of cesspools on the Maher property was granted by Mayor Smalley himself for he took the matter on his own hands and gave permission to dump the refuse there. But some time ago there was a complaint made that the odor was offensive which arose from the dumping ground and since then the borough has abandoned the grounds and has been dumping further toward the mountains."

Mr. Honeyman was asked if the location of the present dump was near any stream which emptied into Green brook and in reply said:

"As far as I know there is no stream within a mile of the present dumping ground and the owner of the property on which the dump is located told me a few days ago that he plowed over the ground on which the refuse is dumped for the purpose of fertilizer."

Asked if there was any danger of the heavy rains washing down from the high lands into the brook, the secretary of the board said that this was an impossibility as the water would have to flow over a mile over sandy soil to the nearest stream. He said that even in cold weather when the ground was frozen there was very little likelihood of the water flowing

SAW A BEAR.

Trolley Car Conductor Declares There's One in Woods Between Metuchen and Perth Amboy.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, Dec. 11—It is said there is a bear somewhere in the woods between Perth Amboy, and Metuchen, just aching to have President Roosevelt or some other hunters come along and shoot at him. It isn't an organ grinder's bear, and it isn't a pet bear, for no one within a radius of twenty miles has reported a pet bear missing.

Conductor Smith, of the Metuchen line of the Raritan Traction Company, saw the bear. It was several days ago. Just as the car approached Bloomfield's woods, the bear came out of the woods and sat up on his haunches, waiting to be seen and recognized as a bear, which Smith did. When the car got too close the bear turned and trotted back into the woods. When Smith got to Perth Amboy he spread the news, and all the rabbit hunters slipped a few buckshot cartridges into their cartridge belts and started out to be ready for anything.

So far no one else has seen the bear, but fully half a hundred Middlesex county nimrods have seen his tracks. Reports differ as to the size of the tracks. Some hunters say they are those of a cub, others declare the bear must be a grizzly the size of a box car.

READY FOR HOCKEY.

Borough High School Boys Will Play Games on Hudson's Pond.

The hockey team of the North Plainfield Athletic Association have secured the use of Hudson's pond for their games this winter. Captain Arthur Humble, of the team, is busy making up a schedule for games for the season. On December 13 the team will play the City High School on Herrmann's pond and on January 17 the return game will be played on Hyde's pond.

There is some talk among the members of the Laurel Club of forming a hockey team for the season. It is said that this club has received permission to use one of the local ponds for its use during the season.

PLAN SUMMER HOTEL AT WATCHUNG SPRING

The Watchung Spring Water Company Expects to Build a $150,000 Hotel There.

A FINE PARK PLANNED

COMPANY NOW OWNS A TRACT OF FORTY-THREE ACRES.

Plans for the Development of the Property in Connection With the Erection of the Hotel—The Plans Have Been Drawn.

Plans have been received by the Watchung Spring Water Company, whose offices are located on North avenue, for a $150,000 hotel which will be erected at Watchung Spring on the road between this city and Scotch Plains. The company has purchased property at the spring which is valued at $15,000, and which consists of about forty-three acres. This property will be made into beautiful park grounds and will be made a modern summer and health resort. The Cole estate, which formerly included the property now owned by the water company, will also be made into a part of the hotel where the offices of the company will be located.

The construction of this hotel has been considered by the members of the Watchung Spring Water Company for some time and there is still some likelihood that the operations on the erection of the structure may be delayed until the spring or perhaps later but the company has decided definitely to build a large summer and winter hotel on the spot which will rival any hostlery of its kind in this State.

The plans, as seen by a Daily Press reporter yesterday afternoon, call for a building 450 feet long and will contain 150 rooms. The dining hall, kitchen and pantries, etc., will be separate from the main building in the rear of the structure and will be connected by a covered arch. This will prevent the odor of cooking from rising to the rooms of the occupants. The main building will stand out from the sides several feet and at each end will be wings running out each side of the building in an oblique direction toward the back. A veranda twenty-five feet wide will surround the house on all sides and at each end of the two wings will be sun parlors entirely enclosed in glass. The interior of the building will be finished in hard wood and the whole effect will be on the plan of a California villa.

The spring from which the water is obtained by the company will be enclosed in a cement wall and over it will be placed a handsome fountain and the brooks and ponds which abound in that part of the mountain will be stocked with mountain trout. Pretty artificial lakes will be built and the whole place will be laid out in a large park. The house on the Maher property which was formerly the Cole's estate will be converted into offices for the use of the company and reception rooms will be added on the main floors. A ball room is also contemplated.

The plans for this hotel have recently been prepared by the company's architect in Newark and are now on exhibition at the offices of the company on North avenue.

Will Fix Limits for Construction of Frame Houses in That Town in the Future.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Dec. 11—At the regular meeting of the Board of Town Commissioners Monday night, the committee on fire apparatus introduced an ordinance relating to the erection and removal of buildings within certain limits. This is framed under an act of the State Legislature, which empowers towns governed by commissioners to prohibit the construction of buildings of wood or other combustible material. After little comment the board accepted this ordinance and it will be adopted at the next meeting.

Chief William D. Quick, of the Somerville fire department, made his semi-annual report. He said the department was more than ever before able to successfully cope with fires. He reported 3,000 feet of hose in good working order and made certain suggestions about minor details in his line.

Very little other business was transacted.

Of Miss Holley an eminent critic says: "Personally she is a petite and graceful little lady gifted with a voice of remarkable volume and much sweetness. A voice of great natural charm and melody, evincing considerable culture and careful training. Her stage presence is easy, unassuming, and entirely pleasing with the result that she and her audience feel quite at home with each other from the moment she makes her initial bow. The volume and compass of her voice surpass all expectation" From the Music Trade Review.

Miss Holly will be heard this evening in the production of "Immanuel" at Y. M. C. A. Hall in Handel's "I Know That My Redeemer Livieth" and Jules Jordon's "O Sacred Head," and other numbers on the programme.

MUST CLEAN WALKS.

Otherwise the City Will Do the Work at the Owner's Expense.

Complaints regarding snow and ice covered sidewalks have reached Chief Kiely since the advent of the recent cold weather. The majority of them are in front of vacant lots, which most owners seem to think are exempt. As has been the custom, the police will warn the delinquents and where they fail to comply the work will be done by the city at the owner's expense. Disobedience is also a misdemeanor and if the officials care to do it, the offender can be haled before the city judge.

To Select Club Rooms.

The members of the O. F. C. will hold a meeting in a short time when they will decide about the rooms on which they have an option, with a view of selecting suitable permanent club rooms. Most of the members are in favor of the rooms in the building over Rowley's drug store on West Front street.

Benefit Euchre.

A euchre will be held this evening in Stafford Hall, under the auspices of the Sewing Circle of St. Mary's church. The affair will be held for the benefit of the poor to relieve their distress during the cold weather. Several prizes will be awarded and a most interesting time is anticipated.

Unity's Election.

At its regular meeting this evening, Unity Lodge, No. 102, will elect Grand Lodge officers and nominate lodge officers. All past chancellors are especially requested to be present.

UNION VETERANS UNION STARTS WEEK'S FAIR

The Fair Was Opened in the Rooms of the I. C. T. Club Last Evening.

THOSE ON COMMITTEES

BOOTHS ARE ARRANGED ALONG THE SIDE OF THE ROOM.

The Committees in Charge of Each Booth and Those Who Have General Supervision—There Are Several Contests.

Under the auspices of the Union Veterans' Union and the Woman's Veteran Relief Union, what promises to be a successful fair was opened last evening in the I. C. T. rooms. The fair will continue until Tuesday evening of next week, with dancing every evening as a special attraction. Saturday evening will be known as "Old Soldier's Night," and the evening will have for a special attraction the old fashioned dances of "ye olden time."

The clubrooms present a very attractive appearance in the patriotic decorations of red, white and blue. Along one entire side of the room are the various booths, the first of which is the "cilpping" booth. This is in charge of Mrs. Eugene Alexander. There are a number of packages containing various articles and for a small price one can purchase them. They are tied on a string and as they are purchased Mrs. Alexander clips them off.

Next is the grocery booth, where there is a goodly supply of household necessities. Mrs. Edward Devine and Miss Nellie Baglin is in charge. The candy booth is presided over by Mrs. Margaret Baglin and Miss Luella Day. At the fancy booth Mrs. John R. Naylor, Mrs. Albert Perry, and Mrs Edward Townley are in charge. Mrs. Charles Westphal and Mrs. Wm. Day have charge of the ice cream table, while the refreshment table was in charge of Mrs. Andrew Cox and Mrs. Henry Johnson. Albert Perry and Louis Willett look after the soft drinks and John H. Wagner and H. F. Flanders are on the door.

Henry C. Drake and Eugene Alexander are chairmen of the affair and they are ably assisted by Miss Lida Day, Mrs. John R. Naylor, Mrs. Eugene Alexander, Mrs. Albert Perry, Mrs. Charles Westphal, Mrs. Edward Townley, Mrs. Margaret Baglin, John R. Naylor, John Wagner, H. F. Flanders, Andrew Cox, Albert Perry and Louis Willett.

There are two contests. One is for a bicycle. The contestants are Edward Townley and William Perry. The other contest is for a doll and Miss Mabel Perry and Miss Madeline Edgar are the contestants. There will be dancing every evening, music being furnished by Naylor's orchestra. The floor managers are Edward Townley and Roy Day.

Last evening the Dunellen cornet band came to Plainfield and during the early part of the evening made a short tour of the city, accompanied by members of the Union Veterans' Union. Afterwards the band adjourned to the hall and discoursed a programme of popular music. The profits from the fair will be placed in the treasury of the Union Veterans' Union.

TWO HORSES NEEDED.

Winter Arrangements Soon to be Made for Borough Apparatus.

Chief of the Borough Fire Department J. J. Stahl this morning said that by next week he expected to have a team of horses at the West End fire house to draw the apparatus to fires. H. Klinsman, who is the driver of the apparatus, will have a second horse at the house and a double set of harness will be hung so that it will be ready for use next week. This improvement was found necessary on account of the snow through which the apparatus will have to be drawn to the fires which may occur during or after a heavy snow storm.

Another Dance.

The members of the Plainfield Retail Clerks' Mutual Aid Association are planning to give another dance early in February. The other affairs of a similar nature have been so successful that the association may be induced to give another one.

To Install Arcanumites.

The officers-elect of Plainfield Council, No. 711, Royal Arcanum, will be installed the first of January.

SOME CLEVER SKETCHES.

George Wharton Edwards is Contributor to a Christmas Magazine.

A pleasing feature of the Christmas number of Everybody's Magazine is a collection of short stories, by well-known writers, under the general heading "A Christmas of Good Deeds." Among the writers is George Wharton Edwards, of this city, well-known in the world of literature as well as in that of art. Mr. Edwards' contribution is entitled "Silver-Lined Clouds," and consists of two very brief sketches of New York life, showing how kindliness and the Christmas spirit are often found in unexpected places. The background of New York scenes and people, as well as the cleverly drawn figures of the "thin-bearded man with the heavy basket" and the tall policeman whose coat was rendered shapeless by the little foundling he was keeping warm beneath it, show that Mr. Edwards can paint as lifelike a picture with his pen as with his brush.

BESLER TO LEAVE.

Report From Reading, Pa., Says He is to be Vice President of Lehigh.

A special dispatch from Reading, Pa., to the Newark News says that it is understood that on January 1 General Manager W. G. Besler, of the New Jersey Central, will become vice president of the Lehigh Valley Railroad, and be succeeded by General Superintendent W. A. Garrett, of the Philadelphia and Reading, who has offices at Reading. A. T. Dice, superintendent of the Shamokin division of the Reading, is slated to succeed Mr. Garrett.

New York Pastor Spoke.

Rev. Eli F. Loofboro, pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church on New York City, was the speaker at the regular monthly meeting of the Seventh-Day Baptist church Christian Endeavor Society last evening. His address was a most interesting and helpful one. Monthly reports were read at the meeting, after which refreshments and a social hour was enjoyed among those present.

To Lengthen Limb.

Harvey Skillman, of Garwood, who was injured in a trolley accident at his home last August, has been taken to the hospital, where Dr. Long, his physician, will operate on him for hip disease, a result of the accident. His right leg is about two inches shorter than the other one, and an effort will be made to lengthen it to correspond with the uninjured leg.

BIG BANQUET BY BOARD OF TRADE

Plainfield, Past, Present and Future, Was Described by Enthusiastic Speakers.

HELD AT HOTEL ROSELL

City Business Men and Officials Gathered at the Board to Partake of Excellent Repast and Listen to Remarks on Subjects of Interest to All—Three Score Guests.

The secret of Plainfield's power and superiority over sister cities of the same magnitude was easily to be discerned by a glance about the dining room of the newly opened Hotel Rosell, where the local Board of Trade gave, last evening, the first of a series of banquets which it has arranged. It was a representative gathering, comprising the men of intelligence who have the best interests of their municipality at heart and devote time and money to promote its growth. Every walk in life was represented and the speeches that came late in the evening revealed the fibre, the foundation as it were, of what constitutes the city's makeup.

In all sixty men responded to the invitations issued, all of whom with few exceptions are connected with the board. It was 9 o'clock when they seated themselves at President Woolston's command and a glance about the room showed them to be the following: Mayor O. L. Jenkins, Chiefs T. O. Doane and Patrick Kiely, Sheriff B. F. Coriell, Assemblyman Wm. Newcorn, Edson C. Martin, J. Fred MacDonald, M. C. VanArsdale, Wm. R. Stanbury, M. J. Cashin, Peter McDonough, James Daley, E. M. Laing, Herman Schwed, Councilman R. I. Tolles, A. E. Gidden, Edward Kapp, William A. Woodruff, W. C. Dobbins, J. P. Mosher, Thomas Muir, Councilman J. F. Buckle, Stephen Schleif, Andrew MacCardell, Simon Mantz, City Collector Frank H. Smith, Henry Nischwitz, Ralph Chrystie, J. A. Fass, Henry Lieske, Amos Andrews, Michael Armstrong, Amos Ellis, James Hansen, M. Leichtentritt, J. C. Pope, Former Assemblyman W. R. Codington, J. T. Vail, F. W. Runyon, H Otis Newman, John Abbott, E. P. Turner, Charles W. Runyon, H. A. Bonn, F. W. Dunn, William Schloss, M. F. Elderton, William H. Brokaw, Horace M. Sherwin, and A. S. Giles. At a separate table at the head of the room were President L. W. Woolston, Senator Charles A. Reed, Assemblyman S. S. Swackhamer, Former Mayor Alexander Gilbert, James E. Martine and Secretary of the Board Harry C. Runyon, these latter having been selected to make the addresses.

Fifteen courses comprised the dinner served and from this end of the affair there was nothing lacking. The cuisine and service were perfect while Mine Host Rosell had arranged and provided for the minute details which often cause annoyance by being overlooked. Decorations of palms and plants placed in convenient corners enhanced the surroundings.

It was 11 o'clock when coffee and cigars were served and the diners settled back comfortably for the other side of the banquet—the speeches. The subjects and those who gave them were, "Plainfield of the Past," Alex. Gilbert; "Plainfield of the Present," James E. Martine; "Plainfield of the Future," Charles A. Reed; "Benefits of a Board of Trade," S. S. Swackhamer; "What the Board of Trade Has Done," Harry C. Runyon. These addresses were supplemented by a few remarks from Mayor O. L. Jenkins, which, although impromptu, showed the city's Chief Executive to have its interest always at heart.

Going back to the year 1800, when what is now Plainfield was a mere collection of huts without any special appellation, Mr. Gilbert traced the growth of the place up to the present day. He dwelt particularly on the year 1835 when it was then a town of 1,000 inhabitants and 300 houses. Proceeding to 1866, the year he came here, he compared the railroad facilities, the roads, the paths used for sidewalks, the school facilities, fire department and officials with the up-to-date accommodations of the same kind which residents enjoy today.

All these were acquired, he said, after much effort, and his description of the constant fights between the

WHAT PEOPLE ARE DOING

SOME BRIEF PARAGRAPHS OF A PERSONAL NATURE.

Many Folk of Greater Plainfield Are Entertaining or Being Entertained.

Miss King, of Craig place, has returned from a visit with Brooklyn relatives.

Miss Adeline Leonard, of Montclair, is the guest of Miss Alys M. Chandor, of East Ninth street.

Miss Sarah Hopewell, of this city, has been visiting friends at Flemington for several days.

Mrs. W. D. Bauer, of Somerville, is spending several days with her parents on East Fifth street.

Councilman Jan. vanHerwerden, of South avenue, is expected home soon from a southern business trip.

Former Mayor Charles J. Fisk, who is spending the winter in New York, is improved from a recent illness.

Jacob Blimm, Sr., of Somerset street, has been ill for the past few days and today he was attended by Dr. Zeglio.

Miss Beerbower, of Chatham, has returned home after a visit with Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Staats, of the Hotel Kensington.

Bateman Thatcher, of East Fourth street, who has been detained at home with injuries, the result of a recent fall, is convalescing.

Charles M. Wilson, the contractor, of West Sixth street, who had a fall several days ago, and is detained at home in consequence, does not improve rapidly. He is still unable to leave his bed.

THEATRICAL.

At Keith's next week the headline attraction will be Mattie Keene and company in a comedy playlet entitled "Her First Divorce Case." Al Leech and the three Rosebuds will again be seen in Mr. Leech's farcical creation, "Examination Day at School." Walter LeRow and Florence Clayton present George M. Cohan's one act farce, "Hogan of the Hansom." The three Keatons, Joe, Myra and last, but by no means least, Buster; the Brothers Freyda, European acrobats; Wenona and Frank, exyert rifle shots; the Brook Brothers, blackface comedians; Willie Weston, comedian and vocalist, with twenty-two other features, are all on the bill at the Union Square.

Miss Eleanor Robson, who has so completely won the hearts of the New York critics by her performance of "Audrey" at the Madison Square Theatre, is a child of the stage. Her father was well known as a player, and her mother, Mrs. Madge Carr Cook, has supported the best "stars" in the country. Miss Robson was known throughout the country to the player-folk in whose company she traveled with her mother. She learned through them all the arts of the realm behind the footlights. Thus when she made her debut at sixteeen in a stock company in Milwaukee, she astonished both those with whom she played and the audiences by her exquisite art. She was discovered in this company by a New York manager and given more ambitious wark. As "Audrey" she is as artistic and charming as in any role in which she has so far appeared.

ON BUSINESS PRINCIPLES

SO GOVERNOR MURPHY SAYS HE WANTS TO RUN STATE GOVERNMENT.

Plans to Discharge All Employes and Hire Over Those Who Pass Examination.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, Dec. 11—Every employe of the State house will be discharged during the next session of the Legislature if the plans which Governor Murphy is said to be preparing are approved by the Legislature. Then as many as can pass civil service examinations will be reappointed as graded clerks if they otherwise meet the requirements of the appointing power.

The governor's idea is said to be to have appointments at the State house made as the appointments in Washington are made by the Federal government. The governor explains that he wants the State of New Jersey run on business principles.

Preliminary to making this move Private Secretary Swayze has for a long time been collecting information relative to every employe's salary and the governor is reported as saying: "Too high salaries exist in the State house."

To put the governor's plan into effect it is said a bill will be prepared and sent to the Legislature providing for a civil service commission with power to examine clerks and determine their grade, and the bill will fix salaries on the basis of first, second and third grades.

While the governor's plan is known to but a very few of his advisers, it is understood that those with the secret have strongly advised him against trying to put it into effect, telling him plainly that the politicians of the State will most certainly oppose it, as this radical reform will carry with it sweeping salary reductions.

Others think the motive behind the whole scheme is to oust all remaining Democrats in the employ of the State.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

There was a contest in Union county last October over the nomination for State Senator. It was widely advertised as a fight between Senator Kean and Representative Fowler. It was claimed that the forces were pretty evenly matched, and that Mr. Fowler might easily win. Mr. Kean triumphed, however, and by a very decisive majority. And he did so in a very simple way. He made the cause of the best man for the place his own. There was just one man for whom the better class of Republicans were united, Senator Cross, and Mr. Kean became his advocate. That is the leadership of the Simon Cameron kind. Cameron held control of Pennsylvania all his life and his secret was, he said, that he found out what the people wanted and advocated it.

If Mr. Kean keeps up that system successfully there will be no doubt as to State leaership. Just at present he is again the advocate of Mr. Cross, this time for the Senate Presidency. And Mr. Cross is again the best man for the place, and the man whom the people favor. Whether the Senate chooses him or not, Mr. Kean will have won a victory in leadership—because he will have identified himself again with the thing which his party ought to do.—Newark Call.

FIRE TRAP.

N. P. C. Says Borough School Children Are in Dangerous Place.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—The North Plainfield public school has an annex in Spencer's Hall on Somerset street; there are two classes in one room on the upper floor The ground floor had been occupied previous to Election Day for political headquarters, very much to the detriment of the young scholars, whose ages range from six to nine years, they were deprived for fully two weeks of the use of the yard as well as the lavatory. This lavatory was built for a family and is too small for two classes of children, who must leave their warm classroom to wade through rain and snow to reach same and, perhaps, encounter in the yard a horse which is kept in the barn close by.

A short time ago the ground floor was rented to and is now occupied by dealers in paints, oils and varnishes. Fire insurance companies avoid such hazardous risks, but the Board of Education of the borough has not sufficiently progressed to know its duties to so many young lives.

Should a fire break out in this paint shop or barn while school is in session, every scholar and teacher would be roasted alive. Barn, shop, school and scholars would be wiped out in five minutes in this fire-trap.

Kindly agitate in your worthy columns the quick removal of these two classes to safer quarters before a calamity can occur.

Your kind and prompt attention is earnestly requested by

Yours truly,

HOUSE HEARS GROW

"Father" of That Body Speaks on Labor and Capital.

CO-OPERATION THE ONLY SOLUTION

Session of the Senate Devoted to the Consideration of the Statehood Bill—Report of the Committee Presented.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—The feature of the house proceedings yesterday was a thoughtful speech by the venerable Galusha A. Grow of Pennsylvania on the relation between labor and capital. At the end of the present session he retires at the age of seventy-nine after a career in public life extending over half a century. His first speech in the house was on "Man's Right to the Soil." He was the author of the free homestead act. His speech yesterday was regarded as his valedictory to public life and was listened to with close attention by his colleagues. His conclusion was that some sort of co-operation between labor and capital was the only solution of the impending problem.

Mr. Grow said: "A labor strike is an unequal contest at best. It is a contest of endurance between hunger and thirst of the human stomach and the income of capital. Capital in such contests loses none of its accumulation of wealth, unless an industry itself should be destroyed, and in such cases labor would be the greatest sufferer. The income of capital would be temporarily lessened. That would be all. The existence of labor itself is dependent upon constant employment, and its condition cannot be improved by idleness or by lawless violence or a disregard of the rights of any law abiding citizens. The obligations of both capitalists and laborers, like that of all citizens, is to promote the general welfare, or at least to do nothing to its injury. Some method of profit sharing between employers and employees that would secure a harmonious co-operation of both so as to prevent strikes and improve the condition of labor is of vital importance to the general welfare, for the pillars of the republic rest upon the comfort of the home and the happiness of the fireside of labor."

A bill was passed in general terms designed to relieve the tea importers from the effect of the recent decision of the circuit court in New York imposing the 10 cent war duty on tea imported in bond prior to the time when tea is restored to the free list, Jan. 1, 1903. Another bill to refund the duties collected on merchandise from Porto Rico and the Philippines during the period between the ratification of the treaty of Paris and the congressional revenue acts for those islands also passed.

Almost the entire session of the senate was devoted to consideration of the omnibus statehood bill. The bill came over as the unfinished business from the last session, and by agreement yesterday was fixed for calling it up. Early in the morning hour Mr. Quay submitted a report of his own, and its reading occupied the time of the senate until 2 o'clock, when the statehood bill was laid before the senate. Its reading was begun immediately thereafter, followed by the reading of the substitute. Mr. Beveridge, chairman of the committee on territories, then presented the committee report, giving the reasons for recommending joint statehood of Oklahoma and Indian Territory and for not favoring the omnibus bill.

Progress of Peace in Colombia.

PANAMA, Dec. 11.—Big crowds assembled around the wharfs here when the former revolutionary gunboats Padilla and Gaitan were seen coming into the bay flying the Colombian flag. Both steamers, which, according to the peace treaty, are now the property of the government, saluted the land forts. Over 1,000 men who participated for or against the government in the revolution, including several generals and officers of high rank, have arrived here. Much enthusiasm is shown in all circles, for every one here is convinced now that the war is really at an end. Nearly 6,000 men of the government forces have been sent away to their homes since the peace treaty was signed.

Animals For the Zoo.

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—The steamer Heathglen, which has just arrived in port from China and Japan, brought a collection of animals and birds consigned to the Bronx zoological gardens. The collection consists of a lion, two tiger cats, a gorilla, a sloth, two Somali monkeys, three Somali sheep and a number of monkeys and parrots. On the passage a tiger, an orang outang and several monkeys died.

Foxes Are Plenty There.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Dec. 11.—The board of supervisors of Orange county have defeated a motion to repeal the fox bounty law in the county. Two hundred and thirty-three foxes have been killed in the county during the past year, on which bounties were paid. The supervisors are determined to rid the county of the pests.

New Portrait of Luther.

BERLIN, Dec. 11.—An hitherto unknown portrait of Martin Luther, painted by Lucas Cranach, the celebrated artist and burgomaster of Wittenberg, has been uncovered in the town church of Wittenberg. It is pronounced to be the best portrait of Martin Luther in existence.

Castellane Buys a Chateau.

PARIS, Dec. 11.—Count Boni de Castellane has purchased for $60,000 the historic Chateau d'Grignan, near Montelimar, formerly the home of Mme. de Sevigne.

VENEZUELA AROUSED

Mobs Stone German Consulate at Caracas.

WILD SCENES PRECEDE ARRESTS.

Over Two Hundred Foreign Residents Lodged in Police Station. American Minister Secures Release of a Few.

WILLEMSTAD, Curacao, Dec. 11.—There was a great patriotic demonstration in Caracas on the receipt of the news of the seizure of the Venezuelan warships. Crowds paraded the streets displaying banners, and violent speeches were delivered at various points. The mob attempted to force the doors of the German legation and the German consulate, shouting, "Death to the Germans!" The police made no effort to disperse the demonstrators.

The populace marched to the palace of President Castro, who addressed it. The mob then moved on to the German legation, shouting, "Death to the Germans!" The windows were shattered with stones, and attempts were made to force the doors, but the latter resisted these efforts, and Mme. von Pilgrim-Baltazzi, the wife of the German charge d'affaires, who has been ill in bed for the past two months and therefore could not leave Caracas with her husband, was thus saved from the violence. The crowd then marched to the German consulate and to the residence of Dr. Koehler, again stoning the windows and attempting to force an entrance. The police made no effort to disperse the demonstrators.

The excitement was still intense when, at 10 o'clock at night, the government ordered the arrest of all the German and English residents. One hour later 205 persons prominent in social and commercial life were crowded together in the police station. All the British residents were arrested except Albert Cherry of the British owned Venezuela Central railway and Mr. Wallace, manager of the telephone company, who escaped to a place of safety.

Ninety-seven German residents were arrested, among them the German consul, Valentin Blohm, and Herr Knoop, the manager of the German Central railway. Herr Simmross, chancellor of the German legation, was met by the police near Bolivar square and also arrested.

Amid cries of "Death to the Germans!" and "Down with the foreigners!" the populace directed its way to the German residential quarter and gathered outside the Hotel Klindt and the German club vociferating and uttering insults. The Belgian charge d'affaires, F. J. S. Goffart, was arrested by mistake for a German because of his fair complexion. In spite of his vigorous protests he was taken to the police station, but released ten minutes later.

On learning these incidents United States Minister Bowen and Secretary W. W. Russell went at once to see President Castro and after a long conference succeeded in obtaining the release of Dr. Koehler, Mme. von Pilgrim-Baltazzi's physician, and Consul Valentin Blohm. Minister Bowen also obtained the official authorization of the Venezuelan government to represent British and German interests during the imbroglio.

The government has placed an embargo on the British La Guayra railway and on the German Krupp Central railway. All the British residents were arrested except Albert Sherry of the Venezuela Central railway and Mr. Wallace, manager of the telephone company, who escaped to a place of safety.

The populace is intensely excited, and the situation is regarded as critical. The British and German flags have been publicly burned.

PRISONERS RELEASED.

Minister Bowen Compels Castro to Give Up British and Germans.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—The arrest of German and British subjects in Caracas by order of President Castro is confirmed in official dispatches received at the state department yesterday from United States Minister Bowen. The excitement in Caracas as a result of these wholesale arrests is described by Minister Bowen as intense, but the state department is assured that he stands in no danger himself.

After considerable difficulty Mr. Bowen, representing German and British interests, has obtained the release of some of those arrested and hopes to effect the release of them all in a short time.

It is said at the British and German embassies that the action of President Castro in ordering the arrest of all subjects of the British and German governments in Caracas is without precedent in the history of civilized countries supposedly at peace with each other and that such action would be regarded as sufficient ground for a declaration of war. Members of the diplomatic corps here indeed regard it as being such a declaration in itself.

VENEZUELA'S BOATS SUNK.

British and German Ships Capture Fleet Without a Struggle.

LA GUAYRA, Venezuela, Dec. 11.—The Venezuelan fleet was captured by ten German and four British cutters. They went alongside the Venezuelan vessels and ordered them to surrender, and without a shot being fired the British and German forces seized the Venezuelan fleet in the name of the German emperor and the king of England. Two of the vessels which were undergoing repairs were broken up. The German cruiser Panther steamed into the harbor during these proceedings with her decks cleared for action. The Venezuelan steamers were taken outside the harbor, and the General Crespo, Tutumo and Margarita were sunk. The Ossun was the only vessel spared in view of the protest made by the French charge d'affaires, H. Quievreux, who notified the commodore of the allied fleet that the Ossun is the property of a Frenchman.

At 10 o'clock Tuesday evening 130 German sailors were landed and proceeded to Cardonal, a suburb of La Guayra, in which is situated the residence of the German consul Lentz, whom, with his family, they escorted back to La Guayra and placed on board the warship Vineta. On their way back to this port the German sailors met a party of Venezuelan soldiers, but no collision took place. At 5 o'clock yesterday morning a landing party of thirty British seamen went to the British consulate and conducted the British consul, R. Schunck, and his family on board the Retribution.

The German and British residents at La Guayra have also been arrested, with the exception of Mr. Fieldwick and Prince Lepage, the manager of the harbor corporation, who barricaded themselves in their houses.

No one here can explain the action of the allied powers in taking action without giving Venezuela time to reply to their note.

To Blockade Venezuelan Ports.

BERLIN, Dec. 11.—The naval plans of Germany and Great Britain provide for the patrolling of the Venezuelan coast by launches in order to prevent smuggling and for the blockade of those Venezuelan ports where the custom houses have not been taken over in order to prevent vessels avoiding the ports occupied by the allies. Naturally this procedure, if it becomes necessary, would require a number of vessels, and as Great Britain has more ships available in the West Indies than Germany a larger portion of the work will fall on Great Britain unless Germany sends out additional cruisers, according to her first intention.

Venezuelan Gunboat Seized.

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad, Dec. 11.—The British cruiser Charybdis seized the Venezuelan gunboat Bolivar in this harbor. She landed the Bolivar's officers here, while the British sloop Alert took the crew of the captured gunboat to the port of Guiria, situated on the Venezuelan coast opposite to the island of Trinidad. The entire coast of Venezuela from the Orinoco river to La Guayra will be blockaded by British war vessels, while the Venezuelan coast from La Guayra to the Colombian frontier will be blockaded by German war vessels.

CONGRESS URGED TO ACT.

Secretary Wilson Wants an Appropriation to Fight Cattle Plague.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—Secretary of Agriculture Wilson appeared before the house committee on agriculture to explain the urgent necessity of an emergency appropriation to enable his department to stamp out the foot and mouth disease now prevalent in some of the New England states.

Mr. Wilson advised the committee of conditions in the quarantined New England states and said it had been found necessary to kill all infected cattle and he had ordered their slaughter. He estimated that it would cost about $700,000 to stamp out the disease, arrangements having been made with the state authorities to pay 70 per cent of the value of the cattle killed.

The committee also was asked to secure legislation which will give the secretary of agriculture authority, after an inspection of live stock, to give a certificate to the shipper which will permit of the transportation from one state to another and through states without any further inspection by state authorities. By a recent decision of the supreme court cattle may be stopped at any state line, it was explained, thus affording a serious interference to interstate commerce in cattle. A draft of a bill covering this proposed provision of law was taken under advisement by the committee.

ITHACA'S MAYORALTY FIGHT.

Supreme Court Refuses to Mandamus Inspecting Board.

ITHACA, N. Y., Dec. 11.—Supreme Court Justice Sewall has refused to grant a peremptory mandamus compelling the board of inspectors in the First district of the Second ward of Ithaca to recanvass the election machine returns so as to make them agree with the machine figures given on Nov. 24, which would elect George R. Miller, the Democratic candidate for mayor, by seven votes.

According to the official canvass the vote for mayor of Ithaca was a tie; but, there being an alleged error in reading the machine in the First district of the Third ward, it was opened upon an order from the supreme court, and Miller thus received seven additional votes. The Republicans alleged that the machine had been tampered with in the interval. As the matter cannot now be determined before the next sitting of the supreme court on March 30, William R. Gunderman, the present Republican mayor, will hold over.

Winter Wheat Outlook.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—The statistician of the department of agriculture estimates the newly seeded area of winter wheat at about 34,000,000 acres, an increase of 5.16 per cent upon the area estimated to have been sown in the fall of 1901. The condition of winter wheat on Dec. 1 was 99.7 as compared with 86.7 in 1901 and a nine year average of 91.4.

Gas Explosion Injures Many.

BOSTON, Dec. 11.—An explosion of illuminating gas in the basement at 15 Merchants' row, occupied by Gulliver & Allan as a fruit store, painfully injured a number of people, wrecked the building and blew a plate glass window out of Sanbron's cafe next door.

Letters from Women

Cured by the use of Kodol are received daily. Their troubles nearly all begin with indigestion or other stomach disorder.

If the food you eat fails to give strength to your body, it is because the juices secreted by the stomach and digestive organs are inadequate to transform the nutrient properties of the food into blood. That is indigestion. The system is deprived of the amount of nourishment required to keep up the strength, and the result is that one or more of the delicate organs gradually grows weak, and then weaker, until finally it is diseased. Here a great mistake is made. That of treating the diseased organ. The best doctors in the land make this very mistake. Why should they? It is so easy to see that the trouble is not there.

Kodol Cures

This famous remedy puts the stomach and digestive organs in a healthy condition so that rich, red blood is sent coursing through the veins and arteries of every muscle, tissue and fiber throughout every organ of the entire body, and by Nature's law of health, full strength and vigor is soon restored to each.

Kodol cures indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach disorders.

I have taken Kodol for nearly two months after each meal and it is the only remedy that gave relief from the terrible pains I endured. After a time I would take it but once a day, and now, while I keep a bottle handy, I seldom need it, as it has cured me. MRS. J. W. COOLBAUGH, Milo Center, N. Y.

ATTEMPTED BRIBERY ALLEGED.

Startling Testimony Before Strike Arbitration Board.

SCRANTON, Pa., Dec. 11.—The most interesting if not important testimony brought out at yesterday's sessions of the coal strike commission was to the effect that an alleged attempt was made by a former mine foreman to bribe two presidents of local unions of the miners to have ten men in each local use their influence to have a resolution passed sending the men to work, thus making a serious break in the solid ranks of the strikers. Each of the presidents was to receive $2,500 and a good position as mine foreman, and each of the ten men was to get from $100 to $200. The name of no company was mentioned in connection with the bribery scheme, and none of the lawyers cross examined the witnesses.

The large coal companies have taken notice of the testimony which has been presented against the Coxe and Markle companies. During the afternoon session David Wilcox, vice president of the Delaware and Hudson and general counsel for the company, addressed the commission and protested vigorously against the commission holding his company responsible for the conditions that may exist at the Coxe or Markle mines. He was quickly stopped by Chairman Gray, who said that the commission did not intend to hold any company responsible for whatever special conditions may exist in either parts of the coalfields. While none of the attorneys for the other coal carrying roads said anything to the commission, they stated privately that Mr. Wilcox's attitude in the matter had their indorsement.

A large amount of technical testimony was heard on various phases of the questions at issue. Two check weighmen produced figures which tended to show that at two Delaware and Hudson collieries the miners produced 116,839 tons of coal more than they were paid for. The miners must bring up 3,136 pounds of coal and dirt to make a ton of 2,240 pounds of pure coal, and the union claims that the company gets more than 2,240 pounds of coal out of each miner's ton of 3,136 pounds and produced official figures to prove it.

The Delaware and Hudson company presented figures to the commission, they being the first certified statistics to be handed in. They show the average earnings of the miner in 1901 to have been $622.68 and his laborer $449.47. When Mr. Mitchell was on the stand, he said that $600 should be the minimum of American living wages.

RECIPROCITY URGED.

Speakers From Canada and United States at Detroit Banquet.

DETROIT, Dec. 11.—Reciprocity between the United States and Canada was the keynote of the speeches at the dinner tendered the delegates to the national reciprocity convention by the Detroit chamber of commerce, and the arguments in favor of it presented by Hon. John Charlton, member of the Canadian parliament, and Campbell Shaw of Buffalo were enthusiastically received by the 300 guests who were present. The afternoon session of the conference was devoted to the address by Governor A. B. Cummins of Iowa on "Reciprocity and the Tariff." He was given careful and close attention throughout his address. Several of the western delegates professed to see much between the lines of the governor's remarks and his courteous criticism of those who sat silent, while believing in reciprocity.

Eugene H. Foss of Boston was to have been one of the speakers at the dinner at night, but it was desired, owing to the length of the programme, to postpone Mr. Foss' address until today.

In addition to the delegates to the congress there were present at the dinner nearly 200 members of the Detroit chamber of commerce. President C. F. Smith of the Detroit chamber presided, with Hon. John Charlton, member of parliament, at his right and Senator J. McMullen of the Canadian parliament at his left. Mr. Charlton was the first speaker.

BERLIN, Dec. 11.—The most distinguished members of the Society For the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals have declined the invitation issued by the Fleischer Zeitung, the national organ of the German butchers, to a horse meat banquet on the ground that the flesh would not have a fair show at a dinner given under the auspices of the Butchers' league.

A GREAT ENTERPRISE

Millions of Dollars For Educational Purposes.

ROCKEFELLER HEADS THE SCHEME.

Recent Act of Congress For Incorporation of Board to Control Immense Fund For Aid of Schools and Colleges.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—It has just become known that the bill "for the incorporation of a general educational board," which recently passed the house of representatives, is intended to pave the way for the establishment of an educational center of extensive proportions in this city. The measure was introduced at the instance of John D. Rockefeller and other persons of wealth, who, it now develops, intend to create a fund to aid existing schools and colleges without any restrictions as to the age, sex or color of attendants.

The measure also is without limitation as to the section of country in which the schools shall be located, but it is known that it is the especial desire of the promoters of the undertaking to improve educational facilities of the south, including those for the improvement of colored youth. There is no intention of building up an educational institution at any place. The headquarters and offices of the corporation will be located in Washington.

No definite figures can be given by any one here as to the amount to be invested, but it is reported that the bill was introduced for the purpose of giving John D. Rockefeller an opportunity of making a Christmas gift to the American people in the form of a great fund for educational purposes, which, it is said, will exceed in munificence even Andrew Carnegie's $10,000,000 endowment of the institution which bears his name. The names of other wealthy men who will join him in the enterprise have not been made public.

The incorporators named in the act are the following well known educators: Daniel C. Gilman, George Foster Peabody, Morris K. Jesup, Robert C. Ogden, William H. Baldwin, Jr.; Jabez L. M. Curry, Frederick T. Gates, Walter H. Page and Albert Shaw.

The understanding here is that the institution will be put into shape for business soon after the bill receives the president's signature.

Civic Federation Adjourns.

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—The annual conference of the industrial department of the National Civic federation, which has been in session for three days, has been brought to a close. Interest to the last was unabated, the hall being crowded to its utmost capacity. The final subject of discussion was "Industrial Agreements," in which many of the most prominent delegates took part. While no definite results were reached, the executive committee being empowered to appoint a special committee to review and report on all the subjects discussed, it was the generally expressed opinion of the delegates that the conference had been a great success. Semiannual meetings will be held in future.

Real Estate Agent In Trouble.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Dec. 11.—A warrant has been issued in police court for the arrest of Hugh J. Fagan, a prominent real estate dealer and a member of one of the first families of this city, on the charge of grand larceny in the first degree. It is alleged that he visited a tenant, Mrs. Joseph Adamezak, last week and after a row over the payment of rent struck and knocked her down. Before she could get up again it is asserted that he took a roll of $800 in bills, her savings of years, and ran from the house. The issuance of the warrant has caused a sensation in society circles.

Jurors Had Been Approached.

GLENS FALLS, N. Y., Dec. 11.—A sensation was made in the trial of the Glens Falls riot cases when several jurors who were being examined as to their qualifications in the case against David Mulford, a conductor who had been employed by the Hudson Valley railway, reported that they had been approached by James Mead, who had attempted to influence them. Mead was tried a few days ago on the charge of rioting and acquitted. The district attorney announced that he would take action to have Mead punished.

Antisaloonists Blame Army Officials.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—The most important action of the National Antisaloon league, now holding its annual session here, was the unanimous adoption of an address to the public on the army canteen question, in which the charge is made that high army officials have persistently pursued a course extremely unfavorable to the anticanteen law of congress and pledging the association to do its utmost to defeat any attempt to repeal the law until it has had a full and fair trial.

Italy May Not Exhibit.

ROME, Dec. 11.—The present indications are that Italy will not officially participate in the St. Louis exposition. Commissioner Cridler had a long interview with Signor Baccelli, minister of commerce, industry and agriculture. The minister was most cordial, but he frankly said he did not believe the cabinet would agree to appropriate the necessary funds in consequence of the scheme for diminishing taxation.

Telegraph Operators Made Glad.

ROANOKE, Va., Dec. 11.—The telegraph operators on the Norfolk and Western railway system have been granted a 10 per cent increase in wages, shorter hours and extra pay for overtime, effective Jan. 1.

WHAT TO DO.

In another column in this issue will be found interviews with both Mayor N. B. Smalley and Dr. W. E. Honeyman, secretary of the Borough Board of Health, bearing on the sewage disposal system for the borough but the immediate cause for which was the recent action of the Borough Health Board in stamping the city disposal beds as unsuccessful.

Dr. Honeyman may be perfectly sincere in his opposition to the establishment of sewage disposal beds in North Plainfield. Everyone is entitled to an opinion on that subject and it is not to be expected that all will think alike. It doesn't seem hardly fair, however, to keep bringing forward the city disposal beds and pronouncing them a failure, particularly now that the annual report of the State Sewerage Commission has been sent to Governor Murphy and publicly declares that the Plainfield system is a success.

It is generally admitted that it would be more desirable to have a trunk sewer and send all the sewerage to tidewater, if such a thing could be built within the means of this community. A careful investigation was made of the subject when Plainfield was first considering the question of sewage disposal and afterwards when the original plans did not work out satisfactorily and it was necessary to make the present improvements. The cost of such a sewer as would answer the requirements of the State authorities was found to be prohibitative even for Plainfield and North Plainfield, a much smaller municipality, can hardly afford what Plainfield cannot.

If, however, Dr. Honeyman can discover some way whereby the obstacles which confronted the Plainfield investigators can be overcome, let him go ahead. No one will be any better pleased than The Daily Press if an easy solution can be discovered for one of the most perplexing problems that confronts any municipality.

As was expected, the Republican slate for the lower house of the State Legislature went through without a fight. The caucus was a harmonious one and the only contest that developed was over some minor office. Even that did not reach any serious proportions. Despite the stories that there was a conspiracy on foot to leave Essex out in the cold, that county will have the honor of seeing one of its Assemblyman as majority leader on the floor of the House.

that far as it would soak into the land and disappear before it had traveled half that distance.

"What do you think of the proposed scheme to secure tidewater drainage for this town?" ventured The Daily Press reporter. "Do you think it a better plan than to have a disposal system such as is in use in the city of Plainfield?"

"Yes, a thousand times yes," replied the member of the Board of Health, with vehemence, "it is far better to have a system that carries the matter to tidewater than to have a plant such as that now in use in Plainfield."

"Don't you think the plant now in use in Plainfield, a good one?" replied the Press man.

"No, I do not," Mr. Honeyman replied, "that system they have in use in the city is not a success and never will be. The overflow from the beds flows into the brook in an impure condition and there is no evidence whatever, that I have been able to find, which shows that the State Sewerage Commission has approved of the plant and therefore the city of Plainfield has no right to empty the overflow into that brook."

When asked if he did not think the State Sewerage Commission would take a stand against the sewerage of North Plainfield, being emptied into the Raritan river without septic tanks, Mr. Honeyman said that if the Sewerage Commission objected and New Brunswick objected to having the crude matter emptied into that stream, the three towns of North Plainfield, Bound Brook and Somerville, could unite and build a large septic tank at some central point where all the sewerage of the three towns could be emptied and purified before it was dumped into the stream.

The invervier asked why the borough did not make arrangements with the city of Plainfield to dump the sewerage of the borough in the disposal plant of this city to which he replied that he would not think of making the conditions in that city worse than they were at present.

HOUSE CIRCUIT CLOSED.

Repairs to Electric Light Cable Made Shut Down Necessary.

In order that a defect in the electric light cable furnishing light to the houses and stores in this city, might be repaired, the power was shut off on that circuit at 1 o'clock this morning and remained off for a few hours. This time was chosen as lights on that circuit are used the least of any during the early morning hours. It was originally intended to shut the power off at 12 o'clock, but on account of the Board of Trade dinner at the Hotel Rosell the time was changed to an hour later.

PIANO OWNERS ATTENTION!

Old pianos, of any make, made new at an extraordinary low price by Leo H. Battalia, 56 Lenox avenue, New York City, without removing the piano from the house. Old pianos reconstructed with new parts is a great success and inexpensive. The action only is required, as they are the parts that become worn with usage, while the frame and sounding board, in nearly every case remains intact, and in fact improves with age as does a violin. Any reliable piano manufacturer will vouch for the above statement.

He has on file in his office a great many testimonials from leading music teachers and citizens of Plainfield for fine tuning and making their old pianos good as new when expert tuners and repairers have fail d. Before you exchange your old instrument why not let him examine it. It may be the means of saving you many dollars.

Bear in mind, in renewing parts, it costs you no more than ordinary repairs you pay to a tuner. Pianos examined free of charge. Branch store, 426 Watchung avenue, this city.

GOVERNOR HUNT'S REPORT.

Great Progress Already Made In Porto Rico.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—A report of Governor Hunt of Porto Rico, just made public, is the second one presented since the inauguration of civil government. It advises the president of healthy progress and steady advancement throughout the islands in all substantial respects. It states that there has been progress in comprehension of the institutions of the United States, that administration in municipal affairs has improved, that education is spreading its good influences, that more land has been cultivated, exports and imports have increased, new roads have been built, the telegraph system has been extended, the health of the people is better, and the death rate has decreased.

Sugar is regarded as the principal crop of the island, and it is stated in the report that the crop of 1902 is the largest but one ever produced. Increase in area of tobacco culture is reported.

In commerce and manufactures, according to the report, remarkable increase appears. The value of imports from the United States for the last fiscal year aggregated $10,719,944. Imports from foreign countries amounted to $2,429,000. The exports from Porto Rico to the United States in the same period amounted to $8,297,420 and to foreign countries $4,592,505.

In education in 1897 the Spaniards had 538 schools, whereas in February, 1902, the United States had 939. A death rate of 23,517 for the last year as against one of 37,350 the year previous is reported, the greatest decrease being in anæmia, which was the prevalent disease. In immigration the statistics show that 541 Spaniards returned to Porto Rico during the last year.

Well Known Business Man Dead.

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—Heber Reginald Bishop, retired merchant and banker, is dead at his residence here after a lingering illness. Mr. Bishop was born in Medford, Mass., in 1840 and came of an old Massachusetts family of English descent. He received his first business training in Boston and when still a young man established the great sugar refining and exporting house of Bishop & Co at Remedios, Cuba. Later he turned his attention to western interests and became a director in the St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha, the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific and the Duluth and Iron Range railroads. He was also one of the organizers of the iron properties in the vicinity of Duluth. Mr. Bishop was many times a millionaire. He recently presented to the Metropolitan Museum of Art the finest collection in the world of jades, valued at $750,000.

Higginson Congratulates Sumner.

MAYAGUEZ, Porto Rico, Dec. 11.—Admiral Higginson arrived here and sent a letter to Admiral Sumner under a flag of truce, the Hist serving as a messenger, announcing his presence, with four battleships and a number of cruisers. He further stated that if the harbor was properly mined he would concede the victory to Admiral Sumner and congratulate the latter on his success. Admiral Sumner replied that Mayaguez had been captured and mined and thanked Admiral Higginson for his congratulations.

Killed at Watkins Glen.

WATKINS, N. Y., Dec. 11.—John Stiles of Elmira, aged twenty-four years, was thrown by a passing train from the New York Central bridge now being built over Watkins glen, near this village, and was instantly killed. Stiles fell 155 feet to the bottom of the glen.

Home endorsement is the proof that backs every box of Doan's Kidney Pills.

Read this case:

Mrs. I. L. Holmes, of 442 West Second street, says: "I used several boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills for back ache and derived more benefit from them than anything else. Before I tried this remedy I was bothered almost constantly with a severe pain across the small of my back, so bad at times that I thought I must give up. If I sat down and got up or was lying down and attempted to rise quickly or retained one position for any length of time, sharp acute pain always followed. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised for such troubles and went to L. W. Randolph's drug store and got a box. They helped me from the first and I improved right along under the treatment."

FASHION NOTES.

Ridiculous Millinery—Lace Blouses Over Pale Colors.

Most of this year's millinery is pretty, but there is some that verges on the ridiculous—for instance, the so called picture hats when they have exaggerated streamers hanging down the back, like widows' weeds. That is the worst of such a mode; it soon degenerates into a caricature. Lace blouses are all the rage, and they are made over the palest of satin linings, often these lace blouses being delicately jeweled in spray effects. One of the prettiest color combinations is pale pink covered with yellow lace and fastening with little rhinestone buttons.

Nowadays transparent yokes are giving way to high lace and chiffon jabots. Frenchwomen are all wearing collars again; consequently all the smart blouses and dresses no longer show the collarless effect.

The clever woman always keeps by her two smart blouse patterns, and she can then, with the aid of a seamstress, evolve separate waists from her old gowns.

The pretty blouse shown is of louisine silk and fine lace.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

EVENING GOWNS.

They Are Distinguished by Lightness of Texture.

There is a delusive simplicity about some of the newest and most elegant evening gowns, delusive because the simple effect is really most difficult to achieve successfully and demands a fairylike lightness and delicacy of touch on the part of the worker whose task it is to manipulate the dainty gauze chiffon and crepe de chine, for diaphanous fabrics are more fashionable than ever.

The revival of early Victorian fashions with respect to bodices is very noticeable. On most of the new evening gowns the length and slope of the shoulders are emphasized even in the high necked demitollets, which are more fashionable than decollete gowns for all occasions save balls. This is a very sensible fashion in cold weather, for even transparent chiffon and lace yokes provide some sort of protection for the lungs and throat and, if well managed, are quite as becoming as the decollete bodices—in fact, far more so to those women who have not perfect necks.

The crepe de chine gown in the illustration is made with a yoke and double collar effect of lace. The sleeves are puffed into deep lace cuffs, and the entire gown is tucked perpendicularly.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

Nickel Against Aluminium.

Yachting rumors in Great Britain say that in the building of the hull of Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock III. aluminium will be used freely. On the other hand, it is believed on this side of the Atlantic that nickel steel will be the material for the body of the new defender of the America's cup. Yachtsmen all over the world will watch with keen interest the test of the relative value of the two metals.

CHAPTER VII.

MISS HELEN CARMODY.

"Kindly send my card to Mr. Van Horne." The office boy bowed to a lady heavily veiled, accepted a card on which was printed, "Helen Carmody," and disappeared for a moment into an inner room. In a moment he reappeared, opened the connecting door and ushered the visitor into Mr. Van Horne's private office.

HE USHERED THE VISITOR INTO THE PRIVATE OFFICE.

As she entered the Van Horne office Miss Carmody paused in evident surprise, but with no sign of confusion, as Mr. William Chalmers bowed and advanced to meet her.

"I am pleased to receive you, and hope that I may be of some service to you, Miss Carmody," said Mr. Chalmers as he motioned his visitor to a seat on a divan. "My name is Chalmers; I am Mr. Van Horne's managing editor."

"I had expected to meet Mr. Van Horne," said Miss Carmody. There was disappointment in the tone of her voice.

"Mr. Van Horne is in Europe," said Mr. Chalmers as he took his place at his desk, and brushed aside the obtrusive butt of a half-smoked cigar. "He went on some important business and no announcement was made of his departure. Mr. Van Horne left for Europe two weeks ago. He is now somewhere in Russia."

"That is very unfortunate," said Miss Carmody. The tears glistened in her eyes, and she held them back only by a too-evident exercise of will power.

"Miss Carmody," said Chalmers in his rapid but cordial manner, "if your desire to see Mr. Van Horne arises from any mission in which the Record is concerned, I am fully authorized to take his place. In his absence there is practically no limit to my authority."

The eyes of the young lady brightened. She looked at the handsome face of the young managing editor with a mingled expression of hope and doubt.

"I am afraid you cannot do that which I had intended to ask," Miss Carmody said.

"I can do anything except suspend the publication of the paper," replied Chalmers with prompt fervor. "I should be tempted to even do that, if I imagined it could possibly relieve the distress which you are suffering."

The pale face of the young lady flushed at this declaration, which was uttered with a sincerity which left no doubt as to the honesty of Mr. Van Horne's representative.

"That is the last request in the world I should make," she replied, after a moment's pause, in which the color left her cheeks. "Mr. Chalmers," she continued, in a voice tremulous in its decision, "I am going to submit something to you as if you were Mr. Van Horne. I have known Mr. Van Horne for many years. He has been a visitor at my father's house, and when father disappeared I thought of asking him to aid me. My mother is dead, and the whole responsibility falls on me as his only child. The house is frequented by vulgar detectives, and they have driven me nearly frantic. One would think, from the questions they ask, and the things they do, that I was suspected of being a party to my father's disappearance. And our well-meaning friends are almost as bad. They smother me with their sympathy. I am not looking for sympathy. I wish to find my dear father, and I have not the slightest confidence in the detectives, or in the methods which they have adopted."

She paused for a moment as if to consider how she should frame the request she had to make. Mr. Chalmers was deeply attentive.

"I am a great believer in the possibilities of such a newspaper as the New York Record," she said. "I think that one good newspaper man is worth a dozen detectives. I do not believe the detectives will ever locate the men who have abducted my father—for it certainly is a case of abduction. I wish to place a sum of money in the keeping of the New York Record, a part of it to be offered by it as a public reward for the return of the men who have been kidnapped, and the other portion to be used under your personal direction for the same purpose."

Mr. Chalmers smiled; and reaching into his desk produced the proof of the copy of a headline which was yet wet with the printer's ink.

"In a small way I had anticipated your plan," he said, as he handed her the proof. It read as follows:

ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS REWARD!!

The New York Record offers this Sum for the Rescue of the Missing Millionaires and the Capture of the Abductors!

Certified Check for $100,000 deposited by The Record in First National Bank.

Miss Carmody's face was radiant with pleasure.

"But you should not do that," said she. "It is not your place to devote this large sum of money for the benefit of those in whom you have but the general interest of all law-abiding citizens. As you know, my father is very wealthy. In my own name and right I have a large amount of money which I can obtain at any time. I am sure," she said with a smile, "that papa will return me any money I spend in trying to find him. You must let me advance this money. I wish to offer, through the Record, $250,000 reward, and in addition I wish you to employ in this search as large a number of your staff as you can spare, and have it done entirely at my expense. They will find that I am a liberal employer. Of course I shall not publicly appear in the matter in any way. I have already contributed to the general fund which has been subscribed by the relatives of the missing men, but I have so little faith in the authorities and the private detectives that I wish to take the step I have indicated. You must not refuse me. You know what you promised to do," and Miss Carmody blushed in a way which made her radiantly charming.

If that young lady anticipated any prolonged resistance on the part of Mr. Chalmers she was unaware of the traits which had been developed by his newspaper experience as managing editor of the Record. He would have been delighted to have been able to offer a reward of a million. He attempted to convince Miss Carmody that it would be a good plan to make the reward $350,000, of which the Record should contribute $100,000, but she would not listen to it, and for the first time in his career the young journalist was dictated to by an outsider.

"I will tell you what we will do," he said, as he comprehended the possibilities and rose to the occasion. "We have a large staff, but not large enough to meet this emergency. I will detail ten of our best men to this work. Then I will secure ten or twelve of the best men from other New York papers. Then there are some famous detective reporters in Chicago. We will have them. We will scour the country for all the talent which money can purchase. I will take personal charge of this force, map out a plan, and keep at it. We shall succeed; I know we shall succeed."

Miss Carmody clapped her hands in her joy and enthusiasm. All traces of sorrow and care had disappeared from her face. She sprang to her feet and grasped Mr. Chalmers' hand. There was nothing of boldness in this action, nor did Mr. Chalmers construe it as such. It was the joy natural to a generous-hearted girl who loved her father and appreciated the hearty sympathy which Mr. Chalmers expressed in his offer of co-operation.

"You are just splendid!" she declared, her eyes dancing with excitement and pleasure. "I do not know how to thank you. You are right; we are certain to find papa. Oh, if there was anything I could do! But," she said, with a little sigh, as she returned to her seat, "I will do all I can. You will let me know everything that happens, will you not, Mr. Chalmers?"

"I will put in a private telephone and have it connected with your residence, if you will give your consent," Mr. Chalmers replied.

"That is an excellent plan," said Miss Carmody. "Then it will not be necessary for me to come to your office and take up your time as I am now doing."

"You need not let that disturb you," replied Chalmers, with a broad smile. "Now that we are partners in this enterprise, I am going to be so bold as to ask you to be permitted—as Mr. Van Horne's personal representative—to call at your residence as occasion may demand, and make a more consecutive report of what has been done than I could over the telephone."

"It is unnecessary for me to give you permission," said Miss Carmody. "You may consider it a standing invitation, with as much of the nature of a command as I have a right to give."

Topic For the Week Beginning Dec. 14, "Our Fellowship"—Text, Ps. cxxxiii, 1-3; I Cor. xii, 12-27.

"Now ye are the body of Christ and severally members thereof."

Christian fellowship is different in nature from all other fraternities because the fact on which it is based is unique in human society.

Men may form associations for mutual defense when fear of a common foe and knowledge of individual weakness prompt to united action. A company may be formed to get and share profits which no one can gain so easily alone as can be done by several united. Losses may be calculated with much probability and risk distributed. Numberless causes make men unite for greater or less time and under a great variety of pledges and obligations.

No other associations have the solemn necessity and binding obligations of this Christian fellowship. None other is so venerable, none so deep based, so rich in heritage and so full of promise for future needs. Clubs and societies of various kinds and for almost every conceivable object—social, benevolent, business and religious—claim attention at the present time. In many communities they seem to be given preference over the church. Neglect of church services for meetings of the lodge is often defended on the plea that the lodge will buy one at death and care for one when sick if dues are paid regularly, and so it must be attended, whatever becomes of the church.

Perhaps the church has not had so great care for the body as was desirable. Possibly some form of organization similar to the sick and burial societies might be formed among the membership. Certainly more care of the sick and needy than is given in many churches might well be taken. More interest to get work for the unemployed and relieve the need of the poor and helpless would be in keeping with the example and teaching of Jesus. But no one of these, not all combined are the distinctive work of the church of Christ.

Care for the body is very much to be commended, but neglect of the soul is inexcusable. Our peculiar work is the cure of souls. The spirit is more than the flesh. The body is of value solely on account of its relation to the spirit. In our care for it we are never to lose sight of this fact. The end sought is to benefit the inner life, the immortal part of man. Bodies shall die however cared for. If the spirit be rightly fed and cared for, it shall live eternally and be clothed with a glorified body fully fitted for spiritual service.

Our association is not a temporary convenience, but a never ending relationship. It is not a matter of our originating, but conferred on us by the Lord Jesus. Its value is not in hand clasps nor ritual, but in heart life and true affection. Most sacred, most enduring of all human ties, it binds to Jesus as well as to our fellow men.

Have we received all the fullness of the Master's spirit so that we fully share His purposes and feel the impulses to all Christlike affection and service and delight in self sacrifice and helpfulness?

And if our fellowship below in Jesus be so sweet
What heights of rapture shall we know when round His throne we meet!

Cheerfulness.

But cheerfulness is always in place except at a funeral or a dying bed. The house of God should be a cheerful place, and people should come with grave but cheerful mien before the Lord. Right in the home, in the presence of father, mother, all the children and servants, is where good cheer should be manifested in looks and speech. So in God's house the same thing is becoming. Under the beams of divine love coming into the heart there should be light and comfort and peace. The situation justifies good cheer in the soul, and there is nothing out of harmony with the occasion.—Christian Instructor.

The Partnership With Christ.

The pledge of our success in overcoming and in service is the partnership with Christ. He is not merely an onlooker in our work. He suffers in defeats, He rejoices in our victories. So real, so vital, did this partnership appear to the apostle that he thought of his old life as dead. "I have been crucified with Christ, and it is no longer I that live, but Christ liveth in me." This is the completed and efficient life which so identifies itself with Him that His will is our will, His joy our joy, His strength our strength.—Congregationalist.

Swearing.

"Are you paid anything for swearing?" Eli Perkins once asked a commercial traveler. "No, I do it for nothing." "Well," said the lecturer, "you work cheap. You lay aside your character as a gentleman, inflict pain on your friends, break a commandment and lose your own soul—and for nothing! You do certainly work cheap, very cheap!"—American Friend.

Yes and No.

Nothing is a better test of character than the ability to discern when it is well to say "no" and when it is better to say "yes." The man who assents to everything equally with the man who opposes everything will be a failure. Life is neither all affirmation nor all contrariety.—New York Observer.

Brooding Over Troubles.

Excessive anxiety and gloomy anticipation are the bane of many lives. Troubles are brooded over that never come or if they come are not half as bad as was imagined. Few are content to live day by day and hour by hour, taking things as they are.—Presbyterian.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Dec. 14—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic.—Our fellowship.—Ps. cxxxiii, 1-3.

The word "brethren" in the One Hundred and Thirty-third Psalm refers to the descendant of a common ancestry, but not only are those brethren who are bound together by physical ties, but also those who are bound together by spiritual ties. All the children of God are brethren. They have one Father, one faith, one Saviour and elder brother and one eternal home toward which they are all traveling. Race, color, nationality, do not enter into the calculation. If we have been born again and are living spiritual lives, we are all one in Jesus Christ, and there should be manifested in our lives the fellowship that is consequent upon such a unity.

1. The source of Christian fellowship is spiritual. God's people are a spiritual building. The tie that binds them together is a spiritual one. A Christian is a living soul in vital contact with the Lord Jesus Christ through the power of the Holy Ghost. The Christian church consists of all these persons bound together. The tie that binds the people of God together in unity and in fellowship is not a national or a social one, but a spiritual tie. Unless we have the spirit of Christ and are bound together by the Holy Ghost we do not belong to the household of faith, are not one with the people of God and have no fellowship with God and with His people. By personal acceptance of Christ alone can we come into this union with His saints, and this should lead all outside to accept Him.

2. Christian fellowship is beautiful and attractive. "Behold how good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity." This is specially true of Christian brethren. It was a beautiful sight to see divided Israel as a nation once more united; but even more beautiful than this is it to see unity and fellowship among those who are spiritually related. Nothing presents Christianity so attractively to the world. When the world can say, "See how those Christians love one another," its people will be drawn to the church; but when it must say, "See how those Christians rend one another," there is no hope for conversions. A church in which the people dwell together in loving union and fellowship need scarcely say, "Come." The people will come almost without invitation, while a church rent with factions and divisions can offer no inducements to those outside her borders. Let us stand, therefore, for fellowship. Let us be brethren in deed as well as in name. Our own lives will be there by the happier, and we will be enabled the sooner to win the world to Christ.

3. Christian fellowship is useful as well as beautiful. "There the Lord commanded the blessing, even life forevermore." God blesses Christian unity. The united church is the special object of His favor and blessing. For discord and contention He has no place, and this fact above everything else should inspire His people to cultivate unity and fellowship.

The Pastor's Opportunity.

Pastors, keep your Young People's society young and you have solved one important problem. Don't scold, but lead; don't coerce by method either, but inspire them by deepening their motive. You can make or break your Young People's society. What is needed today in the average society is self sacrificing leadership on the part of pastors. No outsider can successfully solve your problems save by an occasional suggestion. It is your privilege, your work, your wish, and you must deal with the subject. You have no more important opportunity for service.—John Willis Baer at Northfield Conference.

Dr. Clark's "Welcome."

The very exterior of Dr. Clark's home suggests the hospitality for which it is famous, for on the main girders of the porch the word "Welcome" is beautifully carved in a dozen different languages.—Rev. W. Knight Chaplin.

Loyalty of the Christian Endeavorer

There are two kinds of loyalty—one amounts to little, the other amounts to much—the loyalty of the lips and the loyalty of the heart and hands.—President Roosevelt.

Sparks From Several Anvils.

The pledge is the center, the keeping of the pledge is the circumference of the Christian Endeavor movement.—Christian World.

The Christian Endeavor society is one of the most valuable agents of the church and is the outgrowth of the church.—Dunning.

Christian Endeavor is old enough to have graveyards as well as battlefields.—Griffiths.

The Christian Endeavor constitution is no hard chrysalis which forever keeps the butterfly within from trying its wings.—Rev. Dr. Francis E. Clark.

"rooster" element, as the New York commuters were called, and "hayseeds" or "Reubens," the return cognomen given the old inhabitants, was very amusing. He paid a touching tribute to the memory of Evan Jones, who built up the southern portion of the city and had so much faith in its future that he sank his fortune in developing land.

He referred to the late Daniel Marshall as the "watch dog of the treasury" as not a motion or ordinance could be introduced into the City Council without his tearing it to pieces and objecting to the expenditure of money for anything that was not absolutely needed. In conclusion he ascribed the city's growth in a great measure to the extremely healthful conditions brought about from the soil and its peculiar fitness as an abiding place for people affected with pulmonary troubles.

Mr. Martine's subject confined him to the present time and his remarks were especially appropriate coming at the close of Mr. Gilbert's as the contrast was especially noticable. Plainfield today, he said, has factories aggregating a pay roll of $1,450,000 per annum; it contributes daily to the New Jersey Central Railroad $1,250 in freight and passenger traffic excluding the New York commutation tickets. It has fifty miles of streets, thirty-four of which are macadamized and curbed, excellent walks, twenty-five miles of sewage pipe already laid, water mains, and school advantages that are second to none in the country. He warmly commended Street Commissioner Gavett's attention to the duties devolving upon him and declared the government of the city to be without blemish.

The subject assigned Senator Reed had originally been given Former Mayor W. L. Saunders, of the borough, but he was unable to respond at the last moment owing to business. The short time allowed him to prepare was no detriment to the Senator and he cleverly told of a far ahead Plainfield as he saw it. At the commencement he touched upon annexation and declared himself in favor of it, just as much as ever, and that the time would come soon when it would be accomplished. With the city and borough combined, he said, and with a railroad running across country connecting this place with Newark, Morristown and the sea coast towns, there was nothing to prevent Plainfield becoming the capitol of the State.

Things he wished to see permanent fixtures within a short time, he continued, were another railroad running along the foot of the Watchung mountain range, thus opening up vast amounts of desirable residential tracts, a double tracked street railway system, a central market place, a comfortable and roomy theatre such as the place needs and demands, better gas, the water plant a city asset and underground telephone, trolley and fire alarm wires. He predicted that factories would soon be extending along the railroad from Fanwood to Bound Brook, that Plainfield would absorb Scotch Plains and Dunellen and that when the census of 1910 is taken it would show a population of 40,000.

The benefits of a Board of Trade were clearly and concisely explained by Assemblyman Swackhamer in a speech that was vociferously applauded at frequent intervals. Men of brains, of tact and diplomacy were needed, he said, and these Plainfield possesses. With them combined and allied, working together for mutual interest, the city having such a board is sure to succeed. He commended the local organization for the persistent and thorough manner in which it has conducted its affairs and for the good work it has accomplished.

Just what the board has done for the city was made known by Secretary Runyon who has been with it since its organization. Starting in January 1898, with thirty-four members, it now numbers seventy-three and is daily growing. It has secured the new Central depot, brought factories here, agitated and accomplished the extension of Madison avenue to Duer street, had storm sewers built in Plainfield avenue and Richmond street, suggested and secured the passage of the building ordinance and compelled the trolley officials to give better service. It also suggested and took part in many municipal questions, such as the Bergen trolley scheme, the Martin Act law and annexation.

As the secretary concluded Mayor Jenkins was called upon and responded with an address in which he hoped for a grander, greater and better Plainfield. He wished particularly, he said, two public parks at least, a public lake which could easily be made and a continuation of the methods which has given Plainfield precedence in the Metropolitan district today.

It was 1 o'clock when the Mayor finished and before adjournment was taken, at the suggestion of Andrew MacCardell, a vote of thanks was extended the board for its hospitality.

The committee which arranged and had charge of the affair consisted of E. M. Laing, chairman, J. C. Pope, J. Fred MacDonald, Herman Schwed and H. C. Runyon.

METHODISTS WERE OUT TO HEAR OF MISSIONS

Missionary Assembly Was Held at Grace M. E. Church Last Evening.

INTERESTING SPEAKERS

BISHOP MOORE, OF CHINA, TOLD OF WORK IN THAT EMPIRE.

Miss Agnes McAllister Spoke on Experiences in African Mission Work—Rev. A. H. Tuttle, of Summit, Made An Address.

Despite the disagreeable weather of yesterday afternoon and the dangerous condition of the sidewalks last evening, the attendance at the missionary assembly which was held at the Grace M. E. church, yesterday afternoon and evening, was large and there was much interest was taken in the accounts of the work among missions in foreign lands.

At the afternoon session Rev. Dr. Daniel Halleron, presiding elder of the Elizabeth district, was in charge and made a few remarks of welcome at the opening of the session. Rev. Dr. A. C. McCrea, missionary secretary of the Elizabeth district, who was expected to be present to tell of the great Cleveland missionary convention, was unable to attend and Rev. Dr. E. L. Earp, pastor of the church in which the assembly was held, conducted the discussion on religious work assisted by Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass, of the First M. E. church, and Rev. Dr. John MacMurray, of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church.

Miss Agnes McAllister, of the Garraway Mission, West Africa, interested the young people with an account of the devil worshippers of Africa. Special music was rendered at this service and a liberal collection was taken.

At the evening service, Rev. Dr. Henry K. Carroll presided. Dr. Carroll is secretary of the Missionary Society of the Methodist church. A short prayer and praise service preceded the address of Rev. Dr. A. H. Tuttle, of Summit. His topic was "The Spiritual Preparation for the Work of Mission," and proved to be an interesting address.

"Present Opportunities in China," was the subject of an address by Bishop David Hastings Moore, of Shanghai, China. In an interesting manner he told of the people of that great heathen empire and of the opportunities which await the missionaries in that country. He told of the difficulties encountered in the work among the people of that land and also told of the dangers of reaching the field of work when once in the Orient. The wonderful changes which have been wrought in that land since the advent of the missionary and of the work which is being done to enlighten the superstition-frought nation showed that the work which has been accomplished has not been in vain but on the other hand has been productive of much good.

A vocal rendition was a feature of the programme and was given by Mrs. Thomas MacDonald, of the choir of the First M. E. church, of Plainfiled. Several selections by the choir of the church was a pleasing feature of the evening session. The session close with a benediction by Rev. Dr. Moore after the doxology had been sung.

ARRESTED WRONG MAN FOR ROBBING HOTEL

Now a Traveling Salesman Promises to Bring Suit for False Imprisonment.

ARRESTED AT STATION

THE PROPRIETOR OF CRESCENT HOTEL THOUGHT HE RECOGNIZED THIEF.

Man Had Departed From Hotel on September 11, With Some Property—J. W. Delahanty Resembled Him—Proved Innocence.

A suit for false imprisonment will probably result from a hearing which was held before Justice Mattison this morning when J. W. Delahanty, of Jersey City, a traveling salesman for Robert Ferret, a poultry dealer, cleared himself of the charge of robbing the Crescent Hotel, September 11. The complaint was made by Proprietor Jeremiah Burns yesterday when he alighted from a train at the North Avenue depot and saw the man in the crowd on Watchung avenue. Burns thought he recognized the missing boarder and asked a policeman who was standing near by to arrest him.

Delahanty would not answer any questions at the police station in this city and was equally reticent in the borough lockup. This morning Samuel S. Swackhamer was appointed counsel for the prisoner and Senator Charles A. Reed was the counsel for the complainant. Delahanty's employer from Jersey City was sent for and he succeeded in clearing the man by proving that he was in Maine at the time of the robbery in the borough. He was released.

In appearance the man tallied with the description given of the boarder who decamped with valuable goods but it was clear that it was a case of mistaken identity.

Delahanty has retained counsel and affirms that he will sue Burns and the officer who arrested him because there was no warrant issued and the arrest was affected in a county outside of that in which the offence was committed.

ONE VICTIM.

Spectacle Sharp Found One on Prospect Place and Gathered In $10 in Cash.

The antique, moss grown spectacle sharp made his appearance in the borough a few days ago and now a Prospect place woman is $10 poorer than she was before he arrived. This time he encountered more than the usual verdancy as he not only sold three pairs of spectacles worth actually seventy-five cents for $7.50 but was also allowed to go out in search of change for a $10 bill.

Neither the bill or the sharper have been seen since and the glasses have already been relagated to an out-of-the-way corner, having been pronounced useless. The police on both sides of the brook are on the lookout for the man but there is small chance of his being located.

A KICK MAY COST A FOOT

JOSEPH MUIR GONE TO HOSPITAL FOR FOURTH OPERATION FOR INJURY.

Was Kicked in Football Game and Ankle Bone Injured—Removal of Foot Likely Now.

Through a kick in the ankle received in a football game, three months ago, Joseph Muir, the ten-year-old son of Andrew Muir, of Essex street, is in danger of losing his right foot. He has already undergone three operations at Muhlenberg Hospital for the removal of pieces of bone that became diseased and he is now about to submit to a fourth. So much of the ankle has been removed that it is doubtful if any more can safely be taken away.

The trouble was first noticed last October when a small lump appeared on the foot above the spot where he had received a bruise in a football scrimmage. It continued to grow until his removal to the hospital was found necessary and the first operation was performed. The wound refused to heal and not until a third operation was completed was it thought the trouble had been removed.

He was discharged three weeks ago but Wednesday it was learned that the bone was again refusing to heal and he was returned to the institution.

NORMAL SCHOOL HERE.

Jersey Likely to Have Another and Plainfield Suggested As a Possible Site.

There is some talk of the possibility of the State erecting another Normal School for the purpose of supplying the demand for teachers and it has been said that Plainfield is being considered as a likely place to locate such a school. H. G Wightman, principal of the North Plainfield public schools, has taken considerable interest in the matter and, it is said, that he has received encouraging letters from the various principals throughout the State.

The question of establishing another Normal School arose from the fact that at present it is necessary to go out of the State for teachers, the Trenton school graduating but five hundred annually. It is believed that New Jersey can furnish all of her school teachers if another institution is established.

APPROPRIATE GIFTS.

Amsden, of Watchung avenue, fractured the bone in a finger, Wednesday afternoon, while trying to extract a letter from a private mail box at his friend's office in the City National Bank building. The finger became fastened in the opening at the top and Mr. Begg was obliged to wait until the return of Mr. Amsden, who had a key to the box.

CRANFORD TOOK TWO GAMES FROM PARKS

Poor Showing by Local Bowlers on Their Own Alleys at Park Club.

IN PRESS TOURNAMENT

NEITHER TEAM MADE SCORES THAT WERE PARTICULARLY HIGH.

Lack of Practice Seemed Cause of Trouble for Local Team Which Was Way Out of Form—The Parks Won One Game.

The Park Club bowlers met the Cranford Casino team last evening on the local alleys in The Daily Press Bowling League tournament and while the home team made a better showing than in the first series with Westfield, this is not saying much. The Parks succeeded in capturing one game, the second, and in that the individual scores were creditable. However, with the exception of Littell, of the visiting team, who made a score of 202 in the first game, all of the scores were somewhat below the average. There was good individual bowling in a few instances and this was a redeeming feature of the tournament.

The fact that the alleys have just been put in order may have had something to do with some of the poor work. They were a trifle sticky, and besides the Park team showed weakness in lack of practice. The team did not display the vim and snap that is usually a feature of their bowling. In the first game the local team seemed to lose heart, and the visitors won with forty-five pins to the good.

In the second game the Parks made a determined effort to do something and in this spurt they managed to win out by a margin of fifty-eight. The third game, however, found them back in their poor form and they lost by fifty-seven pins.

As for the individual bowling Townsend rolled a consistent game throughout, although his scores were not the highest. VanBuren rolled in the first game for Park, but in the other games gave way to Dumont, who seemed to be in better form and put up a stronger game. The veteran, Dr. Thiers, had a streak of luck and in the first game he was high man with a score of 178. His other scores were good, but not very high. Willis at times rolled well but generally was off his game. Peck held his own fairly well, bowling the best in the first two games.

As for the visitors they were in better form and as a team they were quite strong. Emmons was out of form and after the first game his place was taken by Sharp, who did better. The Cranfords were somewhat favored with luck and just when they needed extra pins they did not seem to have any trouble getting them.

The scores of the games are as follows:

PARKS.	1st	2d	3d
Townsend	129	162	143
Willis	155	134	115
Peck	156	146	121
VanBuren	108
Dumont		168	146
Thiers	178	159	120
	726	769	645

CRANFORD.	1st	2d	3d
Hillier	159	146	155
Emmons	102
Sharp		151	153
Palmer	167	146	101
Porcella	141	148	173
Littell	202	120	119
	771	711	702

Umpires: Parks—William Barlow and Morgan Townsend; Cranford—S. W. Sharp and C. L. Emmons; scorers: Parks—W. R. Faber; Cranford—G. J. Bremmer.

ART AND MUSIC WERE COMBINED IN RECITAL

"Immanuel" or the Life of Christ, Produced at Y. M. C. A. Hall Last Evening.

WAS QUITE IMPRESSIVE

THE SOLO PARTS WERE TAKEN IN VERY ACCEPTABLE FASHION.

Miss Holley Was Particularly Pleasing, Despite Fact She Was Suffering From a Severe Cold—Local Singers Assisted.

"Immanuel," or the life of Christ, illustrated by pictures from the paintings of famous artists and accompanied by selections from sacred compositions, delighted a small audience at the Y. M. C. A. last evening. It was a combination of art and music that was unusually impressive. The production was given under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. and was arranged by J. Fletcher Billet.

William H. Miller was directly in charge of the vocal work. The soloists were Miss Bianca Holley, of New York, and Miss Ethel Derby, sopranos; Mrs. F. M. Ward, contralto; William Tallamy, tenor; and William Holmes, baritone. They were assisted by a large chorus composed of the best local singers.

Although suffering from a severe cold, Miss Holley was able to appear and sang sweetly, "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth" from Handel, and "O, Sacred Head How Wounded," from Gounod. It revealed more than many other selections could have done that her voice possesses a natural charm and great volume. In addition to rendering exceptionally well, "The Good Shepherd," Miss Derby acquitted herself creditably in the recitation parts. Her selection was illustrated with scenes from the Twenty-third Psalm. Mrs. Ward gave in her usual faultless manner, "He Was Despised" while the other solos were, "The Trumpet Shall Sound," by Mr. Holmes, and "I Heard the Voice of Jesus Say," by Mr. Tallamy. The selections by the men were very pleasing.

The chorus was as follows: Tenors, Messrs. Hewson, Moffett, Williams, Apgar, Rogers; bass, Messrs. Gilbert, Hampston, Davis and Reynolds; sopranos, the Misses Lena Bass, Ida Tallamy, Cornelia Miller, Mrs. Stillman and Miss Gould; altos, Mrs. J. H. VanWinkle, Mrs. S. A. Tugwell, Miss Daisy Houston, Miss Ada Clarke, Mrs. J. H. Manning, and Miss Grace Phillips.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

The caucus of the Republicans of the State Senate will decide whether the Senate is to be run on the same plan as last year, or whether it is to resume its functions as a deliberative body. It is not important that Senator Cross, of Union, should be honored with the Presidency, but it is very important that other candidates should not. There is a good deal to be said in his favor, but not nearly as much as against the others. The conditions in the Senate have been poor enough for several years, but they were never quite so bad as last year. Everything seemed to be given up to politics, office-seeking and corporation legislation of a bad character. The necessity for a reform is universally appreciated, and unless it is effected thoroughly, there are likely to be scandals of a particularly obnoxious character.—Newark News.

The New York Daily Tribune.

Only the other day John W. Griggs, formerly Attorney General of the United States, remarked that in the many years he had known The Tribune he never knew it to be a better newspaper or to bear stronger evidence of prosperity than at present. The constant effort of the men who make The Tribune is to improve it with every issue. While a sturdy advocate of Republican principles, it is not hidebound, or narrow, but endeavors to be absolutely fair and fearless in its treatment of men and affairs. While gathering with painstaking care and accuracy the news of the world, it sifts out and eliminates the nasty and cheap sensations which come to the surface regularly in the daily panorama of human life. But The Tribune is not dull. It is instructive, stimulating and entertaining—exactly the sort of newspaper chosen for himself and his family by the man who is careful about the character and calibre of those whom he introduces to his home. SOMERVILLE AFTER INDUSTRY

THE BOARD OF TRADE RAISED $1,800 TOWARD $5,000 NEEDED.

Somerville Must Subscribe $5,000 and Furnish Site to Secure Big Factory.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Dec. 12—The leading business men of this place, who constitute the Board of Trade, are quite enthusiastic over the prospects of securing a large manufactory of hardware specialties to locate here. It is believed this will be a big thing for the town, as the factory will employ a large amount of skilled labor and bring, it is said, at least eighty families with it.

The firm is known as the New York Agricultural Company and has its shops at present located at Boonton. It wishes to remove from there because of the poor shipping facilities. It believes Somerville is much better situated in that respect. Members of the Board of Trade have been to the city and held a conference with the company, which asks that the town subscribe $5,000 and furnish the land for the buildings. It guarantees to pay out over $25,000 a year in salaries for six years.

An enthusiastic meeting of the Board of Trade was held Wednesday night and many well known business men talked in favor of this new industry locating here. In a very short time nearly $1,800 was subscribed. A committee of three, Voorhees T. VanFleet, John A. Maxwell and former Sheriff Schoonmaker, was appointed to wait on other citizens, and it is believed the balance of the amount required will be obtained with very little difficulty.

There is a rumor that a tract of land in East Somerville, sufficient for the buildings, has been donated. It is said there are other public spirited enough people to donate land if this first offer falls though.

Everyone believes this will be a good thing for Somerville and a meeting will be held in the Court House Monday night to further help the boom along.

LITERARY.

Most prominent and perhaps most interesting among the many special features of The Outlook's Annual Book Number is a discussion called "The Most American Books," in which ten authors contribute their views in reply to the question: What are the books most characteristic of American genius and life—literature which could not have been written on any but American soil? Among the writers are Colonel T. W. Higginson, Brander Matthews, Owen Wister, Hamlin Garland and Dr. Edward Everett Hale. The number has also portraits and sketches of Miss Hegan, author of "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," Mrs. Lillian W. Betts, whose "The Leaven in a Great City" is attracting much attention; H. H. Furness, the great Shakespearian; Booth Tarkington, and Helen Keller—the last a sketch by Edward Everett Hale.

In Leslie's Monthly for December the contents fully justifies the temporary rise in price. The increased number of pages are partly filled by stories by Ralph Connor, Eden Phillpotts, Harry Stillwell Edwards, and with a tale by Egerton Castle, printed in tint, and another by Seumas Mac Manus, on colored paper. There are a series of full-page drawings, by Reginald Birch, John Cecil Clay, W. Glackens, Florence Scovel Shinn, Howard Giles, Lladislaw Benda, and John Wolcott Adams. There is a rattling good football story, by Edwin Oviatt, and some excellent Christmas verse by F. L. Stanton, Emmett Campbell Hall and Ellis Parker Butler, while the Marginalia stories are worthy of the number and the season.

—Mrs. Elizabeth A. Parse, of the local W. C. T. U., will address a meeting of the Elizabeth Union this afternoon.

—Trinity Commandery, No. 17, Knights Templars, will hold its election of officers at the meeting Monday night.

—Charles H. Angleman, formerly of Plainfield, but now of Rahway, was elected clerk of the Rahway Common Council, this week.

FIGHTING HAS BEGUN

Reports of a Battle In the Streets of La Guayra.

VENEZUELA ANSWERS ULTIMATUM.

Contents of Reply, Now In Minister Bowen's Possession, Are Not Yet Known—British and German Subjects Released.

LONDON, Dec. 12.—A dispatch to the Daily Mail from Willemstad, island of Curacao, dated Dec. 11, says:

"The Venezuelan authorities at Puerto Cabello are fortifying that town. They have seized and imprisoned the British and German consuls there as well as other Britons and Germans and have taken possession of their property. The authorities also seized a British steamer which was discharging a cargo of coal at Puerto Cabello. This vessel was unable to escape owing to a breakdown in her machinery. The American consul at Puerto Cabello attempted to intervene, but he was disregarded."

Dispatches received here report fighting in the streets of La Guayra between the English and German marines and the Venezuelans.

The allies are said to be trying to capture President Castro.

A news agency dispatch from La Guayra says great military preparations are proceeding. Twenty-one hundred men under General Ferrer are expected to arrive from Caracas.

The answer of the Venezuelan government to the ultimatum presented by the representatives of the British and German governments was transmitted to Mr. Bowen, the American minister, Wednesday.

Its purport is unknown. All the British and German subjects who were arrested have been released.

Replying to a question in the house of commons, Viscount Cranborne, undersecretary for foreign affairs, read an official message confirming the report of the capture of Venezuelan warships by the British and German fleets.

A dispatch to a news agency from Devonport says instructions have been received there that warships of the first class reserve be kept coaled and ready for sea at twenty-four hours' notice.

SURPRISE AT WASHINGTON.

Such Extreme Measures by the Powers Not Expected.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—War—not merely technical, figurative war, but an actual state of hostilities—prevails between England and Germany on the one hand and Venezuela on the other. The two European nations apparently committed the first act of aggression in the seizure of Venezuelan warships in the harbor of La Guayra. This in itself was a sufficient cause for war, but a greater affront to Venezuela was given in the subsequent action of the British and Germans in sinking these vessels.

While the state department has no official confirmation of the report that the Venezuelan ships were sunk, it does not doubt that such a course was pursued. This incident has caused surprise in administration circles and has created a somewhat painful impression.

It has been the understanding here that while Germany and England would adopt stringent measures to compel Venezuela to pay the claims of their subjects conditions of actual war, with consequent danger of bloodshed and destruction of government and private property, would be avoided. Apparently, however, the British and the Germans have determined to go to extremes to bring about the adjustment of claims.

WARLIKE PREPARATIONS.

Venezuelan Troops Preparing to Repel Invasion.

LA GUAYRA, Venezuela, Dec. 12.—General Ferrer, the minister of war, has arrived here with 2,000 troops. Eight hundred men under President Castro's brother are expected here at once.

The government has sent 2,000 men and eighteen guns from Caracas to reenforce the garrison at La Guayra. These troops are camping at Cuaracuti, distant one hour from La Guayra. All day and all night ammunition has been carried to Fort Lavigia, which crowns the harbor, and preparations are being made to resist the foreign forces. Volunteers to the number of 926 men, all from La Guayra, have been armed, and more are requesting arms.

It is asserted here that the government can find sufficient men to resist the foreign forces, as the movement is popular. Everywhere one meets men of all classes and conditions carrying Mauser rifles.

Minister Bowen Famous.

BERLIN, Dec. 12.—Minister Bowen has suddenly become famous in Germany. The newspapers print his portrait, with sketches of his career, applauding his prompt intervention in favor of the Germans and British at Caracas. The foreign office now understands that the press report that all the persons arrested were subsequently released is correct, but the officials here are entirely ignorant of what has transpired since Tuesday, being, as in the China campaign, two days behind the newspapers.

Cavein In New York Subway.

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—A cavein of "wet" rock in the rapid transit subway excavation in Broadway, between Ninety-third and Ninety-fourth streets, is known to have fatally injured two men and hurt many more laborers. One of the injured men is James Murray, the foreman. About fifty men were at work where the cavein took place.

WORK OF CONGRESS

Senate Amends Strike Commission Pay Bill.

VOTE ON STATEHOOD BILL PUT OVER

A Brisk Debate Between Supporters and Opponents of the Omnibus Measure—House Does Little of Importance.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—The senate late yesterday afternoon passed, with several amendments, the bill fixing the compensation of the anthracite coal strike commission, and it now goes to conference. The sentiment of the senate was strongly in favor of allowing the members of the commission who are not in the civil or military service of the government a lump sum for their service, and after considerable debate $4,000 was settled upon as the proper amount, thus taking the matter out of the hands of the president, as the bill originally provided.

Several other amendments to the bill were adopted fixing the expenses of the commissioners and the assistant recorders at $10 per day instead of $15 and leaving the question of the amount of salary to the assistant recorders and employees to the commission. The name of the commission was changed to "anthracite coal strike arbitration."

An amendment offered by Mr. Daniel (Va.) intended to prohibit officers in the civil or military branches of the government from serving on commissions or performing duties other than called for by law provoked a long discussion and in response to the appeals of Mr. Allison and Mr. Hoar finally was withdrawn.

At 2 o'clock the statehood bill came up, and there was a brisk exchange between Mr. Quay, who favors the omnibus bill, and senators who oppose it regarding its consideration. Mr. Quay and Mr. Bate said they were ready to vote. Mr. Beveridge, Mr. Lodge, Mr. Hale and others protested against pressing the bill so soon after it was reported, and it went over until Monday.

The house devoted practically the whole day to discussion of a resolution to limit the period of taking testimony in the Wagoner-Butler contested election case to forty days and finally adopted a resolution to that effect by a party vote—155 to 118.

The purpose of the resolution is to permit the house to pass on the case at this session. Under the regular method of procedure several months are given to the preparation of a contested election case. Mr. Butler, the sitting member, was unseated at the last session and again returned at the last election to fill the vacancy. He had over 6,000 plurality on the face of the present returns, but the returns are contested.

The house agreed to hold a session on Sunday, Jan. 25, for the purpose of paying tribute to the memories of the late Representative Russell (Conn.) and Sheppard and De Graffenreid (Tex.).

Civil Service Reformers Meet.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 12.—The twenty-second annual meeting of the National Civil Service Reform league has begun here. Two public sessions were held, one in the afternoon and the other at night. During the afternoon the annual report of the executive council was read. The report commended the policy of President Roosevelt in making federal appointments and calls attention to the persistent hostility of professional politicians in both the great national parties to civil service reform.

Temperance Village Gets Reward.

CLEVELAND, O., Dec. 12.—The village of Collinwood, a few miles east of this city, has voted against permitting the sale of liquor within its boundaries. Because of the result of the election the Lake Shore railroad will spend $1,000,000 in new shops additional to extensive buildings already erected there. Had the village voted for the sale of liquor the railroad officials stated that this extra sum of money would have been withheld.

Gifts to Princeton.

PRINCETON, N. J., Dec. 12.—At a meeting of the board of trustees of Princeton university held here announcement was made that a gift of $10,000 had been presented by Morris K. Jesup to be added to the Morris K. Jesup fund. One thousand dollars was also received from the estate of Professor Willard Humphrey to establish the Mary Cunningham Humphrey junior German prizes.

More Coal Promised.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Dec. 12.—The Erie railroad management has posted orders at Port Jervis to the effect that hereafter 1,000 cars of coal will be shipped east daily over the New York division. To relieve the pressure caused by excess of traffic a large number of engines are being brought east from the New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio divisions.

Mrs. Lightner Acquitted.

TOLEDO, O., Dec. 12.—The jury in the case of Mrs. Dora Lightner, after being out one hour and seven minutes, acquitted her of the murder of Miss Lucy Wheeler. Mrs. Lightner was defended by Brand Whitlock, the novelist, and she was acquitted on the ground that the deed was committed in self defense.

ATTACKED BY MOROS

Camp Vicars, Not Surprised, Repelled the Rebels.

CHOLERA EPIDEMIC IS SPREADING.

Lieutenant Commander Rooney Being Court Martialed at Cavite For Accident to the Steamer Frolic Near Cebu.

MANILA, Dec. 12.—A force of Moros attacked Camp Vicars, island of Mindanao, on Tuesday after seventy days' inactivity. They were repulsed without loss on the American side. The Moros approached stealthily at midnight, but the Americans were not surprised. The entire force was called to arms and drove off the attackers. It is believed the hostiles were from the country east of Lanao, which Captain Pershing has not yet visited.

Cholera is spreading among the lake Moros. It is believed the epidemic will prove serious.

Lieutenant Commander Rooney, who was in command of the United States steamer Frolic when this vessel ran aground recently near Cebu, is being tried by court martial at Cavite. It is alleged that Commander Rooney's negligence caused the accident. The testimony has been concluded, and the arguments are now in progress.

Senor Dancel, governor of Rizal province, Luzon, has abandoned the maintenance of zones of reconcentration in his district, which were inaugurated to prevent the ladrones from receiving supplies. The people of Rizal have promised to assist the police and constabulary in the campaign against the ladrones, and Governor Dancel has agreed to give them a chance. Many ladrones have already been arrested, and the plan of co-operation promises to be a success.

Reports have been received by the military authorities to the effect that Constabulary Inspector Hendryx, who was badly wounded Nov. 25 on the island of Samar, supposedly by ladrones during an engagement, was in reality shot by one of his own men after this action began. The crime was committed by a constabulary private, who shot Hendryx from behind. All the members of the inspector's command then fled.

WHAT OTHERS THINK.

It is interesting to get a glimpse occasionally of what the people of the rest of the State think of the troubles in the Republican ranks in Somerset county. Under the caption, "More Foolishness in Somerset" the Jersey City Journal has the following to say:

"Somerset is one of the small counties in population, though it has nearly 200,000 acres of area. Its population is only 32,948. Its largest town is the borough of Plainfield, with about 5,000 population. The county seat, Somerville, has 4,843 population and these two towns have fully one-third of the entire population.

"Between these towns there has been political rivalry and jealousy, as might be expected between the slow-growing old town and a new and more progressive borough.

"The interests of the borough are more closely allied to Plainfield, in Union county, from which it is separated by an invisible boundary then with the rest of the county, and the rivalry in politics led last winter to an effort to separate the borough from Somerset, to add it to Plainfield in Union county, of which it is an outgrowth.

"This secession scheme was defeated in a referendum, but the special election added to the bitterness of the factional strife and the county went Democratic last month, though it has a normal Republican majority.

"There are 6,841 voters in the county and last year these divided into 3,490 Republicans, 3,181 Democrats and 175 Prohibitionists. Last month 616 Republicans failed to vote for their party, and 214 of them seem to have voted for the Democratic candidates.

"This was the net result of the factional strife in the Republican party in the county. It was not satisfactory to the party in the rest of the State and it could not have been satisfactory to the majority of the Republicans in Somerset.

"It was believed that the leaders of the faction fight would see the folly of their proceedings and devote their time between now and the next election to repairing the damage they had done, but this belief does not appear to have been justified.

"The latest move made by the Somerville faction is to drop Newton B. Smalley from the Republican county committee.

"Mr. Smalley has been identified with one of the factions and is Mayor of Plainfield borough. It may be that the men who control the county committee had cause to wish that Mr. Smalley was not a member of the committee, but then he was chosen by the Republicans of his borough and his dismissal is not calculated to add strength to the party in the county.

"There is too much of this peanut business in the squabbles which marked the last election and Somerset county Republicans should have more sense than to continue it."

It is to be hoped that the physical work committee of the Y. M. C. A. will see the futility of attempting to insist that Physical Director Heywood shall officiate in all basket ball league games played in the Y. M. C. A. and accept officials from out-of-town. Both the Hope Y. M. A. and the Alis A. A. have taken a determined stand on the subject and it now remains for the Y. M. C. A. to take a sportsmanlike stand and abide by the will of the majority. It is unfortunate that this incident has arisen but it is settled and the league should be allowed to proceed. The contests already played have been uniformly close and there is every promise of good sport if the league is continued.

LINEMAN KILLED.

Shock From Live Wire Hurls G. F. Dominick From Top of a Sixty Foot Pole.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, Dec. 12—Contact with a live electric wire contributed to the killing at Elizabeth, yesterday, of George F. Dominick, a lineman in the employ of the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company.

Dominick climbed a pole at Pennsylvania and Fairmount avenues, in the suburbs of the city, to adjust some wires, when he happened to touch with his bare hand a wire containing the deadly current. The shock hurled him from the top of the pole, sixty feet to the curbstone in the street below, striking on his head and crushing in the top of his skull. It is believed death was instantaneous. Dominick was nineteen years old and single. His parents live at Matawan, N. J.

Since he had been in the telephone company's employ he boarded at 16 Rector street, Newark. The body was removed to Smith's morgue, Elizabethport, and his family were notified.

Started a Little Blaze in the Schwed Building Yesterday.

What came near being a second fire in the Schwed building within one week, was narrowly averted, yesterday afternoon. While a clerk was lighting the gas in a show window the flame came in contact with a light bath robe. It immediately sprang into flames and threatened to ignite several others hanging near it. The burning garment was seized and thrown out of doors. It was valued at $5.

Lightness of a "Dorothy Dodd."

In all wearing apparel the finest and choicest materials are those that combine great strength with extreme lightness of weight. Few persons stop to consider how much weight they carry about in their wearing apparel, and the greatest item comes in the matter of shoes. Heavy shoes are a drag upon your strength with every step you take. They are a continual tax and quickly exhaust you. The lightest of all for women is the "Dorothy Dodd." The scales are the only test and they show a big difference over the majority of shoes. Yet no element of wear is lost in this lightness. "Dorothy Dodd." They cost $3.00.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The borough is again without police protection. During the burglar scare several months ago two specials were appointed. Together with a private watchman, hired by a number of the residents, they should have given the borough ample protection. After a trial of several weeks the two specials were discharged and from the present outlook no others are to be appointed. Chas. Hockey still continues duty as private watchman but this only gives protection to those residents who employ him.

A number of complaints are heard from the local hunters regarding the violation of the game laws, regarding hunting rabbits on tracking snow. It is said that the woods are filled wtih hunters every day. Some are even bold enough to bring their game into town. It seems as though a day's outing in the woods nearby would be a profitable day's work for some of the game wardens.

The young people in town have been enjoying, for several days past, their first real good coasting they have had in several years. Spencer's Hill has been covered with a mixture of snow and ice and the boys in town have had a chance to indulge in this healthy but dangerous pleasure.

Twilight Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., held a large and interesting meeting in its rooms last night. Twilight's outlook for a profitable winter's work is very encouraging and great efforts are to be made to make a decided increase in the membership of the Council.

The severe cold weather of the past week has made ice fast but the quality is very poor and it is hardly likely that any of the local dealers will begin cutting their supply yet.

The teachers of the Baptist Sunday-school were entertained at their weekly meeting last night by Dr. and Mrs. F. W. Westcott, of the borough.

Don't let slip the fact that Shaw is ready for the holiday trade by having added one of the finest lines of toilet articles to be found in the city. They have been selected with great care and the prices at which they will be disposed of will surprise you.

There is an old song that says something about "the picture that was turned toward the wall." Perhaps the frame didn't look right and if so it could have been remedied as all can by having it touched up at the Plainfield Art Store in the Y. M. C. A. building.

Scheuer & Company's grocery on West Front street is always a busy place, put at this season of the year there is a heavy rush and all patrons are urged to place order early to secure early delivery. This firm has a very large stock of seasonable goods and the prices will appeal to all.

There is no denying the fact that you get your money's worth at the local store of the A. and P. Tea Company. In addiion to charging the lowest possible prices for all teas, coffees and groceries, it gives its patrons handsome presents. Beautify your home by securing some of them.

With such a handsome array of fine jewelry, watches, diamonds and silverware at Charles E. Vail's store on Park avenue, there is no need of one going to New York for these goods. Mr. Vail prides himself on the fact that he handles only the best quality of goods and guarantees them. His prices are right.

Aside from the fact that Dudley S. Miller, the Park avenue druggist, sells only pure drugs and compounds prescriptions accurately and promptly, he carries a complete line of such goods as should be found in a first-class pharmacy. Mr. Miller is always pleased to see his friends and he will treat them right.

Yesterday afternoon M. C. Dobbins received at his Park vaenue store a large assortment of very handsome pure meershaum cigar holders and Japanese lacquer ware match boxes and tobacco pouches. COAL STRIKE HEARING.

Independent Operator Tells of Getting $20 a Ton For Coal.

SCRANTON, Pa., Dec. 12.—The representatives of the miners during the course of yesterday's proceedings before the anthracite coal strike commission called one of the independent operators to the witness stand to tell the exact price he received for his coal, and the mine owner refused, giving instead, after much questioning, an average of the price he received. The operator was J. T. Crawford, president of the People's Coal company, which operates the Oxford colliery in Scranton. The request for him to take the stand came as a surprise. The Oxford colliery during the strike managed to get enough men to operate the plant, and for one month, according to Mr. Crawford, his company received $20 a ton for its coal. Objection was raised to the miners' lawyers trying to get him to tell what he received from the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western company for its product, but the examination was permitted to proceed.

The miners announced that they expected to close their case tomorrow and thus gave notice to the other side to be ready to proceed with their testimony. In reply the companies' attorneys announced that they may have to ask for a short recess in order to properly prepare their case. Judge Gray, for the commission, in reply said he hoped there would be no interruption in the proceedings and that the companies would be able to proceed as soon as the miners have concluded their case. From the large number of witnesses yet to be called by the miners it is not likely they will finish their case on Saturday. Nearly the entire day was taken up in hearing witnesses who had some specific complaint to make, among other things the price paid per mine car and the size of the cars.

UNREST IN CHINA.

Piracy and Revolt Cause Much Suffering In the Empire.

VICTORIA, B. C., Dec. 12.—The steamer Empress of India brings news to the effect that the insurrection has broken out in the southwest of China, where a large number of rebels have assembled, carrying banners inscribed, "Kill the officials and save the hope!" Troops have been sent against them.

The Boxer movement in Szechuen continues, but both the insurgents and imperial forces lately have been holding aloof from each other. Reports from Kwangsi indicate a recrudescence of insurrectionary trouble in that province. The rebels are said to have attacked Kweichou. Famine is causing many to join the revolt.

The Kwangsi rebels who crossed into Kwangtung captured and looted the city of Fenchuen, killing many of the people, but when two battalions of troops were sent by the taotai of Chaochingfu they fled, abandoning their loot.

Piracy is increasing on the West river. During the drought which destroyed the rice crops near Canton the benevolent associations of that city, aided by the Chinese government and subscriptions from Chinese in America, bought large amounts of rice at Wuhu and Chinkiang which was sent to Canton to be sold at cheap rates to the poor. The ships were pirated, however, when en route to Canton and the greater amount of their cargoes taken.

Reciprocity Convention.

DETROIT, Mich., Dec. 12.—The delegates to the national reciprocity convention adopted resolutions, listened to a witty and at the same time forceful address on reciprocity by ex-Governor John Lind of Minnesota, heard the report of the finance committee and adjourned sine die. At the morning session but two addresses were made. Eugene N. Foss of Boston discussed "Canadian Reciprocity," and Frank D. Pavey of New York spoke on "Reciprocity With Cuba."

Pat Crowe In South Africa.

CHICAGO, Dec. 12.—Stephen A. Crowe, a hotel proprietor in this city and brother of Pat Crowe, asserts positively that the latter is in Johannesburg, South Africa. He says further that within the next few weeks his brother may surrender himself to the authorities according to an agreement with Edward Cudahy when the $25,000 reward for his arrest was withdrawn.

Perjurer Refused New Trial.

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 12.—A special from El Dorado says: "J. C. Brownfield, convicted of perjury in testifying in behalf of Miss Jessie Morrison for the murder of Mrs. Olin Castle, has been refused a new trial and sentenced to seven years in the penitentiary. Brownfield was the star witness for Miss Morrison, who was found guilty and given a ten year sentence."

Storms on Newfoundland Coast.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Dec. 12.—Furious snowstorms continue to sweep the Newfoundland coast. Four more schooners have been lost, one with her crew of ten persons. The other three vessels have been driven to sea and are believed to be in great danger. Trains and steamers are delayed, and there have been a number of fatalities throughout the colony.

Electric Trains on Another Line.

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—The first electric train was run over the Ninth avenue "L" line yesterday. Officials of the road announced that regular trains would be running on this line within a few days. This will complete the change of motive power on the whole system.

A Chance For Bear Hunters.

PORT HENRY, N. Y., Dec. 12.—Bears are reported very numerous in the Adirondacks this winter. Old trappers say that not in years have so many been seen.

CHAPTER VIII.

CHALMERS HAS A SUSPICION.

Before the New York Record went to press on the day when Miss Helen Carmody called on Mr. William Chalmers, that gentleman received a cablegram from Mr. Robert Van Horne, the editor of the paper. It read as follows:

St. Petersburg, Russia, May 4.
William Chalmers: Offer in my name reward of $500,000, and no questions asked, for return of millionaires. Put Hestor to work on case. Spare no expense.
ROBERT VAN HORNE.

"That settles it," said Mr. Chalmers, as he read and reread the yellow slip. 'Let's see; $500,000, and the $250,000 which Miss Carmody offers, is $750,000. That's an odd-looking number. It ought to be a million."

He went to the telephone, and for an hour was busy. He talked with representatives of the families of Rockwell, Kent, Haven, Pence and Morton, and each agreed to pledge $50,000 to the Record's reward fund. Chalmers was supremely happy. He sent for the foreman of the composing room and designed a new caption, the first line of which read: "THE RECORD OFFERS ONE MILLION DOLLARS REWARD!!" He then called Miss Carmody by telephone, and informed her what had been done. That young lady was delighted, but assured Mr. Chalmers that she would take it upon herself to see that the missing men paid every dollar of the reward. This was a mere detail to Chalmers, and when he had finished his talk with Miss Carmody, the foreman returned with the new headline. Chalmers pinned it to the wall and stood off and admired it with the rapt expression of an art devotee lost in contemplation of a newly-discovered Raphael.

"Print it in red," he said to the foreman. "Run it clear across the page. Below we will string a solid row of six half-tone portraits of the missing millionaires."

Chalmers was a busy man during the two days following the interview with Miss Carmody. He detailed ten of his men to exclusive work on the mystery and at considerable expense secured 15 others from rival New York papers. Chicago was drawn on for five reporters, and he induced ten from other cities to join his newspaper detective force. This gave him a staff of 40 men.

John L. Stevens, of Chicago, was the most famous police and detective reporter of the country, and, after an interview with Mr. Chalmers, was appointed chief-of-staff under the direct supervision of the managing editor.

"I have no theory about this mystery, Jack," said Chalmers, after they had discussed the case in all its details. "I have certain vague suspicions, but they are not founded on facts, and they may be dismissed from consideration."

"By the way, has that man L. Sylvester Vincent been heard of?"

"Who is he?" asked Chalmers.

"You had a paragraph about him yesterday," said Stevens. "He is missing from the Broadway Central hotel. Has not been seen since Monday night. He may have something to do with it. I have sent a man to Chicago for his record."

Stevens went away and left Chalmers to his reflections. The managing editor leaned back in his chair and gazed for a long time at the ceiling. Then he lit a cigar and blew rings of smoke at the wall above, as if to bombard it into a surrender of the secret. He placed his feet on the desk and allowed his mind to wander at will over the dark fields of the mystery. There was no thoroughfare. Chalmers leaned back until the office chair threatened to fall. He then stood up, kicked it savagely, and paced up and down the room.

"It's queer; mighty queer." Mechanically he picked up Mr. Van Horne's cablegram and again read it.

"'Put Hestor to work on the case,'" he mused. "I will do right well putting Hestor to work on the case. I wish I knew where I could find him."

"Hestor came in here on Saturday," muttered Chalmers as he hurled a pile of unoffending exchanges in the direction of the waste basket. "He said he was compelled to make a hurried trip to Europe, and expected to sail on Monday or Tuesday in his yacht the 'Shark.' Queer chap, that Hestor. Of course it's only a coincidence; but I cannot help thinking about it."

Chalmers paced up and down the room with his head thrown back and his eyes half closed in thought. He attempted to recall every word and action of Hestor's during the days immediately preceding his departure.

"It's too deep for me," he said, as he returned to his desk and mechanically picked up the Van Horne cablegram. "What does Hestor want in the Mediterranean? How in thunder am I going to reach him?"

He turned the knob on the door to Hestor's private office. It was locked, and Chalmers knew it was locked. He sent for the janitor.

"Have you a key to that door?"

"No, sir. Mr. Hestor has the only key," the janitor replied.

"Take off the lock and put in a new one," he said. "We must have a room for Mr. Stevens and some of his men. Hestor may be mad but I can't help it."

The door was soon opened and Chalmers entered. The heavy oak desk was closed. At the base of the door, opening into the hall, were a number of letters which had been dropped through a slit by the postman. When Hestor returned from his long expeditions he frequently found a bushel basket full of accumulated letters.

There were perhaps a dozen letters now lying on the floor. Chalmers picked them up and looked at the inscriptions. Three were in dainty white envelopes and sealed with wax. Chalmers glanced at them and threw them back on the floor. One bore the name of a big grocery house. Another was from a liquor house. A third from a furniture establishment. Yet another was from a billiard table manufacturer. The fifth contained the address of a dealer in smoked and canned meats. There was one from a manufacturer of awnings, one from a piano house, and another from a dealer in guns, fishing tackle and sporting goods. There were several other letters with the names of well-known New York merchants on their upper left hand corners.

"Hestor is quite a business man," mused Chalmers as he sorted over the letters. "These are bills. I know a bill as a cat knows his home. Bills for stuff on his yacht, I suppose. Very likely. I wonder what they are. There is a way to find out, and I am going to do it. This is all wrong, perhaps, but I am going to find out if there is anything in my suspicions. Hestor is a queer fish. He left New York the night these men disappeared. Where did he go? Why did he go? Van Horne wants him to work on this case. It is my duty to locate him. Hestor would be glad to take hold of a mystery like this. It is right in his line."

Mr. Chalmers sent for a reporter named Benson, a cautious, self-possessed gentleman who could extract information from sources barren to all but the select few who are masters of the art. It was not necessary to waste words with Benson. He thoroughly understood his business.

"Here are some business addresses, Benson," said Chalmers, handing him a slip of paper. "I promised Mr. Hestor I would attend to certain bills as they became due. Go to these houses and ask for itemized statements of any bills against Mr. Hestor. If necessary explain that Mr. Hestor has suddenly been detailed to work abroad and that through an oversight he neglected to leave the key to his room where his mail is delivered. You should have no difficulty. Merchants seldom object to the prompt settlement of accounts. This is a personal matter, concerning no other member of the staff."

Mr. Benson bowed, said not a word and quietly left the room. Late in the afternoon he was admitted to Mr. Chalmer's office. He produced from a deep inside pocket a small package and handed it to Chalmers.

"There they are," he said.

"All of them?"

Mr. Benson nodded an affirmative, turned on his heel and vanished.

Mr. Chalmers examined the slips with much interest. The first one was from a furniture house. It was an itemized bill for a long list of articles, among which were the following:

Twelve brass bedsteads	@$ 40.00	$	480.00
Twelve hair mattresses	35.00		420.00
Thirty-six chairs	4.00		144.00
Twenty-four chairs	6.00		144.00
Twelve leather sofas	75.00		900.00
Two leather sofas	125.00		250.00
Twelve center tables	40.00		480.00
One [illegible]ing table	.....		300.00
One sideboard	.....		500.00
Two library cases	125.00		250.00
Twelve willow rockers	10.00		120.00
Twelve rugs	60.00		720.00
One rug	.....		250.00
Four writing desks	100.00		400.00
Miscellaneous furniture	.....		1,600.00
			$6,968.00

Chalmers studied these items long and carefully.

CLEVELAND AT PHILADELPHIA.

Former President Presides at Meeting to Aid Colored School.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 12.—Former President Cleveland presided last night at a public meeting in aid of the Berean Manual Training school, an institution which aims to give members of the negro race the benefits of an industrial education. The meeting was attended by prominent jurists, educators and business men. Mr. Cleveland was the principal speaker, and Booker T. Washington, president of the Tuskegee institute, also made an address.

The institution was established less than two years ago and has an enrollment of 200 students.

Mr. Cleveland is personally interested in the school, and in accepting the invitation to attend the meeting he said, "I regard the object which the meeting is called to promote so beneficent and so important to the advancement of a mass of our citizenship, greatly in need of improvement and care, that I have considered it my duty to comply with the request to preside at the meeting."

The colored population of this city is 60,000, increasing at the rate of 10,000 a year, and last night's meeting was held for the purpose of interesting the people of Philadelphia particularly and of the country generally in their education.

MAD MOLLAH KILLED.

Reported Assassination of East African Chief.

ADEN, Arabia, Dec. 12.—It is reported that the Mad Mollah of Somaliland has been assassinated by a spear thrust in the stomach while at prayer.

The Mad Mollah was one of the dozen or more mollahs or sheiks of Somaliland when, in 1901, he assumed an attitude of hostility to the white race. Religious fanaticism was at the bottom of his influence over the Mohammedan natives, and he rallied around him thousands of fairly well armed men who were devoted to his cause. It was his preaching of a war of extermination against the whites that caused Europeans to call him the Mad Mollah. He was known at home as Haji Mohammed bin Abdullah.

In October and November last the Mad Mollah made a great deal of trouble for the British forces in Somaliland, a large part of which is a British protectorate. An expedition under Colonel Swayne, the British commissioner, was defeated by the native forces, and a second expedition under General Manning was projected. The mollah was said to have 15,000 spearmen, 2,000 rifles, a Maxim gun, much ammunition and immense reserves of camels and of sheep.

Would Make Shanghai a Republic.

MUNICH, Germany, Dec. 12.—Poultney Bigelow, addressing the Geographical society last night on east Asian politics and commerce, advocated making Shanghai a republic, free from consular or other official meddling. He said that what was good in Shanghai was due to the energy of the self governing merchants, principally Americans and British, who for fifty years had taken care of themselves and built up a seaport aptly called the "New York of the far east." Some of the Chinese territory, he added, should be annexed to the city. The merchants of the east, Mr. Bigelow claimed, need nothing but liberty.

Ambassador Tower in Berlin.

BERLIN, Dec. 12.—Ambassador Tower, Mrs. Tower and their two little daughters have arrived here. They were received at the railroad station by the staff of the United States embassy. The foreign office was immediately notified of the ambassador's arrival. As Emperor William is at Potsdam probably two or three days will elapse before Mr. Tower is received by his majesty.

LONDON, Dec. 12.—Robert Harding Milward, formerly solicitor of the Duke of Marlborough and at one time a leading lawyer of the Midland counties, was sentenced to six years' penal servitude after having been convicted of misappropriating $14,000 from a firm which became bankrupt in June.

"Dooley" and Bride at White House.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—Among the president's callers yesterday were Mr. Frank B. Loomis, United States minister to Portugal, who desired to pay his respects before departing for his post, and F. P. Dunne, better known as "Mr. Dooley," and his wife, who are in Washington on their bridal tour.
